RAY STREET SITE. Commissioners Hear the Argument of Those Favoring a Bridge There.

The friends of the proposed site for a bridge at Ray street were before the County Commissioners yesterday morning, headed by William Flynn and other citizens residing on or in the vicinity of Ray street.

They exerted all their influence with the commissioners to have the proposed bridge over White river located at this site. They were patiently listened to by the commissioners, who, after considering the matter all afternoon, finally decided to do nothing at the present time, and the bridge site still remains debatable. The Kentucky-avenue people seem inactive and serenely confident of success.

Row on Pearl Street. David Stewart and wife, Mollie, together with Thomas Lewis and Emeline Martin, both colored, are charged with assault and battery and will be tried this morning.

The conflict occurred at Mrs. Martin's house, on Pearl street, and grew out of jealousy upon the part of Stewart toward Lewis, who was too tender toward Mrs. Stewart. While in the patrol wagon all was serene until Washington street was reached, when Stewart unfortunately detected his wife in the act of throwing a kiss at Lewis. This was the crowning indignity to Stewart, and he struck Mollie a blow that sent her to the bottom of the vehicle. Then he proceeded to kick the prostrate woman, but officers Steinrock and Alberts interfered.

JUDGE NIBLACK'S FUNERAL

Impressive Episcopal Ritual and an Eloquent Eulogy by the Bishop.

The Deceased, He Said, Belonged to a Class Becoming Too Few—His Thorough Religious Faith.

AT THE CHURCH. Large and Sympathetic Congregation Joins in the Ritual Service.

The funeral of Hon. William E. Niblack was held yesterday afternoon at Christ Episcopal Church. There was a large congregation present, including the State and county officers, bar associations and prominent men of the city. Ex-Governor Porter was also present. The ritual of the church was read by Rev. Mr. Ranger, rector, and Bishop Knickerbocker made a few remarks. Having addressed words of Christian cheer and consolation to the sorrowing family, he spoke of the dead as an upright judge, a patriotic citizen and a wise statesman. But others, he said, had spoken of the departed as a man. It was his pleasure to speak of him as a Christian. The Bishop referred then to his visit to the sick room, where he administered the rites of the church, and was permitted to lay hands upon him. Judge Niblack, he said, had served faithfully as vestryman and warden. It was now a sweet privilege to testify to the dead man's faith in the divine Redeemer. As through the long period of sickness he was losing hold upon this world he was gaining a hold upon the world above. Judge Niblack, he said, spent his whole life in Indiana. He belonged to a class that, alas, is becoming too few, the founders of the commonwealth. To a Christian, and to die is to begin to live, and the life of the deceased was full of lessons of usefulness, of kindness, of greatness and of honor, which ought to impress themselves upon the hearts of those who still live. At the conclusion of the address the congregation joined in reading the Apostles' creed. The remains were accompanied to the cemetery only by the pallbearers and some immediate friends of the family, including the Bishop. The pallbearers were as follows: Honorary—Governor Matthews, Adgison L. Roache, Fredericko Rand, Byron K. Elliott, N. R. Ruckie, Solomon Claypool, S. E. Morris, E. G. Cornelia, Active—C. S. Denny, James B. Curtis, James M. Sweeney, James M. Winters, M. B. Wilson and G. G. Reilly, of Vincennes. Of the children of the deceased all were present except Lieutenant Niblack, U. S. N., who is stationed on Pacific waters.

MEMORIALS ADOPTED.

Widely Spoken and United Testimony of a Long Life Well and Nobly Lived. The memorial meeting of the State Bar Association, yesterday morning, in the Supreme Court room, was largely attended, including judges of county and State courts. Judge Coffey, of the Supreme Court, was made chairman and Clerk A. M. Sweeney acted as secretary. The committee on memorial, consisting of A. L. Roache, B. K. Elliott, F. Rand, Solomon Claypool and Noble C. Butler, reported a sketch of the life of the deceased, giving in detail the various political offices held by him through his long and useful public career. It concluded as follows:

His inheritance of Scotch-Irish blood and the conditions of his birth and early life combined to make a positive and resolute character. He met and overcame the difficulties of life by earnest and persistent effort, and cheer forsook and tenacity of purpose. Reverses of fortune never deterred or embittered him. Toward his associates and acquaintances he was always one of the kindest and most considerate of men. He bent his mind to the study of the law, and his fund of human sympathy was exhaustless and increased with the numerous cases which he handled with natural and unobtrusive ease and bound men to him. He made for himself in public life a name and reputation which extended beyond the limits of his own State, and he had among his friends some of the most eminent men of our country, in both of the great political parties. He never terminated his friendships to one of them, "or gave up to party what was meant for mankind."

He was distinguished as a statesman by his breadth and liberality of view. He was broadened and ripened for his duties as a judge by his political experience, and his insight into human nature was enlarged and deepened by it. He had none of the pedantry of his profession, and cared little for its technicalities. His opinions were announced in plain and perspicuous language, and were easily intelligible because he always understood himself. His moral and intellectual perceptions were clear and accurate, and his sense of justice, of fairness and of equity was almost infallible. He had a firm grasp of fundamental principles and the faculty for applying them to the legal profession and the State, into whose history his life entered as an important factor, and whose interests were promoted by it in every way.

Remarks were made by Addison C. Harris, David Gooding of Greensfield, John L. Griffiths, Charles Cox, C. S. Denny, W. H. Miller and others. The tenor of the speeches was in the one line of respectful eulogy.

The Indiana Association of Sons of the American Revolution yesterday adopted the following expression, Judge Niblack having been president of the society: With sorrow we behold our president's chair vacant, a perpetual vacancy, as regards Judge Niblack. The descendant of ancestors who assisted in the formation of this Nation, he honored their memory by striving to perpetuate it and keep its glory bright, and its progress forward, and its freedom universal. His eulogy is a well-earned, pure life.

Resolved, That the members of the society now in the city be requested to attend the funeral as a testimonial of respect to our deceased president.

The Hendricks Club has also adopted a fitting expression. The State courts adjourned in respect for the memory of the dead.

ARBITRATION WON.

Agreement Reached Upon the Basis of Gov. Hanna's Judgment.

Committees from the plasterers' and contractors' organizations were closed for several hours with ex-Lieutenant Governor Hanna yesterday morning in an effort to adjust the difficulties between the two. All the merits of the disagreement were laid before Mr. Hanna as the fifth man, and he was asked to decide the matter. After some deliberation he gave it as his opinion that the original proposition made by the contractors of 45 cents per hour without the lathing would be a fair rate of wages, and recommended that both parties adopt that scale. This was satisfactory, but there was much discussion as to the time when the increase should go into effect, the plasterers contending that the contract ought to be dated from the first day of May. The contractors proposed, finally, to compromise the matter by agreeing to sign a contract with the union beginning with the date upon which the men returned to work and continuing throughout the present year. No further trouble is anticipated, and both employers and men feel pleased over the amicable adjustment of the difficulty.

SUPERINTENDENT GOULD COMMANDED.

Interesting Statement from Dr. Metcalf About Detention of Immigrants.

On May 5 Dr. C. N. Metcalf, secretary of the State Board of Health, addressed a letter to E. A. Gould, superintendent of the eastern division of the Washab Railroad, at Peru, stating that he had information to the effect the Baltimore & Ohio road had carried a party of twenty immigrants to Auburn Junction, at which point the Washab had refused to receive or forward them, for the reason that they were not provided with a clear bill of health. The action of Superintendent Gould was commended by Dr. Metcalf and further particulars were requested. The reply of Superintendent Gould was received yesterday. His letter states that on April 22 the Baltimore & Ohio road delivered as Auburn twenty immigrants. They had landed at Baltimore on the steamer Weimar, April 20, and were forwarded without health certificates, although they had not been inspected and passed by Dr. Shoner, of the United States Marine Hospital. Their destination was Detroit. Arriving at Auburn the Washab refused to forward the foreigners unless they were provided with health certificates and the health officer of Detroit was so notified. The reply from Detroit was that the world would be allowed to enter that city unless provided with clear papers. The Baltimore & Ohio, thereupon, was directed to furnish certificates for the passengers who would be forwarded. On April 24, Dr. Shoner telegraphed to Detroit that the people in question had been inspected and passed and that the failure to furnish health certificates was an oversight. A Detroit health officer, thereupon, inspected the detained passengers and finding them all right they were forwarded by the Washab to Detroit April 24. The action of Superintendent Gould is highly commended by the State health authorities and other railroad officials are urged to emulate his example.

BECKNER'S TRIALS DEEPEN

Assignee Helwig Causes His Arrest Upon Ugly Charges of Perjury. A Chattel Mortgage for Ten Thousand Dollars Not Revealed to the Assignee, and the Explanation, It Is Said, Proved False.

Iley H. Beckner was arrested by Constables Hutton and Holmes yesterday evening upon a warrant issued from Justice Habich's court charging him with perjury, and was confined in the jail last night. The warrant for his arrest was issued upon the affidavit of F. E. Helwig, assignee of Beckner, who has been engaged in the retail furniture business at No. 42 North Illinois street. Beckner made an assignment April 15 for the benefit of his creditors, under the voluntary assignment laws, making Helwig assignee. At the time of the assignment there were several chattel mortgages upon the stock of furniture assigned, which had been previously filed for record. There was one chattel mortgage for the sum of $10,000 which, it is charged, he concealed, and this fact it was that has resulted in his arrest. This mortgage was executed to Mary Brattain, No. 933 North Illinois street, and was to secure her as indorser of Beckner's notes. The notes upon which she was indorser were for $600 and $500, and upon them her name appeared as Mary Hall. The mortgage was executed a few days before the assignment, and two days afterwards was released for all except $1,100, the amount of the two notes. The various transactions, and the creditors to believe that the assignment was not bona fide, and it was at their instigation that the assignee had Beckner arrested.

On Monday afternoon he was called before Judge Brown, in the Circuit Court, to answer as to the possession of $2,000, which was the amount of the mortgage. Beckner said that he had received the money from a niece, Miss E. Hartley, who resided in Illinois, and had given it back to her. The deposition of E. W. Hartley, husband of Beckner's niece, has been taken in pursuance of an order of the court, and it is said that this deposition contradicts the statements made under oath by Beckner as to the receipt of money from his niece, and her husband was indignant that her name should have been used by Beckner. Hartley denied that his wife had that amount of money to loan her niece. Mrs. Hartley thought it some where in Ohio visiting relatives, but has not yet been located and as soon as her whereabouts are ascertained her deposition will be taken and used in the case. Beckner remained in jail until a late hour last night when his wife furnished $500 cash bail, and he was released.

UNFORTUNATE QUARREL

Husband and Wife at Sword's Point, and a Child at Stake.

William L. Jones, employed at the Cabinet Makers' Union works, and residing at No. 217 East Ohio street, was arrested on Court street by Constable Williams, yesterday afternoon, upon a warrant issued upon the affidavit of his wife, Anna M. Jones, charging him with assault and battery. Jones and his wife had separated, and he had taken their two-year-old daughter to her boarding house on East Ohio street. His wife was residing with friends at No. 128 Prospect street, and was endeavoring to get her husband to see the child home. When she asked permission to see her daughter she was assaulted by Jones and taken to a saloon, where he could not give bond and was sent to jail.

SALOON DYNAMITED.

Lonely Drinking Resort on Eagle Creek Wiped Out by Unknown Persons.

The saloon known as the Last Chance, located near the Eagle creek crossing of the Vincennes railroad, was badly wrecked by dynamite yesterday morning. John Smock, the proprietor, was in bed in a rear room, but was not injured. His fine glasses and bottles, with all the fixtures, were badly shattered and will necessitate considerable expense in replacing them. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the act.

Two Small Accidents.

There were two accidents, neither of serious consequence, at the corner of Meridian and Washington streets yesterday afternoon. Owing to the repairs making in the pavement at this point the street is narrowed to one-half its width for the passage of vehicles and a blockade frequently results. William Roberts, residing at No. 598 West Maryland street, was knocked down and run over by a wagon at the crossing and had his foot hurt. He was taken to his home in a carriage by Gale Johnson. Mamie Howard, a twelve-year-old girl, residing on Union street, was knocked down and run over by a hack. She was slightly bruised about the head and face and was taken home in a buggy by a friend of the family.

Perhaps Suit Will Follow.

Coroner Beck yesterday presented to the County Commissioners a bill for $400.50. There was a question in the minds of the commissioners upon one case, and they concluded to cut the bill $15, which they did, allowing the coroner $385.50. County Attorney Brown said that the cut was not made upon any one particular case, but upon the whole bill. He would not say what case it was that was questioned, but he has taken pains to prefer to have that remain a secret in case of suit brought by the coroner.

Commissioners View the Home.

The County Commissioners yesterday paid a visit to the Orphans' Home to ascertain what, if any, repairs were needed at the institution. A petition was presented to them last week for an allowance of $300 for repairs, and they are satisfied that some repairs are needed, but they take no action as yet upon the question of the allowance.

Florists Meet To-Night.

The Indianapolis Florist Club will hold a special meeting to-night to arrange for laying off the public grounds for the G. A. R. encampment week. They have determined to offer a reward of $10 for the arrest and conviction of flower thieves, as complaints have been made that people go into yards and steal flowers.

GUARANTORS' SALE OF SEATS.

For the May Festival Will Occur Saturday at the Big Four Ticket Office.

Mme. Nordica Agrees to Sing the Leading Soprano Part on Monday Night—Other Facts About the Festival.

The guarantors' sale of seats for the May Music Festival will occur next Saturday, at the Big Four ticket office, corner of Meridian and Washington streets, and only guarantors will be permitted to buy seats on that day. Next Monday morning, promptly at 9 o'clock, will begin the sale of season tickets only, at the same place, and the general sale of seats, for the various concerts will begin Wednesday morning, the 17th inst. From present indications the demand for seats will be the greatest ever known for a music festival here. The long list of noted artists engaged, the Seidl orchestra and the superior excellence of the programmes as arranged are the principal causes for this, although back of them is the well-recognized fact that these festivals have grown in interest and popularity with each succeeding season, combined with a corresponding growth in the musical culture of the city.

It is seldom that lovers of classical music anywhere have the opportunity of hearing two such great artists as Mme. Nordica and Miss Juch sing in one evening, together with the rendition of grand oratorio by a chorus of three hundred trained voices, besides orchestral and solo numbers. A telegram received yesterday from Mme. Nordica indicated her entire willingness to sing the leading soprano part in "Judith Maccabean" on Monday night of the festival, together with one or more solos. She is at present in the East, singing in concerts, and will come to Indianapolis to sing at the festival prior to her appearance at the great concerts at the world's fair, after which she will return to Europe to sing in grand opera there, at Paris, London and St. Petersburg. This will be Miss Juch's last appearance in America for two years, as she also is going to London, where she is under engagement to sing in grand opera at the Covent Garden Theater.

Miss Margaret Reid is expected to arrive in Indianapolis by the latter part of this week. The arrangement is that she shall sing at three concerts, Monday afternoon and evening and Wednesday afternoon, and her numbers will be left to her own selection. A little has been said in connection with the festival regarding Miss Augusta Cottlow, the pianist, who is to appear at the matinees. She is a resident of Chicago, and a young girl, not more than fifteen years old. Her playing, from all accounts, is best described as phenomenal, and in every city in which she has appeared she has been applauded by enthusiastic audiences, and her playing commended by the critics as being little less than marvelous. Her engagement here was arranged for as to give as much variety as possible to the programme. Her services have recently come to be in such great demand that she has declined other engagements as far ahead as she cares to make them.

Bids for Gravel Roads.

At 2 o'clock to-morrow the commissioners will open the bids for work upon the gravel roads. About seventy bids had been received up to yesterday evening and it was expected that with those received this morning there would be fully one hundred to consider.

Dunlap's Celebrated Hats.

And all the other new style hats, at "Seaton's Hat Store," 27 N. Penn. St.

The preparations for the free exhibition of Oriental art treasures from the palace halls, royal courts and houses of the nobility of the effete nations of the old world, to take place at the Pettis Dry Goods Company's great hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, are nearly completed and will be ready for the public to-morrow morning. That it will prove a source of satisfaction and delight to the large number of ladies and gentlemen who will undoubtedly attend it, and many expressions of regret and disappointment from those who are unable to improve the opportunity, cannot be gainsaid. We believe the collection of rugs and carpets is in every sense of the word far superior in its variety, in its exceptionally rare and exceedingly choice and selected pieces to anything we have ever seen. If for no other purpose than an education, every artistic eye and aesthetic taste should make it a point to spend a few hours at this free exhibition. If you have not already received a catalogue call or send to the Pettis Dry Goods Company for one. It fully describes each rug and carpet. No condition of the weather will prevent the exhibition.
