SNARK PILIKIA

WHO IS "JOE DUNN," LATEST KNOCKER OF THE NOVELIST'S LITTLE BOAT?

San Francisco Town Talk says: "Joe Dunn is back in town. Perhaps you don't know Joe. Not to know Joe is not to argue yourself unknown, but assuredly it is to imply that you have not a wide acquaintance among men that go down to the sea in ships. Joe is a bo-an who has sailed on most of the waters of the earth. He is an adventurous chap, and he has been in most of the navies of the earth, but he never prolonged his stay in any of them into a period that held no promise of adventure. When there is a prospect of excitement in any segment of the globe Joe hikes to the spot with all the speed which he is able to employ. When the excitement is over, Joe drops out." When Arthur Dutton fitted up the Bogota for a little war in Central America Joe Dunn was the first able seaman on hand. When the war cloud floated away Joe enlisted in Emperor William's navy. When Joe heard that Jack London was going to the South Sea Islands in the Snark in quest of adventure he wanted to go, but the young novelist had a full crew when the boatswain applied for a berth. Joe was awfully disappointed, but he did not become hopeless. It occurred to him that somebody might desert in Honolulu and so he shipped before the mast in a big schooner from the Hawaiian Islands. Arriving there he lost no time in getting aboard the Snark, and to his great joy there was a vacant berth, and he joined the crew. But Joe is back, and the Snark has not yet voyaged to the South Seas. Hence this paragraph. Ardent lover of adventure though he is Joe Dunn doesn't hanker for the kind of experience that is to be had on board the Snark. He loves the salt sea, and he prefers a pleasure craft in good company to a merchantman consecrated to commerce.

"Nevertheless he quit London and the Snark, and why he did so is a funny story. But the humor of it is mainly in the way Dunn tells it, and of that way there can be so much in print. The boatswain's first experience in the Snark was on a trip from Honolulu to Hilo which consumed more time that it would take an ordinary vessel to circumnavigate the globe. During the trip everybody acted as navigator. Even the cook was occasionally in command, but most of the time it was Mrs. London in bloomers. But what particularly disgusted Dunn was the gearing which was nothing like anything he had ever seen aboard a ship. He imagines that most of it was invented by Noah for the Ark, because it is suitable only for a vessel of huge bulk. There is a capstan aboard that is operated by a gasoline engine to hoist the anchor, and Dunn says that he could lift the little anchor with one hand. London expected him to work the gasoline engine, but he objected to it because it is an engine that properly belongs to an automobile. "One day I tried to start it," says Dunn, "and the darned thing gave such a kick and made such a fuss that I thought we were all going to the bottom." Dunn says that when last heard from London had picked up an old South Sea pilot who would probably be able to navigate the queer craft which, though it has already been greatly altered, is still far from being a real ship."

ON THE WRONG TRAIL. Taft is on his way to Russia and Root has started for Mexico. Both seem to have picked out a rather blank place to look for presidential nominations.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Manuel Cook has been re-appointed as chief clerk in the Public Works Department. This announcement was made this morning by Superintendent Marston Campbell, the newly appointed head of the department. Cook's re-appointment has settled a good deal of speculation. Mr. Campbell stated this morning that there will be no other changes in this department for the immediate present.

A decree and an interlocutory decree were signed yesterday by Judge De Bolt in the case of James D. McInerney v. Kauhola and others. The effect of the two decrees is to declare that there was due and owing to the plaintiff $500 principal and $168.50 interest on a mortgage by Kauhola and to foreclose all property rights as to her and her heirs, and to partition the property among the other claimants.

A sale of 39.5 acres of land in South Kona by Jacob Cooper to the Kona Development Company was recorded this morning. The exchange shows a nominal payment of $1.

The Gear property on Emma street has been sold to Charles H. Thurston, the chief of the fire department, for $1200, and the assumption of the payment of a mortgage of $500. The deed was filed for record this morning, and is from Mrs. Addie B. Gear and her husband A. V. Gear.

PLANS OF SPRECKELS

EXPECTS A SUBSIDY AND HOPES TO BE ABLE TO RUN STEAMERS AGAIN.

John D. Spreckels, Jr., who is at present the general manager of the Oceanic Steamship Company, in speaking about the steamship situation as well as the plans of his own company stated to a representative of the Star yesterday that "if we can be shown by the people here that we can get enough business to make our ships pay, we will put on a local boat here, but under no consideration do we propose to run our ships at a loss. Our ships ran at a loss for a long time, and we do not propose to do the same thing again.

"The condition of affairs at the present time our company is simply this, —the whole matter will be left in the hands of the bondholders on the first of the year, and they can do as they please with the ships. The ships will be for sale and a chance will be offered to some one to get three good snips at a bargain.

"The trade here is very uncertain, and a company would be very foolish to try and run ships without any profit. I do not think that the people here should try and get Congress to suspend the coastwise shipping laws for one moment. What we want here on the Pacific are ships flying the American flag and not foreign ships. The trade seems to be large enough to warrant the placing of two or three ships on this run, and we will do so if you can show us that they will make money for us and not run at a loss. If the subsidy bill goes through this year we will put on new ships on the Australian run again. The Australian Government offered to give us a very nice contract to carry the mail, but the offer came too late. After the first of the year the bondholders of the Oceanic Steamship Company can do as they please.

"Regarding the talk about the Santa Fe negotiating with us for the purchase of the 'three sister ships,' I can truthfully say I know nothing about it. They may possibly try and buy the ships after the first of the year unless the bondholders decide to do something else with them. The contract that our Mahogany company has made with the Santa Fe might solve the question, but I do not think any sane company would run ships unless they were going to pay.

"I think that the subsidy bill will go through this year, and I sincerely hope it will. It will mean a good deal to the American S. S. Company if it does. When you ask me if there is any truth in the report that the Pacific Coast S. S. Co. intend to come here, all I can say is that I did hear something about them taking the Queen off her present run. Whether that means that she will come here, remains to be seen.

"In regard to the political situation in San Francisco, I earnestly hope Taylor will get in and I think that he will. If McCarthy is elected San Francisco will go back again in her present progress, and I think that within six months the prosecution will find some charges against him. Things are naturally upset on the eve of the election, but after it is all over business will resume again and will soon be in its natural condition. The work that has been done in San Francisco since the disaster has been wonderful, and in ten years at the most, San Francisco will be better than she ever was. Her resources are by no means exhausted, and I think that capital will come in without solicitation.

"It will mean a terrible blow for San Francisco if McCarthy should be elected. He is one of the pets of the recent disgraced mayor. Taylor is a Democrat but a good man, and I think he will do the city a lot of good. San Francisco has a good deal to be thankful for, and she indeed has risen a portion from her ashes. The recent financial slump all over the country I think has been caused by over-speculation, but the normal state of affairs will soon be resumed. I hope that the steamship matter regarding Hawaii will soon be settled and that the American flag will once more be seen on the seas as it was years ago. I will do all I can to help things along, but I am out for business, but will not encourage the resumption of our ships unless we can see that they will make instead of lose money."
