Fish Act of the Late Legislature Smashed by a Delaware County Justice.

The Statute Declared Unconstitutional and Void—A Gathering of the Old Settlers Association at Vincennes.

INDIANA.

A Fish Law that is Not Even Good in a Court of a Justice of the Peace. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

MUNCIE, June 7.—A few days ago George Cecil, who resides five miles north of this city, was arrested on the charge of having in his possession a seine, and using the same for seining. The case was set for trial to-day before Squire J. C. Eiler, one of the best judges of law in eastern Indiana. Cecil's attorneys, Ozro N. Cranor, a member of the late Legislature, and J. R. McMahan, moved to quash the complaint on account of the statute under which it was made conflicting with Section 2 of the Constitution of the State, which says every act shall embrace but one subject. The Squire held that the subject of Section 2 of the act approved March 22, 1888, embraced more than one subject, and therefore was unconstitutional and void.

It seems as though the acts of the late Legislature are in the line of the Constitution of justice of the peace, and there appears to be much in the Constitution of Indiana of which Democratic legislators are entirely ignorant.

Old Settlers' Annual Meeting. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

VINCENNES, June 7.—Yesterday was the occasion of the seventeenth annual meeting of the Old Settlers' Association of Knox county, and the elderly people of the neighboring country enjoyed the day. A great throng of people assembled on the fair grounds, and at the noon hour partook of a bountiful dinner. In the afternoon the people assembled in the amphitheatre to hear speeches concerning pioneer times. Rev. Dr. Fisk, in a graphic and eloquent manner, spoke for over an hour, relating the changes of life, the adventures of the pioneers with the wild Redskins, the hardships endured in clearing away the forests, and the advantages enjoyed to-day from their labors. Judge W. E. Niblack, who will soon locate permanently in Indianapolis, made a most interesting speech, told of the early social customs, the methods of labor, and the shifts the hardy pioneers were reduced to in clothing themselves. Other short and appropriate addresses were made by old resident pioneers. Many old heirlooms and Indian relics were exhibited to the wondering rising generation. Some very old people were present. Mr. E. G. Gardner was elected president for the next year. The next annual meeting will be held on the first Thursday in June, 1890.

A Town Without a Saloon. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

SHELBYVILLE, June 7.—The town of Fairland, containing about 1,000 inhabitants, for the first time in a quarter of a century is free from saloons. Until the present session of the Commissioners' Court the place had been so notorious that the citizens generally combined against them, and made a vigorous fight before the board. To-day all the applications were rejected, two on the ground of the opposition of being the hardest place in Shelby county, and several murders, as well as numerous fights, have taken place, the result of cheap whiskey. Around the village are some fine farms, and the farmers had seen their sons going to ruin through these dram-shops, until they could submit no longer. There is great rejoicing among the temperance and moral element of Fairland to-night.

Temperance at Shelbyville. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

SHELBYVILLE, June 6.—The temperance and moral element of this city held a mass-meeting to-night at the M. E. Church to indorse the actions of city Marshal Mann in his efforts to enforce the Sunday liquor laws against the saloons. Revs. T. L. Hughes, Charles Tinsley, J. H. Gr. and A. L. Crim, pastors of the various churches, were present. There were also made by other citizens, of both political parties. Some of the saloon men have become alarmed over the actions of the Council in ordering an ordinance drafted for the next meeting raising the license to $250, and are surrendering up the old license and then renewing at the one-hundred-dollar rate.

DANGER IN A SLIM MAJORITY

Difficulties Under Which Republicans Will Labor in the Next House.

The Rules Must Be Changed or the Hands of the Party in Power Will Be Tied—Col. J. C. Keltion, Adjutant-General.

ORGANIZING THE HOUSE.

Mr. Burrows Points Out Some of the Difficulties That Menace the Republicans. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Among the Republican politicians here more or less interest is being taken in the speakership contest, so soon to be inaugurated, and each candidate is hard at work, but is not saying much, and Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, called at the White House to-day for the purpose of paying his respects to the President before leaving on a Western tour, which may be fraught with much important results in the campaign to be decided upon in the organization of the House. He proposes to make an extensive tour, and to put in his time in working up an active canvass. Mr. Burrows, in common with his colleagues who are in the race, tries to impress upon every member who meets the importance of prompt attendance when the House shall reassemble. He said to-day: "Our majority is very small, and there is undoubtedly great danger of getting checked at the start. On the face of the returns now in the hands of the Clerk of the House, we have only three more members than our opponents. This slim majority, of course, may be increased to six or seven, and possibly eight, through the admission of the new States, but in order that we may be able to organize the House without a contest it is absolutely necessary that every man should be in the city, and to attain that end it will be advantageous to have an understanding in advance that every one shall be there; but even with this agreement there is the matter of sickness, which may keep members away, and cannot be helped. If the Democrats are disposed to fight over the adoption of new rules, or over the settlement of the contested election cases, and they determine to filibuster, there will be a block at once. I think that the great danger to the Republican party is that it must not allow the irreversible judgment of battle and the indelible decree of a Nation of freemen. [Applause.] They must not be misinterpreted as being without respect for order or voidance, or evasion. [Applause.] It must not be equality and justice in the written law only. It must be equality and justice in the administration of every part of the Republic to every citizen thereof. It must not be the mere cold formality of constitutional enactment. It must be a living brightness, which the poorest and the humblest may enjoy, and which the richest and most powerful dare not deny. [Applause.] Our black allies must neither be deserted nor forsaken. [Applause.] And every right secured them by the Constitution must be as surely given to them as though it were put upon their face the color of the Anglo-Saxon race. [Applause.] They fought for the flag in the war, and that flag, with all its republican and democratic principles, is now in the hands of its white colonel, Colonel Stanford, its regimental colors in a speech from the Colonel which ended with this language: "Color bearer, guard, defend, protect, die for, but do not surrender, these colors." [Applause.] To which the sergeant replied, and he was black as my coat: "Colonel, I'll return those flags to you in honor, or I'll report to God the reason why."

He fell mortally wounded in one of those desperate charges in front of Port Hudson, with his face to the enemy, with those colors in his clenched fist pressed upon his breast, and the God above him in aid; and we might just as well remember now that God puts no nation in supreme place that will not do supreme work [applause]; and God keeps no nation in supreme place which will not meet the supreme duty of the hour.

Washington, June 7.—Col. J. C. Keltion was to-day appointed adjutant-general of the army, to succeed General Drum, retired. He is a graduate of West Point, where he was afterward an instructor in the tactics and small-arms firing. During the civil war he served as assistant adjutant-general, and served as colonel of the Ninth Missouri Regiment, resigning his volunteer commission in 1862. He was in the advance upon Corinth, and while attached to General Halleck's staff was brevetted lieutenant-colonel and brigadier-general for most valuable and arduous services in the field and at headquarters.

Since the war he has held various staff positions, and in 1888 was acting adjutant-general. He is an inventor of military rifles, pistols and other weapons having been adopted by the department, and he is also a writer of high repute on subjects connected with the military service.

Mr. Hatton Arrives Safely. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Mr. Frank Hatton, who it was feared was among the lost in the Johnstown disaster, arrived in Washington at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Hatton says that the people on the trains which are delayed on the Pennsylvania road, seem to be more anxious than those who are safely at home, because of the non-receipt of news. He says that it is actively impossible to get any graphic or other communication to or from the trains, and the result is that the passengers having sick friends or relatives at home are in a state of constant anxiety and excitement because of their inability to hear from them. Mr. Hatton says that at no time was the danger place-hunters should leave that he had been drowned, as he took the precaution to send messengers with telegrams to his relatives and friends to Creason, but these telegrams never got through.

Place-Hunters Leaving the City. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—There was a very slim attendance at the President's informal reception at the White House, to-day, owing in part to the fact that this was the regular day for Cabinet meeting. The rush of office-seekers seems to subside almost as rapidly as the floods, now that the warm weather promises to set in. Thus far the climate of Washington has been as delightful as that of any other section of the United States, and there have been no reasons connected with the temperature why the eager place-hunters should leave.

For the past week many who desired to get away were prevented from doing so through breaks in the railroads, but they are now almost all reported clear and ready for business, and the outgoing trains are more heavily loaded than those coming in.

THE SETTLEMENTS OF THE WAR.

The Grand Army Applauds the Demand of Free Suffrage for the Blacks.

From Congressman McKinley's Decoration Day Speech. My friends and fellow-citizens, the settlements of that war—and I speak for the comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic—settled that great war must be the irreversible judgment of battle and the indelible decree of a Nation of freemen. Mothers and Children

Everywhere bless the Cuticura Remedies

WHEN SIX MONTHS OLD, the left hand of our little grandchild failed to swell, and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but it all to no purpose. About five months after, it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption. He was a healthy, fat, rosy child, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using all freely. One sore after another healed, a hard matter forming in each one of them. Five drops once before bedtime, which would finally grow loose, and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bores formed I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. Mrs. E. S. DINGO, 612 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill. Sept. 13, 1888.—No return of disease to date. E. S. D.

I have been afflicted for a great many years with bad blood, which has caused me to have sores on my body. My hands were in a solid sore for over a year. I had tried almost everything I could hear of, but had given up all hopes of ever being cured, when I saw the advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used one box of CUTICURA, one bottle of RESOLVENT, and one cake of SOAP, and am now able to do all my own work. Mrs. FANNIE STEWART, Staunton, Ind.

I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES successfully for my baby, who was afflicted with eczema, and had such intense itching that he got no rest day or night; but after I had used two boxes, the skin began to peel off and get clear and soft. The itching is gone, and my baby is cured, and is now a healthy, rosy-checked boy. MARY KELLERMANN, Reolot, Kan.

Your CUTICURA REMEDIES did wonderful things for me. They cured my skin disease, which has been of five years' standing, after hundreds of dollars had been spent in trying to cure it. Nothing did me any good until I commenced the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Our house will never be without them. Mrs. ROSA KELLY, Rockwell City, Calhoun Co., Ia.

CUTICURA, the great skin cure, instantly allays the most agonizing itching and inflammation, cleans the skin and scalp of every trace of disease, heals ulcers and sores, removes crusts and scales, and restores the hair. CUTICURA SOAP, the greatest of skin beautifiers, is indispensable in treating skin diseases and baby humors. It produces the whitest, clearest skin and softest hands, free from pimples, spots, or blemishes. CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the CAUSE. Hence the CUTICURA REMEDIES are the only infallible cures for every form of skin, scalp, and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold by druggists and chemists throughout the world. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cents per box; CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, $1.00 per bottle. Prepared by FOTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, BOSTON, MASS.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla. PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertise, zent in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of his distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "Two years ago I was taken with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I can not say enough in praise of this well-known medicine."
