CONTINUATION BY FATHER JAMES

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC FATHER CONTINUES HIS ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS ASKED.

THE BIBLICAL CONSTITUTION OF THE CHURCH. (Continued.) II PROPOSITION.

The apostles not the faithful were directly invested by Christ with that power which He conferred on His church.

The power possessed by a social body may reside collectively in the members, to be delegated by them to appointed rulers; or it may be vested in one or several individuals independently of the action of the inferior members. The question here arises, whether Christ conferred His power on the church at large, or on individual members, to be exercised independently of the will of their inferiors. Luther, Calvin, Frobenius and the Gallicans maintained that Christ conferred His power on the body of the faithful whence they concluded that the Pope was subject to a general council, as the latter represented the voice of the entire church, as against its deputy. The Catholic doctrine, contained in Holy Scripture, is, that Christ conferred His authority immediately on the apostles to be exercised by them independently of the faithful, consequently, that the church is, by divine institution, an unequal society consisting of superiors and subjects.

This I have to prove now. It was to the apostles and their successors alone that the power of binding and loosing was promised, since it was to them only that our Lord addressed these words: "Amen I say to you, whatsoever you shall bind upon earth shall be bound also in Heaven; and whatsoever you shall loose upon earth shall be loosed also in Heaven" (Math. XVIII 18). Now if we are naturally led to conclude that the authority in question was promised to those, and those only, whom Christ addressed, this admission is forced upon us in the present case; for it is a well known fact that in the Synagogue, the type of Christ's church, not the people, but the high priest, was invested with the governing power. Hence the words "Say to the church; he that will not hear the church" can only refer to the pastors of the church, not to the faithful at large. In like manner it was to Peter alone not the people at large, that Christ promised the supreme power when He declared that upon him He would build His church, and that He would give him the keys of the kingdom of heaven. (Math. XVI 18, 19.) This shows that the power entrusted to the church has not been conferred on the body of the faithful, but immediately on the apostles including St. Peter, their head; and in like manner on the bishops their successors, including the Pope.

The power promised, as stated, was likewise conferred on the apostles alone since Christ in conferring it addressed Himself to them only, not to the people

ATTORNEYS HONORED MEMORY OF HIGHTON

MEMBERS OF BAR ADOPTED RESOLUTIONS OF BAR ASSOCIATION THIS MORNING IN THE SUPREME COURT—TRIBUTES PAID THE MEMORY OF DECEASED BY JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT, BY ATTORNEYS AND BY U. S. JUDGE DOLE.

Members of his profession honored the memory of the late Judge Henry E. Highton this morning. The tribute that was paid the name of the departed jurist was paid by members of the bench as well as the bar. The proceedings which were very solemn, were held in the rooms of the Supreme Court.

After the court had convened Attorney General E. C. Peters arose and asked leave to present a set of resolutions that he, of the committee appointed by the Bar Association, had drafted, in respect to the memory of Judge Highton. The resolutions were as follows:

"Whereas, Honorable Henry E. Highton, a member of the Bar of the Territory of Hawaii, died in this city on the 4th day of January, 1927.

"Whereas, That the death of Honorable Henry E. Highton caused profound sorrow and deep regret to his associates in the profession and practice of law:

"Resolved, That we, members of the Bar of Hawaii bear witness that Honorable Henry E. Highton, during his long career in the profession was distinguished by ability, honesty and high character; that he was devoted and faithful in public, professional and private life; of a kind disposition, and faithful in friendship and manly in contest.

"Resolved, That we extend to the sorrowing widow and to the near relatives of our deceased Brother, our felt sympathy.

Resolved, That these resolutions be adopted by the members of the Bar of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Hawaii, and the Court be moved to enter them upon the minutes of the Court, that a copy of them be presented to widow of the deceased, and to the public press."

Judge Kingsbury seconded the resolutions in the following expression of regard to the late jurist. Judge Kingsbury said in part:

"May it please the Court and Gentlemen of the Bar: "It would seem to have been better for some one longer a member of this Bar and for one having more acquaintance with the deceased, to have been selected to second the moving of these resolutions of respect to the memory of Henry E. Highton.

"I knew Mr. Highton but little over a year. He impressed me as a man of good ability, of kindly spirit and of Christian character.

"I regarded him as learned in the law and as one who had had great and varied experiences in the practice of that profession; as one whose life work was nearly over, but yet as one who felt that he still had duties to perform regarding the rights of others.

"I felt and feel that he was a good man and was a patriotic citizen. He was, I think, one who wanted to do good to and for others—to make others happy.

"To me his face was stamped both with care and with benevolence. The lines of care were there. They told of pain, worry, toil and sorrow, but through them shone the beam of that divine light, which is love.

"There is a sense in which two lawyers who have been many years in the practice of their profession, must necessarily know much of each other. They have read the same books—traced truth through the same wilderness of human thought and action—been in like positions before like courts and they have loved, feared and hated the same things. Thus they know and should feel for each other.

"But most of all during their whole professional life, one word, one thought and one principle has filled their minds, controlled their actions and burned into their very brains;—it is the word, 'duty'—sublimity in our language. Hence two old lawyers must know each other and must like each other. Such only is the basis of my knowledge and of my affectionate regard for Henry E. Highton.

"He was a lawyer and being such we know by what road he had traveled; we know of his trips, his falls, his climbings; his labors and his life;—we know that duty was always before him;—and this not in regard to his own rights but to the rights of others."

W. O. Smith, as one of the elder members of the bar, followed. He paid a high compliment to the mind and ability and worth of the departed attorney.

U. S. Judge Dole followed with remarks. He spoke of the coming of the deceased to the shores of Hawaii for the purpose of practicing his profession; the difficulties that had beset him and the results that had attended his efforts. The speaker said in effect that it was not surprising that the efforts of the deceased in his profession had failed to bring to him such prominence and success in Hawaii as had attended his efforts in earlier years. It was not surprising that a man as advanced in years, was unable to achieve the same success that had marked his career in his more vigorous and youthful years.

Associate Justice Hartwell paid a brief tribute to the memory of the deceased. The justice said that disappointment which ordinarily would smother the disposition had not changed the kindly nature of Judge Highton.

W. O. Smith suggested that the Court adjourn for the day out of respect to the memory of Judge Highton.

Chief Justice Frear adjourned Court until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and in doing so took occasion to speak of the character of the deceased. The Chief Justice said that the late Judge Highton was a man of unusual vigor and breadth of mind. He referred to the splendid character of the deceased.

Judge Dole adjourned the U. S. District Court this morning until tomorrow at 10 o'clock, out of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Back To Lessons

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPENED THIS MORNING AFTER THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.

"And then the school boy, with shining morning face doing a slue foot stunt to the Little Red School house on the hill." (With apologies to William Shakespeare and Billy Baxter.)

This is the time of the year, above all other times, that the school boy hates to live. He feels like a bear after an extended hibernation. School opened today after the Christmas holidays and with 9 o'clock came trooping the hundreds of girls and boys throughout the islands to resume their lessons in the public schools.

The Christmas vacation terminated last week and all of the public schools took up work today. There was a heavy down pour of rain shortly after 8 o'clock in Honolulu and quite a number of the scholars remained at home, evidently thinking that the rain would continue without cessation during the morning. Those who did brave the weather, found the rain slackened up shortly after 9 o'clock. It will be some days before the schools get back into the daily routine of lessons, for no normal youngster, can start in on a steady diet of recitations after he has been on a two weeks diet of Christmas vacation.

There will be no session of the board of education until next Monday. Superintendent Babbitt has not mapped out any details of matters to be presented to the board for action beyond the fact that there will be some appointments of teachers. There may also be some changes.

WM. HENRY,
High Sheriff, Territory of Hawaii.

(Math. XVII 18.) Not without reason does the evangelist remark a little before: "The eleven disciples went into Galilee, unto the mountain, where Jesus had appointed them (Math. XVIII 16). And certainly the charge of preaching the gospel everywhere was directed to those who subsequently executed it. It was the apostles and those whom they called to their aid who carried out this commission by preaching and founding churches everywhere. Moreover, it was to Peter alone that Christ said: Feed My lambs; feed My sheep. (John XX 15-17.)

It was the apostles alone who transferred this power to others; and this they proved that it was they, and not the faithful, who possessed it. St. Paul chose and ordained Timothy as his assistant (I True I 3). He likewise appointed Titus to church of Crete, and charged him to ordain priests in every city, (Titus I 5) Paul and Barnabas on their apostolic mission ordained priests in every church, amid prayer and fasting (Acts XIV 22.) Extraordinary power was also conferred upon Mathias when he was raised to the apostolate in the place of Judas (Acts I 26). The church, it is true, chose the seven deacons, and presented them to the apostles; but it was the apostles who imposed their hands upon them, and invested them with authority. (Acts VI 6.)

In like manner, the church in later times granted the people, or secular power, a voice in the designation of those who were to be promoted to ecclesiastical offices; but it was neither the people nor the secular power, but the church, that invested them with authority. And as often as this privilege was abused by rulers or people, the church did not fail to restrict its use, or at least to protest against such abuse as a usurpation.

NEW GRAND JURY CONVENED TODAY

MET IN JUDGE ROBINSON'S COURT ROOM AND GIVEN A GENERAL CHARGE BY THE COURT.
The grand jury was convened in Judge Robinson's court this morning. Six of those on the panel were excused and the following sworn in as a jury: W. W. Harris, Emil A. Berndt, John H. Stelling, N. S. Sachs, G. P. Norton, James D. McInerney, Thomas Gandall, David W. Anderson, Morris J. Bissell, Harry Armitage, Clarence L. Crabbe, Charles Crozier, Gerritt P. Wilder, H. E. Webster, L. de L. Ward, L. M. Vettlesen, David F. Thurum.

Judge Robinson stated that he had not considered it necessary to prepare any special written instructions for the jury. The Territory had been in existence so long that every citizen was familiar with the causes of the existence of such body and its purposes. But as some of the members of the present jury had not served before in a similar capacity he would read to them the same general instructions that he had given to a former grand jury two years ago. The court then read the instructions setting forth the details of the work expected of the grand jury and acquainting the members with the details of the work before them. No change relative to an investigation into any matters in the circuit was made by the court.

W. W. Harris was appointed foreman and the court directed the jury to retire and select their own clerk. Manuel Cabral who was bailiff of the former jury was sworn in in a similar capacity to the present body. Deputy Attorney General M. F. Prosser will represent the Attorney General's department with the grand jury. The grand jury adjourned to January 23. L. M. Vettlesen was appointed as clerk to the jury.

NEBRASKAN HAD STORMY VOYAGE

BRINGS BIG GENERAL CARGO FROM SEATTLE AND TACOMA—WILL GO TO SALINA CRUZ.

Enduring a rough passage with stormy weather from the west-southwest, the American-Hawaiian steamship Nebraskan this morning arrived from Seattle and Tacoma, docking at the American-Hawaiian wharf at 9:15 o'clock.
The big freighter brought 4,126 tons of general cargo, being pretty well down in the water. Her cargo includes lime, lumber, flour, feed and beer. She sailed from Seattle on December 28 and did not have a single fine day on the run down. Makapuu was picked up at daylight today.

Captain Knight is now beginning his second trip on the Nebraskan. He brought her down here from San Francisco on her last voyage and took her back to the Sound. From Honolulu the ship will go to the other islands to complete a sugar cargo and will then leave for Salina Cruz, being the second vessel of the A.-H. S. S. Co. to take the Tehuantepec run, the S. S. Arizona being the inaugurator of the run. The Nebraskan will receive quick dispatch.

DREIER NOT ILL

The report published this morning to the effect that August Dreier is seriously ill is not confirmed by his relatives. Mr. Dreier is confined to his home with a slight cold, nothing at all serious and has not been in consultation with a doctor.
