A GOOD JURY TO KEEP OFF OF

TWELVE MEN TO RENDER A HUNDRED AND THIRTEEN VERDICTS AT ONCE.

A hundred and thirteen cases for one jury to try is the prospect in the federal court for the next term when the Korean cases will be tried. The consent to a waiver of a jury has been withdrawn and the cases will be tried by jury, according to the wishes of Judge Estee, who threatened to draw a jury anyhow, whether the parties waived it or not.

THE DRAMA

The members of the Stine and Evans American Comedy Company showed the effect of the extreme heat of the day in their performance at the Hawaiian Opera House last evening. The company has been almost continuous in their rehearsals since coming here, so anxious are they to give smooth, finished performances. But yesterday was too much for them, unaccustomed as they are to this climate, and their initial presentation of "Where is Cobb?" was not up to the standard they have set in their previous performances.

Nevertheless there was showing enough made to make it clear that "Where is Cobb?" has great possibilities as a mirthful, farcical comedy. There was also showing made that the company can make a rollicking success of the material the play offers. "Where is Cobb?" presents a newly married couple in a New York flat. They are broke, because the husband's papa, who lives in a quiet home in Jersey, has not yet approved of the marriage, having never seen the wife, and has closed his millionaire's purse to their appeals.

The wife is an actress and has just secured the engagement of her life. Meanwhile the grocery and other bills are due and creditors press. There are two sets of "Cobbs" in the flat, and out of these conditions the complications grow.

One of the cleverest features of the play are the "twins," "the LeFevre Sisters," presented by Miss Canfield and Miss Bicknell. Not only is the conception of the part clever, but the lines are rich in the satire they contain. Miss Marshall, as "Maria Bobb" presents a good wholesome part in a thoroughly pleasing manner. Mr. Bates as "Adolph Meyers," the groceryman kept the house in a roar while he was on the stage. Miss Evans as "Dollie Dexter" was as good as ever.

There are two or three lines in the play that ought to be cut out. They really add nothing, and they are just on the verge, to say the least, of being equivocal.

Tonight is the last appearance of the company. "Where is Cobb?" will be repeated, and will undoubtedly be given in a way to add to the good opinion of Stine and Evans which they and their company have earned here. The company sails by the Sonoma tomorrow for the colonies.

WAR PLAY AT ORPHEUM. Day after tomorrow, Thursday July 23rd, the Lyceum stock company will play that popular, stirring war drama "Held by the Enemy," and for spirited scenes and "go" few war plays have ever been written to equal it. Its tone is elevating, its story true, its action thrilling.

The scenic effects, which have been arranged by that veteran actor-manager, George Kunkel, will eclipse any before seen on the Orpheum stage. In addition to the members of the company, many regulars will appear from Camp McKinley. The costuming and tactics adopted by the American Army have been carefully studied and a faithful interpretation of military ways is promised. If George Kunkel, as "Bean" the war-correspondent doesn't fall over some of the officers' swords, the performance may be expected to be excellent.

Bruce Hartman in the role of faithful, old, black Rufus, who has stayed by his mistress during the exciting time of war, has an excellent conception of the part, and will give a finished portrayal of a difficult role. No one scene can be designated as the scene of the piece as "Held by the Enemy" is full of active, rapid, movement. It is in fact a strong combination of thrilling chapters.

The box office for the sale of reserved seats is open daily from 9 to 1 and 2 to 6.

DAVIS SAID IT WAS A BLUFF

Judge Kaulukou replied that if the court insisted on hurrying him, he would refuse to put on any more witnesses. Kaulukou sat down.
