With the "Forest City" series in the home, the Exposition will always remain open, not only for a year but for a life time; for the animating purpose of the "Forest City" series is to transfer the Fair in enduring form to the printed page, not only in its superb architecture and scenic effects, but in its personalities, individualities and splendid art exhibits.

It will be a great show, the Democratic convention that meets tomorrow at St. Louis. Surely that city's cup must be full, for not only has she the most splendid exposition ever seen, but she is about to have a political performance up to an equally high standard.

On the floor of this wonderful convention there will be 16 to 1 men and gold standard men, Cleveland Democrats and advocates of Hearst and Bryan, Tammany men and anti-Tammany men, supporters of Olney, Gray, Gorman and Wall, men who believe in expansion and men who don't, Mugwump Democrats, dyed-in-the-wool Democrats, conservative Democratic statesmen and Democrats who hold the sort of opinions that go with long hair—in short there will be all kinds, and all are expected to unite somehow, for party's sake.

It is certainly an unexampled opportunity for a few days of glorious political scrapping and everyone will enjoy it, especially Republicans. Like spectators at a theater, we may say to those who call themselves followers of Jefferson—concerning matters of which Jefferson never heard—Bring on the show and let us see what the actors can do.

The close of the present month will see a material reduction in the customs force. About ten men will be discharged. The dismissal of these men is not to be taken in any sense, as a reflection upon them, but the reason for their retirement, as stated by the collector, is due entirely to the lack of business to warrant their continued employment.

Conditions in these islands are changing and it is not surprising that numerous changes and reductions of force to meet the new requirements should result. Business principles must govern the administration of the government's affairs, just as certainly as those principles are applied to every day occupation.

For some years past the conditions governing the local shipping interests have been undergoing a change. Instead of in a large fleet of sailing craft with numerous crews, the shipping is being gradually done in steamers. The increased tonnage of the various steamers now operating has wrought a very marked change gradually.

But there is another feature of the discharge of so many men which would seem to be as yet unsettled. While there may not be sufficient work to keep the present force of men occupied all of the time, is there not enough work to keep them busy when there are steamers in port? It is certainly not just to the men or to the service either to reduce a force to such an extent that when busy times do occur, there are not sufficient men on hand to perform the necessary duties.

Men are not brutes and it is not the purpose of the United States Government to treat them as such. It is not just to men to work them an undue period during busy times. If the revenues can not at such times be protected by the force that is on hand, the force should be increased, and it should not be increased by forcing men to work in extra shifts.

The customs employes have rights which should be considered, as well as those of the Federal government. One of those rights is to expect that they will not be compelled to work extra time, when there should be a rush in business. The government is amply able to hire men and if necessary a sufficient number of men should always be kept on hand for emergencies.

Sometimes a man loses his job because he doesn't know enough and seldom gets his salary raised on the same basis because he knows too much. A scientist claims to have discovered liquid sunshine, but it will never appear of others in your presence if you wish to get a line on what they say of you when you are absent.

There is a strange lack of mention of "Willie" Hearst in the cabled news about the Democratic convention. He does not even secure mention now as being in the reckoning.

The size of the crowd that went to Pearl Harbor yesterday showed that interest in the Healan and Myrtle club contests is by no means waning. It is good clean sport and the nine years of the local clubs' rivalry are a credit to local sports.

Admiral Kamimura is the only Japanese commander whose war record is doubtful. In the light of such reports as have been received it appears as if Admiral Skrydloff had outmaneuvered him.

Parker seems to have all the lead at St. Louis. Perhaps if he receives a nomination he will see fit to break his Sphinx-like silence, which has so irritated many of his party.

Steamship companies on the Atlantic side are indulging in a rate war. It has brought prices down until steerage passengers are being taken from Liverpool to New York for ten dollars.

In reproducing the battle at which Cronje surrendered, with Cronje himself actually taking part, the St. Louis exposition is breaking all records for realism. There is something undignified and seeming improper about Cronje's participating in the show, but he justifies it on the ground of financial need.

The "affair of the outposts" at Mienting, reported by Minister Takahira this morning to Consul Saito, shows a desperate Russian attack on the Japanese outposts.

These are now warning us that the strenuous life produces premature aging. Let the democrats put it in their platform and challenge Mr. Roosevelt on that issue.

Some people are wondering where Kuropatkin will fight, but probably it will be where Kuroki will let him. A New York widow refused to erect a monument to her husband's memory because he was so forgetful.
