PARKER OUTWITS DAVID

CAPTURES MEETING AND MAKES THE PRINCE PAY.

The Cowboy Led Cheering for the Prince After Corroborating Some of Latter's Statements.

Over the Fall from Lala in advance of the return of Prince David comes the story of how Sam Parker captured one of David's meetings and struck the Prince for drinks for the crowd. It was at the Mormon settlement last Monday night that the cowboy outwitted the Prince.

David and his followers had called a meeting and there was a big crowd in attendance. Parker had gone there before hand, not knowing of the impending gathering of the Unwashed, his purpose being to make a quiet little house to house canvass among the people, where he could kiss all the children flatter the women and jolly the men into thinking that much as they all like him he is more necessary to them at Washington than at home. As soon as David and his friends heard that Parker was in the neighborhood they declared that must come to the meeting.

"Oh no," replied the wily cowboy, "I don't want to throw the larriest over the horns of any prospective Democratic voters. You just go ahead and hold the meeting without me."

But they would have none of it and finally Parker found himself on the platform along with the rest. "Now ladies and gentlemen just to show that we are truly called the Great Unwashed," said the chairman, "we will now call on Mr. Samuel Parker the Republican candidate for Congress, to corroborate what Prince David has said about the conditions of affairs at Washington and how necessary it is to have a representative there who is a member of either the Democratic or Republican parties."

Wild cheers greeted this announcement and the Honorable Sam when he stepped forward to speak. He did corroborate what the Prince had said and in addition proved a revelation as a diplomat. He kept well within the bounds of reasonable corroboration and said that this was a Democratic meeting and he did not want to interfere with it. He would like all good Democrats in the place to rise and cheer for Prince David. About three lusty lunged individuals arose. "Oh come on," called Parker, "what's the matter with you. Everybody get up and cheer for David."

And so they did, for led by the stentorian voice of Parker the crowd went cheering like mad. It was a question who they were cheering—the Prince or the Cowboy. "By gracious boys" declared the chairman, "Parker has captured the meeting."

But if he had, the visitor did not prosecute his advantage for he soon retired and let the speakers be heard. After the meeting Parker and David started away together. Just outside the door was a soda water vendor. Here it was that Parker struck the Prince. "Say boys" called Parker "if this was a Republican meeting I would treat you all to soda-pop but as it's a Democratic gathering I guess I'll have to resign in favor of the Prince who is a Democrat," and with these words the Sam passed the buck to David and the latter had to dig down into his jeans and produce a 10 spot to pay the damage.

"Oh that's all right soda tender" said Parker as the vendor handed $4 change to the Prince "a candidate for Congress never takes change"—and David did it. Those on the inside say it cost the Prince about ten bottles to drown the laugh which Parker turned on him.

HUBBARD RETIRES AGAIN

THE S. N. CASTLE HAS A NEW MASTER.

The Old Captain's Long Service Between Here and San Francisco—Retired Before and Went to Business.

The barkentine S. N. Castle came in last night with a new master, Captain Hubbard having retired from the sea, again—finally. Captain B. O. Nelson, who was in the W. H. Dimond last time is now the master of the Castle.

Captain Hubbard's retirement was announced some months ago, but he wanted some more voyaging and returned to business, making two more trips in the barkentine which he has commanded ever since she was built. On arriving in San Francisco the last time he decided to give up finally and now, unless the desire for more of the sea makes him change his mind again he will spend his time in well earned rest.

Captain Hubbard has been coming to Honolulu for over thirty years, and is one of the best known and most respected ship masters who have been constant callers at this port during the past half century. He began to come here in the old days when Honolulu's harbor and wharves were only things talked of as possible improvements and he has been sailing back and forth between here and San Francisco ever since. Everyone who has had anything to do with Honolulu shipping or water front business during many years past knows old Captain Hubbard. He is about 45 years old and is still strong and hearty.

The S. N. Castle, in which Captain Hubbard has made over a hundred trips between here and San Francisco, came down this time in 14 days. Captain Nelson reports a good passage.

THE STREETS TOO MUDDY

ARRESTS FOR WHEEL RIDING ON SIDEWALK.

Judge Wilcox Lets All the Offenders Go With Reprimands and Says Something About Streets.

The police took a tip from Judge Wilcox yesterday and arrested five men for riding bicycles on the sidewalks. One man was in court yesterday and the judge let him go with a reprimand, remarking that he had seen six men doing the same thing himself. Today these five were before the court accused of using their wheels on the sidewalks. The five men were all allowed to go with reprimands, on the excuse that there was no street for them. It appeared that the streets where the arrests were made were almost impassable, and the judge said that if there was a law prohibiting taking wheels on the sidewalks the streets ought to be kept in condition so that wheels could be ridden on them.

J. Schofield was the first of the offenders. He said that he never rode on the sidewalk where there was a street, but on King street he had encountered a mud puddle and some lakes and so he steered for the walk and landed in jail.

George Uemura was on his way to school. He found that his wheel wasn't equal to going on the streets and a policeman saw him just after he had decided to take the sidewalk. A. Lubeck, a small boy, said that there was a very deep hole in the gutter on the sidewalk and he took it, and F. Corrin seemed to have an idea that the sidewalks were made for bicycles.

In allowing the offenders to go with reprimands, the judge suggested that it might be a good idea to leave bicycles at home when the streets were in bad condition, also that the reprimand business was about over.

"It's a great comfort to know from the Superintendent of Public Works," said the judge yesterday, "that the streets are in better condition now than they have ever been before. When we trudge through the mud and water, it is very comfortable to know that we have the one comfort at least. Meanwhile perhaps some of these bicycle offenders had better sell their wheels and buy boats and barges."

QUEEN IS LOSING MONEY

WANTS TO BE PROTECTED BY A LARGER BOND.

Says Wong Kwai is Holding Onto Land By an Injunction. Which She Could Lease with Profit.

Liliuokalani has asked that the bond of Wong Kwai be increased to insure her against loss from the operation of the present injunction which she secured against her in his suit to compel specific performance. According to the claims of Wong Kwai an agent of the Queen entered into a contract with him to have the lease to certain lands in the Luahala district. The Queen denied the authority of the agent to make any such contract and suit was instituted to compel her to lease the land under the terms to which, as the plaintiff alleged, the agent had agreed.

In her petition this morning the Queen filed an affidavit stating that she had received an offer of $5,000 yearly rental for the lands in dispute and but for the injunction now against her she could enjoy this income. Notice was given the plaintiff's attorney that a motion should be made tomorrow asking that the bond of Wong Kwai be increased in order to secure the Queen from any possible loss.

SIX MONTHS ON THE REEF

POLICE WIN IN A PROCURER CASE.

How Yokiyama Enticed Two Countrywomen from a Plantation on Maui and Landed Them in Palama.

The police won their first victory this morning in the campaign waged for some time against the Japanese procurer business. Yokiyama was found guilty by Judge Wilcox and sentenced to six months' hard labor for enticing two countrywomen to live at his resort in Palama.

During the past few months there have been many efforts to stop this sort of business among the Japs and Theodore Richards took the lead in a movement which resulted in several meetings of parties interested and many arrests, but the cases fell through for lack of direct evidence. In today's case two of the victims of the defendant took the stand and told of how he brought them to Honolulu and secured all their earnings in jail.

The women were brought to Hawaii as contract laborers and had places on a Maui plantation. The testimony showed that Yokiyama visited the plantation once last spring and engaged the women to come to Honolulu. Yokiyama told them that women did not do any cooking in this country.

Yokiyama next got the women into his resort, and they testified that he made them give him all they earned. He treated them so badly that they left him, and thus the police secured their evidence.

Yokiyama is a small, thin Jap who looks as if he is credited with assuming. He had no defense to make and after the prosecution's evidence was all in his attorney, F. M. Brooks, moved a dismissal on the ground of lack of evidence. Judge Wilcox denied the motion and then sentenced Yokiyama to six months on the reef. The case will be appealed on legal grounds. It is a test case and if the prosecution wins there will be lively times ahead for some others of the Yokiyama kind. There are many of them in jail.

A number of articles written especially for the Educator, and considerable well selected miscellany, together with the usual reports, and notes on the work in many countries, goes to make up an exceedingly valuable number of the magazine.

DEMOCRATS RIDE TO PALI

CAVALCADE TO ESCORT PRINCE DAVID HOME.

Meeting to be Held on Route—Independents Plan Rival Torch Light Parade to Republicans.

The Democrats have planned two big meetings for tonight and tomorrow afternoon, at which Prince David will be the central figure. Tonight a cavalcade of his followers will ride to the top of the Pali and receive the Prince from his trip on the other side of the island. The younger element in the party has been at work for the last few days working up enthusiasm for the trip and the result is that a big crowd will make the trip. Paul Isenberg will be in command.

Mr. Isenberg will ride at the head of the column but it will not be upon a horse. Like the heroic General Shafter on the bloody field of Santiago de Cuba, Mr. Isenberg will trust his anatomy to a buckboard and a couple of stout dray horses. The crowd will carry torches and in addition to those on horseback many will ride in carriages. David is expected to reach the top of the Pali at 8 o'clock so the start will be made rather early from here, by 6 o'clock.

The party will stop after reaching town long enough to hold a short meeting at Maemae and from there the crowd will go to Prince David's residence where an informal reception and political gathering will be held. Tomorrow afternoon there will be another big celebration on the Navy wharf. The steamer Waialeale has been chartered to take David and a big party on a final tour to Maui and Molokai. At 3 p. m. David, J. O. Carter and other members of the party will address the crowd.

Last night the Democrats held a large meeting at Paul Isenberg's place. Mr. Isenberg was chairman. He spoke briefly. The following spoke: S. W. Spencer, John E. Bush, Kenai, A. Fernandez, J. Luahiwa, S. Kalelopu, L. Kaku, Charles J. Creighton and S. Piliuala.

The Republicans will hold their big torchlight procession tomorrow night but they will have a rival in the field. The Independents intend to run in opposition to them and they announce a torchlight procession too, under the leadership of Robert Boyd. The Independent column will start from John Emmelhut's store shortly before 7 o'clock march to Alakea street to Emma Square to Vineyard street to Fort, Hotel, to Richards to Beretania to Emma and then to Emma square where a rally will be held. Several meetings will be held today and this evening by the Independents, one at Waialeale and the other at Kanoihili church at 7 p. m.

Tonight the Young Men's Republican Club will hold a meeting at Emma square and another on the lawn in front of W. C. Achi's residence.

THE FALL ART EXHIBIT.

The Kihohaha Art League will hold the fall exhibit at the league rooms in the Model block beginning Monday evening November 28. Work will be received Monday November 12th from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. MISTAKES MAY BE RIGHTED

VOTING LISTS MAY BE PROPERLY CORRECTED.

Board of Registrars Will Sit All Day Election Day to See that Every Voter Gets His Rights.

The voter whose name gets on the wrong precinct list, need not lose his vote. The mistake can be corrected. The Board of Registrars has power to make all needful corrections to secure to every one entitled to it the elective franchise.

These corrections can be made right up to the time the polls close on election day.

Lorain Andrews, chairman of the Board of Registrars said today: "The board has been sitting six hours every day getting up the official lists of voters and doing other work connected with the election. We expect to finish this tomorrow. After that we do not expect to sit, unless business calls us together, until election day. Then we shall be in session all day."

"If a voter finds his name on the wrong list all he has to do is to notify the clerk where he resides. A meeting will then be called at once and the error corrected. The board will certify to the inspectors that any particular registered voter's name is entitled to be on the list of registered voters for the precinct where he resides. On this certificate the inspectors of election will put the name on the list and the voters can vote. This can be done at any time put the name on the list and the voter need lose his vote simply through a clerical error or mistake in transcribing. The Board has full power to make all needful corrections."

PLUMBING TO START SOON

SEWER SYSTEM PRACTICALLY COMPLETED.

Connections Must be Begun Within a Few Days—Contractors Have Practically Finished their Work.

Vincent and Belser the contractors have about completed the construction of the sewer system and the plan will be about ready to turn over to the government tomorrow. A few small repairs and trifling work remains to be finished also. It will be some time before the outfall will have been completed.

Mr. E. Edwards the engineer in charge of the system says that the work is about finished but it will be some time before the system can be operated. Superintendent of Public Works McCandless notified the board of health about a month ago that the work of connecting the sewers could probably be begun by November 1st. As soon as Mr. Edwards notifies the board that this can be started the housekeepers will have to commence to install the plumbing which will occupy several months.

COURT NOTES.

No business of importance was transacted in the Circuit court this morning. United States Judge Estee adjourned court this morning for one week. It is expected that fewer opinions will be decided from the Supreme court within the course of the next month or so as that body evidently wanted to clear the docket as far as possible before the departure of Associate Justice Galbraith for the Mainland yesterday.
