

UNDER THE NEW CHARTER

Getting the Municipal Machinery in Readiness for Work as Soon as Possible.

The Board of Public Works Meets the Mayor, and That of Public Safety Looks After a Few Details—Notes.

Great indefiniteness seemed to characterize impressions as to the provisions of the charter yesterday. Mayor Sullivan even was at a loss to tell the exact names of boards, amount of salaries and other details, but was counting on straightening himself out with a certified copy of the law which it was promised he should have last night.

Comptroller Woolen did not file his bonds until yesterday morning, and will do so to-morrow. It will be in the keeping of the Mayor, but he is himself the custodian of the bonds of the other new officers created under the charter.

Mayor Sullivan has not yet determined how he will appoint on the health board. He says he will appoint to the board physicians, but that no physician can be expected to give all his time for the meager salary paid.

Secretary of State Matthews had three type-writers at work all day yesterday preparing copies of the charter.

The Commercial Club's committee on arrangements held a meeting yesterday to consider the best method of showing appreciation of the services of legislators and citizens through whose influence the charter was passed.

Minor Phases of the Change. Emil Rasmussen is said to be a leading candidate for president of the Common Council.

Street Commissioner Harrod closed the week under the old regime last night, but to-morrow will be under the new direction of the Board of Public Works.

The quarters to be provided for the new officials will necessitate a rearrangement of rooms in the court-house basement. The comptroller will be housed in the quarters of those occupied by the city clerk.

The Police Benefit Association was necessarily dissolved by the change under the charter. Each old member will receive $1.50 and the new what they have paid in.

The trustees of the Woman's Prison and Reform School for Girls drew $2,187.37 for the February maintenance of that institution yesterday.

There will be no election of the new State Board of Agriculture or police commissioners until the Legislature adjourns.

sing the "Bedonia Love Song" Mr. J. B. Cameron, cornetist, and Miss Minnie Diener, who is to play Mendelssohn's Concerto in G, with orchestral accompaniment.

ROUND OF ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Harvard Alumni and the Coming of President Eliot. The address of President Eliot, of Harvard, on "Recent Educational Movements," in the Propyleum Hall next Wednesday evening, will be an event of unusual interest in educational circles.

The Ladies of Roberts Park Church are meeting with the best encouragement in preparing for their "National Pageant" to be given at Tomlinson Hall on the 18th, 20th and 21st of this month.

Woman's Industrial Association. The series of lectures of Mrs. Dr. Longshore Potts, to be given under the auspices of the Woman's Industrial Association, will begin at Tomlinson Hall to-morrow night.

Harvard Quartet. The last entertainment in the regular course will be given at Plymouth Church Wednesday evening by the Harvard Quartet, assisted by Miss Gertrude Lufkin, cornetist, and Miss Ida Florence, recitationist.

Local News Notes. The trustees of the Woman's Prison and Reform School for Girls drew $2,187.37 for the February maintenance of that institution yesterday.

Whims and Tastes of Cheevers. The popularity of tobacco brands, so dealers say, depends upon the whims and tastes of cheevers.

Improving the Denton. Mr. Shepherd accepted the plans and specifications, yesterday, for the improvements that are to be made on the Denton Hotel, according to the terms of his lease.

M. J. O'Neil Killed. M. J. O'Neil, at Urbana, Ill., was killed there on the railroad Friday. He was formerly a resident of this city and a member of the Knickerbocker Club.

More Than Fifty Applications. The friends of Jephthah D. New of Vernon, are urging his appointment to one of the positions in the Appellate Court.

Rev. A. W. Murphy will preach at Hall Place M. E. Church this morning.

Rev. H. L. Deal, of De Pauw University, is to occupy the pulpit at Central-avenue M. E. Church to-morrow.

BUILDING TRADES' TROUBLE

Position of Contractors in Relation to the Differences with Journeymen.

They Claim It Is Not so Much Dollars and Hours as Issue as Principle—Meetings of the Workmen.

In reply to the statement of the Building Trades' Council relative to the differences between workmen and the contractors, the latter yesterday prepared the following:

In justice to ourselves and correct information of our citizens we claim the right to be heard through the press, the statement of the other side of the present labor disagreement. The real cause of the trouble is not the question of dollars and cents or hours of work, which, no doubt, could be quickly and amicably adjusted if the contractors were not so obstinate in their encroachments upon our rights and interests.

Whereas, This body has had no notification of any alteration of the terms of the contract between this organization and the Carpenters' Union of this city, and the building season now being opened, the contractors are endeavoring to enforce the same as stipulated in the contract from now until Jan. 1, 1932.

In the four conferences held by the committee, instead of making a compromise with the journeymen, not one was made. The hours were tacitly agreed to on the part of the contractors, but the contractors refused to agree to the following proposition on the part of the journeymen:

Thirty cents per hour shall be the pay of good and reliable journeymen, and a competent and skilled workman can secure better wages than 30 cents. It shall be left to the option of the contractor and the workman, but the contractor cannot command 30 cents per hour, his wages shall be determined by the contractor and foreman, and shall not be less than 27 1/2 cents per hour.

For a time we proposed this going through, but it failed. It was the intention of the journeymen to have no concessions on the remaining demands, and the contractors refused to agree to the same. We are now in a position to make no concessions on our part.

Events to Occur. The monthly meeting of the Sons of New York will be held at the club-room of the Bates House Tuesday evening.

At the meeting of the Art Association, at the Propyleum, Tuesday evening, Mr. William Koryth, head of the Art School of the University of Chicago, will give an Alaskan scenery, by Mr. Henry H. Ragan, will be exhibited to his audience at 11 M. U. A. hall Tuesday night.

The Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners' International Union closed its session yesterday. The boycott against Fleischmann & Co.'s yeast was renewed.

The banquet last night at Mozart hall was attended by a large number of persons. The banquet was given by the Knickerbocker Club.

The annual crowd of workmen thronged Masonic Hall yesterday morning and afternoon. Philip Rappaport addressed the afternoon meeting, and was received with favor, his remarks being confined to defense of the eight-hour day.

shall be devoted to business, and the afternoon shall be educational in their nature. The program of the day will be held at the dress every afternoon. Rev. F. N. Dexter will speak to-night at the hall.

Want an Increase of Wages. The trainmen on the Whitewater and Sandusky divisions of the Big Four are determined, they say, to have their wages advanced to the scale paid men of their class of labor on other divisions of that system.

He Did Not Wait for a Divorce, but Imposed Upon the Deputies in the County Clerk's Office. William Sausberry, an ex-soldier, is wanted for bigamy. The grand jury yesterday returned an indictment against him, charging him with the crime, and the capias was put into the hands of Deputy Sheriff Hamilton.

SAUSBERRY'S TWO WIVES. He did not wait for a divorce, but imposed upon the deputies in the county clerk's office. William Sausberry, an ex-soldier, is wanted for bigamy.

As the clerk was writing the names in the blank spaces of the printed record-book, he was surprised to find the woman's name. He told him the truth. He told him the truth is for you. This stopped proceedings and Mr. Daniel demanded a witness.

It happened that the original Mrs. Sausberry had appeared on Wednesday, Jan. 2, at Judge Walker's room and inquired of Bailiff Nickerson as to the result of her husband's suit for divorce, and as to the time she should expect to return to the care of her second marriage.

Chief Splan and detective Page yesterday recovered an additional quantity of valuable cloth stolen from Gerstner's East Washington-street tailoring store by William Coffman and his companions.

Work of Petty Thieves. The office of E. Rauh & Son, hide-dealers, at No. 219 South Pennsylvania street, was entered by thieves yesterday morning.

The Blow That Felled Yancey—Unwritten History of a Senator of the Confederacy. The recent exciting scenes in Congress remind the knowing ones of an incident of a stormy character occurring in a secret session of the Senate of the Confederate States.

NEARLY MURDERED BY BEN HILL. The Blow That Felled Yancey—Unwritten History of a Senator of the Confederacy.

Both of the eminent Southerners were fiery and impassioned natures. Yancey was, doubtless, the gentler and more brilliant of the two, although his attainments were not so popular nor so varied as those of Senator Hill, who was, in fact, one of the greatest men the South has produced in the modern era.

tion there was an absolute intolerance of what he conceived to be wrong. He decried the duplicity of the men politicians, he abhorred everything that had even the semblance of trickery or knavery in politics, and he died with clean hands and a pure heart, if he was a secessionist, at the last.

It was Yancey's lofty character and his utter detestation of what he conceived to be the duplicity of the men politicians, who, in either public or private life, which involved him in the difficulty with Senator Hill. He impugned the motives of the Georgian, at the time I have referred to, in secret session of the confederate Senate.
