

Remnants

Of choice Worsteds in lengths from two to eight yards.

PRICES ONE-HALF

Regular values. Among them are Serges, Novelties, Mohairs, Checks, Chevots, etc.

Special Values

In fine Summer Goods. Batiste, Dimities and Ducks at 12 1/2c are unexcelled.

L. S. AYRES & CO.

Agent for Butterick's Patterns.

Pianos at Manufacturers' Prices

We can show you . . .

Special Bargains

UPRIGHT PIANOS

In all the different woods and sizes, at lower prices than any other place in the city.

D. H. BALDWIN & CO.

63, 67 & 69 North Pennsylvania St.

CARPETS

Always the largest and most complete stock. Now cut to clear for

Alteration Sale

Albert Gall

17 and 19 West Washington Street,

ART EMPORIUM, Telephone 900.

A Portrait. The portrait of John S. Spann, painted by Mr. Steele, is now on show for a few days.

Picture Frames, Cameras, Art Materials.

The H. LIEBER COMPANY, 33 South Meridian St.

A Window That Talks--

It's our Virginia avenue window.

It Talks Oak Rockers

It Talks $3.98

For choice. First choice is best choice. The window shows that they're all best choice.

BADGER FURNITURE CO.

75 and 77 East Washington Street, 20 and 24 Virginia Avenue.

TO-DAY!

LADIES' SILK and LISE HOSIERY—reduced from 50c and 75c to-day. 25c

They will go fast.

WASHABLE GLOVES—in white and lemon. 75c to $1.00

Tucker's

GLOVE STORE, 24 E. WASHINGTON ST.

WAS A COMMON THING.

Fred Harbaur, colored, holds up Small Boys for Tobacco or Money.

Fred Harbaur, a fourteen-year-old colored boy, was arrested yesterday for highway robbery. He searched a small white boy on the Fall creek bridge at Indiana avenue and took twenty-five cents from him. When asked at the police station why he did it he said he needed the money. He said he frequently searched smaller boys for tobacco, but he never before found any money.

Increase in Stamp Sales. The stamp sales of the postoffice during the last quarter amounted to $22,529.92, an increase over the corresponding quarter of last year of $5,650.40, or 25 per cent. Tuesday was the end of the fiscal year for all departments of the government and the accounts are now being closed. The receipts at this office show an increase of about $25,000 over the previous year.

See the new Sideboards.—Wm. L. Elder.

STAND FOR SOUND MONEY

SILVER CRAZE TO BE MET WITH A CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION.

For Two Months War Will Be Waged Through the Newspapers and Then Comes Speaking.

The conference held yesterday afternoon by the Republican State committee and State and congressional candidates was harmonious and successful in the extreme. The meeting was held in the Century Club room, at the Denison, with a full attendance of both candidates and committeemen. As the roll of districts was called, responses were made by those present from the district, each telling what he knew of the political conditions in his district, and giving such suggestions as he might have in regard to the conduct of the campaign.

The opinion was unanimous along the line expressed by the candidates whose views were printed by the Journal yesterday morning; namely, that the first attention should be paid to the financial issue, and that the silver craze should be met squarely and honestly and fought fearlessly. An agreeable surprise developed in the reports from the districts. It was shown that the free-silver craze was not nearly so extensive nor so dangerous as the leaders of the party here have been led to believe. At scarcely any point has it affected the Republican party so seriously among the farmers as the sound-money sentiment has affected the Democrats in the cities and towns. The only bad spot reported was in Boone and Clinton counties, where there has been a nest of soft-money followers ever since the greenback days of 1872. In four of the districts a distinct decline of the silver sentiment and enthusiasm was noticed.

Almost all the speakers suggested that the craze be combated actively and at once by the dissemination of sound-money literature, and it was the general opinion that more could be accomplished through the Republican newspapers than by any other method. The State committee was urged to do all that it could in furnishing data and material for the use of Republican editors, and to have prepared such sound-money literature as it could. It was also suggested that between now and the formal opening of the campaign it would be a good thing to have a few small meetings in the nature of neighborhood gatherings, in localities where they are needed, for the discussion and explanation of the money issue.

It was decided that the campaign should be formally opened as near the 1st of September as a convenient date could be arranged. There was some little difference of opinion on this point, some of those present being of the opinion that the opening campaign should be opened earlier, but busy during the month August and September thought that it would be a waste of time and energy to put the regular list of speakers in the field before September. Chairman Gowdy became ill about 3 o'clock, and was compelled to retire to his room, leaving Vice Chairman Filbeck in charge of the meeting. The illness of the chairman arose from a sort of nervous prostration, and his physician has advised a few weeks of absolute rest, when it is thought he will be fully restored.

JUST A SUDDEN FAD.

Gen. Wallace's View of the Silver Craze—What Mr. Mount Has Noted.

Gen. Lew Wallace, who took such a prominent part in making the platform in the St. Louis convention, was in the city yesterday for the first time since returning from St. Louis. "I have never been more thoroughly satisfied with anything in my life," said he, yesterday, "than I was with both the platform and the candidates of the convention. Of all the various resolutions and voluntary contributions on the money question that I saw, the one that went into the platform suited me best. It was the work of a subcommittee of nine members, and I do not think that any one man wrote it. It was a sort of an essence or a compound of a number of minds.

"As to the campaign in this State, I think the sooner we get at the business of combating the silver craze the better. There are many sections of the State where you find no silver men at all, or, at least, but a few. In such a section it is not worth while to meet them, but there are other sections where it has made such a wide sweep that it is necessary to lower up the Democratic party, but I have made inroads into the Republican line. It is one of those sudden fads that will not stand the pressure, and I think you will have no difficulty in handling it."

A SOUND-MONEY CIRCULAR

Sent Out by Gold Democrats—The Chicago Exodus.

The advance guard of the Matthews boomers went to Chicago yesterday and things were very dull about the Governor's office. The "Cald" and three or four straight Populists were the only callers. The Governor felt considerably relieved to know that from now on until he knows his fate there is nothing further for him to do in the way of bothering about things. His affairs are now in the hands of his friends, and all he can do is to sit and wait. The sound-money people will leave on the midnight train to-night. With their headquarters in the Palmer House only a few doors from the Matthews headquarters, they are likely to do his free-silver canvass considerable damage, for the theory upon which they are making their fight is that the party should be rescued from the money craze first, no matter what candidate is helped or hurt by it. The committee chosen at Monday night's meeting yesterday sent the following circular broadcast to the State:

"To the Indiana Sound-money Democracy: A hastily-called conference was held July 29 of such of the sound-money Democrats of this city as were immediately accessible, for the purpose of considering the advisability of organized representation at the Chicago convention. The sentiment of the meeting was that we should be represented there as largely and as effectively as possible, for two reasons. First, that the country may know, to the credit of the reputation of the city and the State, that the sound-money Democracy of Indiana which does not acquiesce in the declaration of the late State convention; and, second, that needed and requested assistance may be rendered those who have the cause of sound money in charge at Chicago."

"It was the belief of those present that the occasion is one which demands a patriotic, comfort-sacrificing, business-sacrificing effort on the part of those Democrats who earnestly think that the country and the party are imperiled, and therefore, urged to go to Chicago not later than to-morrow (Thursday) night."

"Indiana sound-money headquarters have been opened at the Palmer House, in rooms 19 and 12, where a meeting will be held Friday morning at 9 o'clock which all are expected to attend.

"Those informed as to the situation assure us that Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be the critical days, and that later attendance will not be effective for our purpose."

"Arrangements have been made whereby tickets can be had, good going Thursday night, as well as later, at the fare on roads."

"By application to John P. Frenzel, in the Indiana Trust Building, before Thursday, 5 p. m., hotel accommodations can be secured."

"By order of W. D. Bynum, John W. Kern, Albert Lieber, P. H. Krauss, M. O'Connor, J. P. Frenzel, A. M. Kuhn, committee. Very respectfully, S. O. PICKENS, Chairman. 'EVANS WOOLLEN, Secretary."

SEVENTY-FIVE WILL GO.

This Is All the "Push" Has Succeeded in Steering Toward Chicago.

That remnant of the "push" known as the Matthews Club held another meeting at the agricultural rooms in the State-house last night to find out "where it was at." It has been announced by the celebrated "press committee" of this organization that one thousand people had agreed to go to Chicago on the special train next Sunday, and that over $20 had been collected to defray the necessary expenses of a band and glee club. Last night Secretary Bridges announced that seventy-five had up to date registered their intention of going, and Treasurer Maus said there was about $600 in the treasury. The meeting chiefly agitated the meeting last night was what reply M. D. Yontz and Jerry Hall should make to the Chicago meeting which they had been negotiating for some time. Hall complained that if he could only assure a hotel that he would bring to it as many as fifteen people he could have some rooms engaged, but as it was he could send no assurance whatsoever. It was suggested that a number of rooms be engaged anyhow, but Mr. Maus did not want any such liability incurred unless they had something behind it. He is probably aware that the members of an unincorporated concern are liable for its debts, and, with the present membership, this would mean that he would have the bills to meet. It was finally decided that the hotel committee should confer with the transportation committee to find out how many rooms they could get. One of the latter committee, protested that it knew nothing more about the probable size of the crowd than anybody else.

WENT TO THE FRENZELS

TEMPORARY LOAN OF $120,000 GOES TO THEM AT 8 PER CENT.

Last Official Act of the Present School Board—Seligmans Wanted to Investigate.

The Board of School Commissioners yesterday voted the temporary loan of $120,000 to the Frenzels. It was the last act of the present organization of the school commissioners unless another special meeting be called before next Monday night, at which time the new members of the board will take their places and a reorganization will be effected.

All the members of the board were present at the special meeting and 10 o'clock yesterday morning, except Mr. Galvin Worth Merrill, representing the New York brokers, J. & W. Seligman, reported that his people would accept the loan at 6 per cent, and pay a premium of $50, provided an investigation showed the loan to be a legal one. The investigation would have to be made by their New York attorney and would take several days.

Messrs. Russe, Scott and Adam, composing the finance committee, then held a conference and made the following report: "Your committee on finance and auditing reports that estimates of receipts and expenditures show that between June 30, 1895, and Jan. 31, 1897, it will be necessary to make temporary loan of $120,000 to meet the expenses of the public schools."

"Your committee recommends that a temporary loan of $120,000 be authorized, and that the first installment thereof, to the amount of $120,000, be taken on this, the first day of July, 1896, the remainder to be placed at such times and in such amounts as the board may order."

The bid was accepted on motion of Mr. Scott, Messrs. Blackledge and Vonnegut were the only commissioners voting against it. Mr. Vonnegut believed the Merchants' National Bank should be allowed to hold the notes they now have for a few days until the bank could be reorganized. Mr. Blackledge said that while he was anxious to maintain the credit of the board, he did not believe a loan at 8 per cent, ought to be considered.

Under the law this temporary loan cannot be made for more than one year at a time. It was known when the loan was awarded at the last moment to the Frenzels that it would be refunded on the first day of this school year. And yet with this knowledge, it was with the greatest deliberation that the board succeeded in getting a resolution passed a month ago making preliminary arrangements for the borrowing of money. It should be due Mr. Blackledge hinted then that the purpose of the motion would be defeated when the time came to award the loan.

REPUBLICAN EDITORS MEET.

Discuss Arrangements for the Annual Association Outing.

The executive committee of the Republican State Editorial Association met yesterday afternoon at the Denison House to arrange for the summer meeting of the association. The full committee was present, as follows: President Charles E. Wilson, of the Lafayette Courier; Secretary A. Kemp, of the Salem Leader; W. S. Montgomery, of the Greenfield Republican; J. F. Widman, of the Muncie Times; T. J. H. McCain, of the Crawfordville Journal; and Julian D. Hogue, of the Danville Republican.

Gun Club Shooting.

The weekly meeting of the Limited Gun Club, at which the prizes are badges, was held yesterday. Classes A and B shot at unknown angles and Class C at known angles. The score was as follows: Class A—Britton, 25; Trigg, 24; Moore, 23; Tutwiler, 20; Parry, 19; Class B—Comstock, 18; Cooper, 18; Beck, 18; Wildback, 15; Townsend, 15. Class C—Marrett, 20; Hearsey, 18; Slielen, 18; Griffith, 17; Socwell, 16; Morris, 15; Deschler, 15; Lilly, 15. This tie was shot off with ten targets, Kimberlin winning.

Officers of Dental Association.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Indiana State Dental Association was in session yesterday in the Indiana Dental College Building, with members in attendance. In the morning W. H. Shrock, of Fort Wayne, made the president's annual address, after which the afternoon was devoted to the hearing of the reports of the standing committees and the election of the following officers:

President, W. S. Rawls, Indianapolis; vice president, D. L. Overholser, Logansport; secretary, J. M. Linn, Ellettsville; treasurer, Robert T. Oliver, Indianapolis.

Ladies, Attention. Knox's genuine ladies' $5 salitors are reduced to $2. Come quick as they will not last long at this low price. DALTON HAT COMPANY, Bates House.

GLAD TO SHOW BOOKS

PRESIDENT MASON WILLING TO CALL A STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

His Circular Says Igoe's Statements Are Grossly Incorrect and Misleading—Igoe's Holding of Stock.

President Mason, of the Citizens' Street-railroad Company, issued the following circular to stockholders yesterday in rebuttal of the circular recently sent out by S. C. Igoe. Mr. Mason's circular is as follows: "To Stockholders of the Citizens' Street-railroad Company: A circular letter, dated June 22, 1896, signed by S. C. Igoe of this city, has been sent to stockholders of the Citizens' Street-railroad Company, and has been published in Indianapolis papers. The statements made by Mr. Igoe are, in important particulars, grossly incorrect and misleading, and their effect is necessarily injurious to the interests of the company and its stockholders."

"It is well for stockholders to know that Mr. Igoe is the holder of but ten shares of stock, which were issued to him Feb. 29, 1886. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a leading merchant of the city, and is familiar with the local situation. He is entirely unconnected with the management of the company. On May 20, 1896, Mr. Marrott said, concerning Mr. Igoe's proposition, in an interview published in an Indianapolis paper: 'I am not a large stockholder, but my holdings are greater than any who have started. His purpose in purchasing this stock must be supposed to be, that he has endeavored unsuccessfully to secure the co-operation of Mr. George Marrott and other Indianapolis stockholders. Mr. Marrott is a