HUMPHREYS IN ARIZONA

THE EX-JUDGE CONTINUES HIS TESTIMONY IN THE DISBARMENT PROCEEDINGS TODAY AND TELLS SOME OF THE INCIDENTS OF HIS LIFE IN ARIZONA—HIS JUDICIAL CAREER IN HONOLULU.

Ex-Judge Humphreys opened the Sumner case hearing this morning resuming his own testimony with some additional personal statements regarding his career in Arizona. "I neglected several matters which I desire now to mention, having forgotten them last Friday," said Humphreys. "I was a candidate for position of associate justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona and had the endorsements of leading members of the bar and other citizens. Copies of these endorsements were on file with the Attorney General of the United States. I asked leave to withdraw them and have them and the letter with which the Attorney General sent them to me, and can produce them if desired. I was a candidate for district attorney before coming here. It was a large district, larger than the States of Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Hampshire combined, and I was beaten by 7 votes. The gentleman who defeated me is now an associate justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona."

Humphreys resumed his story of the Sumner case with an explanation of why Sumner said that on returning to Honolulu he was taken to "Humphreys' office." This was because he was taken to the office in which he had known Humphreys in 1898 and which had since been occupied, by courtesy, by Andrews, Whiting, Fitch, Watson and Highton in turn. Humphreys said that in the conference at Magoon's home he had discussed freely his fortunes and had expressed a wish that he was already off the bench, as his resignation had not yet taken effect and he therefore could not take the Sumner case. "I realized that my career on the bench had not come up to the expectations of either myself or my friends," said the judge.

The basis on which the demand for $30,000 more was made by the Ellises was explained by Humphreys. "I calculated that the $18,000 was worth $3,000 a year," he said. "At the age of 84 I allowed Sumner an expectancy of 5 years life, which made $15,000 for him, though I was informed by Mr. C. J. Hutchins, the insurance agent, that the expectancy was 3 years. It was understood that the money was in trust, and if there was to be a settlement this gave Sumner his share and more. The sum of $3,000 was left for expenses of the settlement and I charged and received a fee of $1000. I never told Mr. Magoon that he could charge his clients $3,000 and that I could charge mine $5,000, for this agreement as $1,000 had already been made."

The Sumner hearing took a lively turn at the close of this morning's session, when A. S. Humphreys stated to the court that he would admit that the firm of Humphreys, Thompson & Watson had been negligent of the interests of the Ellises, and that he proposed to refund to them some of the fees of $3,500 received from them. Frank Thompson at once objected and refused to be bound by such a statement. Humphreys during his testimony quoted some uncomplimentary remarks he said he had made about Henry E. Highton.

The time and occasion of these remarks was when he learned of Highton's letter to the Ellises and their reply wherein it was agreed by all as being the fact that Highton had disapproved the compromise with the Davises, and had taken no part in the negotiations for it. These letters have already been put in evidence.

Humphreys stated that when he returned from Hawaii he met Watson in his office and was informed that the Sumner matter had been settled by making over the payments of $10,000 each to the three Ellises. He was informed that the rest of the money, $48,025, was to remain in trust, but that no new trust had been executed. He was greatly surprised at this and commented upon it to Watson at the time. He did not say much to Thompson, however, owing to the latter's position in the firm and the friendly relations existing between himself and Thompson.

The hearing is at present in a much muddled condition. Thompson objects to being bound by Humphreys' testimony and he asked the court if it might be considered as stricken out as far as he was concerned. The court would not allow this. Thompson also claims the right to call Humphreys as his witness.

One especially satisfactory feature of the service will be the cable notification of the arrivals at and departures from San Francisco of passenger and mail steamships. The Exchange has maintained a daily cable service from Honolulu ever since the opening of the cable last January and the present arrangement will now make the service complete. Local shipping firms will be enabled to keep posted regarding the movements and presence of their vessels.

Among her passengers is Captain E. F. Widdington of the Royal Army. He is going home on leave. O. H. P. Noyes is a tea taster who has been out to the Orient making his usual trip. Thomas Hawkesworth is a business man of Shanghai. Goodman King is the St. Louis Fair Commissioner who has been touring the Orient in the interests of the Exposition.

Chester North is going home after a pleasure trip to the Orient. He is a Californian. The Doric will sail at 4 p. m. today from the Bishop wharf for San Francisco. She expects to reach San Francisco next Sunday afternoon, two days ahead of schedule time.

DEATH OF MRS. DUNN. Allan Dunn has just received word of the death of his mother, Eliza Holdsworth Dunn, May 29, 1903, at St. Leonard's-On-Sea, Sussex, England. The interment was at Abney Park Cemetery. Mrs. Dunn was 58 years of age, and had been ill for a long time. It is probable that property matters in connection with the settlement of the estate left by his mother will call Mr. Dunn to England. If so he will leave within a short time, but will return as soon as may be.

BIG BOXING EVENT.

Billy Woods and Millet To Meet On Saturday.

The attraction of the big boxing contest at the Orpheum on Saturday evening, when Billy Woods will meet Millet, the event also marking Woods' first appearance in Honolulu, will bring out every man of sporting proclivities in this city.

While Millet has displayed the fact that he has all the qualifications of a great fighter who is already looked upon as a future possibility among heavyweights, Billy Woods will confront him with far heavier metal than he has yet endeavored to counter. Woods needs little recommendation, his having been selected as sparring partner for Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Jeffries showing how highly he is held in the estimation of the topnotchers, while his lengthy battles with Choynski and others have demonstrated his actual ring capacity.

Though Billy has settled down in Honolulu as teacher or as popular gymnasium, he has by no means passed his years of usefulness and his clean living has kept him in a condition that would make him formidable to any of his old opponents. He has been training religiously for the past month with all the knowledge he possesses and will, with Millet, enter the ring as fit as possible. Woods will weigh about 185 and Millet about 179 pounds.

THE CRUISE OF THE LA PALAMA

YACHTSMEN GET BACK YESTERDAY FROM ACRUISE TO KAUNAKAI AND LAHAINA.

Commodore C. W. Macfarlane with his guests returned yesterday from their cruise in La Paloma to Molokai and Lahaina. On the trip from Lahaina here they used a patent log and so were able to know the rate of speed they were making. In one hour with the balloon jib set and a fresh breeze they made 1 1/2 knots which is considered good sailing. The balloon jib carried away just this side of Diamond Head, and after that they were not able to sail so fast.

The trip from here to Kaunakakai was made in twenty hours, owing to rough seas, though at no time was the yacht in the least danger, nor were any of the guests sick. The party remained three days at Kaunakakai, going up into the mountains hunting, and securing one deer. Thursday morning they set sail for Lahaina, arriving there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The Lahaina people received them very hospitably, got up a luau in their honor and a ball Saturday evening. While they were at Lahaina at least fifty people came out to call on them at their yacht.

The party sailed from Lahaina Sunday morning at a quarter to one o'clock and came off Honolulu at exactly noon after living at Commodore Macfarlane's place at Pearl Harbor at 1:30 o'clock.

SLAVE CASE BEING HEARD

THE STORY OF A YOUNG JAPANESE WOMAN BROUGHT TO HONOLULU LAST MAY.

The hearing of the case of Isoye, charged with importing a Japanese woman for immoral purposes, was had this morning before Commissioner Douthett. District Attorney Breckons prosecuted and J. W. Cathcart appeared for the defense.

The defendant's victim, Yamane, was called to the stand. She is a somely Japanese woman 23 years of age, and testified that she had come to Hawaii in May last. She met Isoye, who has an unpronounceable alias, in Hiroshima, and when she told him she hadn't enough money to travel to Hawaii, he put up $200 yen for her. She was to come here and wash and do house keeping work. As soon as she landed Isoye took her into his place on Pauahi street and forced her into a life of shame, collecting all the money she made on the pretense that he was being paid back what he had lent her.

The young woman testified that she didn't like the life she was leading and tried to get away and carry out her plans. "I wanted to get a place to do washing or housework," she said, "in order to get money to pay Isoye back." She was brought back, however, and terrorized into resuming her life in Isoye's place.
