Windermere's Fan" at the Grand Opera House.

"Lady Windermere's Fan," the charming society comedy in which the Grand stock company made the greatest hit of the present season several months ago, was wisely chosen for revival last night, which was the first performance of the final half week of the season. The sparkling wit, scintillating cynicism and biting sarcasm with which the play fairly abounds will certainly enable the members of the company to bid farewell to their many friends under delightful circumstances and leave behind memories of the most agreeable character. "Lady Windermere's Fan" belongs to that class of plays that stand out from their fellows distinctly.

With the assistance rendered by magnificent scenic surroundings and handsome costumes, the stock company's performance, last night, was little short of brilliant. The members of the organization have rarely ever before entered so thoroughly into the spirit and right conception of a play. It is an unpleasant task to pick flaws in such a production; and yet, there were, undoubtedly, glaring flaws in it. That Mr. Camp did not completely ruin several scenes by his deadly dull, didactic manner of speaking his lines, was because of the strikingly forceful acting of his vis-a-vis in each of them. Much of the fine effect of Miss La Verne's work in the last act was destroyed in this way. Mr. Macy's por-trayal of Lord Darlington, Lady Winder-mere's lover, was an excellent piece of work-one of the distinct hits of the per-formance. Miss Shannon filled most of the requirements of the difficult role of Lady ere satisfactorily, and displayed several beautiful gowns. Wright Kramer contributed a well-nigh faultless bit of character acting in his impersonation of Lord Augustus Lorton. His walk, makeup, mannerism and cockney accent were all excellent. The character of Cecil Graham, under the deft touch of Thomas M. Reynolds, shone forth as the bright, par- and a supper will be served. ticular comedy hit of the piece. If Mr. Reynolds had furnished no other characterization the present season, this one would stamp him the possessor of great ability. Mr. Sheldon's genius for producing merriment was palpably held in restraint by the meager part of Mr. Charles Dumby. Miss Donico was even better than before as the Duchess of Berwick, and that is saying a great deal, since, when seen beore, it was regarded as one of her best deneations. Miss Martin and Miss Companis, the respective characters of Lady Plymsupply the atmosphere of realism with different rooms were adorned with spring the play was invested. The undoubted triumph of the performance was Miss La Verne's portrayal of the star part of Mrs. Erlynne. The reception given Miss La Verne upon her entry amounted to an ovation and seemed to spur her on to do her most brilliant work of the entire stock season. In her hands the part of Mrs. Erlynne seemed the one around which all the others revolved. A portion of the play which deserves pecial mention on account of its interest and charm is the scene in Lord Darlington's bachelor apartments, in which a large #### night and twice to-morrow. "A Man of Mystery" at Park.

"A Man of Mystery," Mark E. Swan's new hypnotic melodrama, was presented at the Park Theater yesterday afternoon for the first time in Indianapolis and proved immensely pleasing to lovers of that kind of dramatic literature, who were present in sufficient numbers to make up an audience of respectable size. When the word is passed around that the Park has one of the most exciting and sensational plays of its career the house will be crowded to the doors. As indicated at the outset, the play deals principally with hypnotism. This subtle force is employed in a perfectly preposterous fashion-in fact, the whole piece is preposterous for that matter, but so are all successful melodramas. The interest culminates at the close of the third act in as thrilling a situation as ever transpired on a stage. The tremendous burst of applause, yells, shricks and catcalls with which this scene was halled made it certain that the melodrama is sure to have a successful run at the Park. Some very pretty scenery is Harry S. Richards is by far the best actor in the cast. He impersonates Bill Burke, a tough, in a manner that is truly ielightful. The wonder is that some of the higher priced companies have not "taken im on." Hettle Tedro is very good as her songs is deplorably dull and listless. The peculiar character of "The Shadow," prince of thieves, is done by Mr. Van Kinzie, who looks and acts the part satisfactorily. Jerome Keanan need not be discouraged because his portrayal of Ned Keene, the detective, is bad. William Gillette is about the only man on the stage to-day who can come anywhere near showing a plausible delineation of a detective. John Healey is another of the clever people in the company. He makes an excel-lent darky servant and is a clever vocalist and monologuist, as well as being able to execute some fancy dance steps. The only other member of the cast deserving serious mention is Miss May E. Cunard, who does some really capable work as Flos-"A Man of Mystery" will continue the rest of the week. Monday "Jim the Penman" will be seen for the first time at popular prices in this city.

"The Negro" at English's.

"The Negro," by Charles S. Sager, was presented at English's Opera House last night for the first time in Indianapolis. The first part is a pretty sketch in one act and two scenes, in which are shown extremely lifelike pictures of the South before and after the Emancipation Proclamation; the second an allegorical playlet, the object of which is to foster patriotic sentiment and incidentally permit of the introduction of guard of the Queen of Dahomey, while the final portion is a clever mixture of vaude-ville and burlesque. Mr. Sager has cer-tainly found a large collection of capable home talent from which to choose his asto the members of the colored order of Knights of Pythias, of the city, under whose auspices the production was given. "The Negro" will be repeated to-night.

Controller Johnson Has Taken Up th Question-City Hospital Repairs -Municipal Matters.

City Controller Johnson, acting mayor Indianapolis during the absence of Mayor Taggart, spent some time yesterday examining the report of Inspector Johnson as published in yesterday's papers. He figured on the cost of the improvement in the fire department as recommended by Inspector Johnson and his figures showed that the cost to the city the first year after making North streets he was attacked by a party | the improvements as recommended would of white boys, among them Petty. He ran | be in the neighborhood of $200,000, which is considerable more than the cost of improvements as recommended by Fire Chief Bar-

In addition to the fire department improvements there are the changes at the City Hospital, now under consideration and deemed necessary, which will mean an added cost to the city of between $40,000 and $50,000. W. Scott Moore, the architect who drew the plans for the new wing, completed his task yesterday afternoon and submitted his report to the Board of Public Works. The figures will not be Henry Kothe, receiver of the William given out until they are considered by the Buschmann & Co.'s store, filed an in- board, but it is said his estimates on the new wing are in excess of $30,000, but will not reach the $40,000 mark. It is the intention of the city officials to invite the members of the finance committee of the City Council to meet with them and take up the question of the amount of a bond issue necessary to make the improvements at the City Hospital and in the fire department. A few of the Republican members of the Council were asked yesterday what position they would take on an ordinance for issuing a number of bonds. They said the question of improving the hospital would be the first matter to be considered, as this was deemed more necessary than the improvements in the fire department. They also said that in case appropriations were made for both improvements the ordinance would be so arranged as to prevent the city from using the funds for any other purpose.

THE ESTIMATES. Estimates based partly upon the recommendations of Fire Chief Barrett and also upon those of Inspector Johnson were placed before City Controller Johnson yesterday afternoon. They were compiled with the view of providing the improvements

The increase in the maintenance of the department, including feed, repairs, shoe ing horses, etc., is estimated at $10,000 year. This brings the grand total of additional expenditures the first year, including the purchase of new apparatus, building of houses, salaries, etc., up to $175,291.25. This figure is not as high as it would be under the recommendations of Inspector Johnson, as he recommends about fifty additional men instead of the thirty-three men and six captains included in the above

The new fire hydrants will be placed in the streets by the water company and when the new contract is made with that corporation one of the clauses will provide for this improvement. But there will be an additional expense for rentals on the new hydrants. The question is a pexplexing one and those who are in favor of the improvements argue that many new manu-facturing concerns could be brought to will also be held. There will be a collecthis city should the fire service be im- tion of pictures by Indiana artists, accessiproved. When the question of deciding on | ble at all times to those attending the conthe amount of improvement to be contracted for is taken up it is believed the above figures will be cut materially by emitting many of the items. It is said the proposed bond issue will not exceed $150,000. and in that case it will be necessary to delay some of the improvements.

As the attorney general is of opinion that the question should be decided by the courts, he has given no opinion in the matter.

And far beyond the reach of mere local remedies. Those who rely upon them for a cure lose valuable time, meet with disappointment and allow the disease to take firmer hold. Only a real blood remedy can reach this troublesome and dangerous disease. S. S.
