M. R. Matteson is connected with the Yokohama office of the O. and O. and other steamship companies. He is returning from a business trip to the mainland.

Hans Raspe is going to Kobe. He is said to be a relative of the reputed author of the Tales of Baron Munchausen. It is probably because he has the same surname, that the passenger on the Coptic is credited with any relationship with the famous German literary man.

B. H. Skinner is an electrical engineer, going to Hongkong for the purpose of superintending the setting up of some electrical plant.

Alexander Morphy, who has been in the service of the O. and O. company for a number of years, comes out as purser of the Coptic, replacing Mr. Chapman, the former purser, who is to become purser of the S. S. Nippon Maru.

The Coptic will leave Honolulu this afternoon at 5 o'clock from the Hackfeld wharf for the Orient.

SHOCKING PICTURES OF LOW LIFE

The wife's testimony and that of another woman among the lot imparted here with "laborers"—a short part negress who probably weighs about 80 pounds clothes and all,—showed that Ricardo had married Maria knowing that her husband was still alive. He had told her it did not matter. He would go somewhere else. He was therefore committed by Commissioner Mailing.

After the hearing the defendants were carried back to jail. The bedraggled crowd of women who were witnesses signed for their witness fees and left in a chattering bunch for their homes in Iwilei.

property, so that there will be no delay. The board proposes to take out coral until there is a fine sand beach.

Under the new arrangement the check for $18,000 in favor of Henry E. Cooper, an attorney in fact for Adolph Julius Baetcke, sole heir of Kunst, remains in escrow, to be paid on the delivery of the leases which Baetcke made to Lewis of the property in question. Then there will be a direct transfer from Baetcke to the county, instead of from Baetcke to Lewis, Lewis to Thielen and Thielen to the county. This will save considerable expense in stamps, recording and drawing of documents, said the county attorney. Other conditions of the payment of the $18,000 check are that the leases granted by Cooper to Lewis, and by Lewis to Thielen, all be cancelled, and the Board of Supervisors approve the title to the property.

Baetcke is now on his way to Germany, where German executors of the Kunst estate, who will also be parties reside.

HI HENRY'S THEORY AT STANFORD

(The financial condition of the university is improving every year. For several years past the university has been spending in the neighborhood of $500,000 a year on buildings, or approximately $40,000 each month. In addition to this is the large amount paid to the faculty, and this has been augmented largely in the last eighteen months when the salaries paid to many of the professors were increased. Besides the university has the Stanford property and mansion in San Francisco, which, with its contents, is worth about $2,000,000. The building under way here is not urgent, nor is the California-street property of any material use at present. It is obvious, therefore, that the $500,000 drain could be shut off and a big sum realized on the San Francisco land and mansion.

It is pointed out by those who discuss the report that the university in another way had everything to lose by the death of Mrs. Stanford, and nothing to gain. Mrs. Stanford's devotion to the institution she helped to found, and which she built up practically unaided, was so great that every penny she had would have been given freely, had there been need of it. She had already given almost $400,000, retaining only some $300,000 for her personal use, and even the income of this she spent mostly in purchases for the memorial museum. It was understood, however, that she had provided liberally for relatives, and her death, therefore, would be an immediate detriment to the university.

The position of Henry is not understood here, for those of the university authorities who had dealings with him in Honolulu regarded him as perfectly honest, although somewhat lacking in judgment. It is believed that his statements are influenced by pique at the false impression created by the statements erroneously credited to Dr. Jordan and other university officials.

It can be stated, on excellent authority, that a practically complete report on the cause of death of Mrs. Stanford is in the hands of the legal representatives of her estate, showing that her death was due to a lesion of the heart, and this report will be published.

He was re-elected to represent and I cannot rightly step aside and leave the responsibility to outside men, even though they be public spirited citizens. Drafts of bills to clear up the question of the jurisdiction of circuit courts to naturalize aliens, and to confirm the citizenship of those already naturalized have been sent me by Governor Carter and Judge Robinson.

Yesterday I submitted these to the Attorney General and received his approval of the form which I am introducing today. I am also, at the request of the Governor, introducing a bill to authorize the sale by the Territory of movable property ceded to the Federal government by the Republic of Hawaii. Additional bills that I am introducing will follow by the next steamer. Very truly yours, J. KALANIANA'OLE, Delegate to Congress.

BIG MONEY SPENT. Road Supervisor Johnson's report to the Board of Supervisors for the six months ending December 31, shows $75,710.27 spent on roads in the County. Of this sum $49,747.82 went for labor, and $25,962.45 for materials.

RUBBER LOOKS MOST PROMISING

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NAHIKU COMPANY SHOWS WHAT IS BEING DONE AND DONE WELL.

From the reports received at yesterday's meeting of the Nahiiku Rubber Company, the industry promises to be a flourishing one in Hawaii as soon as things get fairly started. Everything looks well and as soon as the trees have reached sufficient growth and can stand the tapping for sap a just estimate of what can be done will be formed. The meeting was held at the offices of E. O. Hall & Son, W. W. Hall presiding. W. W. Hall was re-elected president and the other officers are Dr. E. C. Waterhouse, vice-president, Fred Waterhouse, secretary-treasurer, D. C. Lindsay, C. D. Lovelkin, T. M. Church and W. W. Thayer, directors.

The Nahiiku Rubber plantation is at the eastern end of Maui, some six miles from Hana. During the period since the 900 acres which constitute the plantation were acquired, 52,000 trees have been planted and there are 10,000 odd in the nursery. These will be set out very soon. The trees are of two varieties, one of which can be tapped after three years growth and the other being available only after five years. Some of the trees planted first have already been tapped for experimental purpose and a splendid grade of rubber, samples of which were shown by W. W. Hall today, has been produced. The plantation is under the management of Robert Anderson who is at present here in Honolulu. The Nahiiku Rubber Company is a close corporation and there is no stock on the market.

KUHIO'S WORK FOR HAWAII

the question, he made a re-examination of the act which led him to think strongly that it would also authorize work in Hawaii. And it was upon this that he promised to give the matter favorable consideration.

If the commercial bodies of Honolulu and Hilo and also the Farmers' Institute were to address formal requests to Secretary Wilson that soil survey work in Hawaii be commenced as soon as possible, it would doubtless help in securing the desired result from the Secretary of Agriculture.

The secretary also promised me his friendly offices in trying to get an annual appropriation of $25,000 for an agricultural school in Hawaii, the same as is already given to the other states and territories. This would, if secured, necessitate the provision of land and buildings for such a school by the territorial legislature. But there are few ways in which local funds could be better spent; and if my apportionment bill is passed, the buildings could also be provided by Federal funds.

The Honolulu papers just received show a very commendable spirit in the community to assist in securing the passage of my apportionment bill. There appears naturally however some misapprehension as to how the desired result can best be reached.

In the first place the best chance of success will not be furthered by merely rushing a hastily chosen delegation to Washington.

To attempt with hammer and tongs, and in headlong haste, to force this measure through would result only in its defeat. The dozen men, more or less, in Congress who will decide whether or not this bill is to become a law, have other very important legislation on their hands, for which they are more directly answerable to the country at this year's elections.

There are always two wrong times to every right time at which a bill in Congress should be advanced through its several stages. In the flood of bills and pressure for recognition few measures ever reach final enactment save either those that have the direct backing of the majority organization in the House and Senate, (which is a separate thing from executive support) or else those carried by a member from stage to stage by a keen watching for opportunities, and striking just when the conditions are most favorable.

There are often entire weeks when nothing can be done but to wait with alert patience while quietly strengthening the position by personal interviews. Then again there are single days when the matter must be pressed toward a conclusion in committee or otherwise.

In the present case our chances before the committee on territories will be improved by allowing the statehood and Alaskan bills to be first disposed of.

The general attitude of the committee toward us is friendly but the strong support given the Philippine tariff bill by Hill of Connecticut in the Ways and Means committee, shows that we can never take for granted the help of a supposed friend of Hawaii. It is therefore all important that the hearing before the committee on territories shall be both planned and timed with extreme care.

Some of the Honolulu comment implies that work of this character can be done without taking any account of the Territorial member of Congress. It would seem that that idea had already cost Hawaii sufficient in the loss and delay of possible legislation, so that a measure of the importance of this one ought not to be threatened by its recurrence.

If a delegation of capable business men come to the capital to work through and with Hawaii's member of Congress, they will greatly aid the work, and I shall be very glad of their co-operation. But if a group of men come with varying ideas, and intending to work independent of the official delegate, their presence is quite as apt to do more harm than good.

Few members of congress have been as little insistent upon their official rights and honors as I have been. But I am speaking thus frankly because this measure is of far reaching importance to the Territory which I have
