

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A newspaper thief in Boston has been sentenced to a month's imprisonment in the house of correction.

The wheat crop in the State of New York, it is said by farmers, will exceed an average yield, while in Michigan it will go beyond that of the past six years.

Mr. Henry Rockwell, the well known theatrical manager and circus proprietor, died at Cincinnati, on Monday last.

Richard M. Johnson has been appointed Secretary to the Mexican Commissioners in the place of W. Carey Jones, resigned.

Why is a mouse like a load of hay? Because the cat'll eat it.

Who ever knew a driver to commit a blunder that he didn't wallop his horses for it?

Tart words make no friends; a spoonful of honey will catch more flies than a gallon of vinegar.

My dear, Gaius's last words are reported to have been—"My dear wife, farewell. You cannot imagine how much I love you."

Wood Fuel.—A common locomotive engine consumes not less than two and a half cords of wood for every one hundred miles it runs.

"A-las! a-las!" is the old bachelor exclaimed when he felt a desire to marry. He made the same exclamation after marriage, but spelt it differently.

To DEMOCRATS WHO VOTED FOR OLD ZACH.—Get out of this Taylor business as soon as you can, and make way for whiggery.—Boston Post.

MARY.—This common but beautiful name is from the Hebrew, and signifies a "tear drop." Mary was the name of the earliest at the grave, and Mary was the name of the conqueror of Jerusalem.

Mr. Knowlton thought Baron Munchausen died in debt or did—but we presume that such must have been the case, as he was a man of enormous ill-litabilities.

"We saw a Frenchman in San Francisco, most cordially embracing a Choctaw Indian."

"Debate!" said he, "be one real native American—the true red republican!"—Alta Californian.

Mr. Partridge was much shocked at hearing that Powers, the sculptor, was another just.

How TO DO IT.—Punch says to resuscitate a drowned Yankee, search his pockets.

To resuscitate a drowned Englishman, broil a beef steak under his nose.

A Frenchman may be brought to life at any time, by a skillful imitation of a bullfrog in his car.

CHINESE MODE OF ADMINISTERING OATHS.—The witness is made to kneel, and to break a saucer on a bar in front of him. The following oath is then administered: "You shall tell the truth, the whole truth, the saucer is cracked, and if you do not tell the truth, your soul will be cracked like the saucer."

IN THE MINOR STATES OF Germany there are five hundred and forty-one miles of railroad, which have been built at a cost of $87,400,000.

A MEDICAL WRITING.—At the late assizes for the county of Cornwall, a curious incident occurred of the force of habit. A surgeon, named Ward, gave the following evidence to the benefit of twelve clopping Cornish juriesmen:—"I found him in erysipal inflammation of the face and of a brownish brown, covered with furfuraceous scales, the result of the peeling of the cuticle; tongue dark brown and dry; pulse 120 and thready; slight subsultus jacitatus; no matted terebra; answered when roused, sometimes sleepily, sometimes incoherently; he was in a sloopy, comatose state, and clearly moribund."

FLORIDA, whose motto is "Let us Alone," appears to be doing things in her own way, and to depend from all her sisters. It has two Governors.

ITALIAN WOMEN still maintain their reputation for love of their country, as well as their defenders. A resal, destined for Rome, has been captured on the Tiber by the French, apparently laden with whetstones, but which was found to have been supplied by a Lombard Countess, and to contain a supply of saltpeter and 3000 sacks of lead.

DOMESTIC LIFE.—Pleasure is to women, what the sun is to the flower; if moderately enjoyed, it beautifies, it it enriches, and it imparts to it its fragrance; if it is overdone, it dries and it destroys. But the duties of domestic life, exercised as they should be, in retirement, and calling forth all the sensibilities of the female, are perhaps as necessary to the full development of her charms as the shade and the shadow are to the rose, confirming its beauty, and increasing its fragrance.

HIGH PINKET REGION.—"Dow Jey," the eccentric, in allusion to the exclusion of many would-be-churchgoers from the sanctuary, by reason of their high pew rents in our fashionable churches, characteristic remarks:—"There is a high duty on the fashionable waters of divine grace; and you have to pay at least a penny a church for a nibble at the bread of life. To go to church, in any kind of tolerable style, costs a hoop a year, and become very well when a question of you go to Heidelberg, is because you can't afford to go to Heaven at the present exorbitant prices."

A BRIGHT SON OF EAIN.—Some time ago an auctioneer's notice posters sent him by a job printer, containing a schedule of hardware sale to take place. On reading it over he discovered a typographical error, viz: the word tools spelt "toools" with three o's. "One too many"—said the auctioneer—"I take the printer."

Lola Montez, the celebrated woman who on account of her beauty, accomplishments, wildness, and connection with the abdicated old monarch of Bavaria, occasioned so much excitement in Europe two years ago, has at length become sober, and well as quiet, and has now a bride. She was married to a very rich young English officer in London on the 19th ult. Her tastes in literature and the fine arts are well known, but her previous habits it was thought showed that she had no taste for the exclusiveness that married life entails on those who become subject to it. The taste of her husband in the address seems to have been somewhat of those who are acquainted with the facility which the countess has exhibited in the choice and change of lovers in years gone by.

A NEW CURE FOR CHOLERA.—We are told of an Irish woman living on Wash street, who some two weeks since had a severe attack of cholera, and while in bed very much cramped, her friends standing around, mortaring and rubbing her limbs, to reduce the distended muscles, a person in the room commenced playing a tune on a fiddle. In a few moments the cramped limbs became relaxed, and she was enabled to leap from the bed to the floor, and began dancing to the music of the fiddle with such a hearty good will, and so free from pain and distortion of muscle, that she soon dispelled all melancholy, inspired the crowd with her own high tone of feeling, got up a general dance, and demonstrated that music hath charms, &c.—St. Louis Union.

Struggle in Europe—Ex-President Tyler.

The following letter, says the Journal of Commerce, from Ex-President Tyler, to a friend in New York, will doubtless be read with interest. The gentleman to whom it was addressed has taken the liberty of making it public.

I have been gratified to learn, that your course on the Hungarian question has been so entirely in consonance with my own feelings, although I have taken no occasion heretofore to express them. That noble people are entitled to the deepest sympathy of every man who has any feelings whatsoever.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

What shall be said of their opponents in this great struggle for freedom? Wherever they move desolation marks their progress. In prosecuting the war, they seem to have made the attributes of civilized men and to have become little better than demons. Acts disgraceful to the worst stages of the world signalize their smallest victories. Villages sacked and plundered; the noblest of the people carried off for disgraceful executions, and women of the first class exposed in their persons, and subjected to the most atrocious tortures.

From the Louisville Journal. Relative Cost of Water and Steam Power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Such have been the improvements of late years, in the steam engine, and in the economy of fire, that the steam gradually taking the place of water as a motive power. The object of the present article is to show the present relative cost of each. It will, however, be borne in mind, that the cost of water power, is placed off the steam engine, as it is not a motive power, but a power.

Homes for All.

[This beautiful, vigorous and soul-cheering poem, we copy from the Philadelphia Dollar Newspaper. Who author is we do not know, but if he has any more left of the same sort, and will send them to us, we will do our best to immortalize him. Read it, friends of the west, and then answer, is it not a glorious production?]

Let the old ead rise in his pride-grown glory, In an ardent song of days gone by; Let her bold heart glow with her own fire, And let her eyes be bright with tears; We will turn to the west, to the strong young west, Where the sun through the wild grass seems to fall, And we'll shout to the world with hearty zest, Here are homes for the millions—homes for all!

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride; We will shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west, We'll shout to the west, to the young young west.

Let her hand her halberd wrapped in sheen, Where her fields look down on the passing tide; Let her host of her mountain grand and green, And above her the forest lightning ride