

G. A. R. WELCOME! G. A. R.

SO, TOO, ARE ALL OTHER VISITORS, AND OUR TOWNSPEOPLE AS WELL.

Tried Soldiers

Of the Republic, you're welcome; and you'll find that our welcome is of the good old-fashioned sort. You are at liberty to march right into our store and hand your knapsack, traps, etc., to the first comrade you meet. He'll take care of them. Some of our soldiers will be here from reveille till taps to escort you through our handsome magazine, and you'll find us loaded to the muzzle with all that's good in Men's and Boys' Wearing Apparel.

Comrades,

Our invitation need not imply that you must be a purchaser. You'll find that our doors swing on welcome hinges; you'll not see any cold formality, but you'll see much that is new and good, things that we trust you'll remember, so when you return home you will look back to the inviting Progress, a house that you'll remember as being full of good things, a place where your welcome was warm and cheerful.

Boys in Blue

We shall begin cannonading with low prices and fine goods early to-morrow morning. At the very beginning of the Fall Battle firing will become general all along the line. We use no blank cartridges, and are ever ready to obey orders and fire low. Our Gibraltar-like flanks can't be turned, for they are reliable, well-equipped soldiers, commanded by Grant and Sherman-like warriors.

ANOTHER GARBAGE DECISION

Judge Brown, of the Circuit Court, Says the Contract Is Good.

Cad's Opinion Overthrown—Contractor Jameson Granted the Injunction Against the "Pirates."

In the Circuit Court, yesterday morning, Judge Brown handed down his decision in the case of Thomas J. Jameson against Greenberry Walker and others, brought by Jameson, the assignee of the garbage contract, to enjoin the collection of garbage by the defendants, who were unauthorized by contract to do the hauling. The complaint, after setting forth the passage of the garbage ordinance by the Council and the contract by the Board of Public Works, alleges the assignment and ratification thereof by the board. It sought to enjoin the defendants from the collection of garbage from the down-town districts where the collection was profitable.

The court, after reviewing the allegations in the complaint, said that the question of law presented for his consideration was whether, under the power conferred by the city charter, the city had the right, through the agency of the Board of Public Works and the Council, to enter into the garbage contract. There was also a question of fact to be determined, viz, did the evidence show that the equipment of the contractor was sufficient for the proper removal of the garbage of the city, according to the contract with the city. Then followed a long comparison of the affairs of the city before and after the adoption of the new charter, in which he said: "The change has great advantages for the city as a whole, but it also has great individual burdens. Those who expect to live in a city and enjoy all the privileges afforded by a well regulated municipal government cannot expect to enjoy all the individual freedom of the rural districts or small villages. The public convenience and health are matters of grave concern in a city, while in the less densely populated districts little attention is given them. The old charter was not sufficient to deal with the garbage question, as it was inadequate to deal with many other questions. The court may consider the remedy sought as well as the mischief sought to be corrected. After more comparison of the old with the new charter the court continues: "It may be that the men who have made a living by hauling garbage may, like Othello, find their occupation gone. Hotel-keepers, who have made a profit from their refuse, may have to pay for its removal, but if the public good demands it, it must be."

The court held that the law did not require the contractor to perfect his system in a few days. The concluding paragraph of the decision is as follows: "When our city officials have had the good sense to provide a general plan, which, when properly appreciated and carried out, will have the effect, more than any other one thing, to remove the producing cause of the cholera germs, the courts will not thwart it in its good work. Viewing the evidence in the light that plaintiff's equipment is inadequate, and that the contract should not be sustained for that reason. It follows under the law that the city had the right to make the contract and the plaintiff must be protected by the court in his endeavor to fulfill it. The injunction is granted." At the conclusion of the decision the attorneys for defendants filed notice of appeal.

IN POLICE COURT.
An Arrest That Looks Like an Outrage—Of fenders B-for the Cent.
In the Police Court, yesterday morning, Harry J. Wilson and Frank Morgan were arraigned on charges of associating with women of ill repute. Both the men were well dressed and citizens of good standing. The women of ill repute were two girls aged sixteen and fourteen years and were daughters of respectable people, whose names are withheld on account of consideration for the girls and their families. The evidence introduced in the Police Court entirely failed to show that the girls did anything to cause their arrest and all four of the prisoners were discharged. The arrest was made upon the complaint of Miss Anna Dietz, a teacher of a kindergarten school. The young men and the girls were in Military Park about 11 o'clock Friday morning, where Miss Dietz was with her school. She complained to the officer making the arrest that the four persons had been guilty of unseemly conduct. In announcing his intention of discharging the prisoners, Judge Baskirk said that he was aware that at this time, when there were many strangers in the city, the officers must make arrests in cases where they have not full knowledge of the facts, but that he thought the officer in this case had made a serious mistake, and, while he did not feel that he should reprimand the officer, he wished to caution him about future arrests.

W. H. White, arrested for carrying concealed weapons, a razor, was discharged. The defendant showed that he was a machinist, and carried the razor for its legitimate uses. He was admonished by Judge Baskirk not to carry it in his pocket in the future.
