FLEET SHORE PATROLMEN MUST LEAVE LIQUOR ALONE

Matters are quiet among the fleet these days. The Maryland left Hilo at eleven o'clock last night, so she should be here this afternoon some time, even if she is taking it easy. The Colorado was there when the Maryland left. The South Dakota will leave tomorrow for Hilo, to be followed later by the Bagship California and next the West Virginia.

The work of transporting the sailors and officers to the volcano is a great one. All last week was a busy time for the people over there. Special trains are provided as far as Glenwood, and then the other leg of the journey is finished in automobiles. About an average of 150 men are being taken up each day. On some days Lycurgus was feeding two hundred men at meal times. This transportation keeps the officials of the Hilo railroad, the automobile drivers and the hotel officials very busy.

BIG MOOSE HERD AT LEILEHUA

Between 150 and 175 members of the local lodge of Royal Order of Moose went to Leilehua yesterday on the 10:20 train to initiate a crowd of more than 75 new members whose applications had been filed.

Two special cars were attached to the train for the use of the Moose, and these were decorated with the colors of the order, red and white. The big initiation was accomplished in good style. About 120 more applications from Leilehua are pending and there will be another initiation there next month.

The next regular meeting of the local lodge will be held at the K. P. hall next Friday evening, December 15, at 7:30 o'clock, at which it is expected that about 300 new members will be initiated into the lodge. The degree team will exemplify the work of the order.

At the meeting the various committees, including the one appointed to investigate the proposition of securing permanent quarters for the lodge, will make their report. It is expected that definite plans for securing quarters will be decided upon at that time.

McKenzie No Suicide

Despite the thoughtless effort of the Advertiser to make out that Jim McKenzie had committed suicide at Kukuhaele, the fact remains that it was Storekeeper Arthur Tibbs who took his own life, as stated in Saturday's Star.

The statement in this morning's paper that the suicide of the wrong man had been reported was one of the chief topics of conversation around town this morning, as McKenzie is as well liked as he is well known. It is stated that a near friend of McKenzie this morning cabled the latter's relatives that he was dead.

McKenzie was Tibbs' successor as storekeeper for the Pacific Sugar Mill at Kukuhaele. He is an all-round athlete and a regular prize-winner at athletic meetings on the big island.

It is stated on good authority that Tibbs did not leave his cottage for a couple of days before his death.

When in Honolulu quite recently Tibbs was a guest at the Waikiki Inn. J. W. Waldron of F. A. Schaefer & Co. was at the Volcano House when he received a phone message from R. T. Guard of Hilo to the effect that Manager Ahrens of the Pacific Sugar Mill had phoned him the news of Tibbs' death.

It is to be regretted that Mr. McKenzie's friends have been distressed by the Advertiser's attempt to discredit the Star's news.

VOLUNTARY HOLIDAY

Mr. Spalding considered that, as a historical event, the opening of Pearl Harbor to naval vessels ought to have some special recognition. It was not a commercial event, so far as present conditions went, and the navy people were going to carry out a program of celebration.

Still, he thought there should be some observance on the part of citizens in general. In his opinion, the best way available would be an excursion by water, on which business houses might allow some of their employes to go. To this end he had written an inquiry to the Inter-Island Co., as to whether the Mauna Loa or some other suitable steamer were available.

An answer had not yet been received. He had thought of a railway trip, but there was no suitable place at the other end to place a large crowd on land.

President E. O. White of the Merchants' Association said nothing had been done by that body. He had only returned to his office this morning after a siege of illness. There would be a meeting of the directors on Wednesday, however, at which the matter would no doubt be taken up with that of the fleet entertainment in general.

Mayor Fern said he had tendered the hand for the man to be given the navy celebrators at Pearl Harbor by John P. Colburn.

LOWREY AN ALTERNATE.
 Sherwood M. Lowrey was elected by the Honolulu Stock and Bond Exchange this morning as alternate for W. O. Smith, representing the Guardian Trust Co.'s stock broking department.

Ed. Towse will speak to the Y. M. C. A. classes at nine o'clock tonight on "Young Men's Chances in Hawaii."
