A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Buggy Occupied by Two Men Run Into by an Electric Car.

An accident occurred on the Illinois street electric line, yesterday afternoon, which had pretty serious results, and came near proving fatal. The victims were Mr. John Onsrler, salesman for H. D. Bergheim, and Mr. Ed Fowler, both of whom reside at 83 West Walnut street. They were driving north on Illinois street in a covered buggy, close behind a car which was also going north. At New York street they turned to go west, when an electric car coming south at full speed dashed into them. The buggy was completely wrecked and both men knocked some distance. Mr. Onsrler's nose was mashed, both his legs were bruised, and he was otherwise hurt. His wounds were dressed by Dr. E. E. Hart, and he was sent to his residence. Mr. Fowler received an ugly scalp wound and was severely bruised about the shoulders. The horse was badly hurt. The injured men claim that the car which ran into them was going at a higher rate of speed than the law allows, and they will bring suit for damages.

EXODUS FROM IRVINGTON

The Commencement Exercises of Butler University Held Yesterday.

Degrees Conferred and an Address by Mr. John L. Griffiths—Meeting of the Board of Directors—Alumni Meeting.

Yesterday was a great occasion at Butler University, Irvington, being the thirty-seventh commencement of that institution. Fifteen graduates appeared upon the chapel platform. Their names and the subjects they presented were:

Gertrude Johnson, Irvington, "Hawthorne"; Letitia May Newcomb, Irvington, "Shakespeare, the Master of Characterization"; Bertha Thormeyer, Irvington, "Paradise Lost"; John M. Brevoort, Vincennes, "Greek Influence on the Roman"; B. C. Howell, Rolling Prairie, "Armenic"; Avery A. Williams, Warsaw, "Money—its History and Functions"; Frank W. Lacy, Noblesville, "Banking"; Indianapolis, "Examination of Dolomite for its Cement-making Qualities"; R. Franklin Davidson, North Salem, "Some Phases of Russian Politics and Society"; Samuel H. Shank, Irvington, "Protection vs. Free Trade"; William C. McCune, "The History of Astronomy"; Reed Carr, Indianapolis, "Comparison of the Poetry of Virgil and Lamartine"; William C. McCune, Mount Auburn, "Metamora—After Beck"; Thomas A. Hall, Laughlinton, Pa., "Purpose of the Continents and Oceans"; Edw. M. Wilson, Irvington, "The Chemical Analysis of Milk."

The degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon each of these except Mr. Davidson, who received the degree of Bachelor of Science. Three post graduates received additional degrees: that of Master of Arts being conferred upon John D. Nichols, Master of Science on William P. Hay and Ph. D. upon Archibald M. Hall.

The principal speaker of the morning was Hon. John L. Griffiths. Addressing the graduating class, he said that his college life was not so far behind him that he did not feel the deepest interest in those who were marching forth to take the places in the forefront of the battle of life. "Under existing conditions," said Mr. Griffiths, "the college-bred man, other things being equal, is better qualified and more apt to be a potent factor in affairs than the man who lacks the training and discipline of a university career. By so much, therefore, is his responsibility to society augmented. If he considers his education completed when he receives his diploma he will soon be swallowed up, in the nature of things, in the ocean of nobodies, but if, on the other hand, he regards his work at college as simply preparatory to the larger life-work, which beckons him to useful achievement, he will prove a better citizen and exert a vastly wider influence by reason of the broad foundation of liberal culture on which he is built. The brain-owner still outranks the land-owner. Have opinions, but be sure that your opinions are the product of reflection, not simply the ebullitions of impulse or passion. The tide of life rushes swiftly by the negative, colorless man, who plays the insignificant role of an echo, tediously reiterating what others have pronounced. To have a catch-word in your mouth," says Robert Louis Stevenson, "is not the same thing as to hold an opinion; still less is it the same thing as to have made one for yourself. Whatever you undertake, do so with singleness of aim, sincerity of purpose, clearness of vision and undimmed courage. Let a high sense of duty control your slightest action. To the young men who are to have a share in molding public opinion I would urge the necessity of discharging with a true sense of loyalty, the obligation which citizenship imposes. May your love of country grow stronger and stronger. It is a sentiment, nourished and manly, river, by valley, and mountain, and plain, vocal as they are with the story of self-sacrifice, and patient endeavor, and manly effort, with the story of virtue and piety, learning and patriotism consecrated to the highest uses. Too much treasure has been expended and too many precious lives sacrificed in the name of the Nation on the eternal pathway of righteousness to permit its affairs to be manipulated by tricksters and reproaches. See to it that the charge is not laid at your door that you failed to do your full part in realizing the loftiest ideal of Christian citizenship. May you, one and all, do what ever lies within your power to do to hasten the coming of that golden time by poet sung and of prophet foretold, when the world shall be great to righteousness, and beauty, and justice, and truth, and abounding love. I trust that the future of each member of the graduating class may be blessed with the choicest blessings—that it may be redolent with the incense of flowers and vocal with the songs of birds, and sweet with beautiful friendships, and glorious with the fulfillment of high aims. If disappointment and failure come, as come as they may, meet them courageously. Be warriors valiant and true, with your eyes ever toward the rising sun, and with the consciousness that an apparent defeat is often a substantial victory."

After the address President Butler announced the degrees conferred and presented the diplomas. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. L. L. Carpenter, Inc. immediately after commencement the alumni association met and the class of '92 was admitted. The following officers were elected: President—Rollin Kautz, '87. Vice-president—Henry S. Schell, '90. Secretary—George Butler, '91. Treasurer—Omar Wilson, '87.

Board of Directors Meets.

At a meeting of the board of directors of Butler University yesterday Prof. H. L. Bruner, of Drake University, formerly of Eureka College, was elected to the chair of natural sciences and geology to take the place of Prof. O. P. Hay, who will leave to take service with the Smithsonian Institution. Professor Bruner took a post graduate course at Yale in 1887. He is associated in the United States surveys of the Pacific coast. The chair of history was established and Professor Miller elected to fill it. A. S. Hill was elected teacher of Hebrew and assistant professor of theology, and Robert Hall and Charles Stevens were made tutors. Prof. H. T. Miller was granted leave of absence to study in Paris and Berlin, after which he will assume the chair of history. Plans were adopted looking to the immediate construction of a new building, to include the new steam-heating plant, electric-light outfit and gymnasium. The gymnasium will be under direction of Prof. Paul Grummann. Miss Gilbert, who teaches callisthenics and also voice culture to the ladies. The electric plant may possibly be so enlarged as to furnish illumination not only for the college building, but for the town of Irvington, a proposition of that character being now under consideration. The board promised aid to the new Christian Church at Irvington, which is to be erected near the college at the cost of $10,000.

The board also voted $1,500 to the natural-gas subsidy.

THROWN FROM A CAR.

Mr. Rollin McCree Dislocated His Shoulder in a Fall from a Car.

At 7 o'clock last evening, as a south-bound College-avenue car was rounding the curve at the Denison House, going at a high rate of speed, Rollin H. McCree, who stood on the step of a trailer, making ready to alight, was thrown from the car with great violence. He fell to the ground, striking upon his shoulder. Several ran to his assistance and carried him to Hurt's drug store, where he became unconscious. Dr. Franklin Hays was called, who found his right arm dislocated at the shoulder. Mr. McCree's injury is not serious, but may give him some inconvenience for a time. He was taken to his home by Kregelo & Whittit.

Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Central-avenue M. E. Church will be entertained this evening by Mrs. Frank McQuiddy, 875 N. Alabama street, who will be assisted by Mrs. John Reagan, Mrs. H. C. Allen, Mrs. F. W. Frank, Mrs. Will Hereth, Mrs. J. P. Bonn, Mrs. D. E. Gregory, Mrs. F. M. Gallahue, Mrs. J. B. Alligire and Mrs. J. H. Moore. There will be a lawn fete to which the gentlemen and other friends are invited.
