shades that these little fish embody. If our friends in Washington could see this aquarium they would have no further use for their, I know.

"We had a most amusing incident on board, and I know you will appreciate it.

"A gentleman known as Mr. Woodyard dressed himself as the Merry Widow, and Dr. Wolfe was arrested (this is all imaginary, you understand) for false pretenses. It appears that the Merry Widow was aggrieved, in that instead of treating and filling her tooth, the wretched doctor had pulled it. So Dr. Wolfe was arrested for pulling out the Merry Widow's tooth.

"A jury of the Congressional ladies was selected, the trial put on the bulletin board and the night of the trial saw the dining hall packed to the doors.

"At last the judge appeared with a blackened eye and some patches on his cheek. He had met with resistance he said, and encounter with the prisoner. When asked to show where the tooth had been, the complainant said she did not have it with her, but would go to her stateroom and get it if necessary. There was a great deal of cross-examination, and arguments on both sides. There was even an attorney general. The fracas became serious. The jury couldn't agree, being women, naturally they couldn't. Several ballots were taken.

"When a jury doesn't agree," cried the judge, "a penalty must be paid? I proclaim that in this instance the penalty shall be paid."

"What is it, what is it?" we all cried.

"That the jury shall be locked in my stateroom with me," he proclaimed.

"That," said the narrator, "brought us to a conclusion immediately and in our excitement we brought a verdict of acquittal. It was a great disappointment to the men who had prepared a jolly sentence for the prisoner."

Mrs. Miller came in and greeted me so cordially that I wondered if she realized what lay in store for her.

"Of course you know—" I faltered.

"Yes, I know all about it," she replied good naturedly and took my arm in a friendly way. "And you are coming right along with us to the Museum because I have no time to give you here, and on the car I'll tell you all about everything you want to know."

"I know you're mighty sweet," I exclaimed.

"Now," began Mrs. Miller, "I have not had an opportunity of seeing much of Honolulu, having been in the hospital since we arrived, but I'll give you my first impressions: Yet, before I talk about Honolulu, I am going to tell you about our trip down. It was very calm, and the weather was delightful. There are forty-six or seven in our party, consequently we had a very lively time. It seemed what one did not think of another one did."

"Before you ask me questions," remarked Mrs. Miller, after reaching the Museum, "let me ask you a few," and we strolled here and there viewing the wonderful relics of a bygone age.

"When we arrived," said Mrs. Miller, "and were greeted by the band, and stooped to receive upon our necks the fragrant leis I was so touched that my eyes were blinded with tears, I could not see the color of the flowers, and I could not see the boys who played to welcome us. It seemed pathetic in a way," and the sweet little lady's face looked sad for a moment.

"The people are all so kind and good, and open up their hearts so to strangers. They live so close to nature that I dare say they haven't been spoiled. When I came home from the hospital on Thursday, my room was a bower of flowers, one of the most lovely bouquets coming from Princess Kalaniana'ole. I knew her in Washington. She has made a place for herself there in the hearts of all who know her.

"What do I love most in Hawaii? Your music. Your sweet pathetic enchanting Hawaiian music. To me there is not other in the world like it. I had the pleasure some years ago of hearing your band at the Portland Exposition, and ever since then the memory has haunted me, and I say without hesitation that your music attracted me more to Hawaii than anything else.

"What do I think of your homes? I love them, I love the large spacious grounds, the foliage, the trees. Your homes seem to cling to the old, and yet there is sufficient of the modern about them to make them very attractive. Nature has been kind to these people and I am so delighted and charmed with everything and everybody that I should love to spend a whole year here.

"Wouldn't you grow tired of it, then?" I asked.

"I think not. Do you know I have a friend who started from our home town for a trip around the world. But he got as far as Hawaii and no further. His time being up he went straight back, and he says now that when again he starts on a tour of the world, if he really wants to get around, he will avoid Hawaii and go the other way."

attendant cessation of business has caused depletion of stocks and facilities which are now being restored. This is the more noticeable in the case of transportation companies whose equipments need replenishing. That induces activity in allied machinery and supply trades. That in turn stimulates the coke, coal, ore and iron trades. It is regarded by some as a question whether this movement is more than normal, greater than might reasonably be expected after such a long spell of depression.

Upon what grounds, then, is expectation based of continued improvement? The cautious man asks, to which business men reply: Upon prospect of a magnificent crop, certainty of stimulation to American manufacturing enterprises, and last to be named, but first in significance, upon the essential fact that the country is so big, so fertile, so enterprising, so irrepresible, if you please, that progress cannot long be kept down.

Business men say it is that sublime Yankee faith in the future of the country and confidence in its resources and institutions which furnishes the certain motive power for an upward and onward movement in all lines of mercantile, industrial and financial endeavor. That there is a tendency in speculative branches to discount it cannot be denied, but the optimists say that the movement is so irresistible that discounting cannot check it.

GENERAL.

E. O. White, vice president of E. O. Hall & Son, writes that he will return to Honolulu in the next Alameda, arriving here September 24.

A deed was filed yesterday morning at the bureau of conveyances whereby the vacant lot at Pauahi and Nuuanu streets and Chaplain lane was acquired by the McCandless brothers (L. L. and J. S.) Upon it will be erected a fine business building. The price paid for the land was $14,000.

MORGAN IN 'FRISCO.

James F. Morgan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, writes from San Francisco under date of August 27 that he arrived there O. K. He was having a busy time of it, but expected to leave on August 30 for Seattle. In the latter city he will look into the matter of shipping the Hawaiian exhibit back to Honolulu when the exhibition is over, after which he will continue his tour eastward. Mr. Morgan states that he is enjoying excellent health.

AS THE DAYS CLOSE.

You should not have any regrets at the close of the vacation season. If you have overlooked Haleiwa for a short sojourn there is still time to make up. If you feel that there is something lacking in the enjoyment of your holidays go to Haleiwa. It is the most delightful place on this island and there are no better meals served anywhere or meals better served than at this delightful place. There is an excellent automobile run from the city and visitors may go down during the moonlight nights, enjoy their dinner and return in good time.

"HEADACHE, WEAKNESS, HEART TROUBLE"

"I Suffered With for Years—Pe-ru-na Cured Me Entirely."

Miss Albina Chauvin, No. 50 Rue Agnes, St. Henri, Montreal, Can., writes:

"I consider Peruna better than any other remedy, as it cured me when nothing else could. I suffered for years and years with heart trouble, headache and weakness. I never expected to find anything to cure me. I saw one day, in 'La Presse,' that Peruna was excellent and I tried it. One bottle produced a change in me and if the price had been $100 a bottle I would have paid it gladly. I have taken six bottles and am entirely cured. Please accept my thanks and best wishes for your Peruna."

"Please Accept My Thanks and Best Wishes For Your PE-RU-NA."

ALBINA CHAUVIN

Many cases of heart trouble are caused by reflex disturbances. Derangements of the stomach and liver produce symptoms of heart trouble. Catarrh of the stomach is a very frequent cause of sympathetic heart disease. Palpitation, shortness of breath and bloating after meals are the most prominent symptoms.

Such a condition of the stomach is also liable to produce headaches of the worst sort. Medicines that palliate the symptoms will never lead to a cure. It is the effect which Peruna has upon the stomach, healing the mucous membrane and restoring the natural function of the stomach, that causes Peruna to bring such prompt relief.

A ROYAL RECEPTION.

On the second visit to Shanghai the Daily News critic wrote of the Withers Company in a very happy spirit: "It is both pleasant and difficult to write of a concert in which there can be nothing but praise from beginning to end. Such a concert was the one given by the Withers Concert Company—Mr. Herbert Withers, Mme. Marguerite Elzy and Mr. Charles Bennett, at the Masonic Hall last night. Some parts of the program would naturally be preferred before others but there was not one that failed to please. The program itself was admirably chosen with just the right proportions of grave and gay, the musicians were in excellent form and had full scope for their powers. Last, and possibly not least, for the audience naturally reacts on every performance, the hall was crowded and full of enthusiasm."

As the concert Monday night is in the nature of a "return" there is no reason why the Withers Concert Co. should not be received with even greater enthusiasm than on the first appearance of the artists here.

Mme. Elzy's brilliant execution of the most difficult compositions, her wonderful technique and unusual interpretations are still green in the memory of the large audience that attended the concert.

As Monday is a holiday and the Bergstrom Music store will be closed those who wish to book are advised to do so today or they will be obliged to wait until the box office at the Opera House opens Monday night.
