FREDERICK'S DIARY.

Extracts Showing the Comprehensive, Statesmanlike Grasp of the Dead Ruler.

(Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.)

BRUNNEN, Sept. 22.—The publication of the diary of Frederick's last years was recognized as an event of the greatest national importance.

Official and political circles, however, that are intimately versed on the innermost history of the construction of the empire, have been astounded by the publication, whilst the whole German people are stirred to their very depths by revelations which show the real greatness of the deceased Emperor Frederick, his influence in creating the empire, and his noble aims for the future.

Extracts of the diary were communicated to the Deutsche Reichshaus through the Baden statesman, Baron Von Roggenbach, who was long an intimate friend of the late Emperor, and was much with him during his illness at San Remo.

Baron Roggenbach, it seems, had the assent of the Emperor Victoria to the publication of the extracts, but neither Prince Bismarck nor the present Emperor William was consulted. It is, therefore, thought probable that the publication will have some startling results as affecting the persons concerned in the revelations.

It is significant that the North German Gazette (Bismarck's organ) has not yet mentioned the diary. The National Zeitung complains of the indiscretion of the publication as shown in the selection of the passages, and says it was obviously not intended by Emperor Frederick that they should ever be made public.

It instances the revelations that at Versailles there was much friction between the Emperor (then Crown Prince) and Prince Bismarck over the declaration of the existence of the German empire; that Bismarck drafted the letter in which the King of Bavaria is made to appear as having reluctantly yielded to the will of Prussia, to assume the imperial dignity; and that in October of 1870, Bismarck informed the Grand Duke of Baden of his determination to wage persistent war against the papal doctrine of infallibility and to otherwise assail the influence of the Catholic Church in Germany.

It is argued that a disclosure of the nature of this last revelation is alike unwise and imprudent, and will tend to revive the slumbering fires of the Kulturkampf against Bismarck as the sole originator of the policy of the repression of Catholicism. Another of these indiscreet revelations is pointed out to be the statement of the deceased Emperor that, during the negotiations at Versailles, it was proposed to proclaim as King of France Leopold II, King of the Belgians. M. Thiers said he was in favor of the scheme if it implied a union of Belgium and France.

The diary does not state the reasons for the abandonment of the proposal, but the French people will accurately surmise that Prince Bismarck's project to create a Napoleon III. in France was the result of the acquisition by Belgium of the northern provinces. The project is a certain revival of France should be crushed in the coming war.

The most touching feature of the diary is the evidence of the unflinching determination of the Emperor to maintain his independence of character. On July 24, 1870, the eve of the French campaign, he writes: "At the baptism of my last born the king was named after his father, Louis Napoleon. You are not lost everything; having fought like brave soldiers, you have not lost your honor. 'Die Weltgeschichte ist das Leben'—'The history of the world is the life of the man.'"

He is the man who, in the face of the most powerful army of the world, stood firm and met the Emperor. The Crown Prince then describes the interview as related to him by the King. Napoleon assured the King that he had only given to the public opinion when he resolved upon war. He showed marvelous ignorance of the German situation. He thought the force of the Emperor's army. He asked where Prince Frederick Charles was. The King answered, "With seven army corps he is sitting in Belgium. His face contracted itself painfully. For the first time he knew that he had not had the whole of the German army opposed to him. After half an hour's interview the King and Emperor parted. The latter, receiving me, held out his hand, and said: 'I am glad to see you. The tears which were running down his cheeks.'"

Referring to the attitude of England after the outbreak of the war, he writes on Oct. 2, "The Queen, who follows her actions with touching sympathy, telegraphs to the King, exhorting him to high-souled dealings."

Concerning Jules Favre's offers for peace, she has, however, no practical suggestions to make. She writes a note to Prince Bismarck concerning the possibility of the railway mail service at Burlington, Ill., have been appointed superintendents of railway mail service. The former is assigned to the eleven division, with headquarters at Fort Worth, Texas, and the latter to the tenth division, with headquarters at St. Paul. These divisions were recently established under an act of Congress passed some months ago.

Changes in the Mail Service. WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—George W. Hunter, Missouri, chief clerk of the railway mail service at Kansas City, and Walter H. Butler, of the position of chief clerk of the railway mail service at Burlington, Ill., have been appointed superintendents of railway mail service. The former is assigned to the eleven division, with headquarters at Fort Worth, Texas, and the latter to the tenth division, with headquarters at St. Paul. These divisions were recently established under an act of Congress passed some months ago.

Anna Dickinson's Brother John. RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 22.—Anna Dickinson's brother, John Dickinson, learned the printer's trade with the late Hon. David P. Holloway, father of Col. W. R. Holloway, of Indianapolis, in this city, in 1824, and went from here to California. He lived with his uncle, Samuel Edmondson, whose venerable widow, "Auntie Edmondson," still lives here. As in her wont she has been a great benefactor to the poor, she has also been a great benefactor to the poor. She has been a great benefactor to the poor. She has been a great benefactor to the poor.

Minor Matters. A Scheme of Retaliation Which Causes a Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—A great deal of amusement has been created in diplomatic circles over the announcement in the local papers that the Treasury Department has concluded to retaliate upon the republic of Costa Rica for alleged discriminations against the United States by that country.

In the Secretary's letter of instructions to customs officials he says: "The cargoes of Costa Rica are tenders which carry the bananas and coffee from the two or three small ports to vessels in the harbors. All shipments are carried away from the country in English, French, German and American bottoms. It is the absurdity of the retaliation act of Secretary Fairchild is manifest upon its face. It is represented by distinct marks, each mark indicating a different quality or kind of tea, and having a market value of its own in the country from where it is shipped, which separate value, however, is not given in the invoice, as contemplated by the consular regulations. It is said, also, that consignees in these cases invariably receive private invoices from shippers giving the price in detail of each quality of tea, as well as a detailed list of charges, which are not usual given in the invoice. In support of this last statement, attention is called to the fact that importers cannot place the cost and selling prices upon their tea when an invoice is made out in aggregate, as above stated, but must of necessity have other information for the purpose. Assistant Secretary Maynard has written a letter to the collector of customs at New York on the subject, in which he says: 'As the actual cost, and that no other invoices are known to exist, the taking such oaths in cases of the character above named would be practically no more than a mere formality. A method of detection in the presence of spurious or adulterated tea in an importation is suggested, to-wit: by averaging the aggregate value given in an entire importation, and if the per pound value is thus found too low for pure tea, it is evidence of the presence of spurious tea in the importation, and a most careful and scientific inspection should then be made for detection. Your attention is invited to this matter in order that a thorough testing of all imported teas may be made as required by the law and regulations, that proper precautions be taken for detecting these illegal importations and the punishment of the guilty persons.'

Mrs. Sheridan's Income. Said To Be Less Than $10,000 a Year—Why She Is Not Pensioned. WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The statement copied into the World yesterday that Mrs. General Sheridan is in receipt of a handsome income from the estate left by her husband seems very far from the truth. One of the executors says her total income amounts to less than $10,000—a little over $800 a year. After the death of her husband she had practically no ready money. She had paid all the expenses of his long illness, and the nature of these may be imagined from the fact that there were at one time thirty-three persons, physicians, nurses, attendants and others, to be provided for in the house. Mrs. Sheridan is still living quietly at Nonquitt, but will return in time to put her children in school at the Visitation Convent here. There are four of her children, whose education must be provided for now, and it is well understood that if the proposed pension is not voted by this Congress Mrs. Sheridan will be compelled to give up her home, with its associations with her husband's last years and illness, and go into a far less comfortable residence. It is perfectly well understood that a great difficulty in both Senate and House are anxious to vote the pension, and that the only obstacle to its immediate passage is the opposition of Cheside, a Republican member from Indiana, and of Kilgore, the irrepressible member from Texas. In the present state of business in the House a single objection prevents consideration of any special bill.

Department Clerks and Their Votes. WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The question which has occupied the minds of employees in the departments for several weeks—namely, whether they will be permitted to go home and vote in November—has been practically settled in the affirmative. At least nineteen out of twenty of the Democratic employees who have entered the service under this administration will cast their votes. The hold-over Republicans could also go home to vote, in most instances, if they were not afraid to do so. Whether their fears are well founded is conjectural. A number of them, especially those who are married, and who will not stand well with the new administration because they made no effort to bring about its success, are staying with Democratic employees. The Republicans in the departments are better contented to pair than to go home and vote, for not only the reason they do not run any risk of being termed "offensive partisans," but because they save the expense they would incur going to their homes. The departments will be almost depopulated for about a week before and after the election in November. The business in the various executive branches of the government is already being arranged with a view to permitting as many male clerks to take leave of absence as possible. The women in the departments have been given to understand that they are to be permitted to go home to vote as well as to those who desire to go home to vote may be permitted to do so.

Forged Bills of Lading. An Unknown Swindler Basis Grain-Dealers and Banks Out of a Handsome Sum. DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—The grain men of Detroit and various other portions of the country are just at present deeply agitated over a swindling game in which they are more or less interested. The swindle is new and unique. J. W. Helm, of Danville, Ill., a well-known and extensive grain-broker, has among his customers the firm of Kiser Bros., of Hammond, Ill., although he never personally met the members of the firm. A few weeks ago, while on a railway train in Illinois, Mr. Helm was approached by a stranger, who introduced himself as "Mr. Kiser, of Hammond, Ill." Helm was "pleased to meet him." The stranger offered Helm several cars of grain, the latter made an offer, which was accepted the following day by letter, with the request that Helm meet "Mr. Kiser" at the depot with $2,100. Helm complied, and the following day received bills of lading for seven or eight additional cars, and remitted $2,900 more. A few days later the two met at a fair in Champagne, when Kiser, without Helm seeing him, left him on a financial footing with Kiser's Bank of Urbana, Ill., and but a day or two thereafter he was in possession of the bills of lading on J. S. Lapham & Co., of Detroit, on which the bank advanced him $2,500. A few days later on Kiser wrote the First National Bank of Danville, Ill., to issue bills of lading for two cars of grain on Wardell & McIntire, of New York, and requesting that $1,700 be advanced to Kiser Bros., of Hammond, Ill., who refused the request and sent the bills of lading and draft to Kiser Bros., of Hammond. This was the first time in the history of the credit of Kiser Bros. in their business that they had the bank that the entire transaction was a forgery. The total number of bills forged by the swindler Kiser—more or less—amounted to 25 cars of grain on prominent New York, Detroit and Cincinnati firms. The only losers are J. W. Helm, $4,000, and Kiser Bros., $2,500, who have each a check on the bank for the amount. As yet the identity of the swindler and forger remains undiscovered.

Boy Shot by His Comrade. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Charles Ross, a thirteen-year-old boy, was shot and killed this afternoon at Ft. Vernon, by Elijah Spencer, a lad about the same age. They had been hunting and while returning home began throwing their hats into the air and firing at them. During the progress of this dangerous amusement, Spencer's gun hung fire, and young Ross ran in front of the gun and received its contents. His right arm was shattered and his side torn open. He lived two hours. Ross is the son of a young widow of Vincennes, who had been in Ft. Vernon doing short-hand work for the committee who are investigating the books of Pesty Company. He was her only child. Young Spencer, a leader in the game of the Pesty company, is the youngest son of Hon. E. M. Spencer, a leading member of the Pesty company.

Murder or Accident. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MATROON, Ill., Sept. 22.—Coroner Ellis was called to Charleston, to-day, to hold an inquest upon the body of Con. Moriarty, of this city, which was found on the railroad track this morning, under circumstances which led to the belief that he may have been killed and the body placed on the track. Engineer Giddens' locomotive struck the body and rolled it off the rails. He stopped his train in a few moments, but when the engineer reached it there was no warmth in it. The circumstances are suspicious.

John E. Sullivan's Communion. BOSTON, Sept. 22.—John L. Sullivan's success says that "The Irish man passed a somewhat restless night and was more feverish to-day than he was yesterday. His temperature at 10 a. m. was as high as 102. His pulse was also very high and the general symptoms were somewhat alarming. He had rather a chilly attack of cold this afternoon."

The Emperors. William's Forthcoming Visit to Vienna.—The Czar with His Army. BERLIN, Sept. 22.—On Friday the Emperor will start for a visit to the Grand Duke of Baden, at his summer residence on the island of Manau, where he will meet the dowager Empress Augusta. He will afterward go to Munich and Vienna. His presence in Vienna threatens to be attended by embarrassing demonstrations by the German and anti-Semite partisans of the Emperor in the lower house of the Reichstag. The German members of the Vienna Municipal Council are arranging for torch-light processions in the Emperor's honor, and it is proposed that he should receive deputations from German communities throughout Austria-Hungary. The Austrian authorities fear the Emperor's arrival in consequence of bands of Pan-Germans parading the streets, singing German national songs and flouting the German flag. The recent demonstration when Herr Program and Steuders left a meeting while the Austrian national hymn was being sung, has been so wanting in the authorities.
