SOCIETY

OH, PIFFLE!

"Well now," said Mrs. Newlywed "with one idea of thrift
"I'll buy my man what he most needs as my first Christmas gift.
"I'll make investigation to see what he requires,
"From shaving soap and razors to all automobile tires."

She fussed and fumed and worried, for when all was said and done
She found she would eliminate of all his needs not one;
And so without a thought of robbing Peter to pay Paul
The loving wife proceeded forth and promptly bought them all!

On New Year's Day the ingrate came in green about the gills
And flourished in his poor wife's face a gruesome pile of bills
And pacing to and fro he stamped till finally he roared,
"Next time don't buy me what I need, —but what I can afford."

Now let this be a lesson. Think wisely and think well
Your husband too may prove ungrateful, really you can't tell
So take his little savings, and buy yourself a bonnet.
With a turkey quill, some currant jam or holly berries on it.
ELEANOR RIVENBURGH.

The most elaborate bridge tea of the season was that at which Mrs. James Dougherty presided at the Country Club on Thursday.

The cards had read for half after two o'clock and about that time automobiles began to sweep up the long driveway.

Mrs. Dougherty, unassisted received the arriving guests in the foreground of an indoor bower of potted palms and large baskets of scarlet carnations, whose vivid tones mingled with the greens of the ferns and palms.

The small tables each seating four were set in the lounging room of the club where, through great windows an exquisite view of the mountains and a panorama of the city and harbor spread. The day was a perfect one in every sense, the sunshine, the view the fragrant red flowers and handsomely gowned women making a striking ensemble.

The first prize a hammered brass urn was won by Mrs. Harvey Murray, the second, a hammered brass jardiniere by Mrs. L. M. Whitehouse, and the consolation was awarded to Mrs. Mannie Phillips in the form of a brass column vase.

Eleven tables were played during the afternoon. At the conclusion of the games the guests were served refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, sherbet and cake by the competent waiters of the club and Mrs. Dougherty received a shower of congratulations on the brilliant success of the afternoon.

Those present at this elaborate function were Princess Kalaniana'ole, Mrs. E. S. Cunha, Mrs. Harvey Murray, Mrs. Mannie Phillips, Mrs. L. M. Whitehouse, Mrs. Gussie Schmidt, Mrs. Fred

Smith, Mrs. Emil Waterman, Mrs. M. E. Grossman, Mrs. F. B. McStocker, Mrs. George Renton, Sr., Mrs. George Renton, Jr., Mrs. North, Mrs. Peck, Miss Peck, Mrs. Harold Hayselden, Mrs. Fred Damon, Mrs. J. M. Riggs, Mrs. Schwarty, Mrs. Gartenberg, Mrs. Frank Richardson, Mrs. Maxwell, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Harold Giffard, Mrs. C. Wilder, Mrs. Klebahn, Mrs. Gertrude Wilder, Mrs. Ormond Wall, Mrs. A. Davidson, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. William Williamson, Miss Irene Dickson, Miss Lillian Robertson, Mrs. Elizabeth Church, Mrs. Prentiss, Mrs. George Kluegel, Mrs. W. T. Monsarrat, Mrs. Belser, Mrs. George Angus, Mrs. Randolph Moore, Mrs. Hagens, Mrs. Henry Afong, Miss Grace Robertson, Mrs. Charles Chillingworth and Miss Lewis, of Oakland, California.

Some of the ladies who did not play dropped in at five for tea. The gowns worn on this occasion were remarkably pretty a few darning description.

Mrs. Dougherty wore a charming afternoon frock embroidered white lingerie and a large white embroidered chapeau, becomingly trimmed with pink roses.

Mrs. Grossman as usual looked exceedingly modish. She wore an afternoon gown of heavy black satin adorned by black and gold motifs, a fetching bolero of gold and ribbed in black corded silk harmonizing with her chic turban of black and gold.

Mrs. Mannie Phillips wore a charming frock of Alice blue marquisette over taffeta silk and a large black and white hat.

Mrs. Cunha wore a handsome gown of black lace with a black hat to match her costume.

Mrs. Whitehouse looked charming in an elaborately hand embroidered white lingerie over pale blue silk, with a large black picture hat trimmed with black willow plumes.

Mrs. Williamson was very stylishly attired in a gown of heavy white linen with a new chemisette coat trimmed with pale blue tabs. With this costume Mrs. Williamson wore a white lace hat trimmed with pale blue willow plumes.

Mrs. Richardson wore a beautiful white lingerie gown and a small black turban faced with a white lace frill.

Mrs. Murray looked very sweet in rose pink lingerie over a drop of a similar shade. She wore a large white lace hat trimmed with palest pink roses.

Mrs. Afong was fetching in Nile green fashioned in the latest mode, and a large black picture hat adorned with black and white plumes.

Mrs. Hagens was regal in a new shade of peacock blue, heavily embroidered in rope silk and wearing a hat in self color trimmed with the same shaded plumes.

Miss Dickson attracted a great deal of attention wearing an afternoon conception of pale blue messaline made with a hobble skirt and a black and white lace hat trimmed in roses.

Princess Kalaniana'ole wore a handsome black lace gown over a drop of black satin and a black hat trimmed with red roses.

The most beautiful and artistic dinner of the season was that given on Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Tenney at their mansion on Lunaliilo and Pensacola streets, in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, who are leaving this month for San Francisco.

This lovely home is famed for the lavishness of the entertainments that have been given within its portals, perhaps the most exquisite form of hospitality being embodied in the "Orchid Dinners" whose artistic appointments have become distinctive of the hosts.

On Tuesday evening the dinner table in the large handsome dining hall was resplendent with glittering appointments of silver and crystal with a symphony of charming color tones nestling in between.

The large hand wrought lace center cloth was spread at the base of an exquisite centerpiece of delicate laven, der orchids banked round their bronze jardiniere by a fluffy sea of violet and lavender tulle and runners of crushed liberty satin ribbon in a paler shade.

Upon this confection of beauty the subdued light fell from lavender silk shaded candelabra which were ornamented by little cascades of violet beaded fringe.

The place cards conformed to the tout ensemble, being handpainted orchids in the delicate coloring, the beauty of the entire table being very elegant.

After dinner the guests were entertained by an evening of music and bridge.

Those present were Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, Major and Mrs. Samuel Dunning, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper, Mrs. Herman Focke, Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop, Mr. H. Walker, Mr. Walter Bruck of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Tenney.

The gowns worn at this elaborate function were magnificent creations, and added not a little to the picture.

Mrs. Rees was handsome in a Parisian creation of mauve satin, richly and heavily embroidered in amethysts and bordered by long graceful fringe.

Mrs. Dunning was charming in a cerise marquisette gown over white satin.

Mrs. Bishop wore an exquisite robe of pink satin and many jewels and Mrs. Focke was regally attired in a creation fashioned of black spangles.

The hostess wore a French creation of pale blue satin, draped with a veiling of silk tulle embroidered in gold thread, the hobble skirt terminating in a long black silken fringe.

The regular weekly meeting of the "Courtland Bridge Club" was held at that attractive hotel on Wednesday evening, seven tables being played in the large drawing room amid an artistic setting of palms and red carnations.

Several interesting games of this past-time were indulged in, after which handsome prizes were awarded. Mrs. Hechman winning the first lady's prize a silver and crystal bottle of fragrant smelling salts, and Dr. Dickey capturing the first gentleman's prize, a heavy silver pencil.

The second lady's and gentleman's prizes were won by Mrs. Bushfield and Mr. Johnson, respectively, the former being awarded a typical Hawaiian sofa cushion made of cocoanut fibre, and the latter a silver ash tray.

Later a delicious buffet supper was served in the dining room of punch, sherbet, chicken salad, cake and sandwiches at a table adorned by a basket of delicate pinks.

Those who were present at this meeting were Major and Mrs. Neville, Captain and Mrs. Arthur Marx, Mrs. Alice Brown, Miss Kulamann Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Hechman, Lieutenant and Mrs. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Stobie, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Dunier, Mrs. Bush, Mr. Dr. Mackall, Dr. Dickey, Mr. Brewster, Mr. Carmichael, Mr. Duncan, Messrs. McEldowney (2), Mr. Malford and Mr. Wurl.

Colonel Walter Schuyler who was in command of the Fifth Cavalry, Schofield Barracks, Leliehua, and who has many friends here left on Tuesday in the transport Sherman for San Francisco where he has been assigned to staff duty.

There was quite a little flutter of excitement at the Alakea dock on Monday morning when the Siberia drew alongside, for it was on this boat that Miss Margaret Bell of Washington, D. C., arrived from her long journey to become the bride of Dr. Charles Paul Durney of Kahuku, the brother of Mrs. W. H. Winters, wife of Captain Winters, Third Cavalry.

The reception of this dainty charming girl was typical of Hawaii and created a delightful impression on the young bride-elect.

When the Siberia was reported off Diamond Head, Dr. Durney boarded a launch which steamed out to meet his fiancée, armed to the shoulders with beautiful fragrant leis of scarlet carnations and crisp fresh mountain maile which is so tropical of Hawaii and creates a lingering memory of these islands.

At the dock Miss Bell was received and welcomed to her future home by Captain and Mrs. Winters and Mr. and Mrs. Durney, the father and mother of the groom who covered her, upon landing with many strings of leis of carnations, maile, roses, violets, pomarias and other beautiful island blossoms.

On Wednesday morning at a private mass service at eight o'clock, Dr. Durney and Miss Bell were married very simply and quietly (contrary to their former plans), by the Reverend Father Valentin at the St. Augustine's Chapel, Waikiki.

Although there were no attendants, and only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present this wedding was one of the prettiest seen for some time, probably owing to its simplicity.

The impressive altar of the Roman Catholic chapel with its myriads of tall scintillating candles, flickering in the somber gloom amid tall graceful palms and pure white roses created a lasting impression.

The solemnity of the mass was enhanced by the serious service, the ring service being used.

The sweet young bride, slender, frail, with dark hair and eyes was simply clad in a model pearl grey tailored suit wearing a large white satin picture hat with drooping fluffy willow plumes and white roses as its trimming, white kid gloves, and carrying a white prayer book.

At the conclusion of the service which united them as man and wife, after they rose from the white satin pillows on which they had knelt, Dr. and Mrs. Durney entered an automobile and sped to the Kamehameha Sohools, where at the home of Captain and Mrs. Winters at high noon, a dainty wedding breakfast was served.

The house was beautifully decorated with lace maidenhair and bride's roses, pink tipped white blooms whose fragrance filled the rooms.

The breakfast for Dr. and Mrs. Durney was served at a round table adorned by an exquisite oriental hand embroidered luncheon set of grass linen embossed with dragons, and on a similar center cloth rested a cut glass branching bowl and columns containing a profusion of bride's roses.

The place cards depicted jubilant little hand painted brides to whom were attached white tulle veils, and the soft light from the green silk shaded and silver candelabra shed a tempting glow on the cut glass and silver appointments, and the magnificent wedding cake of several tiers.

Those present at this pretty wedding breakfast were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Paul Durney, Mr. and Mrs. Durney, Misses Susan and May Winters, and the hosts.

Later in the afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Durney in their motor car left for Haleiwa that ideal honeymoon retreat, to spend the week end, after which they will proceed to Kahuku where a cozy new bungalow awaits them.

This home will be made beautiful by many lovely gifts presented to the young bride before her departure from Washington among the number of cut glass silver and other useful gifts being several silver candlesticks, a handsome silver bread tray, an exquisite silver coffee service, full sets of flat silver and monogrammed bed and table linen and luncheon sets.

Captain and Mrs. Winters bestowed a dainty and serviceable French dressing set in monogrammed silver set on a heavy silver tray.

Mrs. Payson the charming wife of Colonel Payson entertained at two tables of bridge at her home on Green street on Thursday afternoon.

The drawing room where the rubbers were played were daintily adorned by clusters of delicate pink begonias and violets.

Later delicious light refreshments were served. Each lady before departing was graciously presented with a souvenir of the occasion by the hostess who distributed artistic lauhala fans all round.

The first prize was carried off by Mrs. Baldwin, in the form of a handsome guest book, while Mrs. Neville, wife of Major Neville captured the sooty prize disguised as a beautiful embroidered centerpiece.

The afternoon of bridge was enjoyed by Mrs. Timberlake, wife of Major Timberlake of Fort Ruger, Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper, Mrs. Arthur Marx, Miss Kathryn Stephens, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Ramsay and Mrs. Ida Newby.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Babbitt entertained at a very elaborately appointed dinner at the University Club on Wednesday evening in honor of and as a farewell to Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, U. S. N., who have been the motifs for one continuous round of social occasions given in honor of this very charming couple.

On Tuesday evening dinner was served in the private dining room, of the club, whose new and artistic interior is so fitting for all occasions of a refined nature.

Here dull tints of browns and gold and orange cluster lights blend in a symphony of artistic combinations, and the dinner table at which the hosts and their guests were seated revealed a bold dash of color in the golden fluffy chrysanthemums which arranged in a rock crystal bowl, held the honored place. The name cards bore humorous little figures in blended shades of brown and gold and yellow silk candelabra reflected a glow on the exquisite silver and crystal appointments.

Covers at this beautiful dinner were arranged for eight.

The "Service Bridge Club," the members of which have been enjoying regular meetings for many weeks met on Wednesday afternoon at the quarters of Captain and Mrs. Estes of Fort Shafter, when several interesting rubbers of bridge were played by the service ladies.

Yellow chrysanthemums and maiden hair ferns combined effectively in the house decoration, and harmonized with the character of the prizes.

The first prize was awarded to Mrs. M. N. Falls, in the form of a handsome and artistic hand painted oriental picture frame while the second, an embroidered silk card case from the orient was won by Mrs. Shedy.

Mrs. Ward won the consolation, a very pretty Japanese tray.

Dainty buffet refreshments were served later at small tables, several ladies dropping in for tea.

The members of this interesting club who were present were Mrs. Dunning, Mrs. M. N. Falls, Mrs. F. A. Ramsay, Mrs. Arthur Marx, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Putman, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Chap-

Teacupful or Bath tubful

THE market is flooded with water-heaters selling for ten or twenty dollars. But don't for one minute think such a heater will give you really efficient hot water service—it can't do it.

To get efficient, luxurious hot water service you absolutely need a Ruud Automatic Gas Water-Heater.

The initial cost of the Ruud is greater than of ordinary heaters. But we ask you to judge whether it is not worth the extra cost by what it actually does.

Briefly it furnishes inexhaustible hot water at the turn of the faucet—a teacupful or twenty tubfuls any minute, night or day, to laundry, bathroom, bedroom and kitchen. The women like the Ruud—it runs itself—stands in the basement—needs no attention.

Let us show you its economy and luxury.
