Vessels caught in the ice. Where they will be forced to remain until Spring.

MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—The extent of the damage to shipping caused by the recent snow-storm and the unprecedented cold weather is only now beginning to be made known, as the reports of disaster come in from the Gulf and lower St. Lawrence.

Two of them cannot recover. The Liverpool mail steamship, the Portland, which left Montreal on Thursday, found the ice closing in around her. She was finally stopped at Sorel, where she is now frozen in, to remain until next April, when the ice breaks up.

All means of communication between the north and south shore of the Gulf are now cut off, and Quebec is closed up for the season. Dispatches from the island report close-packed ice moving north, while a similar report comes from Riviere du Loup. At Cape Rosier the shoals are covered with ice.

THE CRITICAL STATE OF SAMOA.

The High-Handed Manner in Which the Germans are Running Affairs. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—The steamer Mariposa, from Sydney and Auckland, has arrived here. The correspondents of the Associated Press at Apia, Samoa, writes as follows, under date of Nov. 6: "Matters are daily growing worse in Samoa, instead of improving.

The British Cabinet Withdraws the First and Talks About a Successor for the Latter. LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Cabinet at its session yesterday, in a discussion on the matter of appointing Colonial Governors, especially the Governor of Queensland, and also devoted some time to the question of appointing a chief commissioner of Metropolitan police to succeed Gen. Sir Charles Warren.

During the early part of November the Germans threatened to report some Americans, who opposed their proceedings. Among these was H. T. Morse, an American citizen and the largest merchant in Apia. While Tamassae, the rebel king, who is a tool of the Germans, was besieged on Mulinui Point, near Apia, some of his warriors entered the house of an American man named Scanlan, drove him and his family out of their house, killed his live stock and threatened to take Scanlan's life.

On Oct. 10 a boat-load of Tamassae's men fired into a large boat, filled with Matafa's men, who were peacefully paddling to the harbor, unarmed. None of them were hit, but a number of natives and one English house were hit by bullets which flew across the main street. As a result of this Admiral Fairfax, of the English man-of-war, Calliope, which was here at that time, sent word to Tamassae that he had left orders to the captain of the English man-of-war Lizard that in case the proceeding was repeated, Tamassae should fire into Matafa's boats.

It is reported that German Vice-consul Braden, an ex-German artillery officer, and two other Germans, went to Tamassae's fort, at Salafita, Oct. 18, and gave him several hundred rifles, several thousand cartridges, and a barrel of dynamite. In Oct. 21 soldiers from the man-of-war, Lizard, fired into a boat-load of Matafa's men, who were paddling along to Apia. None were hit. Soon after the Germans fired a volley into several foreigners' houses. A public indignation meeting was held, and as a result the United States Consul Braden, leaves here to-day, and the great battle of Salafita is expected to occur hourly.

WILLIAM'S LATE SPEECH. It is Not an Absolute Assurance of Peace—Talk of General Disarmament. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The Reichstag will reassemble on Tuesday, when business will open with the discussion of the budget and the loan for the reconstruction of the navy. The speech from the throne continues to fill the public mind. An exaggerated optimism regarding the abiding peace replaces the pessimistic forebodings current prior to the speech.

ROMANIAN CABINET UNFAVORABLE TO GERMAN. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] BUREAU, Nov. 24.—The Romanian Cabinet announced to-night, has an unfavorable anti-German element in the Rousophia General Manu, Minister of War, and M. Labovary, Minister of Commerce. Both oppose the King's policy of sympathy for the triple alliance. General Manu was a Russian agent in the construction of forts designed to oppose a Russian advance. M. Labovary has repeatedly declared that no Russian soldier would ever fire upon a Russian.

A MILD MEDICAL SENSATION. LONDON, Nov. 24.—The retirement of Sir William Jenner from the British Medical Association, which was announced to-day, is very significant, and will probably result in the filing of a protest on court against the publication of much confidential matter relating to the treatment of the late Emperor Frederick. Dr. Jenner has been for many years court physician to the Emperor. He attended the Prince Consort in his last illness, and was made a K. C. B. for his services in restoring the Prince of Wales to health on the occasion of the illness of the heir apparent, a few years ago.

supposes that war depends alone upon the decision of sovereignty, that the difficulty threatening Europe is not France alone, and that the Emperor's language means simply that he is preparing with resignation to face the most serious task that can be placed upon the chief of a great nation. The Coloigne Gazette says: "The speech is pacific only in so far as we and our allies are concerned, and as reserved regarding others with whose decisions we have no influence."

THE DOCTOR'S RESIGNATION GROVES OUT OF THE CONTROVERSY CONCERNING DR. MASKEWICZ'S TREATMENT OF THE LATE EMPEROR. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, Nov. 24.—Orders have been issued from Berlin closing the customs bureau on the Lucerne frontier and the Helvetian Jura, the leading trade route into Alsace-Lorraine. The Swiss government has protested against this action on the ground that since 1823, and says that it will be a serious menace to commerce if the route is blocked. The government of Alsace-Lorraine has purchased a vast stretch of territory along the route for the purpose of constructing strategic works. It is improbable that Prince Bismarck will satisfy the Swiss complaint.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS. A Shocking Murder in Southern Russia, Caused by Superstition. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] LONDON, Nov. 24.—A murder has occurred at Graivoron, South Russia, which is one of a series resembling in many respects the White-chapel butcheries, except in connection therewith there is a vein of superstition not yet unraveled in the motive actuating the London murders. The corpse of a peasant girl was found in the woods, several parts of the body having been removed and apparently destroyed. A day or two after the discovery, two peasants were arrested for burglary. The dead girl's handkerchief was found in their room. The culprit confessed to having murdered the girl, and stated in extenuation of her crime, that they had slain her in order to procure fat with which to make a candle, believing that the burning of a candle made from the fat of a murdered body would secure them immunity from detection. This is a popular superstition among the peasants of southern Russia, and is believed that the possession of a corpse's hand or finger, or a candle made from human fat, is a perfect safeguard against ill luck.

Luxurious Quarters for Royalty. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The Emperor, after opening the Reichstag, left for Latispolna on a shooting excursion with the Duke of Austria and Archduke Ferdinand. The party returned to-day. The Duchess of Austria was warmly received by the Emperor. The imperial family is now located for the winter season in the old Schloss, occupying a suite of rooms on the first and second floors, looking on the Schlossplatz. The Emperor suddenly decided, a few weeks ago, to occupy the Schloss, which was deserted as a town residence during the reign of his grandfather. The sudden orders to refurbish the Schloss regardless of cost, and the expenditure of 750,000 marks resulting in the most magnificent rooms in the empire. The dining and drawing-rooms are draped with goblet tapestry and have richly gilt ceilings. The Emperor's working-office are covered with emerald leather, with floral hand-paintings. A number of selected paintings are placed about the room. An electric light, softened by shade-glass, illuminates the whole. The removal of the apartments was done under the Emperor's instructions. The existing apartments of the Schloss have not been touched. In the new suite everything is new.

Important Discovery in Telegraphy. PANAMA, Nov. 16.—Senator Pelegrin, an electrician of Bogota, has patented a telegraph instrument, which, he claims, will revolutionize telegraphy, as it works without batteries. The government appointed a committee of experts to examine into the merits of the machine. In their first report they say: "On the 12th of October we proceeded outside the city and placed the new apparatus in connection with the telegraph to the city, and without a battery we had connection with the main office. On Oct. 16 we practiced another test, and sent messages over a wire 600 meters long, which was laid in posts, without insulators, and some portions of which were allowed to trail along the ground. Once our machine was in operation, the telegraph line was tested with French and English, and they were received without difficulty. The strength of the current received from the equal to a distance of seven and a half leagues, and over this range we could have communicated had our wire stretched that distance."

One Boy Killed by a Moving Train, and Another While Playing on the Tracks. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] HUNTINGTON, Ind., Nov. 24.—This morning, at 4 o'clock, Bert, the fifteen-year-old son of Jacob Eyer, proprietor of the Depot Hotel, at this place, attempted to board a freight train while in motion, in the yards here, but missed his footing and fell on the rails, the wheels in getting over his neck, entirely severing his head from his body and otherwise maiming him. No fault can be attached to the trainmen. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 24.—George Kraft, the four-year-old son of the master carpenter of the Evansville & Terre Haute railroad, was run over and killed by a switch engine this afternoon. He was playing in the yards, and in getting out of the way of an approaching engine, got his feet caught in a frog and was cut all to pieces. The head was severed from the body, and his entrails were scattered along the track. The engineer was blameless.
