TIMELY WARNING SOUNDED. Engineer Ordered to Clear the Way for Pogue's Run—Business Before the Board.

The Board of Public Works yesterday morning addressed a letter to City Engineer Mansfield, ordering him to see to it that the obstructions in the channel of Pogue's run, at Washington street, where a new bridge is building, be removed.

Suit to Recover on Notes. Mary E. Busey, of Urbana, Ill., yesterday filed a bill in the United States Court against Hannah Smith and other heirs of Samuel Smith, deceased, of Carroll county, in an action to recover on seven notes, aggregating $2,750.

The Royser Case. The attorneys for Charles W. Royser, who was indicted by the State grand jury on ten counts for election illegally yesterday applied to Judge Baker for a change of venue to the federal court. Judge Baker said there is no doubt that his jurisdiction enables him to order the change, if it be shown that the defendant was a federal election officer in the discharge of his duty.

Suit Against the Pullmans. Charles Kregolo yesterday entered suit against the Pullman Palace Car Company for $900. He says that while occupying one of their coaches the train to which it was attached became snow-bound at Dodge City, Kan., and that some time during the night thieves entered the coach and stole $420 from his trousers pockets. He alleges that it was due to the negligence of the company in failing to provide a porter to watch the car and keep its doors locked.

The Court Record. APPELLATE COURT. 672. Joseph T. Shauver vs. Granville Phillips et al. Jay C. C. Cleveland, Gavin, J.—A master is responsible for the acts of his servant while engaged upon his work and within the scope of his employment, although he was not expressly authorized to do the act complained of, and instructions to the servant to exercise care would not relieve the employer, if in fact, the servant failed to exercise it. 2. Declarations of a party unaccompanied by an act are inadmissible as part of the res gestae.

Wawasee Club Election. The annual meeting of the Wawasee Club was held at the Bates House yesterday. The following board of directors was elected: Dr. J. F. Wright, Columbus; Jas. T. Layman, Indianapolis; James B. Smit, Indianapolis; C. C. Foster, Indianapolis; Thomas H. Spann, Indianapolis; H. S. Tucker, Indianapolis; Eli Lilly, Indianapolis. The directors elected the following officers: James B. Smit, president; Eli Lilly first vice-president, James T. Layman second vice-president, A. F. Horzack secretary. The executive committee will be composed of James B. Smit, Eli Lilly and H. S. Tucker. The house committee consists of the executive committee, to which is added Thomas H. Spann and Chapin C. Foster.

The Carpenters' Scale for 1893. The carpenters' wage schedule for 1893 has been decided upon, and is now in the hands of the national executive committee, at Philadelphia, to whom it is required to be submitted. The committee refuse to give out as yet the minimum rate per hour. It is said the past season was one of unusual prosperity, both with contractors and union men. The latter say there are very few non-union carpenters in the city. The prospects for the coming season are considered equal to the last year's business. "But for the cold weather," said Walking Delegate Baker, "there would not be an idle carpenter in Indianapolis."

Mexican Veterans' Meeting. General M. D. Manson is in the city to attend the meeting of the survivors of the Mexican war, of which society he is president. The meeting opens at 10 o'clock this morning. The veterans are to be the guests of the Legislature while here.

TRIAL OF FRANK C. JAYCOX,

Who Played Burglar, He Says, as a Joke, to Scare His Cousin, Anna Krauss.

William P. Kappes Brings Suit Against the Consumers' Trust for Commission—Action by Judge Baker in the Muncie Strike.

Frank C. Jaycox, charged with burglary, was on trial all of yesterday in the Criminal Court. Several weeks ago J. C. Dean, the pump manufacturer, living at No. 571 North Pennsylvania street, and his family left the city for a few days. The house was left in charge of Miss Anna Krauss, who was employed by Mr. Dean as a domestic. One evening, in company with her sister Lulu and a young man named Frank Green, she went out for a few hours to some entertainment. The party returned to the house about 10 o'clock, and, once inside, suspected that something was wrong from the fact that the front window was open and some of the furniture was disarranged. Anna Krauss armed herself with the family carving-knife, Green with a light rattan cane, and they started on a tour over the house, the girl and the knife in front and Green stalwartly bringing up the rear. Nothing was found until an unused room on the upper floor was reached. The girl boldly entered it, and Green still guarded the rear. She had no sooner crossed the threshold, receiving a blow on the head from Green's rattan cane as he did so. The marauder was captured on the street by merchant policeman Yawver. He proved to be Frank Jaycox, who is a cousin of the girl who cut him. He had a red bandanna handkerchief tied over his face, and was very badly frightened. His hands and feet were badly cut, and he had a crippled finger on his right hand and a crooked wrist for life as the result of it. Jaycox's defense at the trial, yesterday, was that he had been invited to the house by the girls for a little musical entertainment, and, not finding them there, had determined to wait and give them a surprise. A crude sand-bag was found in the room where the struggle occurred, and outside the front window there lay a shoe, a cravat or "jimmy." The case will be finished to-day.

For Contempt of Court. General Solicitor Hackborn, of the Lake Erie & Western road, has made affidavits against W. H. Barley, M. C. Smith, C. Kirkwood and P. Nixon, on charges that they have disobeyed the injunction against them issued by Judge Baker several days ago. The affidavits charged that the accused had interfered with the company's movement of its trains. Judge Baker issued writs for the accused to come into court and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court. The writs also included a provision for their arrest if they attempted to evade service, and to arrest any one interfering with the service of the writs. Deputy Marshal Al Moore and three assistants went to Muncie yesterday to execute the orders of the court.

Wants Balance of Commissions Due. A suit was filed late yesterday afternoon in which William P. Kappes, of the firm of Fishback & Kappes, demands $2,500 from the Consumers' Gas Trust Company, due him as attorney's fees for services rendered. The complaint states that Mr. Kappes was employed by that company to collect subscriptions to its stock, and that while serving in that capacity he collected $36,304.07. The compensation he should have received, as per contract, was $4,000, of which the company has paid him $1,851.70, and he has retained from moneys collected $106.88. The balance due of $3,345.49, the sum demanded, $2,500, is made to include interest and attorney's fees. Duncan & Smith are the complainant's attorneys.

Ferretting Out Taxables. County Attorney Brown has found some more property that has been omitted from the tax duplicates, and will have it placed upon them. The Supreme Court, not long since, decided that the site on which the present Public Library stands has been the property of E. F. Claypool for about ten years. No taxes have been paid on it during that time. The property is estimated to be worth at least $50,000, making $50,000 for taxation, which will amount to about $8,000. The matter will likely be taken into the courts.

The Conference of State Charities and Corrections adjourned at noon yesterday, after a two days' session of unusual interest and profit. The conference considered for some time the different offers of cities extending invitations for next year's meeting. The offer from Terre Haute was finally accepted. Secretary Johnson read the report of the committee on next year's conference, and the election of officers was held, with the following result: President—S. B. Davis, Terre Haute. Vice-presidents—Timothy Nicholson, Richmond; Mrs. W. F. Peelle, Indianapolis; Rev. T. M. Miles, Franklin; George W. Bracke, Fort Wayne; J. C. Gaskin, Greensburg. Secretary—W. C. Smallwood, Terre Haute. Assistant Secretaries—Louis Stutzman, Terre Haute, and Miss Mary Cox, Ellettsville. Official Stenographer—Miss Katharine Johnson, Indianapolis. The various committees announced were as follows: Charity Organizations—Miss Anna M. Tillson, Indianapolis; W. C. Smallwood, Terre Haute; Mrs. E. E. Eckols, Fort Wayne; Miss Anna H. Sully, Richmond. Reformatory Work in Prisons and Jails—T. J. Charlton, Plainfield; Miss Sarah Keely, Indianapolis. Poor Asylums—J. C. Harvey, Richmond; David Gokeshalk, Ellettsville; W. H. McCullough, Boone. Township Trustees' Work—S. N. Gold, Indianapolis; Judge, Fort Wayne. Intemperance in its Relation to Crime and Pauperism—Prof. J. E. Commons, Bloomington. Following the appointment of committees, J. E. Caskey read a paper on "The Trustee as the Overseer of the Poor," and S. N. Gold discussed "The Trustee in Cooperation with Volunteer Charity."

The following resolution was offered in memory of the late ex-President Hayes: Resolved, That the Indiana Conference of Charities, now in session at Indianapolis, has heard with deep sorrow the news of the sudden death of ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes. For many years he has been known to us as a leader of human progress in the cause of charity and reform. For many years president of the National Association of Charities, he always gave the aid of his voice, his pen and his purse to every good cause. We regard his loss as one of the most serious that we can experience—a loss which is not local, but national. To his sorrowing family we extend our sincerest sympathy. The conference then adjourned.

Suit Against the City. Dominick Vandervoel has begun suit against the city for $3,000. He fell on a slippery pavement in front of No. 100 South East street, injuring his ankle, and claims that the city's negligence in failing to provide for the running off of the water before it froze caused the mishap.

Naval Veterans Organize. The National Association of Naval Veterans of the War of the Rebellion has elected a State organization by the election of the following-named officers for one year: Captain John B. Vint, lieutenant-commander; George G. Wirt, lieutenant; George W. Dryer, ensign; John P. Hart, surgeon; George F. Beasley, paymaster; C. E. Merrill, chaplain; Gordon Waiter, secretary; John A. M. Cox, assistant surgeon; Wm. Commons, boat-towman; B. J. Archibald, gunner; Thomas G. Underdown, carpenter; John G. Rose, sailmaker; John Black, This State association has been organized with a view to taking part in the National Encampment of the soldiers and sailors here next September.

DUNCAN'S ASSAILANTS. The Detectives Arrest Two Men Answering the Description of the Footpads.

Locked up in the police station on the petty charge of loitering are William S. Nolan, alias Young, and Fred Monyhan, the former of whom is twenty-eight years of age and the other twenty-six. Monyhan is attired in a light suit of clothes of rough make; Nolan wears a dark suit, black overcoat and stiff hat. The short man peered through the bars of his cell last night, his black eyes roving restlessly about from beneath a dirty colored skull cap. The description of these men is very similar to that given by George Duncan, the barber, who was assaulted and shot Monday night, of the two men who were seen in the counting-room, and as soon as he is able to leave his bed, or to view the prisoners, he will be able to identify them as the men who brutally shot at him when he fled at Tuesday morning Captain Spahn, chief of the detectives, and his assistants, Kinney, Dougherty, and others, have been industriously at work in search of the footpads. Every minor detail that might possibly lead has been followed. The men to be arrested were first directed towards a found at half past 6 o'clock last night. In the dim light of a coal-oil lamp, hanging suspended from the ceiling of a West Washington street saloon, Captain Spahn found Fred Monyhan in a game of cards and placed him under arrest. At almost the same moment Monyhan, Kinney, Dougherty and the other officers were looking for Nolan at his boarding-house, on West Maryland street. They found him, and although he expressed his indignation at being arrested, he was taken to the No. 6 engine-house, where Spahn and his men were already waiting. At the station-house both Nolan and Monyhan were kept in a cell before Superintendent Colbert. Until this examination at the police station neither man had been informed of the cause of his arrest, and the officers, they both told, succeeded in accounting for their whereabouts on the night in question up to 10:30 o'clock. After that time the police believe they had a clear one against them. The personal attire and appearance of the men corresponds almost perfectly with that given by Duncan when he believed Monyhan to be one of the footpads, and the detectives are sure of their grounds, they registered the prisoners as loiterers. Nolan, the tall man, says that he came here from St. Louis, and that he had been employed at the malleable iron-works. He flew into a high state of indignation last night when accused of being an associate of Monyhan. He admits, however, that he knows Monyhan, but disclaims all knowledge of the affair. In Nolan's possession was found a letter from his wife, dated at St. Louis. The missive is quite lengthy and sets forth enough to assure the officers that they at least have a fugitive from justice behind the bars. Monyhan, the shorter man, was arrested last night when accused of being an associate of Monyhan. He admits, however, that he knows Monyhan, but disclaims all knowledge of the affair.
