Frank in a Chicago Hotel.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Shortly before 4 a. m. to-day the glass roof which covered the office of the Brevoort House on Madison street was struck by a crash. The work was the only person in the office at the time and he barely escaped being crushed by the falling glass, iron and woodwork. The guests who were awakened by the noise rushed to the office to find it a mass of broken glass and other debris. There was something of a panic in the corridors of the hotel when the noise was first heard, but the night clerk quickly assured the guests that there was no danger and their excitement was subdued. The accident is supposed to have been caused by a heavy pipe coming from the roof to the skylight.

GANG OF CAR THIEVES.

Arrest of Ex-Switchmen, Whose Homes at Buffalo Were Filled with Plunder.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The largest and most dangerous gang of car burglars ever detected in Buffalo was unearthed yesterday and several arrests have been made. Mrs. Hueter, known as queen of the gang, and a man named Christopher were first arrested and confessed, giving the names of their neighbors as confederates. Their houses in Buffalo and on the same street were searched and wagon loads of plunder counted. Christopher was living off the railroads the woman said. The men are or have been New York Central. The houses in Buffalo were fitted out like palaces and they had more coal than they could burn.

MAY HURT PYTHIANS

SUPREME CHANCELLOR BLACKWELL'S EXPRESSIONS CONDEMNED.

Conservative Knights Say His Denunciation of Germans Was Too Strong and Overshot the Mark.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—There is still danger of dissension and trouble in the Supreme Council of the Knights of Pythias over the recommendations contained in the report of Supreme Chancellor Blackwell with regard to the expulsion from the order of those German lodges that have adopted a German ritual and also the members of the order who are in any way connected with the saloon business. There are many expressions of regret from the conservative members of the order that the supreme chancellor should have become so radical in his treatment of the question. There are many who do not hesitate to say that the supreme chancellor has ulterior motives for the play he is making and that he wants to line the order up as an A. P. A. society or a sort of Know-nothing organization. One member says: "His expressions in his report are very radical and uncalled for that they have received the condemnation of the very men who would have stood by him in his fight for what he calls the principles of the order, had his recommendations been couched in the language called for by the basic principles of the order, 'friendship, benevolence and charity.' There is nothing of friendship, charity or benevolence in his remarks. He characterizes the Germans as an impediment to the progress of the order, stating in an interview that the order would be better off if the Germans were out of it. This declaration is made in the face of the fact that, while the lodges composed exclusively of Germans are not, numerically, the strongest in the order, the numbers of Germans scattered in other lodges give the order its strength and importance. When the drill committee in charge of the prize drill was soliciting funds to pay for the prizes, two of the German lodges of this city put up $1,500 of the prize money. The committee offered nearly $9,000 altogether for prizes, but when the time for paying the money came around acknowledged that there was only $5,000 available. Much of this came from the prize drill committee who were solicited to pay for the prizes, two of the German lodges of this city subscribed nearly as much to the fund as was retained by the prize drill committee. And yet Mr. Blackwell believes that the order would be better without this element.

The supreme chancellor takes the ground that no man who cannot understand and read the English language is to become a member of the order. This is well enough in his way, but there are others who take the ground that the order is not merely for those Americans who have spoken the English language for generations. It is intended also to make a grade into this country and which can be given to any man who is able to read the English language and who is intelligent and patriotic citizen.

Member of a lodge in Wisconsin, in talking over the subject with a correspondent to-day, said: "In our State the order is very strong, but we are reaching out and trying to strengthen it. It will eventually be one of the strongest grand lodges in the country. Here, however, the nationalization work is a case where we could take into the lodge men who have been but a little while in this country and who are patriotic and come patriotic American citizens—men who are daily becoming more intimately woven into the warp and woof of our national fabric, and who will in time be among the best and sturdiest of our population. The nationalization work is a case where a hundredfold if we could take them into our order and let them meet every week with typical Americans, whose interests would run mainly in the lines of American patriotism and the love of our country. This would be a grand thing to do, and the spirit that actuates the members of our order, the principles of friendship, charity and benevolence would become to them the guiding principles of life and they would become bound to their brethren in the order by such fraternal ties as it would be impossible to form outside of it. Many of these men, however, could not understand the ritual if read to them in English, for while they might understand the English language well enough to carry on an ordinary conversation it would be impossible for them to grasp the abstract ideas of the ritual unless in a familiar tongue. Given the ritual in their own tongue, they would be able to understand it and the ritual would no longer need to be read to them in their own language. That this is a grand thing to do, and the spirit that actuates the members of our order, the principles of friendship, charity and benevolence would become to them the guiding principles of life and they would become bound to their brethren in the order by such fraternal ties as it would be impossible to form outside of it.
