

PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

All society and personal notes for the Sunday issue of the Journal, to secure publication, must be in the hands of the city editor by Saturday noon.

A novel idea for a bride's bouquet was that employed by Miss Roberts last Wednesday, upon the occasion of her marriage to Mr. Dietz. The bouquet of Niphetos roses was made up of four bunches of roses, containing about one dozen flowers to each part. After the supper the bouquet was divided among the four bridesmaids. In one part a ring—a true lover's knot—was hidden. This fell to Miss Cain's portion. The one who gets the ring is supposed to be the one who will be married first of the bridal party.

The physical culture fad is spreading, and it will not be many months before the woman who has not been through a course of training for health, grace and poise will be as rare as the woman who not only does not dance, but does not know how. When a woman sees another woman beautiful in form, graceful in movement and ready in action, she at once becomes emulative, and when all these desirable conditions are secured by a course of exercises, she wants the course of exercises. The annual, or even semi-annual exhibitions given by the several schools and societies in the city do a great deal to promote this desire for physical perfection or improvement, and the consequence is that every one is talking of joining the class for a time, but nine-tenths end in talk. In Eastern cities there are riding-schools, natoriums and physical-culture classes, all largely attended, but Western cities are just beginning to know the delights which frequenters of the schools enjoy. There is a sociability which the drawing-room and ball-room will never know—the five-minute slices of small talk which amount to no more than a comparison of ideas about the pleasant or disagreeableness of the weather, whether Miss So-and-so's frock is becoming or not, if Mr. and Mrs. Somebody or other are really engaged. Such remarks are flat, stale and unprofitable beside what one hears when there is action for the body as well as the mind; and Indianapolis women will work a revolution in society if they organize and patronize physical-culture classes in connection with the wonderful work they are accomplishing in club life.

The regular missionary tea of Roberts Park Church will be given Wednesday, at the residence of Mrs. Nancy Igoe, on Lockerbie street.

Mrs. E. Jacoby, of the Fortnightly, has been invited to read her paper on "Child Literature from Edgeworth to Carroll."

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Dietz have issued cards for the marriage of their daughter Anella to Claude C. Rhodes, the wedding to occur Wednesday evening, Nov. 25, at the home of the bride, corner Archer and Michigan.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall's usual reception this week will be changed from Wednesday to Thursday afternoon, and the Princess Inzalicheff, who will address the Contemporary Club on Wednesday evening, will assist her.

Mrs. George E. Marvin entertained about fifty ladies very pleasantly at cards, yesterday afternoon, at her pretty home on Morrison street. The house was beautified with chrysanthemums, and carnations were given as favors to each guest.

Miss Maggie Shellhouse, assisted by Fay Steeley, entertained her many friends at home, 120 East Vermont street, on last Friday evening, this being an anniversary of her birthday. Music, recitations and refreshments were the evening's pleasures.

A pleasant surprise was tendered Miss Mattie Kalb, at her home on East St. Joe street, last Monday evening, it being her fifteenth birthday anniversary. A number of guests were present and the evening was spent in dancing, games and other amusements.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Cotton for the marriage of their daughter, Anna A. C. Cotton, to Mr. Edwin P. White, to occur Thanksgiving evening, at 8 o'clock, at Roberts Park Church. They will be at home after Dec. 25, at No. 96 North Tennessee street.

The Northern Street-car party chartered the Jumbo car Thursday evening and went out to Twenty-second street, where they had a dance in the pleasant hall. Messrs. Edward Roll and John Edmonds had charge of the party, and about sixty accepted their invitations and attended.

Miss Della Chambers entertained about forty of her girl friends yesterday at her home, 128 East St. Joe street, in honor of her birthday. The table was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and roses. Dainty thimble-bags of satin filled with almonds were placed at each plate as souvenirs. The most pleasing feature of the entertainment was a large grab-bag filled with beautiful presents, from which each guest carried home a remembrance.

The Propylaeum party, on Thanksgiving eve, will open one of the gayest seasons that Indianapolis has known for many years. The spacious, well-lighted halls and parlors, the beautiful assembly-rooms, are much better adapted to entertain a large company than any private house. The excellent programme of classic and popular music, prepared for the occasion by the orchestra, will attract the attention of all that are moved by concert of sweet sounds. The ladies of Indianapolis built better than they knew when they laid the cornerstone of this "gateway" to science, art and right living.

The Dramatic Club will give their first entertainment for the season at the Propylaeum Saturday evening. The committee in charge is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Curtis, Miss Olive Gaston, Miss Julia Moore and Mr. John Bradshaw. Two plays will be given, "Sunset" by Jerome, and "A Box of Monkeys" with Walter Williams, Jacquelin Holiday, J. P. Dunn, Dr. D. A. Thompson, Misses Kate Wallick, Margaret Baldwin, Nancy Baker and Mary Dye in the casts. Rehearsals have been progressing for weeks, and an unusually fine performance is anticipated.

Mr. William J. Lavin, the popular tenor, and Mrs. Lavin, will give their first concert at the Propylaeum Saturday evening. The programme is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Curtis, Miss Olive Gaston, Miss Julia Moore and Mr. John Bradshaw. Two plays will be given, "Sunset" by Jerome, and "A Box of Monkeys" with Walter Williams, Jacquelin Holiday, J. P. Dunn, Dr. D. A. Thompson, Misses Kate Wallick, Margaret Baldwin, Nancy Baker and Mary Dye in the casts. Rehearsals have been progressing for weeks, and an unusually fine performance is anticipated.

The above marriage notice, from the Detroit Free Press Sunday, Nov. 8, is correct with the following exceptions: 1. Miss Mary Howe was not in this city on Saturday evening, Nov. 7. 2. The bride is not live here. 3. Mr. Lavin, who sang in the Flower Mission Fair, left for New York on Saturday, and Miss Howe remained here with her sister until Sunday noon, when she departed with her brother, Philadelphia. 4. They are not married at the present writing.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hare throw open their spacious residence, on North Pennsylvania street, last evening, for a reception to their friends, in honor of their son, Mr. Clinton L. Hare, and wife. The invitations were extended to about two hundred young married and young people, and there was a large attendance. The house was artistically decorated with palms, ferns, vines and a profusion of anemone chrysanthemums. The floors were all carpeted and the white and green produced a pleasing effect. Hare's orchestra was stationed in the hall, screened by tropical plants and flowers, and rendered a pleasing programme. Mr. and Mrs. Hare were assisted in entertaining by Rev. and Mrs. N. A. Hyde, Mrs. J. W. Hise, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Knight, Miss Nancy Baker, Miss Alice Woods, Miss Jane Graydon, Mr. J. Maurice Butler and Mr. Merrill Moore. There were some very handsome costumes worn. Mrs. Clinton L. Hare wearing her wedding gown and others appearing in beautiful evening toilets.
