Although some Irish railway men have been dismissed for refusing to drive trains in pursuance of their anti-munitions policy, it is expected a strike will not follow.

The policy of the men seems to be to avoid a strike, which they say the premier is playing for. They announce they will continue in their refusal to handle munitions or drive trains with troops aboard.

The Irish Labor party has issued a manifesto declaring that the premier and the chancellor are scheming to bring about a strike.

Speaking about the Londonderry situation in the House of Commons yesterday, Lieut. Colonel Wilfrid Ashley, Unionist, declared that victory rested with the government. The chief secretary for Ireland and the vicerey, he said, were prisoners in their own houses; the officials of Dublin Castle were equally prisoners and obliged to take exercise in the castle grounds. Ashley demanded martial law and more troops.

During discussion of the home rule bill Lord Robert Cecil declared his conviction that not a single member of the government had the slightest belief that the bill would do anything whatever to solve the Irish question.

Londonderry, June 23—(By the Associated Press)—Londonderry was again the scene of rioting today. Unionists and Nationalists shot at each other over barricades. The military prevented citizens from venturing into the streets which were deserted except by the belligerents.

Looting occurred in the city during the night.

EXPECT PROHIBITION FIGHT WILL GO TO CONVENTION FLOOR

RUMBLINGS OF DISCORD OVER ISSUE BE- COMING OMINOUS—BURLESON FOR MODIFICATION OF VOL- STEAD ACT.

San Francisco, Cal., June 23—Rumblings of discord over prohibition issue became hourly more ominous today as delegates and party chiefs arrived in increasing numbers for the national convention.

Hope that the gathering storm might spend itself behind the closed doors of the platform committee virtually was abandoned by the leaders and they prepared to face an outbreak of tempestuous debate on the floor of the convention itself.

Such a development, it was agreed everywhere would hold many dramatic possibilities, including a further complication of the uncertain outlook as to the presidential nomination.

Already the overshadowing issue in pre-convention conferences, the question of a platform declaration against the bone dry law almost took the whole stage for itself today as the delegates heard of Postmaster General Burleson's announcement of a modification of the Volstead act.

By many accustomed to regard the postmaster general as a political spokesman for the White House, the development was accepted as a warning of what was the wind of administration influence would blow.

Others among the party leaders refused to take that view but no one here assumed to know with certainty how far the sentiments of President Wilson might be in accord with those of Mr. Burleson.

What everyone here does know, however, is that both sides of the controversy are cementing their lines and bringing their heaviest artillery for a finish fight. After many conferences in an effort to lay a basis for harmony, Homer S. Cummings, the National Chairman, said today it seemed to be a "fair bet" that the
