 Word is received from Vancouver that Tom Sharp is still there but expects to return by the Marama due here about February 28. He went to Canada about two months ago to settle an estate in which he is interested but which, up to this time, has refused to be settled. During Mr. Sharp's absence the sign shop has been managed by Mr. Emelle, who was compelled by news from the coast to leave in the Sierra this morning.

STAR CARRIER ARRESTED.

A boy who has been carrier for the Star in Kaimuki and Palolo, was brought before the juvenile court today at the instance of this paper for non-delivery of papers for which he was regularly paid. Judge Whitney told him that the offense was emblematic but that the court would be content, in this case, to put him on the probation list. Last Saturday the boy failed in his delivery of twenty or more papers. He had been in the habit of omitting his duty whenever he felt like it.

NEWCOMERS IN BURGLARY CASE

Chief of Detectives McDuffie this morning arrested B. Moore and J. Burns on a charge of burglary.
 The men are alleged to have broken into the house of Watchman Wagner of the railroad wharf and to have removed therefrom with felonious intent three suits of clothes, three hats, five shirts and 115 White Leghorn eggs.
 One of the men claims that he came to Honolulu aboard the S. S. Hydrex and the other says that he arrived by the S. S. Honolulu.
 McDuffie is looking up the list giving the descriptions of navy deserters.
 When people begin to say to a woman, "How young you are looking," it's a sign she is getting old.

NORWOOD MAKES FUN AT ORPHEUM

A large and appreciative audience greeted Professor Norwood and his company at the Orpheum last night and were well rewarded for their attendance by the high order of the entertainment. Most of the situations were laughable in the extreme, but the most striking performance of the evening was the demonstration of thought transference as presented by Professor Norwood and Miss Winifred Norwood. In this Miss Norwood was placed in a condition of hypnosis and securely blindfolded. Professor Norwood passed through the audience and received suggestions as to what he should have Miss Norwood do. There were sixteen suggestions made, all of which Miss Norwood followed out to the letter. Professor Norwood stood at a considerable distance from her. He caused her to pull Col. Sam Parker's ear, take a comb from the pocket of another gentleman and comb the bald head of another, take a ring from a lady's hand and put it on that of another, remove a small hairpin from a lady's hair and place it in the inside pocket of the coat of a gentleman sitting beside her—all with out a word being spoken or a sign of any kind being made. Anyone witnessing this feat would surely be convinced of the genuineness of Norwood's power.
 The balance of the program was made up of laughable situations, as a result of which there are many sore sides today. Professor Norwood has a very pleasing stage presence, and his entertainment is devoid of any tiresome features incident to many shows of this nature. From the gales of laughter that rocked the house it is safe to predict that crowded houses will mark his engagement here.

CAPTAIN SMITH'S INTERESTING TRIP

After 26 years residence in Honolulu with few vacations and fewer excursions to outside points, Captain Paul Smith of the immigration service is about to start out upon an official expedition which will probably develop into a round-the-world tour and he is looking forward to it with pleasant anticipation. The task of taking the immigrants who are returned admission into the Territory back to Europe might not appear in the light of a pleasure trip to many people but Captain Smith says that he has handled these people for so many years without difficulty that the handful of unhappy Spaniards and Portuguese who will go back with him will be a light burden.
 Beyond the fact that he is scheduled to sail for the Orient in the Tenyo Maru on Monday Captain Smith knows little of his itinerary.
 "I believe," said he this morning, "that I shall be booked to Hongkong and there transferred to a North German Lloyd steamer which will take me to Gibraltar by way of the Suez canal. Perhaps I shall then be ordered back at once and return to Honolulu by way of New York, and again I may be detailed to work with Raymond Brown for some time in Europe. Aside from the fact that I was ordered to prepare for the trip and that I am packing my clothes I know as little of the schedule as anyone."

KULA RESERVOIR SHOULD BE BUILT

That a storage reservoir should be built in the Kula district is the opinion of the superintendent of public works, Marston Campbell. The extension of the pipe line right down to Paia and the other contemplated extensions made the need of the reservoir, in the opinion of the superintendent, imperative.
 The water head of the main supply pipe is to be extended further into the forest, by which a larger water-bearing tract will be tapped. The Olima district will supply much water, while the continuation of the pipe into the mountain heights will tap a fine supply of water.
 The superintendent is leaving next Tuesday for Maui, where he will confer with the loan fund commissioners of the island. The water pipe line matter will be taken up, and the erection of a reservoir will be strongly advocated.
 The plans and specifications will be come over and the whole matter discussed. There are some other matters to be brought up at the meeting, among them being the new school building for Lahaina.
 Mr. Campbell will be away for about a week and will cover a lot of country while absent.

PUBLIC WORKS HERE AND THERE

According to a communication received at the public works office, from Agent Bowman at Hilo, the repairs and alterations to the courthouse building there are practically finished. The work has been pushed ahead rapidly, and the effect is a great improvement to the building.
 Superintendent Campbell will, before he leaves for Maui, pay a visit to the Waialea industrial school. It has been decided to construct the new buildings by contract and the advertisement, calling for tenders, will be published soon.
 The excavation is all finished, and the boys will have nothing further to do with the erection of the structure. The rock crusher is at work at present and a supply of sand is also being obtained to use in the construction work.
 The foundations for the new building are the chief concern of the superintendent of public works and, as a stratum of earth has been touched, there is some thought to be expended on the problem of arranging the style of foundation.
 Superintendent Campbell will take the place and verify the reports of these in charge of the work.

THE TEMPLETON CROCKER BALL AT ST. FRANCIS

It Was a Cold Evening And Her Royal Highness Let The Pickanniny Attendants Wrap Themselves In Her Train

SAN FRANCISCO, January 29.—Convent-educated girls who before for all the incense that was burned that evening had hovered between disapproval and curiosity about the St. Francis ballroom was so frigid for the Queen of Sheba's train-bearers that the little pickanninies shivered and froze while Mrs. Frederick Kohl, impersonating the royal lady, sat in that or strolled about, twelve feet of brocade trailed magnificence trailing after her.
 You see, the little thaps hadn't much on them but a small leopard skin, barely enough to reach to their knees. Eventually, wearying of preserving the dignity of the role, her highness detached the train, gave it to the little bearers, who wrapped themselves in it and scampered from the ballroom, enjoying the first warm moments of their evening.
 Sans train and train-bearers, it was possible to dance and join in the revels, which Mrs. Kohl did with thorough enjoyment.
 Then there was the episode of the dancer from the other side of the globe. He was a whirling, shrieking dervish, an Oriental of great fame from "somewhere east of Suez, where the heat is like the worst," who was really responsible for starting things a-going madly.
 This dervish, whose broad chest was adorned with a peck of medals, holds the world's record as the champion twirler—two hours and twenty minutes gyrating on a spot no bigger than your palm.
 The sinuous, panther-like figure of an athlete, bronze colored, with light silk sashes girdling his loins, made his entree into the ballroom with a whoop and a howl, darting in with the Hindu musicians chasing after him, eyes aglow with excitement.
 It all happened in a flash, no one having a hint of the surprise. The guests were still sitting and strolling about, admiring each other, gazing at the curious changes wrought by wigs, theatrical gowags, paint and powder, and having such a good time that no one thought of dancing. That was too orthodox.
 The dervish began his twirling, spinning so furiously that it began to look as if it would be impossible to unwind him, the musicians giving their queer shrieks and mad shouts to spur him on. He had promised to do his best, or worst.
 Soon the guests, the make-believe East Indian, Turks, Bedouins and other Orientals, chimed in the howling. Faster and more furiously twirled the crazy Arab, the applause and shouts getting into his blood. The musicians continued their yelping.
 It was more than Occidental temperament could stand. The woman and girls laughed. The men became uproarious. Through the ballroom swept an epidemic of hysterical giggles and giggles.
 The Orientals, proud and haughty, were piqued that their efforts should be taken so derisively, and quit as suddenly as they began, stalking out of the room.
 But the pace had been started and from that moment dancing began. Everybody raged. Those who could did the Texas Tommy.
 The three Hopkins sisters, Mrs. Fred McNear, Mrs. Gus Taylor and Mrs. VIII Taylor, might have been professionals, so well did they do the famous dance. Even the hostess herself, the demure Mrs. Templeton Crocker came out as a Texas Tommy artist.

PILOT HAS NOT BEEN APPOINTED

Although there will be a meeting of the harbor commissioners tomorrow afternoon, the appointment of a pilot to succeed Captain Sanders will not be made then.
 Still further examinations are to be held and, as there is a scarcity of deep sea-going captains, who could act as examiners, there is no telling when the final selection of a pilot will be made.
 Harbor Master Foster, who is in touch with the movements of vessels, will keep an eye out for captains who may remain for a day or so in port. As soon as possible a board of examiners will be selected, when further examinations of candidates will be held.
 There are two or three more men to be examined, who will be notified of the time they have to appear before the board of examiners.
 It is understood that some of the candidates did not impress the examiners much. Lack of deep sea experience appears to have been the chief trouble of some of the captains.
