

The Burial of General Grant.

The following expressive poem is copied from the Waltham (Mass.) Daily Tribune. The author is Geo. A. Smythe, Esq., son of Mrs. N. H. Sawtelle, of Wa-Keeneey: Let the booming cannons sound, Wake the echoes and resound; Let martial music fill the air, As to the grave they sadly bear. The old commander, who won the fight For freedom, unity and right.

Now as we mourn our hero dead, We glory that it can be said— Wherever duty led the way Nor death, nor danger brought dismay, But he amid the battle's shock, Was firm as adamant rock.

But when the battle smoke rolled by Where men had met in strife to die, No heart that has a deeper woe Possessed alike for friend and foe, Who on the ghastly bloody plain Were numbered there among the slain.

And with his last great battle fought, The prize possessed he long had sought; He turned to lift the fallen foe With generous instincts few can know. Only the truly great possess Mid triumph—feeling for distress.

But greater far than glory brought By victories and battles fought, The glory is his death imparts, Uniting long dis severed hearts In one great brotherhood once more From sea to sea, from shore to shore.

Then fling your sable banners forth, From east to west, from south to north; Let martial music fill the air, And booming cannon loudly roar, As to the grave they gently bear Our patriot hero now no more.

Terrill's Appointment Explained.
Phillipsburg Herald.
N. C. Terrill has been appointed postmaster at Millbrook. This sample of civil service reform ought to satisfy the most intense misgiving. It will be remembered that Terrill is the man whose family was broken up by his adulterous relations with a prostitute. Perhaps Terrill's proclivities have touched a sympathetic chord in Cleveland's bosom, hence the early appointment.

Gilk's Age.
Much has been said pro and con as to the age of Hon. A. D. Gilkson, candidate for judge in the 17th judicial district. We had the honor of being a schoolmate of the judge's when boys together in Bristol, Pa., way back in the fifties, and know him to be three or four years older than ourself, being over 40 ourself.—Logan Freeman.

The Remedy for Evils.
Great Bend Inland Tribune.
Trego county Republicans hold their convention October 10, and nominate by the Crawford county system. This is the only remedy for evils arising from conventions. A primary election is, to some extent, a reflection of the will of the people. A convention represents nothing, not even the voice of its own members, most of whom vote against their own nominees. It doesn't take a prophet to name the delegates who will be in the Barton county Republican convention. The Tribune had the names of the first convention stereotyped, and has used the old plate for ten years, only inserting a new member of the family when the old member dies or runs off.

The Weekly Capital and Farmers' Journal.
The Weekly Capital and Farmers' Journal is an 8-page, 56-column paper published by J. K. Hudson, at Topeka, Kansas. The Capital is the official paper, and gives very complete reports of the meetings of the legislature, and all conventions and associations at the state capital. It contains a G. A. R. department, and its general state news features are strong. It is a splendid representative Kansas paper. Sample copy sent free. Paper will be sent one year to any address, in or out of Kansas, for one dollar. The WESTERN KANSAS WORLD and Weekly Capital and Farmers' Journal to any one address for one year for $2.40; regular price, $3.00.

Novels.
Tidings from Nature.
More harm has been caused by sensational novels than can be estimated. Tales of impossible love, romantic devotion, unnatural crimes, lay a foundation in the minds of youth for all sorts of weakness and folly. Would there be so many disgraceful experiments in "high life," think you, if circulating libraries were cleaned of yellow-covered literature? Or so atrocious murders if shop windows were not hung with pictorial representations of the "last awful tragedy"? If Satan can't get a man to killing, he will do the next most effectual thing, set somebody to describing or painting a murder. There are enough to take the hint. What shall we do about the evil? First, denounce it unsparringly. Use the pen as a sword. Then give young people more healthful reading; interest them in something higher than the woes of Alonzo and Angelina, or the last death throes of Pirate Jack. We are glad to see in this progressive age an ever increasing interest in better literature, and the interest manifested in the study of nature and the natural sciences proclaims that soon there will be a victory over this light, flashy, sensational matter. But none to quickly. Before it has had time to accomplish this desired end thousands will be carried away by the pernicious stuff, ruined, deposed, and eventually drunkards—criminals. The evil done by this class of reading matter, at the present time, cannot be estimated; but let us all strive to counteract and prevent the terrible evil in every way we can, and first let not the gallow-beam protrude its shadow across the pages of our libraries, and the prints in our shops, hideous as a nightmare and Satanic in its suggestiveness.

That's the Kind.
Thank God some of us have an old-fashioned mother—not a woman of the period, enameled and painted, with her "whose white jeweled hand never felt the clasp of baby fingers; but a dear, old-fashioned, sweet-voiced mother, with eyes in whose clear depth the love-light shines, and brown hair just threaded with silver, lying smooth on the faded cheek. These dear hands, worn with toil, gently guided our tottering steps in childhood and smoothed our pillow in sickness, ever reaches out to us in tenderness. Blessed is the memory of an old-fashioned mother. It floats to us like fragrant perfume from some wooded blossom. The music of other voices may be lost, but the entrancing memory of hers will echo in our souls forever. Other faces may fade away and be forgotten, but hers will shine on. When in the fitful pauses of busy life our feet wander back to the old homestead, and crossing the well-worn threshold stand once more in the room hallowed by her presence, how the feeling of childish innocence and dependence comes over us, and we kneel down in the moiten sunshine streaming through the window—just where, long years ago, we knelt by our mother's knee, lisping "Our Father." How many times when the temple lured us on has the memory of those sacred hours, that mother's words, her prayer, saved us from plunging into the abyss of sin.

—Yes! We now have in stock the Power of Attorney—general form—Blanks, which the attorneys have been clamoring for. They are the thing on June, 1885's. 2 cents apiece.

The reason why Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a favorite with so many people is because it can always be depended upon. Its prompt and effectual cures of coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough have made it standard, and those who have used it prefer it to any other. Sold by B. Wagner & Co.

You feel tired, do you? "Yes," said the laundress, "as though I had been born tired, and with a bad taste in my mouth." "It's not rest that you need," said the doctor, "as much as a dose of some good liver pills. Try a dose or two of St. Patrick's Pills; they will brace you up and make you feel brand new before three days. Sold by B. Wagner & Co. 343

A matter of consequence to every person is his own health and the health of those depending upon him, of all the ills we are subject to, coughs and colds are the most frequent occurrence; the time to treat a cold is when the very first symptoms appear, or when taking cold the most convenient method is to advise Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at hand and take it according to directions. It is for both adults and children. This remedy has the endorsement of the people as a safe and reliable medicine for cough, colds and croup. Sold by B. Wagner & Co.
