MUSEUM IS TO BE OPEN DAILY

Beginning today the Bishop Museum will be open to the general public daily between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m., except on Sundays and Wednesdays and on Decoration Day, Independence Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas. Heretofore the museum has been open only on Friday and Saturdays, although permits were issued to tourists on steamer days.

The new arrangements were decided upon by the trustees at a meeting held yesterday, and they are sure to be greatly appreciated by the general public. In referring to the matter this morning, Secretary Wood of the Promotion Committee, which has for a long time been urging the more frequent opening of the institution, stated that Dr. Brigham, curator of the Museum, has been desirous of complying with these wishes for a long time, but that a great amount of work being carried on heretofore, has made it practically impossible to keep the rooms open daily. This work has now been pretty well caught up with, and it is now feasible to keep open all but two days in the week.

by the old native trail to Maunawili and return to Honolulu by way of the Pal road to the Nuuanu car line.

St. Andrew's Priory will open September 11.

Joe Vidal, a Porto Rican from Mollili, was seriously stabbed in an affray last night. Manuel Ramos, his assailant, is in the lockup. The parties had a quarrel and Ramos is alleged to have stabbed Vidal with a pocket knife with a three-inch blade, which was found with blood stains on it on Ramos' premises at Mollili. A blood-stained undershirt was also found near his room. Vidal was stabbed beneath the ribs on the left side and again in the right breast. He will recover.

A Porto Rican woman named Cornelia Peris was drowned while bathing off the Ala Moana road yesterday afternoon. The spot where she lost her life was the deep pool where three Japanese children were drowned some years ago. Deceased was a member of a party of several Porto Ricans who were having a day's outing along the beach. She got out of her depth, and as she could not swim was drowned. Deceased was twenty years of age and came here from Papeaia, Hawaii.

Dr. I. J. Shepherd, whose appointment to the position of general health officer of the Board of Health was announced in yesterday's Star, formally accepted the position during the afternoon and has virtually taken up his new duties today. The place is the one made vacant by the appointment of Dr. Pratt to the presidency of the board. Dr. Shepherd will sever his connections with the Marine Hospital Service upon the arrival of Dr. Sinclair, who is expected home from the coast in a few days. He has already given up his private practice.

CAMPAIGNING AGAINST THE FLIES

The scare-smiths of the Board of Health have begun their work. President Pratt doesn't allude to the matter in this way—he calls it an "educational campaign."

The first big scare has already been sprung and is entitled "From Flies and Filth to Food and Fever." It takes the form of a poster which is being distributed about town by the inspectors of the board. It isn't a pretty poster. The busy little nose-tickler is represented in a most disgusting guise, and his course traced graphically between cuspidor, garbage can, a dead dog and other unpleasant things, to the unscreened products of a Pake meat market and a pool bowl.

Following the caption is the following text:

"Flies are disease carriers.

"Live and breed in all kinds of filth. Infect food and drink by germladen feet.

"Each female fly can lay 150 eggs. Should be kept away from food. Flies breed in filth, live in filth, and carry filth in their bodies.

"See how the dirty insect travels from the manure pile over the decaying bodies of dead animals, stops awhile on the garbage can, picks up a few typhoid and tuberculosis germs and deposits them—where?"

On The Food You Eat.

"If you eat food with which flies come in contact, YOU DO swallow filth. FLIES carry on their mouths and on their legs putrefactive and disease germs on which they recently fed, and then crawl over food, infecting it.

DRUNKEN SOLDIERS

haved like a madman, striking and kicking at everyone in reach. He was subdued with difficulty.

Superintendent Ballentyne is probing the matter and will push the case to the limit.

Drunken soldiers have for a long time constituted a nuisance on the nights of pay days, on the Waiialae cars.

No Officers Present.

General Macomb, interviewed as to last night's occurrence on the cars, said that he thought the affair had been greatly exaggerated.

"Major Timberlake has reported to me," said he, "that there was no officer on the cars when the trouble took place. If there had been his duty would plainly have been to have stopped it by ordering the men to get out of the cars and line up.

"There was nothing like eighty men in the row; there were not fifty. The police were unable to make more than one arrest, but Major Timberlake has every man who was concerned in the trouble in duress at the camp."

Accounts Exaggerated, Says Soldier.

Private Fowler of 159th Company, Fort Ruger, who was on the trouble car last night, had the following to say when spoken to this morning.

"The account of the affair in the morning paper was all wrong. There were no officers on the car. The row was a rotten one, but there is no use in making things worse than they are, and they sure are bad enough. The Fort Ruger boys as a rule are better behaved than any other body of soldiers stationed on Oahu. Last night, however, some of them went bad. There were not more than fifteen soldiers on the car anyway.

"The trouble started between two men sitting opposite each other, then others joined in and factions formed. When the car got to Thomas square I and several others left the car and waited for the next downtown car which I boarded and then connected with the last car going toward Waiialae. All I saw was fist fighting, and there were no knives drawn nor weapons used to my knowledge."

An Indignant Protest.

"I hope the men in military authority here will earnestly take up the matter of seeing that proper action is taken in connection with the riot," said the Rev. Robert E. Smith, near whose home the disturbance occurred. "I cannot exaggerate the outrageousness of the affair. Instead of trying to stop the fighting the soldiers encouraged it, and there were loud cries of 'kill him,' and 'murder him.' The members of my family were greatly terrified, and expected shooting to start any minute. Doubtless there would have been shooting if the men in the fights had been armed. I am sure the row could have been heard three blocks.

"The matter is one that should be taken up with vigor and firmness. There should be punishment for men who engage in a riot of that kind. The civilian passengers on the cars all got off, in terror of their lives, and the neighborhood was terrified. The residents of Honolulu have a right to protection from that kind of thing."

RELIEVES TAFT'S ANXIETY.

Dr. Sinclair, incidentally, has cabled President Taft that he is in San Francisco, and is now expected back on the next Sierra.—Advertiser.
