THE GUARD IN CAMP

The Hawaiian National Guard, about 400 strong, assembled at the headquarters this morning to start for Camp McKinley, where they went into camp with the regulars, to be for five days under the military rules of camp life of the United States regular army. The proportion of men turning out was very good and the regiment made a fine showing. The Wailuku Company arrived last night and was on hand with the local militia, while the Hilo Company entered the harbor shortly after the rest had started for camp.

The orders were for assembling at 7 a. m. the uniform to be blue blouse, cap, khaki trousers and leggings. The men marched from the Capitol grounds to the Rapid Transit power house, where they boarded special cars and rode to Camp McKinley. The regulars had been expecting them and Lieutenant Hamilton, who had been detailed to assist and instruct them, had a force of men at hand to help with forming the camp.

Over three hundred of the new army tents, recently received, were taken out with the National Guard and the work of making camp was one of the first things to be learned by the militia. Putting up tents was not very easy work, and the men had a morning of good hard labor. The regulars gave them assistance in placing the tents and preparing camps for cooking rations, etc. The militia are to look after their own sustenance, just as do the regulars in camp.

Most of the men were glad to make the trip and spend five days in camp and many thought the period of time was all too short. It is an interesting experience of army life and is in the nature of a vacation to most of the men, nearly all of them being employed down town in all sorts of positions different from that of army work. Those in government employ will not lose anything, but will gain slightly, by reason of their days of camp. The federal government will in due time pay all who actually report for duty, the usual army salary for the five days, on the same basis as regulars, and they will be paid full salary for the month of June by the Territory. Acting Governor Atkinson gave assurances that the Territory would not "dock" any of them, and it is hoped that private employers will follow the same example.

on June 27th, and it will therefore be possible for the Californian and Hawaiian delegations to start together from San Francisco first, Louis.

There are some considerations, some business details, that we should look after in advance, for instance your delegation will require a banner. Prince David will know just about what is wanted. You will also want badges for your delegates and attendants; these you may be able to procure in Honolulu; however, if your delegation desires that they be ordered for them here, I would suggest the advisability of consulting with the delegates in reference to these badges and the banner, and if they come to the conclusion that they want them ordered here, send us a sketch of the banner and badges you want, and we will order them for you, and they will be ready upon the arrival of your delegation. (Prince David will also know about what the cost of things will be, as he knows what they cost last time) and I presume that you will want them of the same general character—the Hawaiian banner and badges were about as handsome as any in the last Convention.

We have written to all the States and Territories West of the Missouri River, advising them of the day of our departure from here, so that they may join us on the line of the railroad at a point most convenient for them, and thus we expect to have a solid train of delegates by the time we arrive at Omaha, en route to St. Louis.

By the way, you should also advise us (and this should be attended to at once by wire), of what train accommodations your Hawaiian people will require, so that we may put in the reservation with the Railroad Company. This is very important, because the travel will be very heavy, and unless provision is made in advance for such things there is likely to be not only trouble for you but difficulty in procuring them at all.

Hotel accommodations at St. Louis should also be spoken for at the earliest possible hour and if you will direct us, or, if you prefer, St. Louis wire you, you will save yourself a great deal of trouble. If you will let us know, I will do my best to secure the accommodations they request. You understand that accommodations will be very difficult of procurement in St. Louis during the Convention, and they should be spoken for in good time.

Will your people desire such a thing as a large cloth sign to place on either side of your car, lettered "Hawaiian Delegation"? This is usually done.

Very truly yours, M. F. TARPFEY.

P. S.—If there is a special rate from Honolulu to the World's Fair, your people should take advantage of it; if not, the fare from San Francisco to St. Louis and return will be $67.50.

SOLD WARRANTS

Several cases of employees of the government who have assigned their salary warrants to more than one party have been brought to the attention of acting Governor Atkinson and attorney General Andrews, and some proceedings may be undertaken. It is said that the offense constitutes gross fraud.

There are several cases in which government employees have assigned the same warrant to two parties, and in one case a warrant was assigned to three different parties and the money has been received from each. Since the government began registering warrants it has been customary for many employees to sell, or assign, their warrants, and those who have tried to double up in doing so may find themselves in trouble.

INJUNCTION ENDED

The suit of the Kapiolani Estate against the Territory, which was stopping an important street improvement by means of an injunction to stop work on South street, has been compromised, and this morning Attorney C. W. Ashford filed for the plaintiff a discontinuance.

HEARST FORCES

In all probability the Hawaiian delegation to the Democratic National Convention will form part of a solid western delegation to the convention at St. Louis. There is an excellent chance for the delegates from Hawaii to join forces with the California delegation which leaves San Francisco June 28. From present indications the instructed Hearst forces from the Pacific Coast and the West will go into St. Louis in a single train.

A letter on this subject was received by the S. S. Tarpey of the California delegation. It contains considerable important information for the Hawaiian delegates and the letter is given in its entirety by Mr. Kild.

The letter is as follows: May 9, 1904. R. B. Kidd, Esq., Honolulu, T. H.

My Dear Kidd: Our California delegation will leave this city for St. Louis on the morning train of Tuesday, June 28th. I understand that the steamer Sierra will arrive here from Honolulu on June 27th, and it will therefore be possible for the Californian and Hawaiian delegations to start together from San Francisco first, Louis.

There are some considerations, some business details, that we should look after in advance, for instance your delegation will require a banner. Prince David will know just about what is wanted. ance of the action. The Territory pays the Estate for the land needed and the road department is now free to resume work which was stopped some months ago.

The suit was begun against Henry E. Cooper when he was superintendent. It stopped work which was progressing along South street to Queen, where the Kapiolani Estate owns land, and as a result there was much complaint about a large pool of water which collected at the corner of the two streets. The pool lasted so long it had small fish in it and was a nuisance as a breeder of mosquitoes, but nothing could be done while the Kapiolani Estate had an injunction in force restraining the road department from carrying on its work. Work along Queen street, to meet the other work, was also in progress and a settlement of the suit was especially desired to enable the road office to complete both streets. By the withdrawal of the suit the injunction is dissolved and Road Supervisor Johnson will proceed to complete the improvement.

The government, by the terms of the compromise, pays the Kapiolani Estate for its land on the proposed street. There are 2,200 square feet, for which about 47 per foot is paid.
