NO PARDON FOR BERNEG.

Governor Matthews Notifies the Prisoner's Wife that There is No Hope for Her.

Governor Matthews has addressed a letter to Mrs. Henry Berner, of Cincinnati, notifying her that she cannot parole her husband, a life prisoner for the murder of his friend Boerstein, a brother barber, at Vincennes, some years ago. The chief executive reports that he has given the case careful examination, and he can find no extenuating circumstances. Mrs. Berner is a washerwoman, and all of her scanty earnings for the past fifteen years has been devoted in one way or another to secure the release of her husband. Berner not only murdered his friend, but he concealed his body and took possession of his personal property. Months after the murder the faithful dog owned by Boerstein, which made its resting place on his master's grave, and never left it except for food. The murder was premeditated and prompted by greed.

A Fortune Awaiting Him. Henry Weikert, formerly employed in the C. & D. railroad yards, is wanted at Clarksville, Tenn. By the recent death of his mother considerable money was left him, and his family are at a loss as to how they shall dispose of it. Charles Weikert, a brother, has written the superintendent of police for information regarding Henry, and states that he has been indirectly violated in the loans to persons connected with these two concerns and the Indianapolis cabinet works.

THE BANK'S BAD PAPER.

Depositors Not Likely to Get Much—Examiner Young's Comment.

While various ugly rumors about the condition of the Indianapolis National Bank have been current among business men for the past two weeks, thousands of people had no idea of the true state of affairs until the publication in yesterday's Journal of some of the facts developed by Examiner Young's examination. It is believed that there is a great deal more to be told that will reveal a state of affairs calling for a vigorous investigation by the federal grand jury, and the possible indictment of several men who have had a hand in blinding the eyes of President Haughey and obtaining immense sums from the bank without giving security. It is conservative to say that the depositors in the bank will not get over 50 per cent. after an assessment is levied on the stockholders, and there are a number of business men who do not believe the bank will pay more than 30 cents on the dollar. The amount of worthless paper in the bank cannot be accurately given until Examiner Young's report is made public, if it ever is. It is recalled, in addition to the loans mentioned in the Journal yesterday, that the bank holds $30,000 of the paper of Charles Hall, a nephew of President Haughey. Mr. Hall was president of the hominy works that burned about four years ago. The works were never rebuilt, and the company is now out of existence. Among the assets of the bank is the paper of F. Bradley, a commission man who was formerly in business in this city, but whose present address is not generally known. Examiner Young steadily declines to talk, but says that his report will be ready to mail to the Controller to-morrow. Mr. Young wound up the Maverick Bank, of Boston, and it is reported that he is related to a business man, yesterday, that "Indianapolis people could give the Maverick the points on bank wrecking that they had never dreamed of."

Edward S. Hawkins, receiver, world's fair commissioner, president of the Board of Public Safety, commissioner of schools, and various other things of a political nature, will submit his bond to one of the local courts for approval this morning, with a view to charging the day to day. He stated yesterday that he knew nothing whatever of its condition.

KERN AS ATTORNEY.

Another Plan for a Chronic Democratic Officeholder.

The proper body to take cognizance of the banking-law violations in connection with the bank is the United States grand jury, which is not now in session, but which can be summoned by Judge Baker at any time. The appointment of John W. Kern as attorney for the receiver, and the announcement yesterday by the receiver, and this adds another plan to the Democratic market basket in Indiana, while it takes off an amount that the depositors of the bank might hope to get. The appointment of Kern was entirely unnecessary and uncalled for, the national banking law explicitly stating that the United States district attorney shall be the attorney for the receiver of a national bank, and shall represent him in the federal court. Controller Eckels evidently had in mind the forwarding of two Democratic chronic officeholders, although the people who have lost almost all they have will have to pay in the course of time for this extra attorney's services. The appointment of a receiver's attorney in such a case is not entirely a novelty, but it has heretofore been rare. It seems that the appointment of Kern will have another bad effect, for it may virtually shut off prosecution of any one connected with the wrecking of the Indianapolis National. The banking law states that none but the district attorney shall represent the receiver in prosecuting a criminal case against bank officers in the federal court. Mr. Kern cannot prosecute a case against any of the bank officials or others in the court. District Attorney Burke was asked yesterday if he had received from Washington any instructions concerning criminal prosecutions in connection with the bank's affairs. "No," he replied; "it is not necessary that I should receive any instructions from Washington. Whenever any violation of federal laws come under my observation it is my business to procure indictments and prosecute the cases."

"Have you taken any steps in this case yet?" "No, I have known nothing except what has cropped out in the newspapers from time to time."

"What about Kern's appointment?" "That was by the receiver. Mr. Kern's services will be used in collecting the bank's assets. He has nothing to do with any possible prosecutions."

MORTGAGES FILED.

Recorded Confession that the Banking Law Was Violated.

A representative of the Indianapolis National Bank yesterday filed in the recorder's office four mortgages to the bank, given to secure loans made by the bank. One of the instruments was a chattel mortgage to the Indianapolis sine works on its plant for $27,709.10. The mortgage was not dated, but was acknowledged July 20. The authorized capital stock of the sine works is $50,000. There was also a chattel mortgage to the Indianapolis curled-hair works in the sum of $40,000, which mortgage, also, contained notice of execution, but was acknowledged July 20. The authorized capital stock of the curled-hair works is $10,000. There was a mortgage by James and H. F. Stephens, doing business as the New Independent Ice Company, for $1,000, to secure nine notes, executed between June 1 and July 31. The mortgage was dated Aug. 1. There was a mortgage by T. P. Haughey, president of the bank, and wife for $10,750 covering all the real estate owned by him, including the Mapleton homestead. The mortgage is to secure four notes—one for $5,350, dated July 1, and payable on demand; two for $2,500 each, dated July 21 and 24, payable on demand, and one for $4,000, dated July 24 and payable on demand. This mortgage given by the curled-hair works is the first confession from those interested that there has been a direct violation of the national banking law in loaning above the ten-per-cent. limit, though the facts given by the Journal yesterday showed that it had been indirectly violated in the loans to persons connected with these two concerns and the Indianapolis cabinet works.

PRESIDENT HAUGHEY'S ILLNESS.

Confined to His Home at Mapleton—His Son Decides to Talk.

President Theodore P. Haughey, of the suspended bank, is lying dangerously ill at his home at Mapleton. He has probably prostrated him, and a number of his friends do not believe he will ever recover and ciently to see the settlement of the bank affairs well under way. His mother, who is over ninety years old, is also dangerously ill at the home. His family say that he has been suffering ever since the bank closed. None of the newspaper reports of the bank's bad condition are allowed to reach him, and it is further said that none of the newspaper are read by the family. Schuyler Haughey, the young man who is mixed up in the affairs of the bank, is very nervous, and refuses to talk about the charges that are made. He will not talk about the affairs of the bank or of the companies with which he has been connected.

The storm of criticism which knowledge of the bank's condition has brought from the depositors has been directed mostly against the two sons and the Collins. There is an impression that President Haughey was duped into making the first bad loans, and then induced to "throw good money after bad" in the hope of pulling the money out.

Who Those "Straw" Borrowers Are.

Secretary Spruance, of the Indianapolis sine works, said yesterday, when asked about the men connected with Schuyler Haughey's concerns who had obtained money from the bank, that W. H. Wilson is foreman of the sine works and has a small holding of stock. E. F. Cooper is a traveling salesman for the concern, and W. H. Wilson is a foreman of the sine works. Wilson never heard of Youm, and thinks the firm of Weil & Co. is out of existence. He says the plant of the sine works will invoice between $250,000 and $300,000. T. P. Haughey owns all the real estate.

WA WASEE REGATTA.

Col Lilly Will Not Enter the Cynthia, but Will Race for a Special Prize.

Dr. J. F. Wright, of Columbia, Ind., commodore of the Wawasee Yacht Club, is now at Wawasee with his fleet anchored ready to sail the annual regatta this morning. The fleet consists of twelve sail, including the Eugenia, cutter, owned by Dr. Wright; the Egret, sloop, Mr. Don Smith, Rushville; the La Cigale, sloop, Dr. Hicks, Indianapolis; Eleanor, catboat, Will Tucker, Indianapolis; Diana, Miss Sudlow, Gambier, O.; Florence, Theodore E. Griffith, catboat, Indianapolis; Ben Smith, catboat, Mr. Ben Smith, Rushville, Ind.; Anita, sloop, Mr. Charles E. Nordyke, Indianapolis; One, sloop, Mr. Charles E. Nordyke, Indianapolis; The Big Four, Mr. Thomas Morris, sloop, Indianapolis; Marguerite, sloop, Mr. Luther L. Morris, Indianapolis; and the Cynthia, sloop, Col. Eli Lilly, Indianapolis.

The regatta about to take place is the fourth annual event of the Wawasee Club, and is the most important of the kind in the Cynthia the next two. The club prizes an elegant silver cup, which, to become the property of any yacht, must be won three times in a row by the same vessel.

The following letter sent yesterday to Commodore Wright, however, takes the Cynthia out of the race, leaving the remainder of the fleet to contend for the cup. At 4, 1893.

Commodore J. H. Wright, Wawasee Yacht Club, Wawasee, Ind. After a careful consideration of the matter I have decided not to enter Cynthia in the regatta of the Wawasee Yacht and Cruise Club, held at Wawasee, Ind., on August 10th.

Should I enter Cynthia I would certainly go in to win, but as I do not care to become the owner of a boat which should be contested for, I shall keep Cynthia out of the race this year. I am, however, hereby challenge the winner of the regatta on the 10th to sail against the Cynthia for a special prize, of value not less than $50, on the 10th of August, 1893. The contest will be on equal terms, with the understanding that, if so desired, the Eleanor, which won the cup in the first regatta, shall also compete on equal bearing of the expense. This special race to take place one week before the time set for the regatta on August 10th. The course of the race will be as follows: From the entrance of Captain Catterson, with whom I have advised in the matter, and by whose hand I send this document.

I regret greatly my business engagements are such I cannot witness the regatta this year. Sincerely yours, J. H. Wright.

The Eleanor, Captain Tucker, will second in the regatta last year; Cigale third. Two years ago Diana, Miss Sudlow's boat, was second, but in the last two events the boats coming behind Cynthia were all well bunched, which leaves the present contest very greatly in doubt, with the prospect somewhat in favor of the Eleanor and the Cigale. The Marguerite and the Big Four, however, are new boats, and the Egret has a new sail plan, which may place either of these boats in the lead.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESSMEN.

Some Lively Contests Expected at the Republican Primaries Thursday Night.

There will be a number of lively contests for nominations at the Republican primaries, on Thursday night, for the selection of candidates for congressmen. In the Third ward, now represented by Mr. Young, it is said that Charles Bookwalter will be a candidate for the nomination against Mr. Young. Leon Kahn's name is also mentioned as being in the race. Joseph Gasper will probably be a candidate for renomination.

Can Enforce Quarantine. The State Board of Health is exceedingly well pleased by the decision recently made by Supreme Judge Sage, of Michigan, in the suit brought by the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railroad, asking that the Michigan Board of Health be restrained from passing a quarantine upon their passengers en route from foreign countries to the Northwest and Canada.

The decision is a most important one, and by an act of Legislature are fully entitled to hold all foreign passengers in quarantine, and also that expenses incurred by the railroad company, in the case of passengers on the railroad company. The officials of the Indiana State board state that the decision will be a substantial benefit in the suppression of pestilence which is likely to be brought into the United States by foreign travel.

Assaulted His Landlady. William Ferguson, a colored man, who boards with a woman named Annie Thomas on Anderson street, was arrested yesterday by officer Corhan on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. The complaint was sworn out by the Thomas woman, who stated that her boarder had assaulted her, but so far as the officers were able to discern, she had not suffered to an alarming extent. The prisoner claims that yesterday morning his landlady came into his room and attempted to take away the door key. He remonstrated and finally caught her by the wrists. He avers that this was the extent of the assault.

New Fair Commissioner. Governor Matthews yesterday commissioned as president of the Indiana board of world's fair managers the Hon. Henry G. Thayer, of Plymouth. Mr. Thayer succeeds retiring President Studebaker, of South Bend.

BRISK FIRE AT A BREWERY

Ice Houses at the Schmidt Plant Consumed by Flames Yesterday.

Other Blazes in the Vicinity—Row of Cottages on Sixth Street Destroyed—Losses and Insurance.

A second and third alarm, sounded from Box 64, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, called the entire fire department to the South Side. Fire which originated at 273 East McCarty street, communicated to the ice houses belonging to the Schmidt brewery, and despite the efforts of the firemen to subdue the flames, the six large structures, stored with thousands of tons of ice, were destroyed. At 2:30 o'clock the residence occupied by Dr. O. A. Ward, at No. 272 McCarty street, was also consumed in flames, and the South Side firemen were promptly on the scene. Quickly the flames communicated to the stable owned by J. J. Myers, of No. 450 South East street, which was destroyed. A stable in the rear of No. 416 caught from the Myers barn and was also gutted. The structure was owned by Peter Olsen. The fire stubbornly resisted the streams of water thrown from several lines of hose and before the firemen were aware of the danger the barber shop occupied by Isaac Moresky, in the rear of No. 405 East McCarty street, was ablaze and another stable across the alley was burning freely.

After sharp work the department got the flames under control and was making preparations to retire from the burned district when the alarm was given at the Schmidt plant. The fire at the Schmidt plant, situated across from the other burning buildings were in danger of being destroyed. Sparks from the burning roof of the Schmidt plant were scattered about the street, and the employees of the company felt confident that they could cope with an ordinary fire, and several men from the bottling department were sent to the roof. The fire at the Schmidt plant was attached to a plug and a light stream turned upon the incipient blaze, which was apparently confined to the exterior of the roof. Seemingly the amateur firemen had the blaze under control, and the first of the hose wagons had driven a block away from the scene when there was a cry of alarm, and a sheet of flame shot through the roof of the ice house. Dense volumes of smoke arose around the men at work on the top of the roof, and one of them, Henry Eichel, running to the eaves, locked below and sprang off. He was picked up with a broken arm, besides other injuries. The fire at the Schmidt plant was in their dangerous position without serious injury.

Immediately Box 64 was pulled again, and in a few moments the chief arrived, and sent in a third alarm which brought out the entire department, except the big engine and the hook and ladder. The firemen gained a steady headway in the north ice house, and burned freely. From one house the fire spread to another, which was destroyed in twenty minutes it seemed as if the entire magnificent brewing plant was doomed. After the first huge outburst there was but little smoke visible, and the fire was extinguished by the sawdust and ice. At one time the high fence which separates the ice houses from the brewing buildings caught fire, and a general alarm was created among the employees, but a heavy stream of water saturated the fence and adjacent structures to an extent that cut off the danger at this point.

In an apartment of one of the ice houses two wagons and a team of horses were trapped, and the horses were principally unhitched and at the first excited rush of people in that direction broke loose and scamped out of the way of danger. The firemen were not in the least alarmed, and consumed. No attempt was made to save the ice and the efforts of the firemen and employees of the establishment were directed to saving the property of the Schmidt plant. The ice houses were gutted and rendered useless in less than an hour from the time the fire started. Stored away in the building was an ice supply which the firm had laid in last winter and which it was expected would last two seasons. The ice was used principally by the agents of the company in beer closets and cellars. It, or so much of it as did not melt, is pronounced unfit for use. Ice thoroughly smoked takes on the odor of burned and charred timber, and when closely packed about bottled liquor taints the latter to an extent that would ruin its sale.

The loss on the property where the fire originated will not be heavy, as most of the buildings were small frame structures and can be easily repaired. Seven hundred dollars will cover the entire damage. There is something of a mystery connected with the progress of the fire, which is being that boys with a box of matches started the trouble. It was also rumored that a painter at work on one of the buildings asked the privilege of boiling a can of oil on the stove, and the liquid boiling over created an explosion. This report, however, was unverified.

Number of Cottages Burned. While the firemen were yet engaged on the brewery fire the alarm was sounded from Box 200, located in the vicinity of the eucalyptic tree works, and the rumor was prevalent that this establishment was burning.

The flames, however, were found to be in a row of cottage houses at West Sixth street, occupied by colored families. The fire first started in an unknown place in the residence occupied by Ben Lee, and owned by John Payne, at No. 205 West Sixth. The loss was $500. Sparks communicated to No. 205, a residence owned by Joseph Grayson and also owned by Payne. Here the loss was $300, and before the fire could be extinguished the house at No. 207 was ablaze and damaged to the extent of $500. The adjoining residence, at 209, also suffered a loss of $400. It was occupied by a woman named Burk and owned by the late Mrs. Most of the furniture, bedding and the burned cottages was gotten out and the loss will be chiefly on the buildings.

Stable Destroyed. At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon the stable on the premises of J. W. Haywood, at No. 637 College avenue, was destroyed by fire. The origin of the flames is not known. The barn was a substantial structure and with the loss of a considerable amount of feed and inside fixtures the damages is estimated at $500.

Horse Impaled by an Engine Tongue. During the progress of the South Side fire yesterday afternoon a shocking accident happened at the corner of Illinois and South streets. Engine No. 6, while driving at a high rate of speed on South street, met the cross street, and the engine tongue struck the American Express Company. The driver of the engine team was unable to slow up and shouted and sounded the gong to warn the expressman of danger. The man failed to clear the way and the tongue of the heavy engine struck his horse in the side, the sharp point of iron penetrating the animal's vitals and protruding on the opposite side. The horse, mortally wounded sank to its knees, but was held up until the tongue could be drawn out. Death ensued the sufferings of the brute in a few seconds. The accident, although distressing to those who witnessed it, was unavoidable.

Impaired digestion repaired by Beecham's Pills.
