

THE MOORE CASE RECALLED

Judge Taylor Gives the Connecticut Mutual People Judgment for $15,000.

The Personal Property to Be Sold for the Benefit of the Creditors—General Term—Many Small Cases in Court.

Judge Taylor yesterday gave the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company a judgment for $15,000 against Joseph A. Moore.

General Term Cases. The three judges of the Superior Court in general term disposed of the following cases yesterday:

Maggie Hollin vs. Levi Rains et al.; suit on note. Affirmed.

Daniel Galloway vs. The C. C. & St. L. Railway; damages. Verdict for plaintiff for $5,000.

George Cooper vs. The Union Railway Company; damages. Verdict for $800.

George W. Spahr vs. The Citizens' Street-railroad Company; damages. Verdict for $1,000.

Michael Griffin vs. The P. C. C. & St. L. Railway; damages. Verdict for $5,500.

Bennett Receivership. The Bennett receivership case had another hearing in Room 2, Superior Court, yesterday afternoon.

He Raised a Rumpus. Thomas Garrigan was before Justice Daniels yesterday, charged with about all the misdemeanors on the statute books.

Must Await Grand Jury Action. Charles Kannada, accused of stealing a revolver and $45 dollars in money from a guest at a South Illinois-street lodging-house, was held for grand jury action yesterday.

A Judgment Given. Judge Taylor yesterday gave the Banner Leaf Tobacco Company a judgment for $494.15 against the Indiana Cigarette Company.

Fined $100 and Costs. Sadie Williams, the woman who threatened to use a razor on the foreman of the Occidental Hotel barber-shop, was fined $100 and costs for carrying concealed weapons.

Sent to the Work-House. Daniel Ache was fined $25 and costs Police Court, yesterday, for smashing his wife and furniture in her restaurant.

Both Women Discharged. Jennie Watselky and Mrs. Goldman, the two women arrested for contempt in not appearing as witnesses in the Police Court, were discharged by Judge Beckirk yesterday morning.

Called Tuesday Morning. The tax case will be called for trial again on Tuesday morning.

AN IMPORTANT ARREST. Gang of Three Counterfeiters Arrested at Brazil—Bad Money Found.

An important arrest of three counterfeiters was made at Brazil at midnight on Friday. The accused are William May, a saloon-keeper, forty-five years of age; William Gowan, a junk-dealer, forty years of age; and Charles Oliver, a do-nothing young man of twenty-six years.

The arrest was effected by Chief of Police Lauderbach and officer Farion, who were working on the case, in connection with secret-service officer Carter and deputy Moore, of this city.

In the home of May, where the arrests were made, was found $100 in counterfeit half dollars, quarters, dimes and nickels.

The imitation in face and metal is almost perfect, which makes the product of the gang's work very dangerous and their arrest all the more important.

There was also recovered a battery, the metal used and a ladle, but the dies were successfully hid and could not be found.

The three men were brought to the city last night by Major Carter and deputy Moore, and were locked up in the county jail.

At a hearing before Commissioner Blair, previous to leaving Brazil, May and Oliver pleaded guilty and were remanded to await the action of the grand jury under $5,000 bond for May and $1,000 for Oliver.

Gowan pleaded not guilty, and his bond was also made $5,000. He has served one term of two years, some five years since, for the crime of counterfeiting.

The close surveillance maintained over him by the local officers showed that he was in close association with May, and caused both to be suspected in connection with the abundance of counterfeit coin in circulation.

A great deal was passed over May's saloon bar, but the bulk of the product was sold to purchasers living at a distance. Brazil has long caused the secret-service officers trouble.

A gang of counterfeiters was arrested and sent to prison from the Brazil locality about a year ago. It is now thought they obtained the false money from May and Gowan. These two are married and have families, but Oliver is a single man.

Bookings Horses. Bruce Carr was in Fort Wayne yesterday booking horses for the race meeting in this city July 19 to 23, inclusive, on the new fair ground mile track.

The meeting will be the first held under the auspices of the Indiana mile-track circuit. The track will be ready for training horses by the last of this week.

Needs of the Poor. If the needs of some persons are only made known there is usually some one else who can and will supply them.

City Chemist Benton has completed an analysis of a sample of city water. The sample was taken from a faucet in the High-school laboratory. June 29, under poor, familiar surroundings and given a glimpse of something better and brighter. If any one has a good-sized carriage, which they are willing to give, it will gladly be called for, if a postal with the address is sent to M. at the Journal office.

"DRUIDISM AND ITS ORIGIN."

It Is the Subject of an Address Delivered Before the Order by Simon Coy.

On Thursday evening of last week Simon Coy delivered an address before the Capital City Grove of Druids of Indianapolis that was well received and doubtless by this time has been carefully saluted away in the archives.

Mr. Coy's subject was "Druidism and Its Origin," and through indefatigable search he has discovered that Druidism had a very early beginning.

Adam being among the first initiated into the order.

And in on through the ages, Mr. Coy brought the history of Druidism along to the time of the Roman invasion of Britain by one Julius Caesar, and then by a few more steps to the fifth and sixth centuries, A. D., from which time it was almost lost sight of as a national religion, but did not entirely go out of existence, for as late as the fourteenth century, says Mr. Coy, there is no doubt that their rites were practiced in secret by a favored few.

He also noted that the change of the Druidic religion to the Christian was chiefly accomplished for the reason that many of their customs were similar to those of the Christian religion.

Mr. Coy discovered that Druids were brought up to the exercise of the principles of peace and good will to mankind, and taught that warfare was disgraceful, in which latter opinion he was entirely correct, for that was disastrous, as being unfamiliar with the use of weapons, the other fellows took advantage of them.

A number of Druids was assumed by them about three thousand years ago. The Germans, says Mr. Coy, say it came from the word "druo," which means faithful; the Latins from "dru," which means the maji; the Milesians from "dair," which means oak.

The oak was the most sacred tree of the Druids. Mr. Coy, in concluding his address, said:

"I might enumerate many other passages in the sacred writings showing the similarities of the Druidic religion and the Hebrew customs. For example, the ark was a sacred emblem of the Hebrews; it is also a sacred emblem of the Druids. It is also shown that there is a close similarity of the teachings of the Druids and the religion or teachings of the Savior of mankind. I have made these extensive researches of the Druidical laws, religion and customs, and have placed them side by side with the Hebrew religion to prove their similarity in ancient date, and I believe that when our object and present are fully understood, and that we represent an order that antedates all others, and which contains the sacred traditions of primitive and patriarchal times, and that our ritual contains many of the mysterious and beautiful teachings of the ancient Druids, I feel confident that after our order is more fully understood by the kind that we can take root and spread so that we will be second to none.

In Europe this order at no time entirely lost its identity. It was brought to America in 1830, and can be found in every State and Territory, and more especially in the large cities. The new rank that has been formed in this order, known as the Christian Order, is certainly entitled to the honor of accompanying Druidism, for we find that these two orders, Druidism and Knighthood, went into being in Ireland in ancient times. It was in this country that we first hear of the chivalric knight long before the Christian era. I also believe that after our chapter has been fully completed, and formed and placed before the public, that it will give many advantages that we have not had in the past."

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S SON. He Stops for Awhile in This City—Marks, Who Was Once Tarred and Feathered.

Among the guests at the Bates House yesterday were P. H. Young and S. R. Marks, of Salt Lake City, U. T. Mr. Young is the youngest surviving son of the late Brigham Young, famous as the head of the Mormon Church.

P. H. Young is considerably younger than most people would at first thought consider him to be. He is about twenty-three years of age, and is quite a handsome fellow. Marks, who was traveling with him, once figured in southern Indiana in a manner which he probably does not care to remember.

He is a Mormon elder, and in pursuance of a custom that has been followed by the Mormon leaders for many years, came into southern Indiana in 1833 to preach and proselyte. His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

His teachings somehow did not strike the fancy of the hardy tillers of the soil in the locality which he had selected in which to prosecute the work of getting converts.

WASSON'S

GREAT SALE OF CARPETS AND CURTAINS

Commences TUESDAY MORNING, July 5, and continues until the 15th. Our buyer secured for this department from the recent New York Clearance Sales a grand line of Lace Curtains, including Nottinghams, Irish Point, Tamboours, Swiss Muslin and Brussels.

100 pairs of Chenille Portieres, Chenille Table Covers, Piano Covers, and all Drapery material by the yard will be included in this offering.

CARPETS

This will be the opportunity of the season to purchasers of Carpets. From Tuesday morning, July 5, until Saturday, July 16, we will name prices on Carpets that will be without parallel in the Carpet trade.

H. P. WASSON & CO

CAN'T DENY FACTS

It's not only the benefit of a selection from the greatest stock in town, but you are bound to save three dollars on every suit of Boys' wear, and in addition receive a nice present.

ARCADE

Daily Developments. On one theme: The unequalled sale of CARPETS, WALL-PAPER, DRAPERIES.

LAMP SHADES AND ONYX GOODS. We have received a new line of Lamp Shades, samples of goods to be sold and no duplicates offered for some time to come.

ESTMAN, SCHLEICHER & LEE. CARPETS, DRAPERIES, WALL-PAPER. The Largest House in the State.

V. H. LOCKWOOD. (SUCCESSOR TO CHARLES F. JACOBS.) PATENT ATTORNEY AND SOLICITOR.

FOR THE GLORIOUS FOURTH! Fire-Works of all Kinds, Flags, Bunting, Festooning and Lanterns, Hammocks and Fishing-Tackle.

CHARLES MAYER & CO., 29 and 31 West Washington Street.

FOUNDRY COKE, STEAM COAL. W. G. WASSON & CO., 130 INDIANA AVE.

CARPETS, WALL-PAPERS AND DRAPERIES. ALBERT GALL. Agency for S. C. Johnson's Parquet Flooring and Borders.