CONSTANT WORK

Originality. What? "The power of producing rare combinations of thought" is one definition. We make the application constantly in interior decorations. We draw on taste, experience and all facilities of the trade for material out of which to make schemes and combinations that will be for each something original, individual to the case and needs. We are glad always to discuss these matters with you.

IRON-BEAM POOL

Report that it has been Premier by the Competition of the Iron-Beam Mill.

A telegram was received from New York last night stating that the great iron-beam pool, comprising most of the powerful iron-beam firms in the country, has collapsed, owing to internal differences and outside competition. This combination was formed two years ago and originally included the Passaic Rolling-mill Company, of Paterson; the New Jersey Steel and Iron Company, of Trenton; A. F. Roberts & Co., of Chicago; the Phoenix Iron Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; and Carnegie, Phipps & Co., of Pittsburgh. Later, six other firms were taken into the combination, among them the Illinois Steel Company, of Chicago; the Republic Iron and Steel Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; the Phoenix Iron Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; and Carnegie, Phipps & Co., of Pittsburgh. Later, six other firms were taken into the combination, among them the Illinois Steel Company, of Chicago; the Republic Iron and Steel Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; the Phoenix Iron Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; and Carnegie, Phipps & Co., of Pittsburgh. Later, six other firms were taken into the combination, among them the Illinois Steel Company, of Chicago; the Republic Iron and Steel Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; the Phoenix Iron Company, of Phenixville, Pa.; and Carnegie, Phipps & Co., of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Cramer denied the report contained in the latter part of the telegram to the effect that the Illinois company had called a meeting of the pool last week for the purpose of reducing the price to 25 cents, in order to compete with the Premier company. "They didn't have to do that, for we have lived up to pool prices all along. Nor do we think that they would attempt to lower their prices to undersell us, for we can afford to drop with them. Our business has been excellent the past year, and for the amount invested, and our capacity to meet the demand, we can show up with any mill in the pool."

A Notable Entertainment.

The fifth entertainment in the lecture and entertainment course of the Young Men's Christian Association will be unique, but the same high order as the other entertainments in the course. Prof. Richard Schliever, the vocalist of the School of Music, whose reputation extends across the country; Mrs. Ida Gray Scott, the Schubert quartet, composed of W. H. Daggett, W. E. Duthie, Frank B. Fowler and O. W. Innes, and Edison's phonograph will furnish a program that should please all musicians and music-loving people. In connection with the concert the classes in gymnastics that have been started several months under the direction of W. A. McCulloch, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will give exhibitions of skill that will probably equal any gymnastic exhibitions that have ever been given here. About forty members of the Y. M. C. A. will take particular attention of course ticket-holders and members of the association is called to the fact that this entertainment is a part of and included in the lecture course. Seats may be reserved to-morrow evening.

DEMOCRATIC BOSSES AT CROSS PURPOSES. TAGGART—Why, my dear fellow, the Republicans are responsible for your burden! MORSE—Why, my dear fellow, that's a blessing, not a burden!

THERE'S NO USE IN TRYING

Democrats Cannot Shirk the Responsibility for the Tax Law.

Unsatisfactory Conference of the Editors and Taggart's Executive Committee—Gray's Chances Are Slender.

The Indiana Democratic Editorial Association held its mid-winter meeting at the Hendricks Club room yesterday. There was quite a large attendance, forty-one editors being present.

The meeting developed the fact that Isaac Pusey Gray is not the unanimous choice of the Democrats of Indiana for first or even second place on the national ticket. The Democratic editors are pretty well divided on Gray, Cleveland and Hill. A poll taken showed twenty for Gray, sixteen for Cleveland and three for Hill for first choice.

President Arnold, of the Greenacres Star-Press, called the association to order at 11:30 o'clock, and the minutes of the mid-summer meeting were read by Secretary Boyd, of the Washington Democrat.

After the resolution had been read, S. E. Morse, H. F. Louthain, A. S. Chipman, J. H. Morris, W. C. Ball and J. E. Arnold were appointed a committee to draft an amendment. A committee on nominations of officers was also appointed, consisting of J. B. Cottell, of the South Bend Times; B. F. Louthain, of the Logansport Phoros; Luther Short, of the Hamilton Enquirer; W. C. Ball, of the Sullivan Journal; and R. E. Parcell, of the Vincennes Sun.

IT SCATTERED DISMAY.

Patrol-Wagon Will Rush through a Crowded Street—Collision with a Car.

At thirteen minutes after 3 o'clock yesterday the patrol-wagon shot out of the police station as if fired from a Mauthner rifle, and went tearing westward on Washington street. As usual when this madly-driven vehicle appears on that thoroughfare something very like a panic ensued, drivers of buglies and carriages trying to get out of the way. It tore along like a hurricane, and in a moment it was at the intersection where, barely grazing the wheels of a number of vehicles, several ladies being badly frightened, it went on eating its terrible handful of dismay. The vehicle did not entirely escape disaster. It was a spring wagon, driven by Mrs. Laura Hamann, who was driving to the store. She was able to escape being struck by the patrol, and was caught by a streetcar, which struck her on the side of the head. The driver was not to blame. As nine out of every ten calls for the patrol-wagon are for noisy drunks, it is not surprising that the dangerous speed indulged in by the drivers of this vehicle appears to be wholly unnecessary.

BRIDGE NOT ACCEPTABLE.

It Will Be Two Weeks Before North Indianapolis Cars Cross Fall Creek.

The County Commissioners, yesterday, visited the Fall-creek bridge on the Michigan road, which was supposed to be about ready for acceptance. It was, however, found that the bridge was not perfectly work at the entrance of the bridge left only thirteen feet between it and the floor. This would be low for loaded hay wagons crossing over the bridge. The bridge was not acceptable. The board decided to require a contractor to build a new bridge. The contractor will be in charge of the work. The bridge will be in charge of the work. The bridge will be in charge of the work.

NAVY ASTRAGAL.

Mr. Brewster, of Cleveland, Gets the Contract for This Feature of the Monument.

The monument commission met yesterday afternoon, and allowed the following claims: H. A. Streeter, of Chicago, $1,500, on account of the salary; Deputy Architect Bauman, $150. The hearing of claims of contractors for the monument was closed, and the matter will be taken under further consideration before any action is taken. The contract for the astragal was awarded to Mr. Brewster, of Cleveland. The contract was for the astragal. The contract was for the astragal.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND "TUXEDO."

George Thatcher and his excellent company took possession of the Grand Opera-house last night for the remainder of the week, and presented Ed Marble's clever minstrel-comedy, "Tuxedo." SON OF A PIGLIS.

Revivalist Who is as Energetic in the Pulpit as His Father was in the Ring.

Last night Dr. Alfred Mace, of London, England, who arrived in this city yesterday, delivered the first of his series of three lectures on "The Gospel and the Mission of Our Lord Jesus Christ as it Appears to Modern Christianity" at Plymouth Brethren Mission Hall, northeast corner of Ohio and Delaware streets, to a large audience. His second lecture will be delivered to-night and the third to-morrow night. Some years ago Dr. Mace held a revival among the inmates of the Surgical Institute, of this city, he then being on a tour of the public institutions of the United States. Dr. Mace is the son of James Mace, who was at one time the champion middle-weight pugilist of the world. Mr. Mace's sermon last night was of a peculiarly rambling nature. It would have been a rather difficult task to have told just what the subject of his remarks was, as the numerous incidents summoned to illustrate his sermon seemed all very good but to no common purpose. Mr. Mace is a small man, physically, and is certainly of a very nervous temperament, and makes considerable noise in rapping on the altar than in speaking to the audience. He seems intense and in dead earnest, but is somewhat incoherent in his speeches.

DEATH OF MRS. COMBS.

Her Life Brought to an Untimely End by a Hasty Consumption.

Mrs. Cora W. Combs, wife of Dr. George W. Combs, died yesterday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, at her home, No. 337 North Tennessee street. She had been feeble for two years, since an almost fatal attack of peritonitis, and about six months ago symptoms of hasty consumption began to develop. Her decline was steady from that time, and for the last two or three days she had been passing away the end seemed probable to come at any moment. Her father, mother, sister and husband were at her bedside as her life ebbed away. Mrs. Combs was twenty-four years of age, and had lived in this city all her life. She was well known in church and social circles, being noted for her high character and for her talents in music and art. Her literary education was gained at the high-school, and persistent study had made her proficient in music and art. In the latter accomplishment her talent seemed to find greatest success in painting floral and animal life. She was an early girlhood, the deceased, who then lived near the Meridian-street Church, became the pianist of the Sunday-school, and held the position for many years. Her parents being Presbyterians her affiliations have latterly followed them. She joined the Tabernacle congregation, and was active in its work. Her father, Dr. Combs, administered religious consolation for several hours. The news of her death, while her serious illness was generally known among her friends, with the knowledge of her unusually wide circle of friends. She had been a society favorite for a long time. Her marriage with Dr. Combs occurred four years ago the 15th of this month. The time of the funeral has not yet been determined, but it will occur from the late of the original statement, and that the original statement is now on file in the office of the coroner. In testimony whereof, I hereunto subscribe my hand and official seal, this 29th day of January, 1922.

Death of Mrs. Hannah Mary Hunt.

Mrs. Hannah Mary Hunt, wife of Dr. P. C. H. Hunt, died yesterday morning at 6 o'clock of heart disease. Mrs. Hunt has been for several years suffering from asthma, and heart trouble has occurred at intervals for the last six months. She was sixty-four years old and the daughter of Isaac N. Phipps, formerly a merchant of this city who came here from Madison, Vt. She was married to Dr. P. C. H. Hunt, of Meridian-street, M. E. Church. The funeral will occur Monday afternoon at the residence, 148 North Pennsylvania street.

Miss Helen Wallace.

Miss Helen Wallace, the daughter of the late Postmaster William Wallace, died Wednesday night from an attack of grippe contracted three weeks ago. Miss Jordan Smith, a colored pensioner, yesterday received his quarterly allowance

TRYING TO LEARN HIS OWN NAME.

Peculiar Flight in Which a Young Boy Finds Himself—Seeking His Parents.

"Is Mr. Kealing in?" The voice was that of a rather green but bright appearing boy, who yesterday morning entered John Kealing's law office on East Washington street. "That's my name," said Mr. Kealing. "What can I do for you?" "I was sent to see you," said the visitor, with some hesitation. "Well, sir," said the young lawyer, kindly, being rather struck with the boy's honest and intelligent face, in spite of other less attractive features. "What's your name?" "Now that's just what I am trying to find out," was the puzzling reply. "Why, don't you know your own name?" "No, sir, I don't. I go by the name of Harry Sherman, but Sherman ain't my name. I was taken from the Orphan's Home here in 1910, when I was about a year and a half old, by Henry Sherman and his wife. I did not know that they were not my own parents until about a month ago, when my father moved to Greenville, O. My mother had died several years before he and the old man had turned me out to make my own way. He then told me about taking me out of the Orphan's Home. I have walked out nearly every day, but I have never found my mother or father. I am living in a house on a half block, but I don't know my name. I am sixteen years old now." Mr. Kealing's further inquiries showed him that the boy was not only truthful, but was better educated than one hearing his story would suppose. He became particularly interested in the matter, and promised the boy he would help him all he could. The boy said that he would be glad to be cordially notified, and said they would look up the records.

Quarterly Pension Paid.

Hundreds of Veterans Receive Their Stipends from Uncle Sam's Treasury.

Yesterday was quarterly pension day and Pension Agent Ensey and his little army of clerks were busy from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night paying off one-legged veterans and their widows. About three thousand vouchers were paid yesterday, and for four more days and nights they will be busy filling out checks, registering names and swearing in beneficiaries. In ordinary times Agent Ensey employs twenty-nine clerks, but during the quarterly pay days an extra force is put on to help out. The pensioner is given his check and steps around to another counter where clerks check from the Indianapolis National Bank exchange it for cash. This bank is the United States depository for Indiana in the handling of pension money. Those who receive their pension money outside of this city are mailed a draft on the Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York city. This agency pays out nearly two and one-half millions quarterly, $80,000 of which goes to old soldiers in Indianapolis and vicinity, while the rest is mailed to veterans living in outside cities. Formerly Indiana was divided into two pension districts, one being paid in Fort Wayne and the other in Indianapolis. This was changed by consolidating the two and giving this city the general agency.

Caught Stealing Newspapers.

Ira Beckenbush, a lad of ten or twelve years of age, was detected yesterday morning stealing papers by Mr. Cutting, a distributor on a Sentinel route. The boy had a marked or decay paper in his possession, but he denied his guilt. He had six papers in his hand, for which he could not account. He was turned over to the police. The most strenuous efforts are now being made to break up this annoying practice.

Marion Club's New House.

The Marion Club, which expected to be in its new quarters on Ohio street by Jan. 1, was prevented by the refusal of the tenant to vacate. An effort to oust her by law failed, and the club is now in a predicament. The club has been seriously interfered with, but a way to break up this annoying practice is now looking for.

Sold Molasses for Honey.

A. McDonald was trying yesterday to make a sort of living by selling a hasty made preparation of molasses for strained honey, from house to house. Patrolman Yonut, who thinks he knows the real article, detected the fraud and sent the man to the lock-up, where he was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.
