GARDEN THEATER

CORRESPONDENCE

Big Creek

Rain and snow last Monday night. Ground is taking up all the moisture that we get.

A few loads of wheat were hauled to Ellis last Saturday.

John Herbert sold a car load of young cattle last Saturday.

Quite wintry last Saturday and regular old fashioned weather.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Feezor visited at Frank Cross' last Sunday.

The snow storm Saturday did not do the wheat but little good.

Harrison Kingsler went to Hays City on business last Monday.

The real estate business is beginning to open up a little around Ellis.

Bert Teeters arrived from Missouri last Sunday where he had been visiting.

The Golden Belt Elevator company unloaded a car of fine oats last Monday.

Several farmers received a supply of cotton seed oil cake from Ellis last week.

Mr. Fink and family have rented the Stebbin's ranch just west of Ellis and are living there now.

Mrs. Will Harvey is at her sisters in Ellis and we hope a speedy return to good health for her.

Snowing again Wednesday morning; it begins to look as if we will get plenty of moisture now.

Voda

The weather seems quite wintrified here of late.

E. L. Knapp's had a phone put in their residence this week.

Reports are that the dance at Big Creek hall was rather slim.

Mrs. John Ivan went to Wa-Keeney Monday to see the eye specialist.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Knapp's children are quite sick with scarlet fever.

Mrs. John Vandewater called on Mr. and Mrs. V. Benisch, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Owens and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Razak at Collyer.

Florence Spitsnaugle says that a South Trego automobile rides better than a Voda top buggy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Schwanbeck accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Spena dined with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miles, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Kristoff, Messrs. L. P. Davis, S. Austin, called on Mr. and Mrs. Dick Owens Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Brown of Circleville, Kans., spent several days with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Pryce Owens.

Walter Krhut purchased the garage tools of Wm. Cox this week. He will now embark in the business himself. Every one knows Walter is an expert in that line of business; so when in need of any work in his line don't forget to call on him.

Collyer School Notes

Arthur Richardson is absent from town this week. We suppose he is enjoying a pleasant visit at Pratt, Kansas.

The following teachers from the rural districts attended literary Friday night: Misses Beason, Razak and VanScyoc.

Several of the school children from school were in attendance at the wedding of Leonard Zeigler and Katherine Lepp, Tuesday.

Oliver Inloes sang a "bass" solo at Literary Friday night. Oliver has a splendid voice and would make a talented singer if he would only take the training.

F. F. Wurst, one of the Collyer merchants, returned from a two weeks' absence. Fred tells us he was in a Kansas City hospital having a surgical operation performed.

Van Staples tells us that his brother Jack has enlisted as a regular in the standing army and is serving in the Georgia division. Van relates that Jack has proved an expert marksman.

W. F. Teague was presented with a very elegant leather bound Bible at Sunday School Sunday. The gift was a token presented in behalf of the Sunday School for his long continued service as superintendent of the school.

We received a complete supply of correspondence material from the World office this week. The liberality of our good journalist indicates that he would have us get busy and produce something. Many thanks for the contribution.

The Farmer's Union men were busily engaged placing tables in the upper north room of the school house, Tuesday. The arrangement was being made to entertain the guests with an oyster supper Wednesday night.

Toot! Toot! Have you heard the Collyer band? Well, it is just getting organized and it won't be long till the city walls will begin to quake with its melodious strains. The boys are completing arrangements for regular practice. Dr. LaCerte, we understand, will give special direction.

Put on your old blue head gear, With a flop over the left ear, For Wa-Keeney game is due tonight, We will win the battle And make the old bones rattle; For if we can't go around we'll go thru.

—Taken from a student's note book.

Dr. G. A. Lacerte has returned to Collyer and will resume his practice after an absence of several years. The doctor located here several years ago and became quite popular among the people of the community. His return will be a renewal of old acquaintance as well as forming new ones.

An open door literary program was given Friday night. The attendance was good. The following officers were elected for the bi-monthly session: W. F. Teague, president; C. E. Frye, vice president; Minnie Tilton, secretary; Mattie Teague, treasurer; Ralph Wurst, sergeant-at-arms, and Fred Teague, literary editor.

Quid sit futurum cras, fuge quaere re et

Quem Fors dierum cumque dabit, lucro

Cadepone; nec dulces amores Sperne, puer, neque tu choreas.

The future in the morrow shun to seek;

Each day that fate shall give thee, count as gain;

Nor spurn, O youth, sweet loves, Nor choral dance and song.

—Last Days of Pompeii.

One of the main features of Friday night's program was a collection of lantern slides taken from the Panama canal. The pictures showed various phases of the construction work carried on in the canal; also reproductions of natural scenery about the canal. The credit of obtaining these slides is due to the county superintendent. Through her kindness she has offered to supply us with the lantern from time to time, and obtain for us various subjects to present in connection with school work.

An event of Friday night disclosed to the minds of the spectators a bit of skill displayed in the art of basket ball. The game consisted of a contest between the T. C. H. S. second team and the Collyer High school. The rival teams were apparently burning with intense desire for victory, and determined to contend for it with all the heroic energy they could muster. The boys are to be congratulated for their bully playing. Morrell through continued practice entered the game in good shape and did some excellent playing. Wurst displayed a bit of herculean strength in handling the ball and gave the team several points. George and Jesse Kessler both displayed their skill in holding their opponents down. Briggs has become quite proficient in the art and therefore smoothed over many rough places for the team. Harry Allison refereed the game. The final score 18 to 18 gave Collyer a close victory. This makes the first game between the schools and we hope to have the pleasure of making an engagement with the boys again that will result in as friendly a contest.
