WANTED.

When we called attention a few weeks ago to our new preparation called Casara we felt there was a demand for a really good article made from Casara Sagrada bark. We were not mistaken and we are greatly pleased that the community has appreciated our efforts.

We offered to give free samples of Casara but few asked for them preferring to take the regular package being sure that we would not recommend it as we did unless there was real merit. They were right. This has always been our policy and customers know if the preparations are not as represented they get their money back. No risk taken in dealing with us.

Casara is a pleasant-to-take laxative made from the bark, Casara Sagrada, which is well known for its most excellent cathartic qualities. It tones and strengthens and is a cure for habitual constipation. Children take it readily. Samples free.

PRICE 50 CENTS.

PARTY DISLOYALTY

able only to the conditions which exist in Spanish-American countries, until party fealty and discipline could have been built up.

In the highly centralized form of government existing here, where practically all official appointments come from the governor, this would have been an easy thing to do, and in the hands of an honest man and a capable administrator of government, like Mr. Dole, a safe and a wise thing to do. It is true, it would have been an appeal to personal interest. But in fact, in the great majority of instances that is the impelling motive now. The difference is that in that case faction and intrigue would have been largely eliminated, while as it is at present faction and intrigue are the dominating factors.

"Instead of doing this Governor Dole refrained from taking any part whatever in party organization, or even of aiding his friends in their efforts to organize a party which would support his administration, or the administration of the territory through him. The most flagrant political activity of his own appointees against himself and his friends and supporters received no attention from him. He made no effort to check it, much less to punish it. Friends were not rewarded for their fealty, nor were working appointees for their disloyalty. The result is that there is not probably more than five or ten per cent of the persons holding public employment in the territory who are loyal to Governor Dole. And why should they be? Their political safety so far as he is concerned is not jeopardized by their treason or disloyalty to him, while treason and disloyalty simply become an anchor to windward, in case his open and avowed enemies should be successful. In every Republican primary held since Hawaii became a territory, the most noticeable feat has been Governor Dole's own appointees working with his political enemies, in some cases using government vehicles to bring men to the primaries to vote against Governor Dole and his friends. By this means the faction in the Republican party opposed to Governor Dole, has in effect the aid and active assistance of the great majority of his appointees. It has all the benefit of patronage without any of the disadvantages of it. By this means the faction opposed to Governor Dole has secured control of the Republican party organization, and in the special legislative election held in April, tried to use it to defeat the party, for the purpose of discrediting Governor Dole at Washington and with the national party organization. That it was not successful at that time was due to the fact that Governor Dole commands the confidence of the business and conservative interests of the territory, and the plot of the faction opposing him and these elements rallied to the support of the Governor and foiled the plot. But Governor Dole's enemies being in control of the party organization, it was impossible to administer party discipline to them, as it was impossible to do so when during the legislative session of 1921 they openly conspired and conspired with the Home Rulers to embarrass the administration.

"The plan of the anti-Dole faction now is, as is clearly evident from current events, to create and arouse suspicion of Governor Dole and his appointees among the native Hawaiians who have affiliated with the Republican party, and creating suspicion in the Hawaiian mind is an easy thing to do, and disorganizing the Republican party organization, which is also easy to do with say ninety per cent of Dole's own appointees working against him, and these by making the defeat of the party in the fall certain, as a means of discrediting him with the administration, and proving his alleged unpopularity."

MAY HAVE SEEN KERR

Although it is not now known whether or not the America Maru sighted the abandoned bark Fannie Kerr, on the present trip to the Orient, a little incident occurred before the arrival at Yokohama on June 24, which helped to relieve the monotony of the voyage and give Captain Going and his crew some excitement. The America Maru picked up four shipwrecked Japanese off the Japanese coast and took them into Yokohama.

When the America Maru left Honolulu June 11 for Yokohama, Captain Going announced that he would keep a sharp lookout for the bark Fannie Kerr, and if he saw anything of her, would take a run over and see what she was like. Whether he saw the bark or not is not stated by the Japanese advices received by the Nippon Maru yesterday, but the Japanese papers contain an account of the rescue of the shipwrecked Japanese.

It appears that the Japanese fishermen went out from the Chiba Prefecture which is on the island of Nippon. They encountered rough weather and their sampans were overturned. Four men clung to their boat and were carried further out to sea. When off Boshu, they were sighted by the America Maru and taken aboard the liner.

Captain Going turned the Japanese over to the Japanese authorities at Yokohama, who sent the shipwrecked men back to their prefecture.

The Japanese papers state that the America Maru arrived at Yokohama Tuesday, June 24, from San Francisco and Honolulu. If this report is correct, there is a possibility that the America Maru did sight the Fannie Kerr after all, for the America was a day late in reaching Yokohama. She was due there June 23, but under the running time of the boats of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, the vessels always make port the day ahead of schedule time. She left Honolulu June 11, and if she arrived June 24, thirteen days were consumed in making the run to Yokohama. Counting the day which is lost by crossing the 180th degree of longitude, by going toward the Orient, this would make her actual running time 12 days. This is a full two days slower than usual, so it is evident that the boat was detained between Honolulu and Yokohama.

It is possible that Captain Going did see the Fannie Kerr, and, true to his promise made in Honolulu, went out of his course to see her. It is hardly likely that he would have wasted much time with the vessel, although if there was anything of value left aboard the Fannie Kerr, the stuff might have been transferred to the America Maru and carried to Yokohama.

Inasmuch as the Japanese papers make no mention of the America having seen the abandoned bark, it is not likely that the boat was sighted by Captain Going, although such an occurrence is not, by any means, out of the range of marine possibility.

WHO HELD THE BOAT?

A big crowd took passage this morning on the S. S. Ventura for San Francisco and a large crowd of friends and acquaintances were at the Oceanic wharf to bid the departing people, aloha. The Territorial band was in attendance.

The Ventura remained in port a full twenty-four hours, which is a very unusual occurrence for vessels coming from the Colonies. The boat got into port a day ahead of time, however, so there was no occasion for rushing along. However, two reasons for her being detained in port over night and being sent over to the Railway wharf to take 3,000 bags of sugar are given.

The officers of the steamship say that the vessel was held here simply because there was no occasion for her to reach San Francisco before next Monday morning, and, as she was very light with freight, it was decided to fill her with sugar from Honolulu.

The other reason and the one which was circulating among many people aboard the vessel this morning was to the effect that the holding of the boat was against the wish of Mrs. John D. Spreckels, the wife of the president and general manager of the Oceanic S. S. Company.

Mrs. Spreckels and party have been visiting in Honolulu for some weeks and she had planned to depart today on the Ventura, several rooms having been reserved for her accommodation. Unexpectedly the Ventura made her appearance yesterday morning, a full day ahead of scheduled time. Mrs. Spreckels was decidedly displeased. She was entirely unprepared to depart yesterday. She made known her wish that the vessel be held in port until this morning, the story goes, and, as there was no urgent reason why the vessel should depart before today, her wish accordingly was respected by the local agents and the vessel was ordered held. Such at least is the story that is circulated on the wharf and the decks of the vessel among the crowds there to see her off.

The Ventura did not get away promptly at 9 o'clock this morning. She was ready to sail about that time, but the tug Fearless started to tow the bark Prussia out to sea about 8:45 a. m. The Ventura waited until the return of the tug. The vessel got under way for the Coast about 9:25 a. m. A party went out on the Fearless.

Lorrin A. Thurston and son departed on the Ventura for San Francisco. W. A. Kinney, wife and child, were also passengers. They were to have departed on the Moana last week, but could secure no accommodations. They will be absent about three months.

Rev. Mackintosh was also a passenger.

The Misses Afong were passengers. The Ventura will make San Francisco on the morning of July 14.

The two stayaways who could not be found yesterday when the police went to the vessel, will probably be rounded up on the boat between here and San Francisco, if they were not smuggled ashore in Honolulu, and will be taken back to Australia.

FIRE COURT IS DEFUNCT

Judge Humphreys yesterday declared that the court of fire claims is a defunct body, having passed out of legal existence when the work was finished. He refused to excuse from jury duty Chairman Macfarlane or Clerk Riggs of the court. The court said:

"It appears that all the claims submitted to the court have been adjudicated. Such judgments are final, and as all of them have been adjudicated the court has nothing further to do. As to the duty enjoined upon the chairman or the board to make a report to the Governor, I can find nothing in the act requiring that. While it is a courteous and commendable thing to do, it is not a public duty and not a sufficient cause for excuse from jury service.

"There cannot be a court without a judge, and when the appropriation was exhausted the court became functus officio. The fire court has not been in existence since the appropriation was exhausted; it is no longer a court, and without a court there is no need of a clerk. The excuse will be denied."

Judge Humphreys this morning excused Fred W. Macfarlane, chairman of the court of Fire Claims and J. M. Riggs, clerk of the court, from further duty as jurors during the present term of court. No reason was given by the court for the change of ruling from yesterday, but it is said that the judge received a communication on the subject since yesterday afternoon, which induced him to change from ruling against the excuses of Macfarlane and Riggs.

Macfarlane and Riggs were both drawn on the jury this morning in the case of Ault vs. the Oahu Lumber and Building Company. There were no objections to either from counsel but the court called them from the box and told them that they were excused for the term. The ruling of yesterday, it is understood, had nothing to do with declaring the fire claims court "defunct," but simply was to the effect that it had expired, and was not an expression of opinion as to the validity of the judgments. Whether the judge changed his mind as to the expiration of the court, or excused the jurors for some other reason, is not known. When seen this morning Humphreys refused to talk about the matter, saying that he didn't want to be interviewed about decisions after he had given them.

DEMOCRATS WAKE UP

A meeting of the Democratic Territorial committee was held at Waverly hall last night. Besides a quorum of the committee there were a number of other democrats present. Chairman C. J. McCarthy was prevailed on to continue in the chairmanship of the committee, and resolutions were adopted calling on the committeemen on Kauai and Hawaii to nominate additional members of the committee from those islands, to complete their full representation in the committee. Every committeeman was urged to see that the district and precinct committees in their respective districts were completely organized, and in position to carry on the coming campaign. The plan of organization of the party contemplates a precinct committee in each precinct of the territory; a district committee in each representative district, and a territorial committee formed by representatives from each senatorial district, these members forming

THE BRIGHT SIDE OF LIFE.

It is a feeling common to the majority of us that we do not get quite the amount of happiness we are entitled to. Among the countless things which tend to make us more or less miserable ill health takes first place. Hannah More said that sin was generally to be attributed to biliousness. No doubt a crippled liver with the resulting impure blood, is the cause of a most miserable gloom than any other single thing. A chronic dyspeptic, says an eminent English physician, is always on the verge of a menial upset. And who can reckon up the fearful aggregations of pain, loss and fear arising from the many ailments and diseases which are familiar to mankind. Like a vast cloud it hangs over a multitude no one can number. You can see these people everywhere. For them life can scarcely be said to have any "bright side" at all. Hence the eagerness with which they search for relief and cure. Remedies like WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION have not attained their high position in the confidence of the people by bald assertions and boasting advertisements. They are obliged to win it by doing actually what is claimed for them. That this remedy deserves its reputation is conceded. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Nothing has such a record of success in Fevers, Rheumatism, Scrofula, Influenza, Throat and Lung Troubles, and all emaciating complaints and disorders, that tend to undermine the foundations of strength and vigor. Its use helps to show life's brighter side. Effective from the first dose. You cannot be disappointed in it. Sold by chemists everywhere.

the senatorial district committee where the senatorial district and the representative district are not coterminal, as on Hawaii and Oahu.

In the discussions of the meeting there was some reference to the talk about a combination with the Home Rulers. But the sentiment prevailed that the committee could exert no such proposition, even if it were desirable that such a proposition could only be entertained, if at all, by the party represented in convention. There was very little sentiment, apparently, in favor of any such combination, the sentiment being that the duty of the Democrats of the Territory was to thoroughly organize the party, and build it upon the lines of party principle; that what was wanted was a Democratic party made up of Democrats, not a party name to be traded off for offices for men who were not Democrats. Letters will be sent all over the territory calling on the Democrats of the various precincts and districts to organize.

Another meeting will be held at the same place next Monday evening to which every Democrat is invited for a conference on organization and plans for the campaign.
