

A GREAT BICYCLERS' MEET

Remarkable List of Entries for the Zigzag Races During This Week.

All the Crack Riders of the Country Will Compete for the Prizes—World's Championship to Be Fought For.

The grand international race meet of the Zigzag Bicycle Club, which takes place next Thursday afternoon at the State fair ground, is looked upon with the greatest interest by not only all cyclists of Indianapolis and Indiana, but by the readers of bicycle papers over the entire globe.

Every one interested in bicycle sports and bicycle events, the world over, have looked forward to the time this year when Zimmerman, Sanger, Meintjes, Windle, Taylor and Fryer would all come together in one great race.

Up to the time of the world's fair tournament, which took place in Chicago last week, every one looked forward to that tournament as being the most probable time for all of these great riders to come together.

But, owing to circumstances which were, indeed, very unfortunate for the world's fair tournament, but, on the other hand, very fortunate for the Zigzag tournament of this city, Sanger and Zimmerman were prevented from meeting by a serious fall which was sustained by Mr. Sanger on the first day of the meet during the trial heats.

However, the Zigzag management now has positive assurance from all of the men mentioned that they will contest in the international championship race of next Thursday, and, as this will be the first time during the season that all of these fast men will have met at one tournament, the interest in the cycling world are very naturally riveted on these events.

One of the interesting features in anticipation also is the fact that Fred J. Osmond, the English champion, who failed to see in condition for the world's fair tournament, has signified his intention of being present at the meet.

Mr. Osmond will be remembered by our readers as being the man who was rated as the world's champion up to the time of Zimmerman's great triumph in England last season, but who, owing to the fact of his having gone stale about the time of Zimmerman's greatest triumph, was defeated by Zimmerman on the English path, thus leaving the title of champion of the world an open question, where it still remains to be decided in the great championship race of next Thursday.

Besides the title of "champion," the winner of the one-mile open, or international championship race, of next Thursday will receive a prize, the equal of which has never been offered in the world before for a bicycle race.

The prize in question is a solid gold cup, set with diamonds, which is given by the Zigzag Bicycle Club as the first prize in this event, and it is expected that with the double attraction of a large prize and the title of champion of the world the racing men will be drawn out to their very last link of speed, and a race of unusual and surprising interest is naturally anticipated.

The entries received up to last Friday night are both unusual in numbers and from an exceptionally fast lot of riders. Every man of any prominence as a "flyer" this season has already entered and signified his intention to be present, and it is expected that the world's best riders in the world will be present to compete at this meet.

Large numbers of wheelmen from all parts of the country have written, saying the Indian city is the best place to hold the races. Indianapolis may prepare herself to entertain the largest and most select gathering of cyclists ever witnessed assembled in any one city in the United States.

Let us hope that the citizens will show their appreciation of the hard work and extraordinary exertions of the Zigzag Club by turning out in large numbers to witness the tournament, and thereby lend their support to the enterprise.

Below is a complete list of entries in each event up to Friday noon.

The opening attraction at the Empire Theatre will be Eston's Afro-American Vaudeville Company, which is composed of the leading specialty artists on the stage, including Miss Florence Hines, male impersonator, Mr. Harry Eaton, eccentric comedian; Billy Young, the minstrel, Tom McIntosh and others. Besides the specialty people twenty octoroons will appear in their diversions. The engagement will continue on Monday evening, Aug. 22, and will continue one week, with usual matinees.

Notes of the Stage. "A Railroad Ticket" opens the season at English's the evening of the 21st inst. Harry Porter has made a hit in the piece. James Thornton, author of "My Sweetheart's Man in the Moon," "Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bow-wow" and other songs current on the variety stage, appears after winning a hard battle in New York. Possibly his songs are driving him into indolence.

Hanson's "Superba" Company and Evans & Hoey's companies will both be in Indianapolis early next week to rehearse the entire week preparatory to opening their respective seasons. "A Parlor Match" (Series 10) will be seen at the Grand engagement week, and "Superba" at English's.

Zelle de Lusan is coming back to America at the head of a big operatic organization, under the management of Henry Abbey, after winning a hard battle in New York. The troupe that drove her out of the Boston States, half a dozen years ago, has proved a good thing for her time in New York.

Robert Drouot, author of "Elle Elle's "Doris," is perhaps the youngest of the successful dramatic writers of the day. He is twenty-four years of age and an American by birth. His father was a Frenchman and his mother, a refined and accomplished woman, though of English birth and the company will produce only legitimate comedies, such as "The Rivals" and "The Road to Ruin," Manager Stone's

The reappearance of bright-colored "stands," and bills on the boards, and lithographs in the shop windows is an indication that the theatrical season is about to open with considerable vigor in Indianapolis. After this week all the theaters will have attractions regularly. The Park has already been "doing business at the old stand" for a fortnight, and business, at that, that caused the managers, who had some apprehensions about the effect of hard times on theatrical patronage, to rejoice. However, this may not be a fair indication of what is to come, for the Park can always be depended upon for a continuous large patronage, if the attractions deserve it, and they generally do at this house. It is kept cool and comfortable, even in these sultry days, and the people who go there are treated courteously and with respect.

This week the Park will have attractions that have never before played at that house. One of them, "A Pair of Kids," has been seen at English's many times, and is not likely to suffer diminution of patronage at the Park. It is a farce-comedy of the prevailing kind, the principal character in which is an "old jay," who has some very lively experiences in a city in which he undertakes to run a restaurant. He does run it, or rather it runs him, in a manner that makes a good deal of sense out of the matter. This part is now being played by Mr. C. B. Hawkins, an eccentric comedian, who can be depended on to be amusing.

The company are Stanley Macy, who starred several seasons in "The Kindergarten"; Carlotta, one of the "new-fangled" dancers, who introduces several novelties in her line; Gilbert Sargent, a well-known impersonator of old women; Jenpe and Fanny Delano, and others. Specialties of different kinds are given, and the entertainment of "A Pair of Kids."

The latter part of the week, opening with a matinee on Thursday, the Park will have an extremely novel performance. We won't have any knockabout teams. Don't know what knockabout teams are! One man violently trips the other and when the latter falls the tripper sticks his fingers in the prostrate man's eyes, walks over his face, tries to pull his nose off, and belabors him with a split paddle.

Dry flour applied with printed paper to articles a trifle damp gives a good polish to them if they are of tin or britannia.

Manager Stinson's New Plan. The bette noir of all theatrical managers is the lithograph pass, i. e., passes given for putting lithographs in windows, and the enormous expense and waste incident to lithographing generally. Fred Stinson, manager of Julia Marlowe, has devised, and will put into execution this season, a scheme that will do away with lithographs entirely and at the same time be a better advertising medium. In each city in which Miss Marlowe plays Mr. Stinson will put out from one to two hundred photographs (as large as the average lithograph) of her made by Fall, De Camp, and elegantly framed in oak. He will make contracts with the owners of shop windows in which they are placed, that if they allowed to remain there a specified time, they will then become the property of the men who grant the privilege. The pictures, which are works of art, and attractively and cheaply made, when thus distributed, but the expense is to be divided between the company and the local managers. This will do away with lithographs, and lithograph passes altogether. Dickson & Talbot have not given the latter for several years.

The Grand Opera House is being put in shape preparatory to the opening of the season, next Saturday night, by Cleveland's All United Minstrels. The company includes the talent of the two organizations controlled by Mr. Cleveland last season, among whom are Charles Goodyear, John Queen, Lew Benedict, Lew Spencer, Sueder, Swor and Shea, a double quartet, in addition to some high priced European vaudeville artists. Among these are the Patta trio, French opera bouffe artists; "African" Dell, a versatile musician; Elmon, who does a daring aerial act, and the famous Dramatic troupe of French quadrille dancers, imported by Eugene Tomkins for his big production of "The Black Crook." A feature in the performance of these minstrels is the Columbus first part, in which there is a panoramic representation of the world's fair.

forces will include such well-known people as Mrs. John Drew, who will play Mrs. Malaprop; McKee Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Stoney Drew, Charles Erin Verrier, Owen Fawcett and Frank Mills. The company left New York city Saturday, and will open the season to-morrow night at Kansas City.

New York World: "This is a great season for ballet girls." said Sam Dawson. "In fact it is the ballet girl's season. Just look at them. There are three 'Black Crook' companies now rehearsing in town with five hundred ballet girls in all. Then there is 'America' to come with three hundred more. Koster & Bial are to have one hundred at the Manhattan Opera House in 'Versailles.' The Kammaker of Syria will have fifty at the Casino, and David Henderson's several spectacular attractions will take in half a thousand young and old women. I am a ballet man this year."

Mrs. Langtry's American tour was to have commenced in Boston about the middle of next month, but as she does not wish to begin until a month later, her manager, Joseph Reynolds, will endeavor to change the Boston date. She will play "A Wife's Peril," "Lady Clancarty" and "As in a Looking Glass," which have been given here, and four new plays in which she has appeared since her last visit to this country.

The tour is being managed by Francis Wilson and his comic opera company will begin their season of 1893-94 at the Broadway Theater, New York, Oct. 2, in "Erminie." The cast will include, besides Mr. Wilson, the following artists: William Broderick, who will be the Ravanne; John E. McWade, as the Marquis; Harle Brake, as Eugene; Edward Temple, as the Chevalier; Edmund Lawrence, as Simon; Amanda Fabra, as Erminie; Lulu Glaser, as Javotte; Cecile Elting, as Corlise; Bonnie Cleveland, as the Captain, and Jennie Weatherby, as the Princess. Jacobowski, the composer of "Erminie," will come to America to witness the revival of his tuncal work.

Lottie Collins arrived in New York last Monday and confided to the enthusiastic Herald reporter who went down the bay to meet her, "Will I dance 'La-ra-ra Boom-de-ay' No, indeed! I've laid it on the shelf permanently unless we go to a place where the people haven't seen it. I've had a little sketch fixed up as my part of the performance of the Howard Athenaeum Company. It will run twenty minutes and contains some of my best specialties. Will you be a 'Nurse' and baby, temporarily obscured by three steevedores wheeling trucks, came to view again and Miss Collins breathed again. "Of course, we have a splendid company of European specialists. We don't play in any but legitimate theaters and think we will give an extremely novel performance. We won't have any knockabout teams. Don't know what knockabout teams are! One man violently trips the other and when the latter falls the tripper sticks his fingers in the prostrate man's eyes, walks over his face, tries to pull his nose off, and belabors him with a split paddle."
