NEW YORK, March 11.—"England's chances of victory in the Olympic games are small," says H. V. L. Stanton, an authority on athletics, in a letter received here from Great Britain. All indications point to a repetition of an American victory at Stockholm this year and a further decadence through inferior showing of the British athletes. "Our athletes eligible this year are poor in comparison with the teams over the water and are not so efficiently trained. The times of our best men for various events do not bear comparison with those of the runners from the States. Not only is the English team deficiently represented in all the short distances but in the long distances it has a set of men who have no earthly show. These long distance runs always have been a strong point with our team, but judging by the crop of athletes, England will be as weak as any other European country."

CHICAGO, March 11.—"Lanky Bob" Fitzsimmons, former heavyweight champion, essayed a come-back this afternoon and made good. He encountered "Jack" Taylor, the winner of the affections of Bob's estranged wife, Julia Gifford, and when the brief battle was over Taylor was a sad looking object. Fitzsimmons had been separated from his wife eight months. Most of this time he has been looking for Taylor. He arrived in town a week ago. This afternoon he met Taylor in a local office building and invited him outside. Taylor refused to go, and Fitzsimmons pounced upon him and trimmed him in most proper shape. "And I'm going to beat you up every time I see you," said Fitz, as he glowered at the prostrate, bleeding form of his adversary. No complaint was made to the police by either Taylor or Mrs. Fitzsimmons.

ROMANTIC CAREER OF GRAHAM GILMOUR AN INTREPID AIRMAN

Graham Gilmour, a famous English airman, was recently killed by a fatal fall at Richmond while attempting a flight from Brooklands down the Thames to London.

He started on his journey in the best of climatic conditions and was flying splendidly when suddenly, while passing over the Old Deer Park at Richmond, something snapped and the machine collapsed, and fell like a stone to the ground about 300 feet below.

Mr. Gilmour is the ninth British airman killed since July, 1910.

Mr. Gilmour's Daring. No airman was better known at Brooklands than Mr. Gilmour.

Mr. Gilmour came into conflict with the Royal Aero Club on several occasions. In July last, for planning down over the Henley Regatta course until his wheels touched the water, his flying certificate was suspended for a month. He will be remembered chiefly for the magnificent exhibition of airmanship which he gave when flying over the last boat race. Londoners, too, will remember his flight down the Thames over London, when he suddenly appeared near St. Paul's one evening. He also flew to Salisbury to answer an indictment at the assizes respecting a child run over by one of his motor cars. He was acquitted and flew back to Brooklands.

Mr. Gilmour, who was born at Dartford, was twenty-seven years of age and unmarried. He had a brother and several sisters. Before taking up flying he was an enthusiastic motorist. As a motorcyclist he met with much success in competitions.

Airman's Last Wishes. The inquest resulted in a verdict of accidental death.

Mr. Graham Gilmour's wishes in regard to his funeral were made known. They were detailed in a letter written nearly a year ago and left in a sealed envelope with a friend, with instructions that if the writer were killed by an aeroplane the letter was to be taken to his friend and solicitor, Mr. Staple Firth, who was to open it. On Sunday evening the friend called on Mr. Staple Firth and the letter was opened. It was found to be as follows:

April 27, 1911.

If I am smashed up by aeroplane which is extremely probable, I don't wish my body to be taken to Micklem churchyard, where I wish to be buried near my father and mother by the ordinary funeral hearse, which is a beastly thing, or by train. If, if possible, to go by motor-lorry, and then if convenient by a four-wheeled farm cart. No mourning of any kind. Colored flowers, if any. No moaning. I wish everyone to be merry and bright.

If it is wished to put up a tombstone let it be a quarter-scale medal, of the plane I was killed with in stone, bronze, or iron, or model of a big bat or other 'plane, it does not matter which.

The remains of the 'plane I wish given to Clifton College. Perhaps it will be possible to re-erect it there—of course, provided they would like it. No bell tolling at the church—beastly idea! Dead March if they like—some of them are fine.

The funeral took place at Mickleham, and the dead airman's last wishes were faithfully carried out.

BOXING BOUTS AT SCHOFIELD

On Saturday next the fans of Schofield have something "diddn" in the scrap line. Two excellent preliminaries are booked whilst the main event is doped out to be the classic thing that ever happened in Hawaii. Great credit is due to Lieutenant Baird for the manner in which he has kept the ball a rolling. It is no easy matter to match men on short notice, but the 'teniente seems to have made a very good job of it according to the following program: Swaggert of D Troop, Fifth Cavalry, meets Greene, Company E, Second Infantry, in a six-round bout. Both boys are there with the goods and twenty-five minutes of excitement in certain. Mullen, of the Machine Gun Platoon, of the Fifth Cavalry, has an eight round argument with Moriarty of L Troop, same regiment. Moriarty is tapped as being the liveliest wire in the game, whilst Mullen, always on deck, will endeavor to make a short circuit within the prescribed limits. The grand and main event will be a ten-round bout between Cunningham, Company E, Second Infantry, and Kradlak, Battery F, First Field Artillery. Both men are crackerjacks and their respective followers are ready to back their men with money, marbles, chalk or canteen checks. Sergeant "Spike" Doherty will be the third man in the squared circle, which means that the game will be played as the founder of the rules intended.—Service.

MAUI BOWLERS TAKING NOTICE

WAILUKU, March 16.—There are bowlers and bowlers, but Honolulu seems to have a pair that will take some beating. Any two men who can roll twenty games each in a little over three hours, and average 173 pins, as these two did, recently in the match with Kauai, show clearly that they have mastered the rudiments of the game. Maui has many good bowlers, but it is doubtful if any two stand out strong enough to be picked to go against these two cracks. It is easy enough to pick a five or six man team who will just about get away with anything on the islands, but a two man team is different. Last Sunday a team from Wailuku went over to Punaene and again defeated a team from that burg, but the score was very close, Wailuku only winning by two pins. Heretofore Wailuku has generally won by a liberal margin, and now the Punaene boys think they are fit, and have challenged the Wailuku team to another match next Sunday morning, and there is no doubt this will be a hummer.

The Wailuku alleys are now open, and are in splendid shape, and it is about time something was done to wards getting up a tournament. Teams could be organized in Wailuku, Punaene, Kahului, and Paia, and some great sport started, as the rivalry would be keen.

A twenty game tournament will be started Monday at the Wailuku alleys to pick a team which will be known as the Wailuku gymnasium team, and after this team has been picked they will be ready to take on all comers.
