FINAL MIZPAH SAID STATE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION OF 1894 ENDS.

Thousands Attend the Tomlinson Hall Meetings—Judge L. J. Kirkpatrick Re-Elected State President.

Christian Endeavorers and their friends, to the number of about two thousand, met yesterday afternoon at Tomlinson Hall. In observance of the day they showed their approval of announcements and speeches by the silent waving of handkerchiefs instead of by clapping the hands. Two pieces of delayed business were disposed of. The State secretary, Harriet J. Wishard, read her report, the substance of which has already been published, and W. J. Lewis, of Evansville, read the report of the nominating committee announcing the new State officers, as follows: President—Judge L. J. Kirkpatrick, of Kokomo.

Vice Presidents—Rev. M. H. Appleby, of Indianapolis; Rev. J. W. Kapp, of Richmond; Rev. J. W. Wilson, of Indianapolis; Rev. C. D. Hillman, of Fairmount; W. A. Cline, of Evansville. Secretary—Miss Harriet J. Wishard, of Indianapolis. Treasurer—Charles J. Buchanan, of Indianapolis.

Superintendent of Junior Work—Mrs. M. L. Hageman, of Muncie. Superintendent of Missionary Department—Miss Jennie Masson, of Indianapolis. Superintendent of Department of Good Citizenship—Rev. George A. Hindley, of Ellettsville. Master of Transportation—Dr. F. C. Heath, of Indianapolis.

The new names in this list are those of J. W. Wilson, E. O. Ellis, W. J. Kapp, Miss Jennie Masson, George A. Hindley and F. C. Heath. The others were re-nominations. The office of master of transportation is a new one, created to relieve the secretary. The work of the nominating committee was approved by a standing vote and a general waving of handkerchiefs and the audience remained standing during a prayer by Miss Jennie Masson. Ed W. Clark, of Indianapolis, made an enthusiastic speech on the Christian Endeavor badge, under the title, "It Shines Brighter than any Other Gold." He found many new meanings for the monogram "C. E." To the junior it meant "Come early" to Christ in mission work it meant "Christ everywhere." In the good citizenship movement it meant "Causes entered" and "Citizenship elevated." In general it meant "Consecrated effort."

J. A. Hudson, president of the C. E. Society of the Euclid-avenue Baptist Church, of Cleveland, which entertained the Indiana Endeavorers at the Cleveland convention, made a few remarks of greeting. A man resembling a Japanese in stature and features and with twinkling black eyes, Edward Marsden, a native of Ika, made an address on "The Solution of the Heathen Problem. The missionary, he said, must be a thorough Christian, should have good physical health, and, if possible, be a medical missionary. He must condescend to the heathen level without becoming a heathen. He must preach with power and sympathy and do works of charity wherever needed. The heathen should be not only converted but educated. The adults should be converted and then educated, and the children should be educated first and then converted. The heathen should be taught industries to keep them from becoming paupers. They should be encouraged in pure social enjoyments. Many were reached by their digestive organs. The laws of the State should be explained to them. Mr. Marsden deprecated the government's treatment of the Indians, and spoke of the benefits of a Christian treatment of them.

E. F. Yarnell, of Fort Wayne, sang a solo and by Mrs. Griffin, of Chicago, addressed the convention. Rev. Dr. N. D. Hillis, of Evansville, Ill., a rapid and earnest speaker, made a closing address of the afternoon, on "The Forward Movement in Missions." The words, he said, were taking a rapid advance. He made a general survey of missionary progress. The breaking down of walls and race barriers, the invention of machinery, the discontent of the heathen with their conditions, the readiness of educated young people to go abroad and the opportunities offered by the wealth of America, he said, contributing toward this progress.

THE CLOSING HOUR.

Two Overcrowded Meetings Relieve the Crowds at Tomlinson Hall. "From this mountain of myrrh and frankincense I am to lead you down to the plain of everyday routine life with plain and simple words," said Rev. Dr. A. B. Meldrum, of Evansville, from the Tomlinson Hall platform last night. The figure of speech was appropriate in its suggestion of magnitude and pleasant surroundings. Before him in the decorated hall stretched a great area of faces over its entire extent. Behind him rose a great chorus on the stage, and people filled the galleries and stood about the edges of the hall. It was the last and the greatest of the Christian Endeavor gatherings there during the season.

Dr. Meldrum's sermon was impressive, and the thousands of faces wore an attentive look as he spoke about Christ's purpose in making Christians. "The common idea is that Christ only saves souls from hell to get them into heaven," he said. "Therefore, so many study how little piety is necessary to get into heaven; but where we are to find out the exact amount of this piety is not in heaven, but in the world. It is not in books and history. If I were an infidel I should not be brought to belief by the arguments of logic. I should look at the lives of the followers of Christ. As the tree is to be known by its fruit, Christians are to be judged by the Christ in their lives. Every Christian should show the spirit of Christ in his life. Unbelievers may argue the merits of the lips, but the unbeliever ever lived who could answer the argument of a godly life. I have known people in whose presence it was impossible to be unbeliever. Those who have the image of Christ stamped upon them make all who come near them feel that there is a God. This is the only argument that the unbeliever can stand."

Mr. Meldrum said that the enthusiasm at conventions and prayer meetings was not sufficient and abiding. Spiritual strength and buoyancy were to be obtained by a close intercourse with God. "It is not a mere luxury of feeling, but a doing of the will of God. The gospel sets one thinking not how much he is doing out of the world, but how much he can bring into it. The only way to get spiritual power is by prayer, and the only way of increasing it is by using it."

Before Dr. Meldrum's sermon a number of resolutions were read among them one saying: "We express our sympathy with the good citizenship movement as represented by the Junior League and the Good Citizenship League of the State, and pledge that, regardless of party affiliation, we will use our influence to see that the only good and true men are put into places of honor and trust; that we believe the laws of the State should be rigidly enforced, and that we commend the action of Governor Matthews and Mayor Denny for their prompt enforcement of law."

The waving of handkerchiefs was the means of applause at this, as at the afternoon meeting, and Mr. E. O. Excell and E. F. Yarnell, who sang several times during the evening, received this salute. L. J. Kirkpatrick, re-elected president of the Indiana Christian Endeavorers, said that could be put upon him could be felt more responsibility than in directing 67,000 intelligent young men and women of the State. A gain of 12,000 members and 155 societies during the year was, he said, one to be proud of.

Rev. J. H. Elliott, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., conducted the convention's "closing hour" by reading several times during the effect of the convention and from many parts of the great audience came brief declarations of new religious resolutions. Mr. Elliott spoke for a while and a great part of the audience rose in response to questions about the benefits received. Singing, the Mizpah benediction was repeated and the convention adjourned.

A great many people were unable to get into Tomlinson Hall last night and these were directed to the Second Presbyterian Church, which was filled with a large number of Evansville, president and J. H. Elliott spoke. Those unable to get into the church were provided for by a second overflow meeting at the First Presbyterian Church, where Rev. Dr. M. L. Haines, Dr. F. N. Hills, of Chicago, Edward Marsden, of Ika, and E. B. Sewcock, of Fort Wayne, spoke.

BY AND FOR WOMEN.

A Beautiful Meeting by Fair Endeavorers in the Afternoon.

A special service, conducted by and for women, was held at the Second Presbyterian Church, at 429 yesterday afternoon. Miss Ella Applegate, of Knightstown, was the leader. Miss Carman presided at the organ and Miss Yarnell assisted in leading the music. Young women with white caps seated up and down the aisles and found seats for the audience. Then they carried in chairs after all the pews were full. After that they brought in benches from the Sunday-school room, and still there were more to be seated. The young women performed all the duties of ushers with dispatch. A second song was "Nearer, my God, to Thee," and the first verse was repeated very softly. Miss Applegate said that was what the meeting was for, to get "nearer to God." After a few minutes of silent prayer a series of short prayers were offered for various purposes. Miss Applegate read a few verses of the tenth chapter of Luke, which relates the story of Martha and Mary. "They represent two classes of women to-day, the one in service and one at the feet of Jesus," said the leader. Then she read Romans XIV, which says that no man should put himself and no man die to himself. "This last furnished the subject for the meeting; the one word to stand for it—Influence."

Woman is looked to as a model of purity; she is an influence. It is not to tell you how women may show influence, she was the opening sentence, which gave the cue for the short and interesting remarks. Among some of the sentiments, in brief, were: "If we fall to do our part the world will feel the lack of it." "I speak for the women of our day; each one of us is some kind of an example." "Even a hair casts a shadow." "I speak for the women of the older sisters. We are too careless about our little sisters and brothers."

"The influence of the influence of the tongue, I remember when I was a little child of hearing women talk to my mother and she would say, 'I don't know what you are saying, but I don't like to hear you say that.' It is not allowed that early talk to influence men." "There is the evil influence of slang words and phrases."

"I owe what I am to my mother, who has been a blessing to me. The influence of the mother is greater than that of any other, and we who have children cannot be too careful of the influence of our words." "One of the touching talks was given by a young woman who has no use of her feet. She went to the meeting at Tomlinson Hall in the morning, and she was wheeled out a young man asked her if she had a message for him. She told him she had, and he said, 'If you have a message, I have.' The young woman had often wondered how she could do anything, and the words of the boy made her feel that she had a little.

After the meeting of the scrap which she had in her Bible. A little girl came in from school one day and began to tell her mother a story about her. 'Stop,' said her mother, 'is it true? Is it kind? Is it necessary? If it is true, is it kind? Is it necessary? If it is true, is it kind? The meeting was one of the tenderest and most interesting of the season. Several of the talks occupied several minutes, and were given with an earnestness and fervor that was refreshing. The C. E. benediction ended a meeting full of fervor and good to the many."

JUNIOR C. E.'S.

Three Hundred Led in a Beautiful and Instructive Service.

One of yesterday's most interesting meetings was the gathering at 4 o'clock of the Junior members of the Y. P. S. C. E. At that hour between three and four hundred young people, many of them under sixteen years of age, filed into the First Presbyterian Church from their respective Sunday schools. The meeting was led by Mrs. L. M. Hageman, State president of the Junior League, who gave a most earnest words at once won the hearts of the little folks. Miss Sloan was assisted by Mrs. L. M. Hageman, State president of the Junior League, who gave a most earnest words at once won the hearts of the little folks. Miss Sloan was assisted by Mrs. L. M. Hageman, State president of the Junior League, who gave a most earnest words at once won the hearts of the little folks.

The exercises of the afternoon consisted of prayer, Bible reading and short talks upon Junior endeavor. Many of the young people present related their personal experiences in the endeavor. The meeting closed with the endeavor prayer, recited in concert.

No Love in Nature's Law.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Elliott, of New York, addressed a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. As a speaker he is brief, but impressive and forcible. He took as his text, Matt. 23: 23, "Ye care for the weight that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Mr. Elliott said that there were an innumerable number of sermons to be preached from this text, as it showed the love of God, and the love of God was all in all. He said he desired to call attention very briefly to four points in the text, and the first was the love of God was all in all. He said he desired to call attention very briefly to four points in the text, and the first was the love of God was all in all.

Praise and Prayer Service.

The best services of the Christian Endeavor for yesterday was the praise and prayer meeting at 9 o'clock at Meridian-street Church. There was a small audience when the meeting opened, but members of the society came in every few minutes till there was a large assemblage before the exercises closed. Mr. J. E. Hudson, of Cleveland, O., led. The first few minutes were given up to gospel songs and prayer. Mr. Hudson, in a brief and impressive address, said that the members would be given an opportunity to offer their testimony as to how they were doing in the service. He gave testimonials. There was a diversity of reasons for offering praise and prayer. Some were one arose and asked prayer for a young man, and immediately Mr. Hudson asked for a special benediction for the young man. Rev. J. H. Elliott, of Clifton Springs, and Miss Harriet Wishard were on the platform and they gave him a most impressive benediction in the musical part of the service. The hour devoted to the praise and prayer was filled so full of services.

Service at the Reformatory.

At the special invitation of the superintendent of the Reformatory for Women a number of members of the Y. P. S. C. E. went to the institution yesterday morning at 9:35 and held services. The inmates entered heartily into the singing and took part in the exercises. The Sunshine Club was present and delighted the women by their singing. The services were most interesting and profitable.

At the Institution for the Blind.

One of the best services of the day was that at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at the chapel of the Institution for the Blind. A number of the visitors went with some of the members of the society from the city and held the services. Mr. Yarnell and Mrs. Yarnell contributed to the cause, and what others did with their short talks and prayers.

Two Singers in Demand.

Mr. Yarnell and daughter, of Port Wayne, have been in great demand during the convention. Yesterday morning they sang at the 8 o'clock service at the blind institution, at 9 o'clock at the reformatory, at 10 o'clock at the Memorial Church, and later at the Seventh Presbyterian.

IT WAS A GREAT TRIP

GENERAL HARRISON'S SPEECHES INCREASE REPUBLICAN ENTHUSIASM.

The Trip to Fort Wayne Next Thursday Will Probably Attract Even Larger Audiences.

The coming week of the campaign, that is now on so vigorously with the Republicans of Indiana, will be a lively one. There will be speeches in every part of the State every night, and Thursday Gen. Harrison will start for Fort Wayne, returning by way of Lafayette and making short speeches at the principal towns along the route. The demonstrations at these points will undoubtedly be huge affairs, much larger than the magnificent turnout along the Evansville route, for the territory through which the Fort Wayne trip is to be made is not so thickly settled with Democrats as that through which the Evansville trip was made.

The success of the tour which ended Saturday evening was a live subject of comment among the politicians who gathered in the hotel lobby yesterday. Even Democrats conceded that the crowds were far beyond their anticipation, for it was not believed by them that Gen. Harrison could draw such large audiences in districts that had heretofore been renowned for their Democracy. The morning Democratic organ gave the attendance at English at three thousand and at Seymour at about three thousand, and that organ is famed for its extreme conservatism in estimating crowds at Republican meetings. Seymour is the home of Jason Brown and is in the center of a district that has been accustomed to furnish Democratic majorities.

Leading Republicans have had their enthusiasm heightened by the results of the trip and they believe the counties in southwestern Indiana will show surprisingly large Republican gains on Nov. 6. Some of the Democratic leaders profess to believe that the speeches will have little effect as the people in the counties in that part of the State are too strongly wedded to their Democratic idols. John W. Kern, in speaking about the trip, said that such a rousing meeting would only serve to make the Democratic county committee more active and a meeting was held at the Hotel last night to discuss the gravity of the situation in the Democratic camp. The appearance of Gen. Harrison on the platform in both northern and southern parts of the State, and the tremendous greeting which he has received so far from the Democrats without even a slight hope in the success of their ticket this fall. The proceedings of the meeting of Democrats at Evansville were kept secret.

Humor of the Campaign.

Marion L. Griffith, Democratic candidate for Attorney-general, and John W. Kern were talking to a group at the Grand Hotel last night, just before a meeting of the State candidates, and the conversation turned to the size of crowds at political meetings and the manner of the party papers in estimating them. "I do not believe," said Mr. Kern, "that some party papers are accurate in sizing up the crowds and in speaking of the warmth of the reception to speakers. I was at Fort Wayne two years ago, and was to follow Frank Hord, who spoke for several hours. The meeting was in the open air, before a crowd of several thousand. As I stepped forward after Hord concluded a heavy rain began to fall. Everybody for shelter. Would you believe it, sir, the opposition organ at Fort Wayne had this to say, among other things, 'The meeting was a failure. It was a blighted name. Kern, from Indianapolis, stepped forward, but the crowd, with blanched faces, fled as one man, and a minute later there was not an auditor in the house.' It was as far as they got, but that sheet did not say one word about the rain."

The People's Party Wigwag.

The People's party wigwag has been located permanently on North Illinois street, between Market and Ohio streets, where meetings will be held every evening until election. Other meetings will be held as follows: Monday evening at South Capitol avenue and Ray street and at West 10th and corner Hoy and State avenues; Tuesday evening at McCarty and Missouri streets; Wednesday evening at Harrison and Pine streets.

Three Speeches To-Day.

Charles L. Henry, Republican candidate for Congress from this district, will make three speeches to-day, as follows: At Illinois and Garden streets at noon, at Mount Jackson at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at Lawrence this evening. To-morrow he will be in the neighborhood of Washington and Blackford streets, and at night will speak in Old Fellows' Hall on Indiana avenue.

OPEN SEASON FOR QUALLS.

It Does Not Begin Until Nov. 10, and Closes with the Year. "Many people," said Dr. S. H. Moore, yesterday, "do not seem to know when the open season for quails begins in Indiana. This is largely due to the fact that the old law appears in the Revised Statutes, the act of the last Legislature not yet having found a place in the book. The old law permitted quails to be shot from Oct. 15 to Dec. 20, making the open season a little over two months. The new law reads: 'Whoever shoots or destroys or purveys for the purpose of shooting or destroying, or for sale or possession, any quail or pheasant during the period from the first day of January of any year to the tenth day of November of any year, shall be fined in the sum of $2 for each quail, wild turkey or pheasant so killed, and the sum of $1 for each quail or pheasant so purveyed or sold in his possession.'"

It will be seen by the above that the open season for quails now is from Nov. 10 to Nov. 10 of the following year. The Limited Gun Club and the Fish and Game Protective Association may offer rewards for the arrest of any person found killing quails out of season. The commission houses and restaurants may also be watched for they are liable to the fine of $1 for each bird found in their possession."

PREPARING FOR THE SNOWS.

The Citizens' Street-railway Company has ordered a new set of street sweepers from the McGuire company, of Chicago, and they will arrive in about three weeks. They will give the company five track sweepers, a number deemed sufficient to clear the tracks of snow in a short time. The two sweepers just ordered are constructed on an improved plan and clear the entire track on one trip. It requires three motors to operate one of them, two being necessary to drive the machines and one to operate the brooms. With this equipment of sweepers General Manager McLean expects to be able to tidy up with all the snowstorms that may come during this winter.

Patrick Bane Charged with Theft.

John Gillespie, a saloon keeper at the corner of Maryland and California streets, caused the arrest of Patrick Bane, residing at 57 South California street, Saturday night. Gillespie says he closed his saloon at 11 o'clock that night and found that he had $50 in cash. He put the money into a sack, which he then put in his overcoat pocket. He left the saloon with Bane, who walked with him to his gate. As he started in the house he missed the money from his pocket and accused Bane of having taken it. Bane denies having taken the money and says he knows nothing about it. When he was arrested none of the money was found upon him.

THE BIDS ON RUBBER HOSE.

The representatives of the various hose companies which have submitted bids for hose to be purchased by the Board of Public Safety are gathering in the city. One of the representatives of a rubber hose firm claims that cities are abandoning the use of cotton for rubber hose. When the board last purchased hose it asked for bids on cotton hose only, and refused to entertain bids for rubber hose. This time it has asked for bids on rubber hose alone, and the board will be purchased a supply of it. The rubber hose costs only 10 cents a foot more than the cotton hose mostly used by the department in its work, and in fact, a saving over cotton hose, in that it requires only one-half the amount to supply the department. This is due to the fact that the cotton hose must always be dry when it is used, and each company is compelled to carry a double supply of it in order that one lot may be used while the other is drying. This inconvenience is done away with in the use of rubber hose.

Dr. Conan Doyle's Lecture.

Dr. A. Conan Doyle, the famous English novelist, who is now on a two months' lecture tour of this country, will arrive tonight at Plymouth Church, the lecture being a personal one, telling of his own life and writings and having for its subject "Readings and Reminiscences." The address will be given at 8 o'clock, and Dr. Doyle will be given the greeting to which his literary fame entitles him. His is the opening lecture of the Montefiore Society course.
