THE WINDS MAN.—Our White Cloud correspondent, last week, stated that Jim Brown was elected Trustee for the town of Brown, County, Kansas, a fearful mistake. The Trustee is John Brown, a well-known showman. And if he assumes on the same principle that he used to run his show, he will make a clean sweep of all the taxable property. This is the legend: Some time during the closing years of the war, say about 1865, he was in the city of St. Louis, and came along with a Panamanian. We have no doubt that it had done service as a Panamanian of the Revolutionary War, a Panamanian of the War of 1812, and a Panamanian of the Mexican War, and that the picture that had represented first the struggle at Banker Hill, Missouri, and later at the battle of Chapultepec, Landy's Lane, and New Orleans, and next of Palo Alto, Buena Vista, and Cerro Gordo, had finally blossomed forth as Bull Run, Big Bethel, and Wilson's Creek. John Brown and Donald McLeod hailed this as the very thing they were looking for, and determined to buy it, and make money out of it. They did buy it, and bought a wagon to carry it in, and started off for a tour of Iowa. In a few weeks, they came back, reporting that the panama was such a grand success that they had sold it to great advantage. The fact was, it had been peddled by Trustee for the town of Brown, County, Kansas, and had been sold to the people of that town. "Why," inquired a listener, "how much did you charge for admission?" "Twenty-five cents," replied John. "Well," queried the other, "how could you get one hundred dollars from one hundred people, at only 25 cents apiece?" "Oh," explained John, "I showed five or six cents a day."

Very pleasant news.
Mr. F. R. Witt, Cleveland, Ohio, Rheumatism in the hip cured after five applications.
Mr. Henry Leas, Patriot, Ohio, had such pains in his shoulder that he could not move. St. Jacobs Oil cured him after a few applications.
Mrs. Verena Guelmann, aged 39 years, living in Rochester, N. Y., Rheumatism in leg; could not walk. A bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and felt, as she asserts, like new-born.
CHRISTIAN HANS, Esq., Youngstown, Ohio, is full of joy over the wonderful cure of his wife by St. Jacobs Oil. For twelve long years she had suffered with Neuralgia in the head, and often had the most terrible pain. Half a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil cured her.
Mr. Wm. Reinhardt, Elmora, Wis., reports as follows: St. Jacobs Oil is really a wonderful remedy, for I could mention dozens of cases where it has proved its magical influence. One case in particular will illustrate: I know one man who suffered with Rheumatism in the hip for twenty-four years, and it could hardly move around. After using a few bottles of St. Jacobs Oil he was entirely cured.
B. NELM, Esq., South Adams, Massachusetts, writes: Allow me to inform you how much good St. Jacobs Oil has done in this neighborhood. A woman had Rheumatism in her hip, and she could not get around, and she was in great pain. Three applications of St. Jacobs Oil cured her. Her joy seemed to have no bounds.

TRANSACTIONS OF DONIPHAN COUNTY HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.
REPORTED BY THE SECRETARY, S. HATCH.
The regular meeting of the Society was held in the Central Hotel, on Tuesday evening, February 10th, 1896. X. E. Stent, being in the Chair.
The proceedings of the last regular meeting having been read and approved, the President called for the report of the Committee on orchards, which was responded to by N. B. Wood, in a very interesting and instructive report on the best mode of planting, cultivating, pruning, and protecting the trees from the depredations of insects, rabbits, and goats.
He would prepare the ground in a thorough manner, being plowed and harrowed, and then plant the trees 25 feet apart. In planting, the roots should be spread out in their natural position, and the earth well compacted around them, so that no air can get in and dry them out.
He recommends growing corn among the trees, for the first few years, lessening the rows from year to year, as the trees require more space; after which, he would seed down to clover. The corn serves as a good protection to the trees from the depredations of rabbits, and their roots usually do not bear the heavy strain that would otherwise be put upon them.
Blossoms should be sharply looked after, and dug out with care, especially when the weather is cold, and the blossoms are young, should be examined both spring and fall.
To protect his trees from rabbits, he uses corn stalks, setting them up around the trees, and trying at the top with twine. One can protect 1,000 trees in this way in a day, the stalks having been previously delivered to the mill, and then made into a wash composed of soft soap, lime and flour, making a compound about the consistency of paint, which, when applied to the trees, will keep the rabbits with styrene, inserted in pieces of apple, but does not, like the other, do any harm to the trees. It is better to use this than to use traps, but the rabbits will not enter the traps, so long as they can find the apple, under the bark of a thrifty young apple tree to get at.
Goats are easily destroyed by trapping. Hoop poles, and well balanced head and by removing limbs when young, where not needed, avoids the necessity of cutting out large limbs, which would be liable to become older.
For peaches, he recommends cutting back a portion of the trees, and allowing them to grow in limbs, when necessary, so as to keep the tree in as close and compact a condition as possible.
The seeds of our finest varieties of apples, with a view to raising seedlings for the best mode of planting, better adapted to our climate. He does not doubt that some very valuable acquisitions might be made from our list of fruits, for profitable culture in Kansas.
The call for the report on small fruits was responded to by the Secretary, S. Hatch, who read the mode of setting out, cultivating and pruning the several varieties of small fruits.
The Secretary read a paper on the culture of the few well chosen berries, gave the result of his experience on the best mode of cultivating a vineyard, and the best mode of pruning, and showed a number of vines of a variety of sorts, and a profitable culture of the same. He also showed a number of vines of a variety of sorts, and a profitable culture of the same. He also showed a number of vines of a variety of sorts, and a profitable culture of the same.
