HOW SEYMOUR MEN LOST. SIGNED BONDS OF OHOANS THAT SEEMED HONEST.

Found Their Property Was Largely Air and Governor Nash Refused Requisition.

The Governor's office was visited yesterday by a prominent citizen of Seymour, who said that he was one of the men who signed the bond of Frank B. Archer and John M. Davis, the Ohio men whom Governor Durbin recently sought to have returned to this State by requisition.

"They did their work well and paid their bills promptly in our town," said the Seymour man, "and they went over to Bedford and secured a paving contract there. It seems that they were not well enough acquainted to obtain a bond in Bedford, and so they came back to Seymour and induced several of us fellows to sign their bond."

"In the year 1898 John M. Davis's property returned to the assessors. His sworn statement, consisting of one watch valued at $20, in the years 1899 and 1900 no property was listed on his name. The year 1898 Davis & Archer, in their sworn returns, listed six horses, one mule and two carriages.

GOVERNOR AND PUGILISM. He Does Not Regard the Munoie Affair as a Prize Fight.

"There is no occasion to go into hysterics over the Governor's policy to put an end to prize fighting in Indiana," said Charles E. Wilson, Governor Durbin's secretary, yesterday. "The policy is just a plain matter-of-fact proposition based on a provision of the metropolitan police law to the effect that the police commissioners have constabulary powers. That provision gives them the right to suppress or assist in suppressing violations of the law anywhere in the county. The Governor has called the attention of all boards of metropolitan police commissioners in the State to that provision in the law and instructed them to carry it out as far as is practicable."

The subjects proposed for the examination are English, mathematics, physics, chemistry, anatomy, physiology, hygiene, mechanics, optics, ophthalmology and ocular pathology.

SMILE ON BELL AGAIN. DEMOCRATIC MANAGERS MUST BE SATISFIED WITH HIM. Whole Trouble Was that Mayor Taggart Would Not Help—Judge Daily Out of It.

The local Democratic managers, having had their hopes frustrated by the refusal of John J. Appell to become a candidate for the nomination for mayor, have returned to their first love and are now determined once more to make Joseph E. Bell their standard bearer in the coming fight. Mr. Bell has been prospected and has signified his willingness to fight the mean things that some of the "politicians" have said of him and is apparently happy in his reinstatement. He was busy the greater part of yesterday looking after his fence, and for the first time gave evidence of his candidacy. After a conference with Mayor Taggart and Chairman Fanning Mr. Bell sent out for some of the "boys," and before night had nearly completed an organization with which he hopes to prove that he is not as unpopular as he is popularly supposed to be.

It was positively stated by a Democrat yesterday that Mr. Bell would not be opposed by John W. Holtzman, as the latter's candidacy had served the purpose for which it was intended, and that Holtzman was apprised of the situation he would positively decline to be a candidate. An afternoon paper sent a telegram to Holtzman at Atlantic City yesterday asking if he intended to be a candidate. Holtzman did not send a satisfactory reply, because he had not previously been notified by a telegram not to say anything until he was informed of the true situation by the authorized city committee had unwittingly placed itself.

The whole trouble, it is said, was that Mr. Appell out of the race, as was stated in yesterday's Journal. Whether the petition kept Mr. Appell out of the race or whether he held to his original declaration that he would not be a candidate is a matter that he had not previously been notified by a telegram not to say anything until he was informed of the true situation by the authorized city committee had unwittingly placed itself.

Opinion of Horse Doctor. BRINGING TYPHOID HOME. PHYSICIANS SAY INFECTED "VACATIONERS" ARE NOW DUE. Sanitary Arrangements at Summer Resorts Are Usually Very Poor.

"Our summer vacationers are about due to come back home and develop a lot of cases of typhoid fever," declared a prominent physician last night. "It is well known that conditions of sanitation highly favorable to the generation of typhoid poison prevail at the lake and summer resorts. The newspapers have already commenced to chronicle fresh outbreaks of this malignant disease, at Richmond and Oldenberg, among other places. We will have to contend against an extraordinary medium for developing typhoid this year in the shape of the drought that has been dragging its weary length through several months past."

"What, with the cases caused by the dry spell and the expected cases brought back from summer resorts, I look for lively times among the physicians this fall. It seems extraordinary that people should be as careless about sanitation as they are at these vacation resorts. In view of warnings like that contained in the report of the medical department of the army concerning the outbreak of typhoid at Chickamauga during the Spanish-American war. That report said that whenever one thousand persons are gathered together, not less than three are bearers of typhoid infection. In these outbreaks of typhoid the disease is pretty certain to spread unless the most rigid precautions are adopted. About the most prolific places for the culture of typhoid germs are the popular summer resorts and even the smaller resorts. In these places there is an almost total lack of sanitary arrangements, and the result is that people who spend their vacations in them come home and are soon afterwards stricken down by the dread disease. I recall the case of a prominent state officer who was attacked violently by this malady last summer within a very short time after he returned from his vacation. He suffered three months with it. "I am glad to observe," continued the man of medicine, "that the United States Marine Hospital service will soon publish a pamphlet warning the public against the transportation of typhoid germs by flies and other insects. House flies are propagated almost exclusively in stable manure, and this pamphlet will urge the total obliteration of manure heaps and filthy stables. The discovery that malaria and typhoid are carried by mosquitoes is not more important than the discovery that flies very frequently transport the germs of typhoid fever and dysentery."
