

CITY ITEMS

A Government sale of Quartermaster's property will take place today, at the Quartermaster General's Department, at one o'clock, P. M.

The State Military Auditing Committee, having finished up the claim business which has occupied their attention, are now engaged in making their final report.

FRESH BUTTER AND OYSTERS, the Best and Freshest in the city, with all kinds of Choice Family Groceries, for Sale, Wholesale and Retail, at O. B. Stout & Bro.

Some sensible man not long ago advocated the establishment of a system of Water Works here. That man's head was sound—but what has become of him? We fear that he is dead. Pass the inquiry around for him.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE—Rev. J. S. Cantwell, of Cincinnati, will preach in the Universalist Church, (College Hall), this (Saturday) evening, at seven o'clock. Also tomorrow morning at 10 1/2 o'clock, at which time the Lord's Supper will be commemorated.

CHURCH CHURCH—Owing to a necessary delay in putting up the furnace, this Church will be closed tomorrow. On and after the Sunday following regular services will be resumed, at 10 1/2 o'clock in the morning and at 3 1/2 o'clock in the afternoon. Sunday School at 9 o'clock P. M.

INDIANAPOLIS—As one small item evidencing the growth of this city, we may state that thirteen new houses are up and in progress this season on New York street, between Tennessee and Blake streets, and that sixteen storehouses are up and in progress on Washington street, between Mississippi street and the canal, being one square.

A SUBSTITUTION—Can our esteemed Postmaster derive some plan by which the danger of being jammed may be avoided at the General Delivery? The fertility of his resources is too great to be brought by us so small an obstacle as this. If he can't think of a plan, let him call on us and the Herald will give him an idea on the subject, and charge nothing for the information.

THE HERALD, acknowledges the compliment done it by Major General George H. Chapman, in the very accurate carte de visite likeness of the General presented by his yesterday. It is a good likeness, because it is an exact one, and a standing companion alike to the General's comely visage and the artistic skill of Messrs. Treadwell & Peaslee, artists in the Herald building.

All the readers of the Herald that are capable of enjoying a good dish of oysters, will find them in all varieties at the Oyster Depot of Mr. Snider, No. 21 South Meridian street. He has them in the shell, in the can, and opened for family use, received directly from salt water in hermetically sealed cans, and they are just as fresh as they are on the dock where landed. We have tried them, and know.

THE BEY OF ABANDONED WOMEN alluded to in our last report, had their hearing yesterday and were committed for their usual period in such cases. Justice is thus satisfied and as for mercy—that quality appears to be wasted when visited upon these abandoned characters.

Several commitments for intoxication were made, and Michael Berry, for throwing filth into an alley, paid one dollar—a small amount for so filthy a transgression.

TRY IT AGAIN—Our neighbor of the Journal in obedience to our request, comes out this morning in what he no doubt supposes to be a graceful introduction of ourself to the readers of the Journal. We congratulate him upon his improvement over his former effort. But there is still room for improvement. He sustains our demurrer to the pseudonym "Daniel," but he interposes an odious "J" where a "T" should be. This is a small matter, but we submit to friend Halford that there is nothing like being exact even in small matters.

THE STEAMER GOVERNOR MORTON will make another excursion trip to-morrow afternoon. The depth of the water in the channel is sufficient to warrant the promise that there will be no running aground on this occasion. On Monday next the boat will be hauled up for repairs, and we are promised by the enterprising Board of Directors that she will be completely overhauled from keel to pilot house. Larger wheels will be put in and the boat placed in prime running order, after which time she will make excursions to Waverly.

JOURNALISM—The "Mississippi Reporter," which has hitherto made no greater pretensions than a mere advertising monthly, issues a prospectus this month informing its readers of the intention of the proprietors to convert it into a "first class weekly literary paper," the first number of which will appear January 4, 1866. Great promises of excellence are made.

BLAND & MYERS will issue the first number of the Northwestern Farmer on the 1st day of the New Year. Abundant reasons exist to warrant the prediction that the new Agricultural will be all its proprietors promise.

There is always room for a good article of whatever nature or kind. Poor newspapers are a drug on the market.

BASE BALL MATCH—The first Base Ball match ever played in Indianapolis was played between the Western Base Ball Club, of this city, and the United States Nine, stationed in this Department, yesterday afternoon, on the grounds of the former, being witnessed by at least three hundred spectators. The game was called at 2:40 P. M., and after four well-contested innings were played, the Western Base Ball Club were declared the victors.

The game was marked by good feeling between all parties, and the decisions of the umpire were noticed by all as being fair and without partiality.

Below we append the score:

Table with columns for Western and Eastern teams, listing runs, hits, and errors.

RENS MADE IN BASE RUNNING.

WESTERN: Runs, 1; Hits, 1; Errors, 1.

EASTERN: Runs, 1; Hits, 1; Errors, 1.

Common Pleas Court—Civil Docket—This Court was still engaged in the case of McCord et al. vs. Bond, to which we referred in yesterday's Herald.

The County Commissioners meet to-day. Their meeting will govern themselves to-day. Parties interested will govern themselves to-day.

AMUSEMENTS.

Metropolitan Theatre—The attractions surrounding the histrionic reputation of Mrs. Waller, the excellence of the bill, and the nicety of the dramaturgy displayed by the management in the studios expressed with which its pieces are placed upon the stage, possessed sufficient power of attraction to "crowd the house last night. The role of the "Melancholic Prince," always difficult, even when essayed by the most accomplished of the masculine members of the "green carpet" persuasion, was rendered by Mrs. Waller with considerable effect. There is a sliding power in Mrs. Waller and a world of intensity. Whether it is within the power of any woman to satisfactorily render the part is a question, and we are not bold enough to attempt its solution. To successfully delineate any character it is essential that the individual should be lost in the ideal. A delusion should, as it were, be impressed upon the beholder. Can any woman do this in the role of Hamlet? If she can, then is she the competent to essay the rest. Mrs. Waller succeeded as well as any woman can in this difficult role. But she was still a woman and not "Hamlet." Her personality was always present in the rendition. A woman's countenance is not a man's countenance, disguise it how you may, and herein lies the insuperable difficulty. Mr. Riley's "Ghost" was in excellent taste, and the other characters were generally well rendered.

To-night is the last night of Mrs. Waller, and an excellent bill is offered for the occasion. The fine drama of "Joan of Arc," or the "Maid of Orleans," and "The People's Lawyer," are the attractions for the night, and they will crowd the house.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

plished of the masculine members of the "green carpet" persuasion, was rendered by Mrs. Waller with considerable effect. There is a sliding power in Mrs. Waller and a world of intensity. Whether it is within the power of any woman to satisfactorily render the part is a question, and we are not bold enough to attempt its solution. To successfully delineate any character it is essential that the individual should be lost in the ideal. A delusion should, as it were, be impressed upon the beholder. Can any woman do this in the role of Hamlet? If she can, then is she the competent to essay the rest. Mrs. Waller succeeded as well as any woman can in this difficult role. But she was still a woman and not "Hamlet." Her personality was always present in the rendition. A woman's countenance is not a man's countenance, disguise it how you may, and herein lies the insuperable difficulty. Mr. Riley's "Ghost" was in excellent taste, and the other characters were generally well rendered.

To-night is the last night of Mrs. Waller, and an excellent bill is offered for the occasion. The fine drama of "Joan of Arc," or the "Maid of Orleans," and "The People's Lawyer," are the attractions for the night, and they will crowd the house.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

On Monday night we are promised the debut of Miss Blanche DeBar, who will appear, during a short engagement, in a series of legitimate English comedies. As the lady is a comparative stranger here, we cannot better present her than by introducing in this place the following, taken from the Cleveland Herald, of the 1st inst.:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Those of our citizens who have a taste for the legitimate drama, and have failed to see the series of sterling old comedies that have been presented this week, have been disappointed. The dramatic treat offered them this season. Among the plays which our citizens have been more perfectly rendered than Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," as played last night. Miss Blanche DeBar gave a careful, correct and a very original presentation of the character of the "kate Harlowe" in the comedy which she fully pleased the audience lies in the fact that her song was loud, and at the close of the piece she received a loud and unanimous call before the curtain.

Telegraphic Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The National Republican has the following:

Midnight Report. The following highly important dispatch from the President of the United States has been received here by Gov. Johnson:

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., Oct. 28th, 1862. J. Johnson, President of the United States, to the Hon. Sec. of State, Mr. Seward.

Your dispatch has been received. The people of Georgia should not hesitate one single moment in repudiating every single dollar of the debt created for the purpose of aiding the rebellion against the Government of the United States. It will do to levy and collect taxes from the State and people that are loyal and in the Union to pay a debt that was created to aid in taking them out and subverting the Constitution of the United States. I do not believe the great mass of the people of the State of Georgia will be ungrateful, and will submit to the payment of the debt which was the main cause in bringing on them past and present suffering,