

The New York Store

Established 1853. Come up on the second floor and see the kind of Muslin Underwear we are selling, if you are interested in close buying.

Pettis Dry Goods Co

WILL NOT CALL ONE

Governor Matthews Talks with the Committee of Unemployed Men.

Declines to Convene an Extra Session of the Legislature for Their Benefit—Food Market.

Governor Matthews was the recipient of a visit from the unemployed yesterday. At 2 o'clock he received a committee from the laboring class in the executive parlors, and for an hour listened to their complaints. The committee was composed of Messrs. D. P. Kennedy, Richard George, E. B. Cummings, C. A. Johnson, William Harrison and E. Palmer. The gentlemen were appointed at the labor meeting held on Monday night.

Governor Matthews stated that he had given the matter but little thought, but he was confident that the plan of calling the Legislature together was untenable. It would entail a heavy expense to the State, and, after all, could result in no immediate relief to the laboring man. He explained that the Legislature had no power to repeal a clause of the statutes, and the only remedy possible would be the passage of an amendment to the constitution. He said, however, that the Legislature would not convene until the first of May.

Giving Them Work. This morning the relief committee at the food market will furnish seventy men to the street commissioner. Yesterday and the plan of relief was to employ the unemployed men in the city.

PARKER AND M'AFEE. Alleged Murderers of Eyster Brought Back from Michigan City.

Parker and McAfee are again occupants of the Marion county jail and are pleased with their new quarters as much as prisoners can be said to be pleased with their prison. They were brought down yesterday afternoon in charge of Warden French and Deputy Bud Swift, and placed in the cell which had been reserved for them.

They were seen by a reporter, last night, and asked what they thought of the new jail. Parker answered that he thought it was better than the pen they had been confined in before their trial. He thought the new building was a model one, and if he had to pass his time behind prison bars thought the new jail about as comfortable a place to pass it as could be found.

Monument Commissioners. The monument commissioners held a brief session late yesterday afternoon, but did nothing more than discuss the side group and fountain matter. Assistant Attorney General Bailey was present to throw some light on disputed points of the contract which the monument has been ordered to be placed on the site.

WILL KEEP THE FUNDS

Commercial Club Will Turn Nothing Over Without a Court Order.

Advice of Its Attorneys—Auditing Committee's Report—Nominating Committee Appointed.

At a meeting of the directors of the Commercial Club, yesterday afternoon, the committee on nomination of the regular ticket for directors to be elected at the election in February was appointed, consisting of Judge E. N. Lamb, A. B. Gates, A. E. Metzger, Frank A. Maus and M. B. Wilson. The committee will nominate a ticket as required by the by-laws, not later than the 15th inst. It was determined by the directors that the hours of voting should be from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The assembly committee, to which was referred Judge Lilly's statement at the last meeting of the directors, giving the facts with reference to the remuneration of $5,000 paid to Mr. Fortune for services as executive director of the G. A. R. National Encampment, submitted a report verifying and endorsing Colonel Lilly's statement as far as it related to the committee. The board ordered that the report be concurred in and spread on the records of the club.

The assembly committee further submitted to the board the following legal opinion with reference to the balance of funds remaining in the hands of the committee: "D. P. Erwin, Esq., Chairman Commercial Club Assembly Committee: "Dear Sir—We have considered the relation of your committee and the Commercial Club to the undistributed National Encampment fund, and are of the opinion that you can safely pay the possession of any part of the fund to any other claimant without an order of court that would give protection against the same."

Auditing Committee's Report. The auditing committee appointed by the city Council to audit such funds as might be drawn from the city treasury for the encampment yesterday handed to the city controller its report, prepared by Albert Sahn and signed by John W. Murphy, A. Kiefer, J. L. Keener, Michael Steinhauer, C. S. Shaw and Albert Sahn. Of the $55,000 turned over to the citizens' board, $2,646.56 of unexpended balance is returned to the city treasury, leaving $52,353.44 as the portion of the expenses borne by the city. The money was kept as a separate account, and the vouchers for each expenditure were submitted to the committee. In the course of its report, says: "In pursuance of our plan of procedure, adopted bills were audited before a considerable amount of the executive committee's subscriptions became available or definite calculation could be made of that fund's availability, and the amount of money could not be ascertained. We could not, therefore, determine the total amount expended, but it was fully understood that it was any part of the city treasury."

MAY FESTIVAL.

Directors and Officers of the Association Elected Last Night. The annual meeting of the subscribers to the guarantee fund of the May Musical Festival Association was held at the Denison Hotel last evening at 8 o'clock, and was presided over by the Hon. J. P. Erwin. The list of guarantors was read, showing the amount secured to be $10,500. F. W. Flanner, Ferd L. Mayer and H. L. Rust were appointed a committee to nominate directors, and after a brief deliberation reported the following seven names: Major Taylor, Sol Hays, M. H. Spades, E. S. R. Segun, Dr. C. L. Wilson, W. T. Barnes, W. G. Hunter, O. R. Johnson, Samuel L. Cook, H. H. Howard, Albert J. Beveridge, E. W. Parker, S. F. Fisher, Wm. Berntman, H. T. Condie, Franklin Vougeot. The report was read, and the directors and officers were elected and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Fred L. Mayer; Vice President, Major Taylor; Secretary, O. R. Johnson; Treasurer, Samuel L. Cook. On motion of General Carman the chairman appointed a committee of three to prepare new articles of association, which was also decided, on motion of Colonel Lilly, to be the organization a permanent one and the guarantee fund permanent as well. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock, and the directors will meet Friday afternoon to perfect their organization and to decide on the time for holding the festival this year. The festival association will be incorporated by the city, and new articles will be prepared immediately.

PAYING THE DIVIDEND.

No Rush of Duped Depositors—Typographical Union's Slice. Over one hundred checks for the 25 per cent. dividend for Indianapolis National Bank depositors were distributed in the city yesterday. The entire number of checks—1,715—arrived yesterday morning, and a number of business men who could be reached by telephone were notified that their money was ready for them. Within fifteen minutes after the checks had been received business opened quite briskly, but it will pick up to-day, as comparatively few people know of their arrival yesterday. The checks are being distributed by the Controller of Currency. They call for $250,000, the total amount of proved claims is $981,553.21. The checks are being distributed as rapidly as possible, but about $200,000 of the dividend will stay right in the city. The largest check given out yesterday was that of the International Typographical Union, which was $1,000. It was presented in the wrecked bank. It was for something over $1,000. There remains to be paid about $200,000 of claims. These are being examined and passed upon as rapidly as possible, and the next money to be divided will go to the new claim-holders, who can catch up with their more fortunate fellow-workers.

Star Lodge, K. of P., Installation.

Star Lodge, No. 7, Knights of Pythias, held its installation of officers last night. In addition to the prescribed exercises, now, however.

W. J. WVA PLACE DEAD

Aged and Well-Known Pioneer Resident Passes Away.

Once Elected Mayor of Indianapolis and Sheriff of the County—Sketch of His Career.

William John Wallace died yesterday morning at his residence, No. 192 Hoyt avenue, of dropsy and heart failure. Mr. Wallace, during his residence here, for many years held a prominent place in the business and political history of Indianapolis. He was born in Donegal, Ireland, March 1814, and had lived until his next birthday would have rounded out the measure of four score years. He came to this country and settled at Madison, this State. In his youth, together with his brother, the late Andrew Wallace, he learned the business of the roof whaler with John Sheets, at Madison, afterward working in the paper mill of William Sheets, a brother of the former, in this city. Mr. Wallace early showed a predilection for politics, and was for some time a deputy sheriff in Jefferson county. He removed to this city in 1850, and engaged in general merchandising. He built up a large business and soon became very popular. Differing from most men of Irish birth, he cast his fortunes with the Whig party, and when that organization went to pieces he became first a free-soiler and then a Republican, being one of the first to join the new party.

With no advantages of education, he was a close observer of men, and his admirable tact and untiring energy soon made him a leader in the young Republican party, and no man ever achieved a higher popularity in that party in Marion county. It was this popularity that soon made him a member of the Indiana Legislature, and that has been much quoted during the past third of a century in political contests in Indiana. In 1856, a few weeks after the Presidential election of that year, Henry F. West, the Mayor of the city, a Democrat, died in the city, and the Republicans nominated and elected to the office of Mayor, Mr. Wallace, carrying the city by a large majority. The place was not congenial to Mr. Wallace, and after a time he resigned, having been nominated for the office of sheriff. He was elected, defeating the Democrats, and served a term of two years. The defeated candidate interposed the constitutional objection that "no person elected a sheriff shall be a member of the office." John C. New, then county clerk, refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus, and Mr. Wallace was obliged to resign the office. Mr. Wallace then returned to the city, and after a time he resigned, having been nominated for the office of sheriff. He was elected, defeating the Democrats, and served a term of two years. The defeated candidate interposed the constitutional objection that "no person elected a sheriff shall be a member of the office." John C. New, then county clerk, refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus, and Mr. Wallace was obliged to resign the office.

FLOWER MISSION REPORTS.

Work of the Society During the Year Just Closed.

The annual reports of the Flower Mission have been presented to the society by the several officers. The receipts and expenditures, as well as the number of cases attended have been the largest of any year. The Flower Mission was organized in 1876. The officers elected for 1893 are: President—Mrs. J. H. Holliday; First Vice President—Mrs. G. T. Evans; Second Vice President—Mrs. H. Murphy; Secretary—Miss Julia Sharpe; Corresponding Secretary—Miss Julia W. Taylor; Treasurer—Miss Gertrude Goodhart; Assistant Treasurer—Mrs. F. G. Goodhart; Receiver of Flower Mission—Mrs. A. M. Louden; Receiver of Reading Matter—Miss Mattie A. Stewart.

The board for the Training School for Nurses is as follows: President—Mrs. Mary A. Stewart; Vice President—Mrs. Elly McCoy; Secretary—Miss J. H. Holliday; Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Kate M. Bowles; Treasurer—Mrs. W. J. Holliday; Assistant Treasurer—Mrs. Howard Foltz; Chairman of Household Committee—Mrs. A. M. Louden; Chairman of Hospital Committee—Mrs. J. S. Johnson; Chairman of the Board of Missions—Mrs. S. K. Fletcher; Mrs. Henry K. Foster; Mrs. Wm. Berntman; H. T. Condie, Franklin Vougeot.

Financial report table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures. Receipts include Balance Jan. 1, 1893, Receipts from fair, Interest on bank deposits, etc. Expenditures include Groceries, meat and milk, Bread and fruit, etc.

A Brave Tunnel Policeman.

Tim Connor, the tunnel policeman, made an arrest yesterday afternoon. John McNamara, a discharged employee of the street car company, has had a real or imaginary grievance against conductor Lowe for several weeks past. McNamara nursed his grievance and each day it grew in magnitude. In the language of the street, he has been "blowing the blow" on Lowe. About 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon two men met near the tunnel, McNamara at once began hostilities and made a vicious assault upon Lowe. The latter received a cut across the chin and three teeth were knocked out. McNamara was taken to the hospital and the police arrested him.

Baby on Sale.

Babies are not usually found for sale on the market yesterday morning. A child was offered for sale on the market yesterday morning. The child was a boy, and was said to be a "slaughter sale," but the woman who had the baby, Mrs. Jakman, said if any one wanted it she would not let the small matter of money stand in the way. She was willing to give it to them gratis. Mrs. Jakman keeps a stand on the market and the tiny bit of baby was born at her home and cared for by her. She said her mother's name was Mary Lewis, and her father was a man named Rothchild. She finally succeeded in giving the child to a woman on East Washington street, but in hiding in the street, she said she and her husband would not let her keep it.

Street-Railroad Directors.

A meeting of the Citizens' Street-railway Company directors was held yesterday. Mr. Vermer and Mr. McKee were present and with Messrs. Jamison and Eldred, President Mason and General Manager M. Loan, they found business enough to occupy them most of the day. Nothing was given out for publication except the com-

SEARCH LIGHTS IN THE SKY.

"Old Dominion's" Advertising Enterprise Draws a Big Crowd.

The Old Dominion search lights held high carnival on the roof of the Bates House last night, to the satisfaction of a large number of people who crowded the streets in that vicinity and watched with great interest the working of the powerful lights, which were such a well-known feature of the world's fair. Indianapolis will have these sky-scraping illuminators for the next three weeks, and that time if there is a man, woman or child in this section who falls to see them it will be because they are either blind or do not "watch the heavens at night." The street urchins basked in the huge flood of light as it was turned every now and then on to the street below, and the crowd on the roof whistled the immense and far-reaching rays around over the city the illuminated trail was followed by thousands of eyes. These lights have a sort of fascination about them, and the crowds lingered until the exhibition was over, and watched from hundreds of windows in various parts of the city and was a decidedly successful start for the search light illuminators. The operators made favorite marks every high point of the city, and the search light illuminators made targets of every high point of the city. The search light illuminators made targets of every high point of the city. The search light illuminators made targets of every high point of the city.

THEIR EYE ON ANARCHY.

The Police Have R. Braunschweig Under Surveillance. A man named R. Braunschweig, who has been making anarchistic speeches to several persons in the city, is under the surveillance of the police. He has been making speeches in the hall of the beer brewers and beer drivers, and made fiery speeches in support of the red flag idea. He met the police and was taken to the police station. The police are watching him, and his speeches go to the length of inciting anarchism he will be arrested.

PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

Miss Gertrude Hayes left on Monday for a month's sojourn in the East. The concert given by a large party at their new club house Feb. 23. Mrs. Frances Churchman has gone to Pittsburg to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Turner. Mrs. A. L. Varney will give a luncheon on Friday to a number of friends at the Arsenal.

The annual party of the Propylaeum directors will be given the evening of the 23rd and morning of the 24th inst. at the Propylaeum. Mrs. Joseph Brown Massey will entertain at 10:30 o'clock on Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday. Miss Burkhart and Miss Elliott, of Cincinnati. Miss Burkhart, who is the guest of the Mrs. Erwin, will entertain on Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday. Miss Burkhart and Miss Elliott, of Cincinnati.

Miss Burkhart, who is the guest of the Mrs. Erwin, will entertain on Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday. Miss Burkhart and Miss Elliott, of Cincinnati. Miss Burkhart, who is the guest of the Mrs. Erwin, will entertain on Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday. Miss Burkhart and Miss Elliott, of Cincinnati.

The choral class of the Matinee Musicals will give a concert on Friday evening at the school of music, and all members of the Musicals who can sing are invited to be present. The concert will be given at the school of music, and all members of the Musicals who can sing are invited to be present. The concert will be given at the school of music, and all members of the Musicals who can sing are invited to be present.

The Graton Johnson entertained a theater party Monday evening in honor of Miss Elliott and Miss Burkhart, of Cincinnati. The party was given at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday. The party was given at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday. The party was given at the home of Mrs. J. H. Holliday.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city. The Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to order a new ambulance to be purchased for the city.

EXPIRES THIS MONTH

The City's Claim on the Old Street-Car Company's Charter.

On Jan. 18 the Mayor's cabinet will hold another meeting, and on this day, according to the decision of Mr. Jones, the city attorney under the Sullivan administration, the charter of the Citizens' Street-railroad Company will expire. This fact was brought before the cabinet meeting yesterday morning, and there was quite a lengthy talk. It was deemed not advisable to make the points brought out public just yet, but the matter discussed became known after the meeting by several on the outside. The Mayor asked the city officers to consider the city's proper course in the premises that will expire on the 18th inst. He believed that it will be the city's duty to notify the company on Jan. 18 that its charter has expired, and to make formal demand for possession of the streets now occupied by the lines of the company. It will be remembered that the city attorney's opinion was given at the request of Mayor Sullivan. He found upon examination that the charter of the Citizens' company expired on Jan. 18, 1894. The company claims that, even aside from their claim that the charter is perpetual, the charter would not expire for several years yet on account of the extension granted by the Council in several instances. The Mayor told the cabinet that he believed the city should take a hand in the litigation now before the United States Court, and that it should not be allowed to interpose in the cause now before Judge Baker. Several of the city officers shared the opinion that the litigation now before the United States Court should be allowed to proceed. If the courts should eventually determine that the company was not entitled to possession of the streets, the city would lose several years' revenue under the contract with the City company. The Mayor said that he would not result against Coffin & Stanton further, the members believing that if the case was taken to the United States Court, the United States the decision of Judge Baker would be affirmed. Besides, the city would be liable for the cost of the litigation. The actual loss, and this might be a difficult matter to prove. All the city officers, except the Mayor, were present at the meeting. They failed to receive sufficient notice of the meeting.

NORTH-SIDE IMPROVEMENTS.

Board of Works Views Streets Proposed to be Paved. The members of the Board of Works drove over the northern portion of the city with the city engineer yesterday afternoon to view the ground where improvements are proposed. The engineer was asked to estimate the cost of paving the streets proposed to be paved. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt. The Board of Works is of the opinion that the streets proposed to be paved should be paved with asphalt.

"GATES' SELF-RAISING BUCKWHEAT"

ABSOLUTE PURITY GUARANTEED. A.B. GATES & CO. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

severance with the Chicago organization, will be known as the Indian Retail Merchants' Association. The articles of incorporation will be filed during the week. LECTURE AT PLYMOUTH CHURCH. Another Interesting Discourse by the Brahmin Priest. An extremely interested audience listened last evening to the third of the course of lectures now being delivered at Plymouth Church by Narasimha Choga, the Brahmin priest. His history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people, to whom they felt themselves immensely superior. Their history is a grand struggle of the best nature of man against the prevailing and sensualizing influence of a tropical climate. Considered in the light of these obstacles, which they surmounted, the wonder is not that their civilization has decayed, but that it was able to endure, and remain even stationary as long as it did. He dwelt on the influence of religion on civilization, and on the Hindu civilization and compared it with the modern. He said: "For with the great advantages Europe has had, in the experience accumulated for her by previous civilizations, it is no use saying that we are as good as her. For we must be decidedly better." Talking of the Hindu civilization, he said: "Considering the difficulties they had to undergo, the progress of the Eastern branch of the Aryans is not to be despised. In each inch they had to force their way amidst a hostile and unsympathetic people