THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW.

A Large Number of Visitors Delighted with the Rich and Varied Collection.

The chrysanthemum show is closing in a most flattering way. The largest number--with the exception of Wednesday, when the school children were admitted--were present last night, many, no doubt, attracted by the announcement that Mrs. Harrison would be present, and many who desired to see the display, which is so generally talked about and so greatly admired.

At Appomattox Court-house, at the close of the late war, the Union officers there present founded a permanent organization, which was named the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. Gen. W. S. Hancock was elected first commander-in-chief. After General Hancock's death Gen. Phil Sheridan was chosen as his successor, and he in turn was succeeded by ex-President Grant. The order resembles, in its nature and in the character of the men who compose it, the earlier military organization, formed by the officers of the Revolutionary war, known as the Order of Cincinnati. In both cases the central object is to fitly perpetuate the memories of the great struggles through which this Nation had passed, and of the heroes to whom she owes so much. But the Loyal Legion adds the broader object of beneficence toward the widows and children of its members, the betterment of the condition of the United States soldier and sailor of to-day, and fostering military and naval science. Besides commissioned officers, men in civil life, who were conspicuous for their loyalty to the Nation in the times of our greatest need, are frequently elected to membership. The honor of membership descends locally from father to son, as with the case of the old revolutionary society.

At a recent meeting of the Indiana members of the order, in this city, the following gentlemen were present: Gen. R. S. Foster, Maj. W. H. Chilton, Comdr. F. S. A. Maj. Charles L. Wilson, Lieut. B. B. Peck, Lieut. Col. Oran Perry, Lieut. Stanton S. Peale, and Gen. Fred Kneller. The following officers were elected pro tem, until permanent organization should be effected: Commander, Gen. Lewis Wallace; vice-commander, Gen. R. S. Foster; recorder, Lieut. B. B. Peck; treasurer, Col. Oran Perry. This institution of the Loyal Legion is to afford opportunity for applicants for membership. Seventy-five eligible applications have been received, and, early in December a permanent State commandery will be formed here, with that number of charter members, twelve of whom are residents of Indianapolis. The Loyal Legion has now a mem-

MINOR CITY MATTERS.

To-Day's Dates. GENERAL ASSEMBLY KNIGHTS OF LABOR--Mansur Hall, morning and afternoon. CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBITION--Tomlinson Hall, day and evening. OPERA-HOUSE--N. C. Goodwin, afternoon and evening. PARK THEATER--"A Living Lie," afternoon and evening. BATTLE OF ATLANTA CYCLOPAMA--Market street, between Illinois and Tennessee streets, day and evening.

Local News Notes. A marriage license was issued yesterday to Mitchell S. Meyberg and Dora Messing. A building permit was issued yesterday to Thomas Howard, frame cottage, Peru, between Lincoln avenue and Seventh street, $500.

Personal and Society. Mrs. John Roberts has gone to Chicago for a few days. Mrs. E. W. Combs is quite ill at the residence of her father, Mr. C. E. Kneale. J. C. Ochiltree, of the Hendricks County Republican, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. David Macy has issued invitations for a tea on Monday in honor of Miss Vaughn and Miss Moran, guests of Miss Carrie Elliott. The "N" Cooking Club will be entertained at dinner this evening by Miss J. C. Lanier at her home on North Pennsylvania, 7:30.

Luke A. Staley, of Cincinnati, and one of the commissioners of Hamilton county, Ohio, is in the city, spending a few days with friends. Mrs. E. L. McKee will entertain friends informally, on Tuesday from 3 to 6, at her home, Harrison and guests, Mrs. Brown and Miss Strickland.

Miss Niles, who has been visiting Mrs. T. A. Hendricks and Miss Annie Wilson, who has been the guest of Mrs. C. E. Kneale and Mrs. Fred Fannin, returned to their homes in Washington yesterday.

Church fairs and entertainments were numerous last night. The ladies of the English Lutheran Church gave an apron fair, the ladies of Mayflower Church a holder fair, and the St. Paul's Church ladies an illustrated "Little Women" entertainment.

The Misses Lottie and Nellie Simmons entertained quite a number of young friends, Thursday evening, at their home, No. 222 North Mississippi street, with masquerade, supper, music and recitation. They were in honor of Miss Nellie's fifteenth birthday.

Yesterday was Indiana day at the Woman's Club, and the meeting was exceedingly interesting. The first paper of the afternoon was on "General Development," and by Mrs. Henry Jameson, and the second on "Literary Life," by Mrs. C. Foster. Both were admirable, and in the short time allotted them--a half hour each--the subjects were carefully covered. The conversation was led by Mrs. N. A. Hyde, who spoke especially of Miss Catherine Merrill's work in this city, and many pleasing facts were related. Several days ago the secretary sent letters to several Indiana authors, Gen. Lew Wallace and wife, Mr. Ben. J. Parker, Mr. James Whitcomb Rives, were among them, and letters of regret were received from the two latter. Mr. Jacob Dunn, whose literary work for Indiana history and other productions had given him rank in authorship, was the only one who accepted the invitation and joined in the conversation. There is so much interesting as well as valuable data connected with the given subjects that the matter of condensation was a difficult task. The day was one of the best of this year.

THE CITY'S REVENUES.

More Money for Municipal Purposes or Increased Tax-Rate Said to Be Needed.

The legislative committee of the Council and Board of Aldermen has organized by electing Mayor Denny chairman, and Councilman Kelley secretary. The committee will meet next Wednesday evening for further consideration of business. "There are a number of matters upon which the city badly needs special legislation," said the Mayor to a Journal reporter yesterday. "The city attorney has a number of bills in his hands now which were presented to the Legislature four and two years ago, but they failed to pass. The main question for our committee to consider is whether we will recommend an increased rate of taxation. The law restricting the city to an assessment of ninety cents taxation upon the hundred dollars valuation was passed when the tax-duplicate of the city amounted to $60,000,000, and that rate produced enough revenue for city purposes, but reduction of valuation continuing to be made there was a consequent reduction in the amount. Two years ago the valuation of property was placed at $55,000,000, but there was much complaint, and it was reduced about 20 per cent. Now the valuation is only $45,000,000, with the same 90-cent rate of taxation. "In what does the need of increased revenue consist?" he was asked. "Within the eleven years five or six square miles of new territory have been taken in, and the city is growing rapidly, making a constant demand for new streets and other things that require an outlay of money. Under the law, as it now stands, it will be about five years before a new valuation can be made, and unless something is done the city will have to get along for the length of time with its inadequate income. Property is more valuable now than it was in 1886, and if natural gas continues to be a success, it is safe to presume that it will advance 50 per cent, or even more in value during the next five years, and as the limits will be extended, the city will require more income than it now has."

"What is the heavy burden now?" "We pay about $100,000 per annum interest on old indebtedness, and about as much more to keep up the fire department. The total indebtedness of the city is $1,900,000, of which sum, however, $500,000 represents the Belt railroad bonds, for which the city has ample security and receives the interest regularly from the railroad company. This indebtedness is not being reduced, nor can it be under the present system of taxation. Before we make any recommendations for an increase we propose to get the opinion of the leading business men, the payers of the city. If, after looking at the matter as business men and in a business light they will oppose it, the matter will stop, because we do not propose to put our backs to the wall, and be knocked out by them, which they can easily do if they are opposed to such legislation. I think, however, when the matter becomes thoroughly understood by the citizens generally, they will not oppose it."

THE LOYAL LEGION.

Temporary Organization of Indiana Officers Toward Forming a State Commandery.

At Appomattox Court-house, at the close of the late war, the Union officers there present founded a permanent organization, which was named the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. Gen. W. S. Hancock was elected first commander-in-chief. After General Hancock's death Gen. Phil Sheridan was chosen as his successor, and he in turn was succeeded by ex-President Grant. The order resembles, in its nature and in the character of the men who compose it, the earlier military organization, formed by the officers of the Revolutionary war, known as the Order of Cincinnati. In both cases the central object is to fitly perpetuate the memories of the great struggles through which this Nation had passed, and of the heroes to whom she owes so much. But the Loyal Legion adds the broader object of beneficence toward the widows and children of its members, the betterment of the condition of the United States soldier and sailor of to-day, and fostering military and naval science. Besides commissioned officers, men in civil life, who were conspicuous for their loyalty to the Nation in the times of our greatest need, are frequently elected to membership. The honor of membership descends locally from father to son, as with the case of the old revolutionary society.

Seventy-five eligible applications have been received, and, early in December a permanent State commandery will be formed here, with that number of charter members, twelve of whom are residents of Indianapolis. The Loyal Legion has now a membership of over five thousand, and extends all over the United States, and is rapidly increasing its numbers so that it will soon probably reach the full limit of those who can claim membership.

THE GENERAL'S OLD REGIMENT.

A Pleasant Reception, in Which the President-Elect and the Veterans Join.

One of the most pleasant after-features of the campaign was the reception tendered General Harrison, last night, by the members of his old regiment, the Seventieth. It was held in Wright's Hall, which had been handsomely decorated, in the same block in which the General has his law office, and was attended only by members of the regiment and their wives. Of the 400 members of the command surviving, nearly 300 were present, including nearly all who live in this State, and a few from other States. General and Mrs. Harrison reached the hall at 8:30 o'clock, and were applauded as they entered. They took a position at one end of the room, and the veterans and their wives, then, as they passed the General and Mrs. Harrison, shook hands with them. There were many words of greeting, and the General in return always had a kind remark for everyone. When the greeting was over General and Mrs. Harrison passed among the assembly and spent an hour in pleasant conversation. During the time quite a number of army and campaign songs were sung by a glee club composed of members of the regiment. Shortly before 10 o'clock the General and wife returned to their home, many good wishes for their future happiness attending them.

After this meeting of the Seventieth veterans was called to order by Col. Samuel Merrill, and, upon motion, he directed to designate a committee of five to wait upon General Harrison at an early date and ascertain if it would be agreeable to him for the members of his regiment to accompany him to Washington on the occasion of his inauguration as President. A request was also made for all members of the regiment who wish to join the proposed excursion to notify Colonel Merrill within ten days in order that the proper arrangements may be made. At the suggestion of Moses G. McLain, the place of holding the next regimental reunion was changed from Southport to Indianapolis, and the time of meeting was also changed from the second Thursday in September to the first. Mr. McLain stated that the brigade would be held with that of the Seventieth this year, and it was, therefore, out of place to go to some village like Southport. Colonel Merrill also had a suggestion, and it was that the President of the United States be invited to attend the reunion. If that was done, it was imperative that the reunion be held in Indianapolis, and that the members of the regiment be present to read from Capt. William Meredith of Chicago, and Harry Martin of Vincennes, after which the meeting adjourned. Among the prominent members of the regiment present were Lieut. Col. Samuel Merrill, Daniel M. Randall, Moses G. McLain, Maj. James L. Mitchell and Assistant Surgeon S. Moore, all of the Fifty-first Indiana, and Capt. Joseph C. Hadley, of Loganport; Capt. Henry M. Endsley, of Fairfield; Surgeon Amos Rescan, of Morgan county; Capt. P. S. Carson, of Richmond; Col. W. C. Mitchell, of Clarksville; Lieut. Henry M. Kemper, of Dayton; O. Judge Grubb, of Martinsville, and many others.

General Harrison's Visitors.

General and Mrs. Harrison yesterday received a call of one hundred ladies from Cincinnati. They were members of the G. A. R. Relief Corps of that city, and were escorted by Lytle Post Juvenile Drum Corps. The ladies dined at the Union Station and marched out to the Harrison residence, where they were cordially received. Among other visitors were General Reuben Davis, of Aberdeen, Miss.; Congressman J. B. White and L. B. Nide of Fort Wayne. Several enthusiastic Republicans of Redfield, D. T., have sent the General a live bear. The letter accompanying it says it was caught on the banks of the Jim river. The letter also states that the Republicans of that country are just now over the results of the election, and are nothing short of a Dakota blizzard will cool them down, and that many of them will be in Washington at the inauguration.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND--MR. GOODWIN IN A DOUBLE BILL.

Mr. Goodwin is to be congratulated upon the success he has manifestly achieved in his efforts to establish himself as a comedian of the so-called legitimate school. Amusing as he has always been in anything he played, it remained for his thoroughly artistic and discriminating impersonation of Gringore, in "A Royal Revue," to convince all who saw it at the Grand Thursday night that he is capable of a much higher grade of work than that so long identified with him. This impression was heightened by his endeavors in "Lead Me Five Shillings," last night. It was full of delicate touches and was the less well considered and presented. The sketch was followed by "Turned Up," in which he was immensely funny, and the breezy and rollicking manner which it was given caused continuous laughter. The same bill will be repeated to-night, and at the matinee the opening bill will be seen again. Mr. Goodwin's company is unusually well selected. The members all do their work with spirit and understanding.

NOTES.

In accordance with the policy of cheap matinees adopted some weeks ago, the prices for the matinee at the Grand this afternoon will be 25 and 50 cents for all parts of the house. Mr. Goodwin will appear in "Royal Revue" and "Confusion," in which he caused so much amusement Thursday night. To-night his engagement will conclude with "Lead Me Five Shillings" and "Turned Up."

Bartley Campbell's "Fate," with Miss Lee Larmer and Mr. Geo. W. Larsen, in the leading roles, will be the attraction at the Park next week. The last performance of "Counterfeit" will be given to-day. Ezra Kendall's play, "A Pair of Kids," which will be seen for the first time here at Englia's, the first part of next week, is one of the funniest farce comedies and Kendall is a genius in his way.

The School Commissioners.

At the meeting of the School Commissioners last evening the finance committee reported in favor of securing a temporary loan of $15,000, to be due Jan. 1, 1889. This the board approved. The committee on light and heat reported that school buildings Nos. 4, 14, 16, 18, 20, 24 and 26 were not supplied with natural gas. Nos. 4 and 24 are ready for it. On motion of Mr. Baker it was ordered that the natural gas company be notified that if the gas was not supplied within two weeks to these two buildings the board would consider the contract therefor forfeited. The resignations of Miss Borden and Mrs. Firmin, both of No. 13, were accepted, and the names of Miss Conely and Mrs. A. J. No. 12 were approved. The appointment of Miss Lucy Elliott to fill the vacancy at No. 12 was recommended. Miss Helen K. Lewis was selected to fill the vacancy at No. 4. Miss Lewis was granted leave of absence for two months, and Miss Leola B. Hill was appointed to teach in her place during her absence. Adjourned.

Benevolent Society's Officers.

The Indianapolis Benevolent Society has chosen the following officers for the ensuing year: President--Oscar C. McCulloch. Vice-presidents--Silas T. Brown, Rev. J. A. Roodhiser, Mrs. H. E. Moses and Mrs. Henry Coblurn. Secretary--Charles Martindale. Treasurer--V. Matt. Executive Committee--Geo. Merritt, Franklyn Taylor, Rev. R. V. Hunter and Mrs. Julia H. Goodhart. Finance Committee--C. C. Foster and H. J. Milikan.

Don't Want a Special Session.

All the talk about a special session of the Legislature being called originated, it is said, with the second-class politicians. Governor Gray, it is reported, said yesterday that he had not given the matter any serious attention, and that he is not now inclined to call a special session, but that he will consider the matter and give his answer next week.

New Business Enterprises.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday for the Indiana Trust and Safe Deposit Company of Indianapolis. The capital stock is $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. Joseph A. Moore, Charles E. Barrett and Herman F. Sprandale are the directors. Articles were also filed for the Indianapolis Flax-mill Company, which has a capital stock of $10,000. William Keans, Charles Haupt and Diederich Musmann are directors.

An Infant Buried.

An infant child of George Tucker, who lives at 82 Olive street, while with several children, yesterday, around a fire which they had built in the back yard, fell into the fire. The other children were too young to know what to do and the babe was terribly burned. Dr. Sims was called at once and all that could be done, but there was very little hope of the child's recovery.

Christ Before Pilate.

The exhibition of this great painting, the masterpiece of Munkacsy, will commence this evening at 7 o'clock, in Plymouth Church, and continue for a few days. It may be visited any week day from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M.

All Round the Globe.

Many hundreds of cases of lateral curvature of the spine have been treated, and patients cured, at the National Surgical Institute, this city. The family physician's resources in such cases, as well as in crooked feet and other deformities, are totally inadequate and medicines are worthless. Over thirty years' experience, with thorough knowledge as to appliances, have given the National Surgical Institute a success that carries its reputation around the world. No institution in Indianapolis is so widely and favorably known as the Surgical Institute. A book of 200 pages, giving the history, objects and work of the Institute, is furnished to all applicants who will send 6 cents to pay postage.

A Notable Attraction.

One of the things likely to attract attention at the Flower Mission fair, next week, is the rich tapestry painting which has been in the famous "Dark Room" of Eastman, Schleicher & Lee. Here is a chance for ladies to do a good work, and at the same time secure a handsome work of art for the home; or a chance for gentlemen to buy tickets enough to "come in ahead" and so make a present of this tapestry painting. Tickets for this purpose, in any quantity, for sale only at Eastman, Schleicher & Lee's. The contest will not close until the fair is over.
