ORIENTAL MAIL SERVICE

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED BY THE POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Stations at Nagasaki, Taku and Tien-Tsin-W. A. Pickering Successful in His Examination.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.-The Postoffice Department has practically completed arrangements for the handling of Oriental mail from this country by the establishment of stations at Nagasaki, Japan, and at Taku and Tien-Tsin, China. The department has been notified that Henry Robinson and G. M. Hunt, who were disnatched to China some weeks ago, have established an office at Tien-Tsin, whence all the mail for the army will be distributed. The troops remaining on guard in Peking will be served from the station and other north China mail will be distributed from Taku, the army co-operating with the postoffice officials to this end. Owing to the rapid shifting of troops back and forth between this country, China and the Philippines, it has been necessary to establish a transfer station at Nagasaki, where an expert of the department keeps track of all the military organizations and redistributes their mail so as to reach them | ing the Cripple Creek strike. with the least possible delay.

In addition to these provisions for quick service in the far East, the department recently has dispatched W. H. Wannamaker from the department here to estabhsh a preliminary inspecting and auditing service for the money order department ostensibly under the management of the in Manila, Mr. Wannamaker is an expert in this branch of the service and by his inspection in Manila it will be possible to days ago a list of vice chairmen for the check any errors or discrepancies in the meeting, among them the names of Sylvesmoney-order service there fully two months sconer than if the accounts had to come Vierling. The property ownership plan has a prominent place in Miss Reel's system of education. A strong plea is made for compulsory education and the cultivation of better crops and more acres of land is urged. Miss Reel reports increased enrollment, better accommodations, greater facilities for industrial work and gratifying improvement over previous years. Seventeen of the twenty-six months Miss Reel has been superintendent have been spent in the field. x x x

XXX The signal office has received a report from Lieut. D. G. Burnell, who is constructing the telephone line from Fort Valdez to Fort Egbert. He hopes to have the line constructed and in use this winter. Fort Valdez is on the open sea about a hundred miles north of Juneau and near the mouth of the Copper river, while Fort Egbert is the post on the Yukon near the eastern boundary line. Lieutenant Burnell says that anything in the way of reading matter that could be sent through the quartermaster's department for the enlisted men in Alaska would be most acceptable to the soldiers during the long winter that is be-that Mr. Olney's course was intensely displeasing to Mr. Cleveland."

At the meeting to-night Mr. Irish was introduced by Charles McCulloch, president of the Hamilton National Bank, who has long been a Democrat, and who recently declared for prosperity and McKinley. Mr. Irish spoke for two hours on expansion, imperialism, four years more of a full dinner pail, the variance of Bryan's theory of Philippine alienation and its practice in the light of the civil war, and the supreme trial to come to organized labor when the competition of cheap labor of the South compels organization of the disfranchised negroe mill workers. He pointed out that this competition already is felt, and soon the organizers of unions from the North must enter Tillman's State and other Southern States to protect the wage scale of the North by organizing the negroes.

"Then," said Mr. Irish, "Senator Tillman, who is now in the North seeking to steer the free labor vote to Bryan, will turn that shotgun to whose use he has so long been accustomed in governing negroes, without their consent, against those who are seeking to save the wage scale of the North by raising that of the South to its level.

The speech made a profound impression, and was delivered with that masterful oratory for which Mr. Irish is famous. CONVERT TO PROSPERITY.

A Prominent Bedford Democrat Will Vote for McKinley.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BEDFORD, Ind., Sept. 22.-B. F. Havens, of Terre Haute, addressed a rousing Republican meeting at the courthouse tonight. The weather was rainy, but in spite of this the courtroom was crowded aimost

The speaker was introduced by James C. Carlton, who all his life has been one of the most prominent figures in the Democratic ranks of the county and the district and one of the best posted politicians in the State, who also made an address, declaring his intention to support McKinley. This was a surprise to the Democrats who thought the talk of Mr. Carlton forsaking that party for McKinley and prosperity was only gossip. The influence of Mr. Carlton's judgment in this action will be strongly felt, as he has been one of the most uncompromising Democrats and has made his choice thus late in life only after a careful and deliberate decision. Mr. Havens's speech was received with careful attention by both Democrats and Republicans.

TWO MEETINGS AT COLUMBUS.

Afternoon and Night Speaking, and a Big Evening Parade.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 22 .- The Republican campaign for Bartholomew county was opened to-day. The crowd in attendance was hardly as large as expected, although it far overshadowed the effort of the Democrats two weeks ago, when John Kern and Representative Lentz, of Ohlo, were the drawing cards. It had been expected that John L. Griffiths would be the principal speaker for the afternoon meeting, but he was detained in New York, and a telegram from him to that effect was read at the meeting at the City Hall this afternoon. James F. Stutesman, of Peru, who was in the city en route to Hope, where he spoke for the Republicans to-night, was pressed into service, and he entertained the large audience assembled. Mr. Stutesman's peech was argumentative and logical. His opening remark was that "no apology was necessary for a man to speak in behalf of the Republican party." During the course of his remarks he advanced the thought that "every man has a legal right to be a Democrat-morally it is different." He commanded excellent attention and was

The conflict has been simmering since the Nationalist victory at the late municipal election and the choice of the militant Nationalist, M. Waldeck-Rousesau by ostentatiously leaving the gymnastic festival in the gardens of the Tuileries, at which they were present. The Nationalist press warmly approved this action on the part of M. The government's first reply was its failure not to invite representatives of the municipality to attend the unveiling of the Washington and Lafayette monuments in this city, and other incidents of a like na-ture followed. Then the municipality's projected fetes in honor of all the mayors of France, in connection with which President Loubet refused to receive the town officials who were to offer him an invitation, as the fete was obviously intended as a demonstration against the government. The latter, moreover, through the medium of the prefects of the Seine and Paris, strangled the fete by informing Mayor Grebauval that he had no authority to issue invitations, except conjointly with the prefects. M. Grebauval, thus humillated, and finding that most of the replies to his invitations were refusals in which ing to undermine the republic, abandoned the fete. The government cleverly retorted by announcing that the people of Paris would not lose by the abandonment, for the arrangement begun by the municipality would be carried through under the auspices of the exposition authorities. The next development in the duel was a renewed bid for popularity by deciding that he sum originally allotted for the expenses of the mayoral fete should be distributed among the poor of the various wards. Then, it is stated, the municipality asked an interview with M. Waldeck-Rousseau in order that they might discuss a new municipal bill which would make the municipality more independent. He is at home in a club and a workshop, and what he does is never ridiculous. He has done the party more good in the West than any man that could have been sent."

After the swim the Governor, as he passed to the platform, met a member of the Utah Battery, a boy who had seen the worst of the service in Luzon. "My boy," said the Governor, "you were with the Utah Battery, were you not?" The boy could only nod his head, he was so surprised at being spoken to. The Governor shook his hand and passed on. Once on the platform the Governor found that his reception had no lukewarmness in it. The people cheered and cheered him in the Western fashion. He turned to look at those who sat with him. WAGES OF THE MINERS

BRYAN WRONG IN STATING THEY ARE ONLY $240 A YEAR.

An Operator Shows that Anthracite Diggers Make $50 a Month-Schedule of Prices.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.-Assertions as to the wages paid to striking Pennsylvania anthracite miners made by President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' organization, and printed in different news papers, have occasioned the following statement by George Merryweather, Chicago representative of the Coxe Bros.' Coal Company, bearing on the same subject and giving the operators' view. Mr. Merryweather prepared his statement in response to a request for information made by ex-Representative George E. Adams. Accompanying a copy of the wage scale paid by the Coxe Bros.' Company was another statement showing the scale paid by the Susquehanna Coal Company, adopted Dec. 11, 1899. The letter and statement follow: "Referring to our conversation the other day regarding the statements which are made through the public press by Mr. Mitchell, the president of the miners' union, and which statements are being used to the fullest extent by Mr. Bryan in this campaign, I beg to give you the following authoritative information, and in order to do so effectively I deem it best to put it in the form of questions and answers:

"First-What are the average wages at the present time for miners and laborers connected with the collieries? "Answer-At our own collieries the ordi nary miners average about $50 per month The miners working under contract at our drift collieries Nos. 1 and 2 earned during the month of August, 1900 (such earnings being net, after all deductions) as follows:

20 miners 40 to 14 miners 2 miners 90 to 2 miners 1 miner 160 to 170 1 miner 180 to 190 1 miner 200 to 295

"As these figures on the contract miners vary, explanation is probably necessary. Some contract miners undoubtedly work more regularly than others, and then the ability of each nan was put to a test, and shows accordingly. I also inclose you a schedule of the scale of wages adopted Dec. 11, 1899, by the Susquehanna Coal Company, large operators in the anthracite region, which gives daily wages paid to every class of help about a colliery. "Second-What is the rule as to dockage

"Answer-This depends upon the condition in each case, and this is answered fully in Section 1 of the schedule of the Susquehanna Coal Company. "Third-What is the condition in the anthracite regions as regards company for impurities on the condition of coal

"Answer-No companies have stores; only a few individual operators. "Fourth-Do the companies insist upon the payment of $1 per month for doctor, or is this optional with the men? "Answer-None of the large companies have any company doctors; only a few individual operators, and my impression is that in these cases the amount deducted for the doctor is 50 cents per month instead

"Fifth-Are children under the age prescribed by law employed in the breakers? "Answer-Not knowingly. If the foreman is in doubt, a certificate is required from the parents. "These facts completely annihilate the statements of Mr. Bryan that the earnings of the miners in the anthracite regions average $240 per annum. I trust that the information given you will prove of serv-WAGES PAID TO MINERS. The following is the attached statement: Scale of wages adopted Dec. 11, 1890, by

How the British General Appears to His Men.

Julian Ralph, in Harper's Magazine. No one questions or doubts "Bobs" in the British army. His place is unique there-and in all the world besides. In all the world besides no other man has the confidence, affection and pride of so many men. It is not merely the private soldier who is wholly satisfied simply to be led by him. The feeling is the same among the officers. He has infinite tact, because he is in complete sympathy with every man in or above the ranks. He returns every salute; he talks to every sort of soldier; he knows them by name by the hundreds. He is more profuse in kind words and compliments than in reproof, just as he is most inclined to be gentle and kindly, yet every man knows how firm and severe he can be. In those two sentences lies the definition of perfect justice, which he nearly personifies. He makes so little show and parade that there is no plainer man among his 200,000; and yet he is always as neat as a pin; a straight-built, solidly set up, quick, nervous little man, with bright eyes under a majestic forehead and above a masterful chin His face is so sad and gentle when it is in repose that you have to look at it again and again—and then only to add to your wonder how that can be this visage of man who deals death for a profession and leads to death the flower of the arm; he loves. Look at the same face again when he is speaking giving orders. It is just as kindly, but the melancholy has led, and in its place is the indefinable tracery called "command." At Dreefontein he came out to where naval battery was and sat down on a camp-stool brought for him by his Indian attendant. He spoke to the officer in comnand of the battery cheerily, and now and then he asked the younger officers a ques tion. All the time he was smiling and looking most pleased, though, for its size there has not been a hotter battle in the war. Gallopers and staff officers came and went, bringing news and taking away orders. "Tell the Colonel So-and-so to move a little forward and to the left." "Say that I wish So-and-so would push for-It was all as quietly and calmly ward. said and done, there in the heat of battle and within range of the enemy's gunsas calmly and quietly done as ever a bank manager issued orders to his clerks on a duil afternoon. EXPENSES AND RECEIPTS OF THE WEEK ABOUT BALANCE.

Exhibitors Busy All Day Getting Their Goods Away-More Talk of the Match Race.

After closely computing the expenses and receipts of the state fair last week the members of the State Board say the receipts about balance the expenses and there will be no profit. It has been estimated that the total expenses were in the neighborhood of $26,000 and the receipts about the same amount. The salaries of the officers of the State Beard will probably have to be paid out of the reserve fund.

The fair grounds yesterday displayed scene of hustling by the exhibitors, who were busy packing their exhibits and shipping them away. There was a small attendance, but the exhibits were all shipped away during the day. There was some talk of the match race between Anaconda and Searchlight on Friday, which ended so unfavorably. Horsemen say the owners of Anaconda will appeal to the National Trotting Association, claiming that the decision of the association in placing the distance flag at forty yards from the wire was an arbitrary ruling and outside the provisions of the Na-tional Trotting Association rules. The regular distance mark is eighty yards, and horsemen say there is a doubt as to whether the fair association had a right to place the distance flag at forty yards, under which Anaconda was distanced.

It was acknowledged that the race was a serious mistake, and the drivers of the two horses had said before the race that their pacers were in no condition to make a race. This was known to the officials and those interested in the matter said an announcement should have been made that the horses would go on the track and do the best they could under the circumstances. But no announcement was made, and the crowd was thoroughly disgusted with the result

Walter Hayse Arrested.

Walter Hayse, No. 1329 English avenue, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Johnson and Smith for drunkenness and using profane language. Hayse and several other young men were on Alabama street and made slurring remarks to the officers as they passed with a woman who was looking for her husband. The boys ran when the officers started toward them and a large number of men took up the chase. Hayse was the only one caught. It was said the boys had been there for some time making indecent remarks to nearly every woman that passed.

A Picture on View. "The Canal at Schliersee," a picture by W. Forsyth, may be seen at Lieber's for the next three days, prior to its finding a home with a New York connoisseur, a Bavarian subject painted some years since during the time the artist was a resident of Munich. It is an eminently successful expression of all that was felt to be good in school influence, yet retains the individuality of the artist to a marked degree.

Much interest has been shown by those who have seen it.
