DELAY IS DANGEROUS

Few people live to middle age without learning by experience the truth of this old adage. In nothing has it been proved more conclusively than in the disposition of estates. A man or woman shrinks from making a will, but it is a duty which must be performed. Then the law steps in and divides a fortune which may be entirely different from what the owner of the property intended. Persons who were to be provided for get nothing, and perhaps a solemn duty has been neglected. All sorts of contingencies may occur. Distress and privation may come upon the family. Fully provided for in the mind of the dead, the family may be left in want. It is unwise for any one to put off this important duty. Make your will now and arrange your own affairs as you wish, and when you name your executor let it be

BETRAYED BY THE WATERMARK. Alleged Forged Letters That Figured in a Sensational Divorce Case.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—Another sensation has been sprung in the famous Carpenter divorce case, involving Mrs. Arra Carpenter, who is the daughter of the wealthy pioneer, Allen Harmon, and J. M. Williams, a wealthy social and church leader, in a charge of perjury. Mrs. Carpenter secured a divorce at the last term of court, alleging that her husband was unfaithful. Mr. Carpenter at the same time made similar charges, naming J. M. Williams, of the Security Bank, as co-responder, but Mr. Williams, in a letter written in 1891, 1892 and 1893 by Mrs. Carpenter, showing that their relations had been purely business, and Mrs. Carpenter was the suit. Her divorced husband's attorney now claims to have found that the letters dated 1891 were written on paper bearing the water mark of 1883 of the old Berkshire mill. An affidavit from the manufacturer of the paper has, it is said, been secured asserting that the paper was made in 1883, and the case will be reopened at once. Preliminary arguments have been set for next Saturday.

Parkhurst Versus Byrnes. NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Superintendent of Police Byrnes when asked today if he cared to say anything about the criticism of him by Dr. Parkhurst, in the Eighteenth-street Methodist Church, last night, made this reply: "I have no objection to being given word for word, or not at all. Yes, I have seen the statement by the Rev. Dr.

At the salmon fisheries it was found that the weather had been unfavorable, but the catch was, nevertheless, reported as fair. While skirting the coast of Alaska, Captain Hooper reports sighting an unexplained peak in the Mount St. Elias alps which was not shown on the map. The mountain was named St. Elias. After being plotted it was named Mount Hamlin, in honor of Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Mount Hamlin, 12,000 feet high. The Rush is now at San Francisco.

THE SANTA FE "HOLD UP." Detective Kinney Says McDaniels, the Spy, Did Not Work Up the Crime.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 21.—J. J. Kinney, chief of the secret service of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Company, returned this morning from Scotland county, Missouri, where he has been operating with the local authorities in the Gorin train robbery case. Kinney says that McDaniels and Abrams are the only people wanted for the holdup. There are two others in the conspiracy, but one gave it up because he became suspicious of McDaniels, the informer, and the other was a simple-minded and harmless sort of a fellow who was persuaded by McDaniels to abandon the enterprise. Kinney denies that McDaniels originated the plot. He says Abrams and McDaniels were the brains of the scheme, and that the advice of A. J. Dugas, a lawyer of Memphis, Mo., Dugas advised McDaniels to inform the railroad and express authorities and the two went to Chicago and told the story. Then General Manager Fry was informed and the case was placed in Kinney's hands. After the holdup on the Gorin train, Kinney learned that McDaniels had been in contact with Abrams and Kinney says McDaniels was not furnished $5,000 in other money for poisoning the conspiracy. He will receive only expenses actually incurred. He described McDaniels as a middle-aged man, who has been a saloon keeper, a deputy sheriff and a schoolteacher.

Mr. Johnson—Then I say that the assertion is an unwarranted one, and I believe that there is not a Democrat on the other side of the house who will uphold such a statement.

Mr. Mulgrew—I arise as a Democrat to repudiate the statement made by the gentleman who has just spoken, who does not seem to me to be a Democrat, but a man who has sold out to the Union as bribes. I know there is not a Democrat on the other side of the house who will uphold such a statement.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—All previous low records on cotton contracts were broken this morning when October sold at 6.23 cents, against the last low record of 6.23 cents, which was made on March 16, 1892, the nearest whole cent year. The lower sale of the day was at 6.23 cents. In antebellum days still lower prices were occasionally current under slave labor, but never before in the history of the Cotton Exchange has the price of the staple touched the low figure now current. The immediate cause of the decline is the large movement of cotton at the ports and the interior, with an indifferent market for it even at the present low prices. Settlement on "Change is bearish, and as low as 6 cents is predicted for cotton in the near future, based on the expectation of a nine-million-bale crop, with 5,000,000 bales possible, and no estimate of the crop is made. The market is bearish. In view of the bearish conditions prevailing, there is a large accumulation of cotton in the hands of speculators, based on the expectation of a future general advance of the more carefully operated to be conservative, as in the event of any bull movement being started the short interest would be an important factor in a rapid advance of the price.

IN THE WILD, WOOLLY EAST. New York Street Car Held Up and Passengers Robbed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—An open car on the Eighth-avenue line was held up late last night in true Western style. Near Abington square a gang of about forty hoodlums, some black and some white, rushed out of a side street and, crying "Get out of the car, boys," they began to think that the fire engines were about to rush across the track, did not attempt to resist, but instead of being taken to the hospital, they were taken to the hospital.
