

RUBEROID ROOFING

has many good points which have made it the most popular roofing extant. It is weather proof, fire and acid resisting and is a wonder for wear. It does not require painting when laid. Where the roof is exposed to exceptionally severe conditions, such as extremes of heat, RUBEROID will be found to be eminently satisfactory. It practically lasts forever. See that the name is stamped on every piece.

Suffered Terribly from indigestion. Cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"It is with pleasure that I can testify to the great benefit I derived from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I suffered terribly from indigestion, and tried several medicines without avail. I was then persuaded to take and after using a few bottles my indigestion was cured, my appetite came back, and I was strong and hearty. This is some years since, and my old complaint has not returned, but I always keep a bottle in the house, and when I feel at all out of sorts a few doses put me right again in quick order."—W. TOWN TALK

By The Man About Town.

Last week a teacher in one of the local schools gave her class of little girls a list of words with instructions to write stories making use of the words. The list was a formidable one, including Chemistry, Photography, Sorrel, Peculiar, Apparel, Similar Popular, Biography, Telegraphy, Physics, Hygiene, Scientific, Shrivel and Solar. Here is the way in which one youthful genius got them all into one short paragraph:

"A strong MUSCULAR young man was making experiments in CHEMISTRY and PHOTOGRAPHY. He was often seen on a SORREL horse, arrayed in PECULIAR APPAREL, something SIMILAR to that of Ichabod Crane. He was not POPULAR with the fashionable young men of the town, being engaged in writing a BIOGRAPHY of Samuel Morse the inventor of TELEGRAPHY. He also gave lectures to the students on PHYSICS and HYGIENE. He called on a young lady, one evening and made himself so disagreeable talking about SCIENTIFIC subjects that the young lady's father dealt him a blow in the SOLAR plexus, which caused him to SHRIVEL and fade away. The wonderful works of this energetic young man are still unfinished to this day."

If any older people think they can beat that with the same list of words, let them try.

I noticed that after the arrival of the Oregon girls there was a sudden cessation of use of the term "Oregon beauties" as applied to them in the local newspapers. I wondered why it was, because the girls were certainly entitled to be called beauties just the same when here as when on the way. In fact all young human females are entitled to it. I asked a newspaper friend and he did an explanatory tale unfold: It was the work of Deacon Trent. The deacon asked that the "Oregon beauty" business be stopped when the girls came. Trent, as is well known, was deputized to look after them. He is a bachelor, with a proper degree of bachelor bashfulness and didn't think it would be nice for the papers to be always mentioning the "Oregon beauties." I suppose he was right. Anyhow his idea prevailed, as the newspaper files show.

The political outbreak of the week has been very amusing. It is entertaining indeed to see the readiness with which a brick is thrown at every head that makes its appearance. The "Lane machine" composed of a dozen or so leaders who seem in excellent mood to knife one another, has loomed on the horizon as a humorous between-campaigns development. The fun has been added to by the Advertiser, who suddenly roused itself during the discussion to declare day after day that Prince Kuhio has such strength with the voters that Lane found it no use to think of supporting anyone else. How strange to see the Advertiser booming Kuhio, and booming him by exaggeration of the truth!

Bert Peterson has threatened a damage suit against the B. P. O. E., on account of the song "Everybody Works but Peterson," and I wish he would bring it, for I think the trial would be as good a show as the one the Elks gave. Of course there was a real libel in intimating that Bert doesn't work, for we all know he does, though he does it so happily it seems to be play. I understand he make a kick to Jimmy Dougherty, who has charge of the Elks programme, and was told that the song couldn't be stopped, someone had to stand for the jokes and why not Bert. In the language of the Florodora sextette, Jimmy sang to the indignant Bert:

"We must josh someone. We must josh someone, really. And it might as well be you."

The funniest thing about our politics is the rich profusion of "leaders." Those who remember the Banderlog legislature will recall that this was the richness that led the Home Rulers to disaster. With an overwhelming majority they went into session only to find that each brainy statesman in the "bunch" intended to lead, and the result was parliamentary chaos. It is much the same today. In ten minutes I can find you half a dozen men on the street corners who can tell exactly what should be done,—which is always what then intend to see is done,—in the coming campaign. I know several men who have laid their plans to capture the whole works. Defeats disturb them not, nor do broken programs spoil their confidence in the next program they make up.

By the time we are getting ready to vote again, the esteemed Kumaike will be out again, and doubtless his eloquent speeches will be a feature of the next campaign. In view of the qualifications which a trial jury has given him and which have been seal d with the approval of the higher court and carried to permanent effect by Warden Henry, I do not see how anyone can expect to keep him off the Home Rule ticket.

The Buhier company builded better than they knew when they put on two of the dramatizations of Marie Corelli's works. She is by far the most popular foreign authgr among the Hawaiians. It is safe to say that her writings are better known among the natives than those of any other author. And the reading of her works has not been limited to only one book either, for apparently the natives who have read one of her works generally are not satisfied until they read all of her stories. And they are great stories too. Just what there is in them that pleases the Hawaiian I am unable to explain. It may be that the strongly emotional plots appeal to the natives. But as one of my political friends would express it, us Hawaiians are not the only race that appreciate and enjoy Marie Corelli's writings.

It was L. C. Ables who was being examined in a recent case to determine his qualification to sit as a juror. "What is your business," inquired the attorney. "Well," said Ables "half of the time I work for the government and the other half for the banks."

"How is that? Do you get a salary from both sources?"
"Oh, no! You see I work half of the time to pay my taxes and the other half to pay interest."

"I have just heard from a former college acquaintance whom I had forgotten," said Judge Lindsay the other day. "It seems that he did me a wrong and wants to come here and apologize. I didn't know anything about it, but he called on a friend at Ann Arbor and told about it himself, so there must be apologies due. It seems he was a juror in one of the mock trials which are a part of the law course at Michigan, when I was a prosecuting attorney in the case. My friend who writes me was associated with me in the case. It appears, I have forgotten the case and everything else, but the man with the apology remembers it. He called on my friend a few days ago. The letter I have received tells all about it. My friend says that a seedy looking individual called on him to apologize, saying he had wanted to do so for years and now wanted to come to Hawaii, dig me up and get my forgiveness. It seems that in my address to the "jury" I had a good deal to say about police and other officers. This juror had been in some trouble or other as an officer of some kind, and he got the idea that I knew all about it and was looking and talking at him all the time. He got mad and voted against me. He has been worrying about it ever since and at last he has dug up my associate and apologized and is working his way here to apologize to me. There's a man with a conscience for you. No wonder he is getting seedy if he has to carry a conscience like that round with him."

The make cases will not down. The United States Attorney General's department has written here for information on the question of whether sake is a beer or a light wine in order to settle the question of duty which is being appealed. As a part of the evidence the Department wants to know whether it is drunk hot or cold. I understand that the reply will be that it is drunk hot whenever there are heating facilities sufficient and that on occasions when it is used there are usually enough heating arrangements to last until temperature doesn't matter.

Adams - Bagnall ENCLOSED ARC LAMPS

The history of the Arc Lamp has been a story of improvement, and the tendency in construction has of late taken a decided turn towards the use of the fewest parts possible consistent with reliable operation. The A-B lamp is one that has been evolved from these conditions and is a model of simplicity in mechanical construction and electrical design.
