THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser. SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1882. Our San Francisco Correspondence.

The Chinese Bill has passed and from Siskiyou San Francisco and the Summit to the Coast-line, the State has heaved one great sigh of relief during the last twenty-four hours. At least it would appear so, for all the papers indulge in glowing headlines, headlines and assume to be famously jubilant. The bill passed the House of Representatives at a late hour during yesterday's session, precisely as it came from the Senate. Every amendment was voted down, and every objection over-ruled by the Pacific Coast members, who were championing the measure, and finally, when it came to a final vote, it passed by a vote of 177 to 55. Both those in favor and those opposed, represented both the national parties, though only four Democrats voted against the measure as compared with 96 in favor. The Republican vote was 65 for, and 61 against, so the Democrats gain the credit. The treaty, which now only awaits the President's signature to become a law, provides that for a period of twenty years after it becomes operative there shall be no immigration of Chinese laborers into the United States. Any merchant of a vessel which shall bring them is liable to a fine of $500 and a year's imprisonment on conviction. Merchants, teachers, students, travelers, diplomatic agents and Chinese laborers who were in the country previous to November 17, 1880 are excepted and these must have regularly made out passports from the Chinese authorities, countersigned by the representatives of this government in China. The bill does not take effect for ninety days. As before written you will see that it will be a heavy blow to our market is overstocked with Chinese and it will be a long time before anything like a scarcity will prevail. The bill suits the six companies, for the time being, perfectly, as well as the servant class and wage laborers generally. The State however, will have no other reason to complain either through the protest of the intelligent or the outcry of the demagogue. Everything that was demanded or hoped for has been granted by Congress, and granted in such a hearty fashion that the real measure promise to be fully executed. There is some little talk of the President withholding his signature but it amounts to nothing.

THE PERU SCHEME. The sensation at present occupying the nation is an investigation by a House Committee, of the grandest and most unprincipled scheme that ever occupied the grasping speculators of two nations. Having Peru grasped in her power, Chile instead of demanding $50,000,000 of property, which, according to Blaine, would have amply indemnified her for her war expenses has seized upon about all the revenue-producing property in Peru possessions, including the Tarapaca district, which includes all the valuable nitrate beds and all the guano islands, the aggregate value of the property seized being at least $1,500,000,000. "The Peruvian Company," which is made up of English and American speculators and the Chilean government, and which assumes to own the Coquet and Landreau claims against Peru, amounting to nine hundred millions of dollars, has for its President one Jacob R. Shepherd, an American, and the Investigating Committee are endeavoring to make him tell what he knows and reveal how agents among our statesmen, but thus far with little effect. The Company proposes to assume possession of the guano and nitrate lands, and administer them for the benefit of the creditors of Peru. The manifest outrage contemplated against Peru is as evident as its prodigies, and through Secretary Fish's instructions to Trescott, U. S. Minister to Peru, our government has taken a neutral position, which is precisely what the schemers most desired. Now it is that Blaine's action shows forth as the most wise and statesmanlike that could have been conceived, and the outcry raised against him has faded away and given place to a national murmur of praise for his foresight. The Company bases its claim to $1,000,000,000 from Peru on the grounds that the Peruvian government is indebted to the original discoverer of the guano beds, in that amount. They propose to take charge of the guano and nitrate beds, and work out their own claim, besides assuming a debt of $300,000,000 to English bond holders and give a $400,000,000 indemnity to Chile. The fact is, that between the speculators and Chile, Peru has a fair chance of being wiped out of existence, and with it its former position, and the United States through its new policy in the matter poses as the idle spectator of a national outrage.

DELONG AND HIS CREW. Are given up. The search party in Siberia, under Lieutenant Melville have found numerous traces of them, dating back to September last, after their arrival on the Siberian coast, but the long lapse of time during which nothing has been heard from them, has led to the belief that they have perished. It is stated that they had only a few days' rations, and the rigor and barrenness of climate and country, make their loss almost a certainty. The last record found is: "At a hut, Lena Delta, about 12 miles from the head of the Delta. September 21 1881. "Fourteen officers and men of the U. S. Arctic Steamer Jeannette reached this place last evening and are proceeding to the southward this morning. A complete report will be found in a newspaper published in the city of St. Petersburg on the right bank of the stream. GEO. W. DE LONG.

THE FRIENDS OF THE Nicaragua Canal scheme claim that it has a better prospect of success and completion than either the Panama Canal, or Eads' proposed ship railway. A League of London shipmen insist on having the duration of a laboring day reduced to nine hours. They are bothering Parliament. Oscar Wilde the aesthete arrives here next Sunday, and lectures on Monday night. More of him anon. A good, old fashioned snow blockade at Reno and blue Canyon is bothering the overland travelers. Interested parties are unearthing the war record of General Rosecrans, member of Congress from this State and a hot controversy concerning his cowardice is buying the New York and Washington Press, and Rosecrans himself. One outcome of it is an endeavor to prove that General Garfield studied himself and told falsehoods in the matter. As the record does not here to answer, the ghoulish effort has aroused national indignation. The revenue cutter Corwin has just been sent out to intercept the China steamer Tokio, to take temporary possession in the name of the U. S. and search her for opium. Ever since the accidental seizure of $25,000 worth of the drug, by two policemen, in a boat near the Mail Dock, some two months since, the Federal authorities have been investigating, and it is believed that an extensive ring of smugglers, backed by large capital will be shown up. Robertson the Collector of the port of New York, whose appointment caused the Garfield Conkling ring, is hastily tangled up in the Peruvian scheme, as is Senator Blair of Vermont. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the famous poet and litterateur died at Boston to-day, at the age of 75. He was ill only a few days.

ADOLESCENT PATRIOT. The sweetest virtue of the century, she has not scored the success in this country that she and her managers anticipated. In fact, the policy of having one star, and a company of nobodies and of changing it to five and eight dollars per cent for such an attraction has alienated both the affections and the enthusiasm of the public. Patti's new policy, or that of her manager, Albeley is now to sing in the largest halls possible, the public being admitted to the number of 10,000 or 20,000 at a dollar per head. It is believed that by this plan a harvest may be reaped, and it is time, as every body wishes to hear and see Patti just once, and is willing to pay a dollar for the privilege. Speaking of music, we have had a surfeit of riches here of late in the presence of Marie Gerstinger, the queen of German opera bouffe singers, backed by the Thalia Comedy Company of New York, and also Friedrich Hanneke, the leader of the German dramatic stage, who was brought here through the enterprise of that most popular manager Madam Gence. Hanneke has given a round of magnificent characters to crowded houses, and is certainly the finest actor of any language that this coast ever saw. Emperor William's birthday was celebrated in grand style at Berlin, day before yesterday. A great crowd assembled under den Linden and cheered his Majesty on the balcony. Congratulations from his people and the foreign powers occupied the entire day. The old gentlemen fell down and brained his knee badly some days since, but was not seriously hurt. The captain and mates of the Am. ship Gatherer are under arrest and investigation in the U. S. Courts here. On the voyage from Queenstown to this port the most horrible cruelties were practiced on the crew, some of them being indescribably revolting. One man jumped overboard from pain, fear, and fright, and another died from the effects of brutality. The affair has created some talk, and the usual apoplectic reaction in favor of seaman is at present under way. The brutalities were so horrible, so apparently causeless that the public indignation is great.

THE SUNDAY LAW. Is particularly bewailed misfortune of the shop keeping fraternity of San Francisco just now. The last Legislature, responsive to the sentimental request of a clique of religious enthusiasts, passed a law making it a misdemeanor to keep any place of business open on the Sabbath, a few necessary exceptions being made. That the Legislature should ever have passed so Christian-like a law is explained only by the fact that they were too busy in pocketing unlawful monies to notice their stain on their immortal escutcheons. However that may be, the law was passed and the Supreme Court, by a decision in a late case, has held that it is a good and valid law. Since last Sunday five hundred and eighty-three violators of the law have been arrested, and the cry is still they come. The Chief of Police and the Mayor are determined to vigorously enforce the law, and the cases already on hand are numerous enough to occupy the criminal courts for the next ten years, every defendant having demanded a jury trial. The Sunday men have the law and the power, and the prospect is that our cosmopolitan city, famous for its Sabbath picnics, its Sunday recreations, and its Sabbatharian recklessness, will soon be quiet enough on the Lord's day to satisfy a Connecticut blue law or a round-head Puritan.

AN ARIZONA VENDETTA. News was received here yesterday of another chapter in an Arizona romance of crime that has been fit to hit to a Corsican family, or a ten cent novel. Some time ago, a pod of four months, a street fight took place in Tombstone, Arizona, between Morgan Earp, the city Marshal and a crowd of "cow boys." (Tombstone for desperado), whom it was his duty to arrest. Earp was backed by a posse of four or five, among them, his two brothers. Several of their party were wounded, though none fatally. Four of the cow boys were killed and the town was bled in all directions from the rapidly discharged six-shooters. It may be remarked, on perusal that the cow boys are the quickest, most accurate, and indeed the most reckless pistol shots in the world. The friends of the roughs show vengeance against Earp and have set many traps for him since then. He was brave, vigilant and wary, however, and escaped their traps until the night of the 18th instant. He was sitting in a saloon playing cards when two rifle shots were heard, two bullets came crashing through the window, and Earp fell to the floor fatally shot in two places. Earp's body was taken to Tombstone, and on Monday evening while it was at the station, guarded by his friends, two men named Stilwell and Clanton, belonging to the gang which Earp had been fighting, came down to the station. Some time afterward six rifle shots were heard down the track, out of town, but no attention was paid to them until next morning, when the dead body of Stilwell was found riddled with bullets. There is a tremendous excitement in Tombstone. The Earp party, suspected of shooting Stilwell, refused to be arrested by the sheriff, and heavily armed, mounted their horses and rode out of town. It is now known, that after killing Stilwell they searched Tucson for Clanton, but could not find him, and it is believed, that they have gone to Benson in search of him.
