

ATTEMPT TO EXPEL NATALE

Servian Students Rescue Their Ex-Queen from the Hands of the Authorities.

Fight with the Troops, in Which Two Were Killed and Many Injured—Pope Leo's Probable Successor—Killed by Locusts.

TO THE RESCUE OF NATALE

Students Threaten an Attempt to Expel the Ex-Queen from Servian Territory.

Belgrade, May 18.—The prefect of this city, who was charged by the Regent with the duty of expelling ex-Queen Natalie from Servian territory, went to the latter's residence to-day, and in spite of her earnest protests, compelled her to enter a carriage, which drove towards the quay on the Danube, where the royal yacht was moored. The news that the ex-Queen was really to be expelled from Servia had, in the meantime, spread throughout Belgrade, and had reached the students' quarters. The latter promptly turned out in force, and as the carriage containing the unhappy lady was being driven towards the Danube, it was surrounded by a crowd of students, who seized the horses and the carriage, and dragged the vehicle back to the ex-Queen's residence, cheering loudly as they passed through the streets. The prefect, assisted by a force of gendarmes, tried vainly to regain possession of the ex-Queen, and several collisions took place between the gendarmes and the students. The Regent is anxiously discussing the next step to take, as it is evident that a serious popular disturbance may be the result of any hasty action on his part, now that it is evident that the ex-Queen is not so friendless as some people suppose.

There is a promising sympathy felt for Natalie by the opposition party in the Skupstina and by the public in general. The government has the streets in the vicinity of Natalie's residence cordoned early in the morning, and the public was excluded from the streets. The Regent had been taken back by her residence by the students. The cabinet assembled immediately, and the Regent, who is still in session, the citizens and merchants generally side with the ex-Queen. The residence of Natalie is defended by students. Intense excitement prevails.

A conflict occurred this afternoon, the troops firing upon the crowd, killing two and wounding many others. The prefect this evening received a deposition of citizens who asked him to intervene in the ex-Queen's behalf.

LEO'S PROBABLE SUCCESSOR

Cardinal Ziglarski Said to Be the Contingent Pope—A Prelate's Prediction.

Rome, May 18.—At the Vatican, and, in fact, throughout the upper circles of the ecclesiastical world, Cardinal Ziglarski is regarded as the prelate who is destined to succeed Leo XIII as Pope. The principal foundation for this belief is an ancient prophecy which has never been known until now to fail. It is attributed to an Irish archbishop of the name of Malachi, who lived in the eleventh century. His prediction took the form of a number of Latin mottoes, the first of which, in proper sequence of occupants of the Papal stool. This motto predicted for the two hundred and fifty-seventh pontiff, who happened to be Pius VI, was "Peregrinus Apostolicus," which, in view of the numerous voyages and exiles of that Pope, turned out to be singularly appropriate. The motto "Aquila Rapax" was assigned to the two hundred and fifty-eighth Pope, and the latter was Pius VIII, the prophecy received fulfillment by the robbery of his temporal possessions by Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte, who carried him into exile in Corsica, which may be regarded as accomplished by the fact that a comet figures in the armorial bearings of the present Pontiff, Leo XIII. The prediction for the next pope is "Iam Arden" (burning fire). Now, the sole member of the Sacred College to whom the apostrophe applies is Cardinal Ziglarski, the only prince of the church who belongs to the Order of the Holy Spirit. The armorial bearings of the latter consist of a dog holding in its mouth a flaming torch, and it is in connection with the Dominican cardinal is regarded by the Roman Catholic clergy as the predestined successor to Leo XIII.

POPE LEO PROCLAIMS AN ABOLITION

The Famous Encyclical Issued to All the Cardinals of the Roman Church.

Rome, May 18.—The long-expected encyclical of the Pope upon social questions, which previous reports said would be made public on Whitsunday, has been distributed among all the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church. The synopsis recently published presents the main points of this important paper. The encyclical is entitled "De Conditione Operariorum." As heretofore stated, it is divided into three parts, the first being a historical review of the attitude of the church in the past toward workers; the second, setting forth the social and labor questions of the day, the prominence they have assumed, and the necessity of the church's dealing with them; and the third, laying down the policy which the church adopts on these questions. After referring the Socialist theories tending to abolish private property, and upholding the principles of the church, as the first and main element in the solution of social questions, his Holiness says that the social solution can be found in the Gospel, which, if rightly stated, would reach the employers and the employed to become united while fulfilling their respective duties; and also, that the State should intervene to regulate disputes in regard to private property, in order to insure the public peace and the moral and material welfare of the working people. His Holiness comments upon the necessity of Sunday rest; deals with the question of strikes, wages and hours of labor for workmen; and children, and dilates upon the good results of workmen's associations, including mutual aid societies, insurance societies, sick funds, classes for technical education, and mixed associations of employer and employee. The encyclical says that the Pope ought to countenance all such institutions as are likely to improve the existing social conditions, and his Holiness exhorts all Catholics to assist in their formation.

UNEXAMPLED TYRANNY

Prof-Reader Imprisoned for Having Read an Alleged Libelous Article.

Berlin, May 18.—It has been left for the Reichstag to place the most odious, unjust, and absurd construction on the law of journalistic responsibility. Henceforward the proof-readers of a daily paper will be liable to imprisonment for obnoxious or libelous articles appearing in the paper with which they are connected. The industrial state's attorney and the newspaper-hating officials will no doubt see that the law, as interpreted by the highest court, has been properly carried out. In the case which gave birth to this iniquitous ruling, the editor of the paper which published the libelous article was sentenced, months ago, so that the officials, if it existed, has been fully atoned for. But outraged justice was apparently not satisfied with a single victim; the typewriter was not to be found, and the foreman who placed the article between the columns ruled was dead, the legal proceedings fall upon the poor proof-reader. He at the trial had admitted having read the article and to having made in it slight alterations to the extent of turning three or four lines up and down, and having straightened a couple of lines. For these trifling offenses he is now undergoing a term of imprisonment wearing a striped uniform and making matches.

ANTI-MALTHUSIAN SCHEME

Dr. Tanier Offers Premiums to the Mothers of French Babies in His Native Town.

London, May 18.—A great deal of interest has been created in the deliberations of the French Academy of Medicine, which has for some months past been discussing the question of population. France has for so long posed as the chief country in Europe in which the various methods for the limiting of the number of her children are in practice that the action of Dr. Tanier, president of the Academy, has created a great deal of talk, especially in the higher circles of the medical profession. The society with which he is associated, and which has been devoting a great deal of its time to the theoretical discussion of population and the laws which govern it, its president is a practical man, and he devoted much time to the study of the subject on his own account, and the formation of a theory which he has now put forth with the institution of which he is at present the head. He is evidently of opinion that the limiting of population is not an untried blessing, and that it can be carried too far. He has, therefore, started the premium scheme, and where others have put a premium on sterility, he proposes one on fructification, for he has just published a promise to the mothers of every poor man in his native town of Burgundy he will give a present of 100 francs—equal to $200—for each child born to her during the year 1892. This beneficent offer will undoubtedly be hailed with great satisfaction by all the poorer classes, and will have the additional effect of making the worthy doctor exceedingly popular in his own birth. He certainly sees our most generous Majesty, and goes her one better, for the doctor's bounty is bestowed on every woman who produces an offspring, while the Queen gives a bounty only to such women as have triplets.
