STRONG LAW TO REGULATE AUTOMOBILES

SUPERVISOR LUCAS PROPOSES SOME CAST IRON REGULATIONS FOR THOSE WHO WANT TO RUN MOTOR CARS—SPEED LIMITS FIXED AND NO ONE ALLOWED TO RUN AN AUTO AT ALL WITHOUT A LICENSE.

A cast iron ordinance to regulate the operation of automobiles in Honolulu has been presented to the Board of Supervisors by Supervisor Lucas and referred to the county attorney for an opinion as to its legality. Besides making speed limits of eight miles an hour in town and four miles at crossings, it provides that no person shall run an auto until he or she has passed an examination and been given a certificate as a chauffeur. No car is to be allowed to run on the streets at all until it has been registered with the police, except it be that of a temporary visitor.

The ordinance provides that owners of motor cars shall secure registration from the sheriff, who shall give each one a number and a certificate of registration. The number is to be on the car, and the figures are to be four inches in height and painted in black on a white background.

The supervisors, under the terms of the ordinance, are to appoint an examiner of chauffeurs and anyone who wants to run an automobile must file an application for a license and take an examination. Applicants must be not less than 17 years of age, must be familiar with the terms of the ordinance and must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the examiner that they can start, stop, reverse and generally show ability to quickly handle a motor car. The applicants are also to be examined specially as to steam, gasoline and electric motor cars, according to which they may happen to want to operate.

Other rules for the operation of motors as provided in the proposed ordinance are as follows: "No person shall operate a motor car on a public highway, within the area bounded on the makai side by the sea,

Charlie Moore Was Dismissed This Morning

SO WERE THE OTHER DEFENDANTS CHARGED WITH CONDUCTING A GAMBLING RESORT—JUDGE WHITNEY GRANTED THE MOTION MADE BY DEFENDANTS' ATTORNEY FOR THE DISCHARGE OF THE VARIOUS DEFENDANTS.

Charlie Moore, Sam Apollana and Hirano the alleged keepers of a gambling joint, were discharged in the police court this morning by Judge Whitney. The discharge of the defendants was upon a motion for a dismissal made yesterday afternoon by their attorney Frank Thompson.

Judge Whitney went into a discussion of the details of the case against Apollana and Hirano but announced the discharge of Moore, in rather brief words. The decision in the gambling cases was the first business in the court today.

"The evidence against the defendants," said the court "places Moore in one class and the other defendants Apollana and Hirano in another class. The motion to dismiss the defendants is not based upon any question of the credibility of the witnesses but it relates entirely to a matter of law.

It is claimed that the prosecution has not made out what in a civil case would be called a prima facie case, against the defendant Moore. The court finds that the prosecution has not presented any evidence which connects the defendant Moore with the gambling game in the resort on King street. Although the court believes in the guilt of Moore it does not find that the prosecution has presented evidence which will connect the defendant with the conduct of the gambling game on King street. The court has sufficient faith in the prosecution in this territory to believe that justice will in this instance eventually be done. The defendant Moore is discharged.

In discussing the cases against Apollana and Hirano the court said that there was nothing in the evidence to

HUMPHREYS FILES IMMEDIATE ANSWER

PUTS IN A QUICK REPLY TO JOHN W. LAKER'S SUIT FOR $10,000 DAMAGES AND TELLS A RADICALLY DIFFERENT STORY—GIVES CIRCUMSTANCES UNDER WHICH THE ORIGINAL CAUSE OF ACTION AROSE.

Ex-Judge A. S. Humphreys filed his answer today to the damage suit instituted against him yesterday by John W. Laker for $10,000. The following is the judge's answer in full.

And now comes the defendant, A. S. Humphreys, in his proper person and for an answer to the complaint herein he saith:

That the occupation of the plaintiff and the residence of the parties is correctly stated in the complaint.

That on or about the 18th day of September, 1905, at the instance of J. J. Dunne, Esq., plaintiff employed the defendant to serve him as an attorney and counselor in a certain matter. Mr. Dunne stating to plaintiff at the time that defendant's charge would not be less than $150, which sum plaintiff subsequently stated to defendant he was agreeable to pay.

Defendant accepted the employment in question. The matter with respect to which defendant was employed involved an exhaustive and careful consideration of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, the statutes of the United States and the decisions of the Federal courts.

MUST COME BACK FROM THE COAST

TRANSPORT MEN UNDER ARREST AT SAN FRANCISCO ARE TO BE INDICTED HERE.

The federal grand jury has completed its investigation of the Sherman bad money cases and as a result of the jury's investigations two men who are held by the authorities in San Francisco will probably be sent back here to answer to charges of possession of counterfeit money with intent to defraud. The two men were arrested when the Sherman arrived at San Francisco, on cables sent from here by Marshal Hendry.

The federal jury will report next week. The two men under arrest in San Francisco have been ordered deported, and this probably means that they have been indicted by the jury here. Of those taken from the transport here there are three still in custody, and indictment against them may also be returned.

The Camp McKinley counterfeiting cases were before Judge Dole in this morning's session of court. Private J. T. Cooper pleaded guilty to the indictment charging him with making ten dollar pieces. A second count in his indictment charging him with possession of bad money, was nolle prossed by United States Attorney Dunne. Sentence was deferred.

Thomas Hilson, another Camp McKinley soldier, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of counterfeit money. Hogan appeared for him. Sentence is to be passed on Monday. C. Hamilton, who is his own attorney,

VACATIONS FOR FIREMEN

SUPERVISORS VOTE TO ALLOW THEM TWELVE DAYS DURING EVERY YEAR.

Employees of the fire department are to be allowed annual vacations hereafter, under authority of the following resolution, offered by Supervisor Lucas and passed by the board last night:

"Be it resolved by the board of supervisors of the County of Oahu that the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department is hereby authorized to allow each member of said Department a vacation of 12 days during each year's service, such vacation to be given to all members that the chief engineer shall approve for good conduct, with full pay during said vacation."

Prof. Waife Hart's lecture at the Hawaiian Hotel this evening is for the benefit of the Free Kindergarten Association.

and James Jackson, for whom S. H. Derby appears, had their cases postponed. They will be tried next week. Both are charged with possession of bad money.

Cannot Take Up Queen Street Rails

TERRITORY MUST FIRST PROCEED AGAINST RAPID TRANSIT, SAYS THE COUNTY ATTORNEY.

The County supervisors have no power at present to remove the car tracks on Queen street, according to an opinion given to the Board of Supervisors by Deputy County Attorney Milverton. The Board recently received a petition signed by business men along the street asking that the tracks be taken out, and the matter was referred to the County Attorney.

The opinion says that the tracks are subject to removal if the company fails to operate cars upon them, but that its contract is with the Territory and not the County, and that the Territorial government, which granted the franchise, has the control of the matter. It is up to the Territory to forfeit the company's franchise, as far as the unused street is concerned, and then the County can remove the tracks.

ILLUMINATED LIFE BUOYS ON SONOMA

A NEW INVENTION WHICH MOST OF THE SONOMA'S PASSENGERS LEARNED OF THE OTHER NIGHT

The unhappy fatality on the Sonoma the night before she arrived in port, was the occasion for the great majority of the passengers to learn the use of the new illuminated life buoys which have recently been invented and with which the Sonoma is provided.

The buoy itself is an ordinary life buoy placed at convenient places about the deck. The illuminant is some sort of carbide preparation which is in a tin can or pot fastened close to the buoy.

The directions for the use of this new invention are that the can or pot of carbide or whatever it is, is to be fastened to the buoy, the fastenings being there all ready. Then a hole is to be punched in the can or pot with an awl which is attached to the pot and then buoy and pot are to be thrown into the sea, just as an ordinary buoy would be, as near as possible to the person who has gone overboard.

The minute the pot drops in the water and the water gets to the carbide preparation, it flames up giving a very bright light.

Of course, the object is to enable the person who has gone overboard, if he is still conscious, to see where the life buoy is and so make for it and have it aid while the search party from the vessel is making for him to rescue him.

It is an aid to the search party too, because if it has been promptly thrown overboard it gives some indication of where to look, or at least of the direction in which to look.

There is enough carbide preparation in the pot to keep a flaming light for two hours.

On the Sonoma, T. W. Hobron was one of the first to know of the distressing event that happened, and he was one of the few who knew the workings of the illuminated buoy. Instantly he set to work, and in an incredibly short time he had cut the buoy loose, fastened the illuminating pot to it, punched the hole in the pot, and thrown the whole thing over. The sight of the buoy floating on the water with the flaming light was new to almost everybody aboard, and made a deep impression on the ship's company.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

THE CARDINAL ARCHBISHOP IS OUTDONE

"He cursed him in waking, he cursed him in sleeping,
"He cursed him in standing, in sitting, in eating,
"He cursed him in order that that very night
"He should dream of the devil, and wake in a fright
"Never was heard such a terrible curse
"But what gave rise
"To no little surprise,
"Nobody seemed one penny the worse."

Something in that way runs the account of the ban which the Cardinal Lord Archbishop of Rheims put on the thief who had stolen his ring, according to the altogether delightful Ingoldsbys, but even the Cardinal Lord Archbishop of Rheims was outdone this morning.

At the corner of King and Fort streets this morning stood the poor old blind man who blows the bamboo whistle. Kaena Nawai is his name. He stood there with his sightless eyes turned upwards towards the heavens and cursed a Portuguese boy whom he called "Akoni Pakoa," otherwise known as Antone Pantone.

In fluent Hawaiian he called the power of light and darkness to take this Portuguese boy in hand for having "worried" and abused him. He exhausted all of his vocabulary on that particular object and then he refilled the vials of his wrath in order to spill them again over the heads of Portuguese boys in general. Fortunately passers-by of the haole persuasion could not understand what he said.

The poor old fellow paused for breath and then he began to drone out a curse on the head of some policeman who had told him the Roman Catholic Cathedral was on fire. Having finished with the individual policeman, he went ahead with all policemen.

An obliging Hawaiian interpreted.

"He says that he is a good Catholic," said the interpreter, "and that he asked a policeman what was the noise going on. The policeman told him that the Catholic church was on fire, but he went up and it was not on fire. He goes to church twice every day. He cursed the Portuguese boys because they are always worrying him, he says, and he thinks that his prayers will be answered. The one he calls 'Akoni Pakoa,' he says, is the worst."

At the mention of the name the whistle man rose like a giant refreshed and the Recording Angel, who probably understands Hawaiian, had a busy five minutes jotting down an entirely new and original set of curses.

Then the old man wandered up the street mumbling to himself, but Akoni Pakoa will rest uneasily tonight.

Standing Up Quality

is what counts in a shoe. There are so many technical parts about the general make-up of a shoe that most people don't always know where to find imperfections. Let us explain these technicalities in a common sense way:

First. The inside making of a shoe. Second. The imitation leather counter.

Third. Those cut off vamps.

Fourth. Poor leather in tops.

Fifth. Poor lasting of a shoe.

These are some of the imperfections that are found in so many of the medium grades of shoes.

These imperfections we are proud to say, do not exist in our great "ALL AMERICA" line of shoes for men. They have stood the test for forty years in the art of good honest shoemaking at good honest prices.

Come in and let our salesman explain in detail.
