CONTEST RECORDS ARE STILL GROWING

In spite of the fact that last week was decidedly an off week in everything except getting ready for Christmas, The Star's contestants in the Great $3000 Price Contest made a very creditable showing. Miss Arnold continues to maintain her lead and is now nearing the 400,000 mark, as will be noted from the list printed below. Miss Drew also is well in the lead for second place. Fred Turrill, Miss Silva, of Kanae, and Mrs. Payne of Hawaii, have all added to their scores materially during the week.

Now that Christmas is over most of the contestants expect to make some records in the short time left before the close of the contest. There should be a great many subscriptions to be had during this week, because many are expiring with the close of the year, and will be renewed, while some who have been taking other papers will not be continuing them, but will begin taking The Greater Star, which is not only now the best value in newspapers ever offered in Hawaii, but which has a year of development before it that will break all records for growth of a newspaper in the local field. Within the next few months The Star will have completed its new building on Mercham street, and with greater facilities in way of space, machinery, staff and other equipment, will be prepared to discount even its own remarkable record of the past year.

Last Book Week.

Contestants should not forget that this week will be the last in which they may secure books as bonus prizes for subscriptions. Since the book offer was opened on November 27 The Star has given away hundreds of books, some candidates having secured fifty or more of the handsome volumes.

Not Too Late to Enter.

It is not too late for new contestants to enter with good chances of winning one of the big prizes. Some of the candidates who now stand well towards the head of the list did not enter until the contest was well under way, but by a little energetic work rapidly distanced many of the older, but less energetic workers. Remember that the ten who stand highest in number of votes at the end of the contest will secure prizes that are well worth all the effort that securing them can cost. If you do not remember what these prizes are, just turn to the full page "ad" in this issue of The Star, and refresh your mind. The rewards are far greater than ever before offered in any similar contest.

Hanalei Notes.

The Hanalei valley road is in an unusually bad condition. There are deep holes here and there in the road which continue to get deeper and deeper as the rains and the travel continue, and if something is not done pretty soon people are liable to get out of sight, never more to be seen. If more sand had been put on the road before the bad weather began this deplorable condition would have been prevented. The only respectable stretch of the road is that which was sanded heavily before the rains set in.

Last Sunday while Mr. Menefoglio and Mr. Giacomette were boar hunting Mr. Giacomette met with a painful accident. They had already caught one very large pig and had begun the chase after another, a smaller one, which ran into a ravine. Mr. Giacomette started down after the pig to catch it, but in holding to a shrub, which gave way, he fell six or seven feet on to a rock and hurt his back. Mr. Menefoglio went down after him, helped him up and took him to the carriage, and then went and caught the pig.

While Mr. Giacomette was quite badly hurt the injury was not so serious but that he was able to take the Noeun for Honolulu the following Friday, and a steamer from Honolulu for his home in Oloa, Hawaii, where he will resume his work as chemist. He had been spending his vacation with his old time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Menefoglio.

Teachers' Meeting.

Plans are on foot for a teachers' meeting on the first Friday in the coming term, in the Lihue school building. School Supervisor Brodie says the meeting will be partly for general instructions and possible to organize a teachers' association.

Herbert Morse, son of Principal Morse of the Hanapepe school, leaves for Berkeley, California, today where he will enter school. He will make his home with relatives.

BANKER MORSE IN ARMY HOSPITAL, BUT IS STILL GUARDED

CHARLES W. MORSE

ATLANTA, November 27.—Charles W. Morse, banker-convict, is now an inmate of the hospital at Fort McPherson. Resting on a stretcher and seemingly unable to sit up, the New Yorker was taken to the hospital, the removal being made by order of President Taft, that the prisoner, who is afflicted with Bright's disease, may have a better chance to recover. Morse looks to be in very serious condition. The ride through the city on a bright autumn day raised the spirits of the sick man, who has hopes that sooner or later his petition for pardon will be granted. It is reported in Atlanta on what seems to be good authority that Attorney General Wickersham long ago would have given Morse his freedom but that he feared that the sudden shock while in so weakened a condition would have caused his death.

THE KAHULUI LOADERS' STRIKE

WAILUKU, December 22.—Tuesday night a gang of men at work on the lighthouse loading sugar on board the Lurline refused to continue after six o'clock. They left the sugar unprotected and refused to even close the hatches. It has been customary when a ship was loading in port to work overtime, for which men were, of course, paid extra.

When the men were lined up for work Wednesday morning, William Robb, the luna in charge, was reading the riot act to the men who had so unceremoniously left their work the night before, when Superintendent Williams happened along. This was the first inkling Mr. Williams had of any trouble. He was informed of the conditions and told the men in plain words that he wanted men who were willing to work and give the company a square deal, and not walk off unceremoniously without any notification whatever. If they were willing to do that they could go to work, otherwise they had better go home. The men decided they would go home.

Mr. Williams states that the men have made no demands, and so far as he knew had no grievance, and he considers their action of Tuesday night in going away and leaving the sugar exposed to the weather as unprincipled to say the least.

The railroad company has made arrangements to handle the sugar shipments and will get along without the men who have walked out. Mr. Williams is fully prepared to load the Columbian, which is the next ship to arrive.

On the other hand, the men say they did not leave their work without the permission of the luna. They say it has been customary for them to work till seven o'clock or later without their supper. They objected to this and told the luna so, and received his permission to go home.

The men say they have no grievance against the railroad, but that the luna told the men one thing and then told Mr. Williams another. The matter will probably be amicably settled next week. Practically all the men who walked out live in Wailuku.

HILO FRANCHISE OFF TO CONGRESS

Governor Frear had heard no word of his reappointment up till noon Saturday. He issued a parole to Bonito Reveira, a prisoner who had been sentenced to two years in jail for assault with a weapon.

L. S. Conness was a caller on the governor that morning, and afterward the chief executive mentioned that the franchise sought by Conness was now going forward to Congress for approval.

"Everything else is unfinished in connection with the Hilo street railway franchise," said the governor, "and it now only remains to get the franchise granted by Congress, the necessary capital to finance the scheme and the water license."

Mr. Conness is leaving for Washington in a short time and he hopes to get the franchise granted by Congress.

THE STRUGGLE OVER KUKAIAU

Albert Horner and the Kukaiau plantation filed in the circuit court Friday an answer to the petition brought by Robert Horner for a writ of mandamus to compel the calling immediately of an annual meeting of the stockholders. In his answer Albert Horner states that the regular date for the annual meeting is February 26, and says that this has been the date since 1902. He further claims that at annual meetings held on the date mentioned both he and his brother have had their salaries raised from time to time and have accepted the increases.

The respondent alleges that, at the request of Robert Horner and two other stockholders, he called a special meeting for December 3, but that none of the three who asked that the meeting be called was present. At that time he issued a call for an annual meeting, to be held February 26.

A Haneberg, in the answer filed by him, says it would take six weeks to make an inventory of stock and equipment of the plantation so that the figures could be available for presentation at the annual meeting. It would be impracticable to hold the meeting in December.

Chinese architects never adopt standard sizes and designs for doors, and for that reason American sash and doors find no sale there.
