The Tramp Killed by Emsley Wright. The tramp killed by Emsley Wright is now supposed to be a man formerly employed by County Commissioner Keeling, who disappeared about the time the killing took place. The grand jury now has the matter under investigation and will summon witnesses from Washington township to-day. FURNITURE at Wm. L. Elder's.

WHAT THE COUNT SHOWS

Judge Sullivan, for Mayor, Has a Majority Over All of 1,630 Votes.

The Official Count Results in but Slight Changes in the Figures Given Yesterday—Election Aftermath—Political Gossip.

The inspectors sat as a board of canvassers in the Council chamber yesterday and canvassed the returns of Tuesday's election. R. O. Hawkins was selected as chairman and C. C. Heckman and M. W. Toomey as clerks. The returns were taken up in regular order, beginning with the First ward, and the count proceeded without any interruption or incident of interest. In some cases the inspectors had inserted their certificates of the result in particular wards in the sealed bags which had been returned to the city clerk, and in these cases the vote was taken from the tally-sheets. There were few variations from the figures already printed, and the vote, as recorded and signed by the inspectors, showed the following:

Table with columns for Mayor, City Clerk, Aldermen (First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth Districts), and Forerunners of Reform.

The only variations in the count, on the head of the ticket, from the Journal's tally of yesterday, occurred in the returns from the first precinct of the Sixth ward, where a typographical error gave Sullivan 228 instead of 128, and in the second precinct of the Twenty-fifth ward, where Sullivan's vote was printed 303 instead of 31, the correct figures.

The only changes of consequence between the official returns on the Board of Aldermen and Councilmen and the tables published yesterday occur in the returns from the Fifth district. By the official count, Julius F. Reinicke has 3,211 votes, and John F. Blackwell, the next highest candidate, 3,150. The highest prohibition vote, 186, was cast for Joseph B. Wells, at city clerk. The prohibition candidates for aldermen in the First district, G. A. Newman and Lawrence Jones got 108 and 94 votes, respectively. The highest prohibition vote for councilman ranged from 32 in the Fifth to 1 in the Eighteenth.

Forerunners of Reform. Albert Beck or Leon Bailey will be an official product of the Democratic majority on Council and Board of Aldermen. Mr. Beck has been patiently waiting for conditions that would favor his candidacy for city attorney. He has wanted that office from the first day he began to practice law. Bailey is striving for the same place, and as he always acts upon the claim that the Democratic party owes him a living, it is probable he will get what he demands. It is said, though, that Boss Coy is not friendly to Bailey. Much against his wishes, when assistant district attorney, the latter was put on the stand in the tally-sheet forgers' cases to read from his grand jury notes what Dan Burton said when he went into the room where Coy was overseeing the scrutineers and additions on the Thirteenth ward sheet. Bailey did not want to read the votes, but he did, and they were to the effect that Burton said "my God, this is no place for me." Coy thinks this damaged the defense, and is not for Bailey, although he did all he could as a United States official for the defendants. The Eighteenth ward councilman, who is receiving more glory out of the election than the Mayor-elect, will doubtless vote for Beck. But Bailey is working hard for the office, and before daybreak yesterday morning was driving hot on Beck's tracks in calling on the councilmen-elect and to get them fixed before anybody else got into the field. Kennington and James Meib Shepherd were far behind Beck and Bailey. Each is trying to kill the other's chances for street commissioner. As another indication of reform, Councilman Hickin says he will be chairman of the fire board, and the gang that would like to be quartered in the engine-houses is almost countless.

Indianapolis Republican Club. The regular meeting of the Indianapolis Republican Club was held last evening, and the members present seemed in nowise dispirited over the result of the municipal election of Tuesday last. In the absence of President Cummings, Judge Franklin was called to the chair, and L. G. Dynes served as secretary. The only business brought before the club had reference to a proposed change of the place of meeting from the rooms now occupied by the club in Mansur Hall, to quarters in the Phoenix Block at No. 36 East Market street. Most of those present favored the change, but Al Moore raised the point of order that no business could be transacted in the absence of a quorum, and the matter was finally settled by the passage of a resolution by those present favoring the securing of the new hall by the rental committee. It is understood that the next meeting of the club will be called in the new quarters referred to.

FIFTH INDIANA CAVALRY

A Regiment That Saw Much Hard Service Holds a Pleasant Reunion.

The Fifth Indiana Cavalry are holding a reunion at English's Hotel, eighty-one members of the organization being in attendance. The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock yesterday morning by the president, Dr. Joseph Wishard, of Southport, this county, and the veterans had a very jolly and reviving old acquaintance time in renewing old memories of the long ago. This regiment was recruited from nearly every congressional district. It started out with 1,300 men, but from first to last there were 2,755 enlisted men in the regiment, and now the collected information on the subject indicates that little more than one-third of that number are alive. The service of the regiment was in Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama. The Fifth cavalry took part in the Stoneman raid, and tried to reach Andersonville, but were liberated at the prisoners there. This was in July, 1864, but instead of releasing the prisoners they were themselves captured and 114 of the regiment held prisoner at Andersonville. The regiment participated in some of the longest and most rapid and arduous marches of the war. Among other services, they put in thirty days after John Morgan and participated in his capture at Bullington's island. The only field officer present at the reunion is Major R. P. Finney, now proprietor of the opera-house in Ford City, Pennsylvania. Officers for the ensuing year were elected yesterday afternoon as follows: President, Robert J. Heiler, Indianapolis; vice-president, A. Chittie, Kansas; R. P. Finney, Ford City, Pa.; A. J. Cramer, Indianapolis; secretary-treasurer, Milton Morris, Greenfield. A camp-fire was held last night at which speeches were made and patriotic songs were sung. There will be a session this forenoon.

The Eleventh Indiana. All resident members of the Eleventh Indiana Regiment who are going to Crawfordville on the 18th, to attend the national reunion, are requested to notify W. J. Kercheval at the Journal office, in person or by postal, at the earliest opportunity.

THE NEGRO AND EDUCATION.

A Sensible and Entertaining Lecture by Bishop Jones, of Washington.

Bishop Jones, of Washington city, lectured last night at the African M. E. Zion Church, corner of Blackford and North streets, on "Negro Education, and the Mistakes of that Education." The Bishop, in beginning his lecture, showed that education, as applied to the negro, was not different from that applied to any other race. He said that no fact in the history of the negro stood out more plainly than the progress he has made during the past twenty years, a progress of which he might well be proud, coming as it did after more than two centuries of slavery. He showed that the negro had forced himself into the activity of the world during the past twenty years so as to have entirely revolutionized the popular American sentiment regarding him, and the Nation is no longer seriously entertaining the theory that he is an evolution from the monkey or orang-outang, but that he is a human being, a link descendant of Adam. It is highly complimentary to negro endeavor that he has demonstrated a problem in ethnology which has baffled the skill of scientists for ages. He has, by his industry, thrift and good management, accomplished much for himself not less creditable to him as a man than as a citizen. No one needs to be told how the negro has educated himself in this limited number of years, and that he is now a man of no mean attainments, able to expect the same of his friends, but has far exceeded them, while his course has stultified the predictions of his enemies. The Bishop said it would be ridiculous if there were not some things to deprecate. The change from the slavery of little more than a score of years ago to the manhood of today is a change that of ancient Israel, escaping from the taskmasters of Egypt. It is not strange that the negro should have made some mistakes to follow emancipation. These mistakes were delayed forty years before they began to realize their cherished hopes.

"One of our mistakes," said the Bishop, "is that we have an inordinant pride in our educational beginnings. We get this pride much more rapidly than we acquire important and permanent information. We see some of our people put on ridiculous airs, and make spread-eagle speeches in railroad coaches and other public places. These are half-fledged students who like the noise of their own voices, and who, in religious services, they are heartily disgusted with the very thought of attending, unless the minister shall be familiar with their own dialect. These are the ones who are pronounced faultless in language. Education has little merit if it lacks the modest and unostentatious demeanor of the true scholar. It is refined, and such an education is an egregious mistake. A little learning is a dangerous thing; it breeds contempt for the teacher. There should be a little learning in the brain, and drinking largely sobers us again.

The Bishop said there was a foreboding rumble in the air, and he was sure that the attitude assumed by some who have made a little advancement in primary study. Some persons are seen to assume a haughty demeanor, and they are much more severely criticized and become disgusted with the ignorance of fathers and mothers to whom they are indebted for everything, including the last meal they have eaten. There certainly seems to be something wrong in such education. The Bishop said there was another grave mistake which it would be well to unlearn, and that was that the thing to do after acquiring an education was to go into some one of the learned professions, to be a lawyer, doctor, teacher or preacher. Such a course would soon fill these places up, and they would no longer afford a respectable revenue. "No one," said the Bishop, "becomes more efficient in any vocation in life, even that of a field-hand, because of having an education. Education fits one to be more successful in any pursuit in life. There are many who have been toilers in the field who have been lifted to place and power in our own country. William Henry Harrison was a farmer; Abraham Lincoln, of revered memory, was a rail-splitter; a river man; Andrew Johnson was a tailor; Ulysses S. Grant was a tanner; James A. Garfield was a canal-boatman; Henry Wilson, Vice-president, was a hatter's shoemaker. These men filled their several vocations in early manhood, and the masses regard them as important qualifications, when lifted up to high positions they were given in the Nation. "We shall do well to learn that whatever our qualifications are, we should not be ashamed to come down from all but a very few of the great pleasures and during this time we shall be wise to accept humbler positions."

ACCIDENTS AND PROBABLE SUICIDE.

A Stonecutter Badly Injured by Falling in Front of a Saw. Patrick Finn was seriously injured yesterday afternoon, at Goddard's stone-yard, on Kentucky avenue, by falling in front of a stone-saw. He received a deep gash two inches long upon the head, and another cut out beneath the right eye. Both wounds bled profusely, rendering the man unconscious. Kregelo's ambulance was summoned and took Finn to the City Dispensary, and after his wounds were dressed, to his home on Grant street.

Head Cut Off by a Train. Cleo Hendenhofer, a seven-year-old boy living in North Indianapolis, was stealing a ride on switch engine No. 55, of the Big Four, yesterday afternoon, when he slipped and fell. The wheels of the engine passed over his neck, severing the head completely from the body. The engineer was not aware of the accident until the engine had gone some distance, carrying the head with it. Flanner & Buchanan's ambulance was called, and the remains were conveyed to the morgue.

A Switchman's Mistake.

Yesterday afternoon, through mistake of the switchman, a passenger train crashed into the rear end of a passing freight, demolishing the last car and strewn the line with matchwood. Switchman Harry Martin was thrown by the collision beneath the wheels of a freight car by which his left leg was broken. He was conveyed to the body. Kregelo's ambulance took the injured man to 80 English avenue, where he lives.

Death of a Veteran.

J. T. Williams, the old man taken to police station Tuesday night, on the supposition that he was drunk, was yesterday morning removed to the City Hospital, where he died. Police-surgeon Hodges is of the opinion that the man died from morphine poisoning. Williams is a veteran and came from Richmond.

Paid Over by Trustees.

Treasurer Lemcke yesterday paid to the trustees of the Institution for the Education of the Blind, $4,564. Of this amount $2,367 is for the building account, and the remainder is for the regular monthly maintenance.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Resolves for the Manufacture of Portland Cement—Three Americas Exposition.

At the last meeting of the governors of the Board of Trade Mr. Erwin called their attention to the fact that several months ago Dr. Pruessner and Mr. Carl Spangmuel, well known in European scientific circles as geological authorities, visited Indiana. He also mentioned that they discovered this State had among its other rich mineral resources a stone which was essential in the manufacture of Portland cement. Mr. Erwin further stated that during a recent trip through Germany he met several manufacturers of the cement, and they told him that if it could be proved to their satisfaction the stone referred to could be found in Indiana, capitalists could be easily induced to invest largely in the manufacture of the cement here. The matter was referred to a committee to investigate and report to the governors at the next meeting. Mr. Erwin said that he had promised to forward samples of stone for the examination of the German manufacturers.

The National Board of Promotion, which is to meet in Washington on the 23d inst., to formulate a plan for the three Americas exposition of 1892, has received assurances of assistance and co-operation from 235 boards of trade throughout the United States. These boards have appointed standing committees of five to attend the meeting and President Erwin of the local board, was authorized at the last meeting to appoint a similar committee. The exposition will be permanent, and under the joint auspices of the three States and Territories, and the sixteen independent nations of the American continent. The United States government proposes to donate a large tract of land surrounding the Washington monument, and erect suitable buildings for a presentation of the scientific progress of this continent. It will also be the duty of the board to preserve American antiquities and historical records.

The joint committee of the Board of Trade, the City Council and the Board of Aldermen held a meeting last night to arrange a programme for the visiting delegation of the "Three Americas." The visitors will be received on their arrival at the Union Station by the reception committee in the ladies' waiting-room. From there the joint committee will go in carriages to the State-house, and meet the Governor and the State officers, inspect the Capitol and then visit the various manufacturing establishments. After that has been done a party around the city will be taken. At 3 o'clock the party will go to the New Denison and partake of luncheon until 3 o'clock. At 4 o'clock an informal reception will be held for the benefit of the citizens who wish to make the acquaintance of the visitors.

New Enterprises. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with the Secretary of State for the New Commercial Saving and Loan Association. Its capital stock is $100,000, and the directors are: A. Seidensticker, A. Stein, John McFarland and five others. The Chicago, Greenfield & Cincinnati Railroad Company, capital stock $1,000,000, divided into 10,000 shares of $100 each, was also incorporated. The directors are: Morgan Chandler, Samuel Boots, Andrew Hagen, John Walker, John W. Ryan, C. Downing and five others. The road will extend from Rushville to Noblesville, with a branch line to Anderson. The length of the line will be fifty miles, and it will pass through the counties of Hamilton, Madison, Hancock, Shelby and Rush. Articles were also filed for the Cloverdale Building, Loan Fund and Saving Association, of Putnam county. The capital stock is $100,000, with eleven directors.
