

THE INDIANAPOLIS JOURNAL Daily, Sunday and Weekly

The Journal is first of all a newspaper. Its primary object is to publish the news, and to procure this it spares no pains or expense.

It is established for the purpose of looking after matters in which the State and its people are concerned, and is under the management of a gentleman well acquainted with the local business and political issues.

Its staff of city reporters is large, and its local departments are unexcelled. As a newspaper it is far better equipped than any other in the State, and welcomes comparison with its contemporaries in any and all of its departments.

It is a paper that gives more attention to miscellaneous literature than the other editions, and contains in its sixteen, and often twenty, pages a variety of choice reading matter that satisfies the most exacting taste.

The attack on soldiers' widows in regard to pensioning soldiers' widows is the most shameful act of this administration. Any citizen who has had experience in the pension business knows the amount of red tape connected with it and all the legitimate evidence it requires to procure a pension, especially for a soldier's widow or orphan, and now, as the pension appropriation has reached its ebb-tide, the feeling has been pronounced that it is one of economy or justice, but plainly one of spite and prejudice.
